Predicts 'Great Year'

McCauley Proposes City Traffic Engineer Larger Zoning Board

By DAN CONNELLY

Mayor Francis McCauley in a mid-term address highlight called for the creation of a professional traffic engineer and predicted "a great year" for the city in 1987.

He also proposed increasing the Zoning Appeals Board from three to five members as he reviewed accomplishments in 1986 and took a positive look ahead.

He said 1986 was an "excellent year" and added: "I don't see why we can't have a great year in 1987."

McCauley thanked the City Council for its cooperation during his five years as mayor.

He noted that the city for two years in a row "banded together to fight against proposals that would have diminished the value of life here."

"You will recall that back in 1985, city, state officials, and neighborhood groups were able to convince the recently formed Massachusetts Water Resource Authority that the new sewage treatment plant that would clean up Quincy Bay and Boston Harbor be kept at Deer Island. Also, that

Highlights Of Mayor's Address

Mayor Francis McCauley, in his mid-term address Monday, cited a number of major recommendations and projects he termed vital for the city in 1987:

- Appoint a traffic engineer to oversee the nearly completed Traffic 2000 study report.

- Increase the Zoning Appeals Board from three to five members.

- Request City Council action by the end of January so the $54 million Presidents' Place project can move ahead.

- Revaluation in the city be completed by Feb. 1 so the city can go about setting the fiscal 1987 tax rate.

- The over $8 million expansion and renovation of the Quincy police station and the construction of a city dog pound go out to bids later this month.

- The $57 million reconstruction of Quincy City Hospital to begin in the spring.

- Plans to organize the celebration of the city's centennial celebration which will begin in 1988.

the water authority not expand the Nut Island plant or the proposal for a new sewage treatment plant on Long Island.

"Yes, we were successful in that fight. In July of '85 that authority voted to site the new treatment plant at Deer Island.

"And just this past year, yet another proposal surfaced. That was the one to relocate

Red Cross Sets Up Aid Center For Storm Victims

By BOB BOSWORTH

The American Red Cross has set up an emergency Disaster Service Assistance Center Tuesday at the Quincy Civil Defense Agency on Sea St., to provide food and clothing to help victims of last week's coastal storm.

According to Red Cross spokesman Harry Tuttle, the center will be open on Tuesday and Wednesday, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., or longer, depending on the amount of residents in immediate need.

For those requiring clothing, food, and other basic needs now we will furnish vouchers, he said. For those others whose homes suffered structural or other damage, we will assist them in processing their applications for need for submission to city and state agencies. In some cases we will go to the damaged property and take a visual damage estimate to help them in their application needs process, he added.

Some homes were still without electricity, as of Tuesday said Deputy Civil Defense Director Anthony Siciliano.

For many residents, the storm was a tough and trying time. But it could have been a lot worse.

"If we had the same elements of the Blizzard of '78 along with the extreme high tides of Friday's storm, it would have been disastrous—there's no doubt in my mind," Siciliano said.

As snow and high winds were the headaches in 1978, water was the big problem in the first storm of 1987.

According to Siciliano, about 50 Quincy residents, mostly from the Houghs Neck section, were evacuated from their homes to nearby shelters because of flooding.

In all, 136 families were affected by flooding. Ten homes were damaged extensively while 122 homes and 4 apartments received minor damage, said Siciliano.

"Some homes had up to six feet of water in their basements," Siciliano said.

The extreme high tides, or spring tides, were caused by the direct alignment of the sun, moon and earth.

Evacuees were brought to shelters at the Atherton School, Squantum School, Snug Harbor School, Beechwood Community Life Center, Quincy Point Congregational Church and the Wollaston Lutheran Church.

By Sunday, almost all of the flooded homes had been pumped out with the help of neighborhood volunteers, firefighters, Civil Defense workers and officers from the Naval Reserve Center in Quincy.

Still, residents will long remember Friday's storm which caused some nervous moments.

By 10 a.m., waves of tremendous height were breaking over the sea walls on Quincy Shore Dr., Sea St., Edgewater Dr., Houghs Neck, Germantown, Adams Shore and the Squantum Causeway.

At 11:30 a.m., Quincy and Metro police officers began blocking off streets. Telephone calls from residents streamed in appealing for help as basements flooded, gas and oil burners were knocked out, power failed. As motorists were stranded in high water, evacuation calls and ambulance calls also poured in.

Some 40 homes lost electricity.

By 1 a.m., the peninsula sections of Squantum Causeway, Quincy Shore Drive, Edgewater Drive, Germantown and Adams Shore were under water, as much as two to five feet in

43 Nominated For Sun 'Citizen Of Year'

Forty-three persons have been nominated for The Quincy Sun's second annual "Citizen Of The Year Award."

A special panel of judges has been appointed by Sun Publisher Henry Bosworth to select the final winner from the 43 nominees submitted by Sun readers.

Totally, 238 ballots were received nominating the 43 for the award.

Of the 43 nominated, 29 are men and 14 are women. Named to the judging panel are:

Quincy School Supt. John Osterman, Senator Paul Harold, Robert Quinn, vice president South Shore Bank and president of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association; Rosemary Wahlberg, director Quincy Community Action Organization; Mary Reilly, president

Colonial Federal Savings, Herb Fontaine, news editor-director WJDA; Richard Realini, president Quincy Sons of Italy; Robert LaFleur, past commander Morrisette Legion Post and Anthony Siciliano, Deputy Director of Civil Defense and Auxiliary Police Chief who was last year's award recipient.

The award was established by The Sun to honor a person for outstanding community service or for an outstanding achievement.

This year's winner will be announced later this month.

Everyone nominated will be considered for the honor. The award will not necessarily go to a person receiving the most nominations. A person receiving only one nomination will be equally considered.

Although other organizations recognize outstanding individuals, The Sun's award is unique in that the public is invited to nominate those they feel worthy of this recognition.

The panel of judges then makes the final selection from among those nominated.

"This gives the community input in the choice from the beginning to the final selection," Bosworth noted.

"We appreciate the tremendous response on the part of our readers in submitting nominations."

"And we are grateful for those who have accepted appointment as judges. Their task is not going to be easy. We not only have a large number of nominees to choose from but outstanding ones, too."

the Suffolk County House of Correction to Norfolk County and build it on Moon Island in an area that is only accessible through North Quincy and Squantum.

"So once again we went to the mat. City, state, elected officials and Cong. Brian Donnelly joined forces to reverse this decision. And last May, Gov. Michael Dukakis made the decision to site that House of Correction in the South Cove area of Boston.

"So many people participated in that fight. But I'm going to single out two individuals who provided some very important leadership in winning that battle. One is Ward 6 Councillor Tom Nutley who organized a very important public hearing on that matter and the other is Rep. Michael Morrissey who represents that particular area in the state legislature."

McCauley noted that the city's finances continued to improve in 1986.

"For the fifth consecutive year we finished our annual operation in the black," he said. The pre-cash account which was in deficit for almost $11 million as recently as June of 1982, showed a cash surplus of some $4,283,000 for the close of this fiscal year."

McCauley added that "for the first time in anyone's memory we were able to get through the Nov. 1 billing period without having to borrow in anticipation of taxes. This saved the city thousands of dollars in short-term interest fees."

McCauley continued: "Last July a very significant ground-breaking was held on the grounds of the Quincy City Hospital. This was the breaking for the $60 million-plus hospital replacement project that begins in earnest in the spring. It was five years in the planning stage and it is significant it will only take three years to build. Planning today now takes more time than the actual construction."

"Quincy also was the first municipal hospital to obtain FHA insurance. This is very important in that the FHA insurance allowed us to finance the construction with revenue bonds rather than plunge the full fair cash credit of the city. Also, the insurance allowed us to have a triple A credit rating for the project."

McCauley said that last January he recommended to the City Council to appropriate $350,000 to hire an outside firm to evaluate all real property in Quincy. That revaluation has been on-going since the past spring with a deadline for completion Feb. 1, he said.

"I'm sure the Board of Assessors and the data processing department will make their mayor happy in meeting that deadline so we can then go about the very important process of setting the fiscal 1987 tax rate."

"As we look forward to 1987 there is no reason why we cannot have as good a year as 1986. There are a number of important and very exciting projects coming on line."

"First there are two public projects that are coming off the drawing board and coming into the bidding stage this month. One is the major addition and construction of the Quincy police station and the second is the construction of an animal shelter."

"Both projects will be going out to bid in January. We expect those bids to be open in February and we will be going to the City Council for a loan authorization in mid March. Based on our estimate these two projects will run between eight-and-one-half, or nine million dollars. Both are long overdue projects. We expect the animal shelter to be completed in the fall of this year and the station, which is a much more complex project, we hope will be finished in the fall of 1989."

"There is also another important public, private project that has been going on. It has been in the discussion and drawing board stages all year long and it is the Presidents' Place project."

"That is a $54 million project and there is going to be a very important public hearing in the council chambers here next Monday night at 7:30 p.m., at which time the city and various citizen groups will be presenting their thoughts."

"Now the council has had this matter before it, informally, back to late spring. In the last two months five non-appropriation orders were placed before the council. One of these is a loan order for $3,407,000. That money will be used to acquire the property which then will pass on to the developers. In turn that amount will then be paid off by them when they take title of the project."

"I urge strongly that the members of the council get all their questions answered at the hearing. We would like you to act on the order before, or no later than Jan. 31 so that some deadlines the developers have can be met."

"I would also like to thank Council President Stephen McGrath for setting up the Zoning Task Force study committee. That five-member committee, chaired by Tom Nutley, has worked very hard reviewing zoning bylaws in the city."

"Now I've had a chance to review that report in depth and I'm in agreement with many of its proposals. And I would hope that a legislative package can be forth coming to be introduced to the council from the committee for adoption in the near future."

"Last year I submitted an ordinance change that would increase the Zoning Board of Appeals from three members to five. I think that is an important step to take. With changes coming up from the zoning task force I think the expansion of the zoning board of appeal is critical."

"About four weeks ago I met with our new Planning Director Rich Mead and the officials of the traffic consulting committee that did the Traffic 2000 study. I have seen the preliminary copy and it deals with recommendations to solving traffic problems as they exist in Quincy today. Also the report looks ahead to the problems we might experience in the future. Once again I expect to have that final report sometime this month. When it is received we will be bringing it before the council."

"Now one of the recommendations in that report is something I'm going to recommend to the council by way of the 1988 budget. That is for the city to establish the position of traffic engineer. A professional position with that person working with the proper departments, such as highway, planning, and police, to implement these study changes. I urge favorable recommendation on this by the council."

McCauley also announced the establishment of a committee to organize the celebration of the city's centennial next year. Quincy this week begins its 99th year as a city. He announced the appointment of Eugene Creedon of South Quincy, principal of Broadmeadows Middle School, and Joyce Baker of Wollaston, chairman of the Quincy Historical Society, as co-chairmen of the centennial committee.

After the mayor's speech, the council unanimously reelected Stephen McGrath its president.

Presidents' Place Before City Council Monday

A loan order for $3,407,000 to acquire property at the proposed Presidents' Place project will highlight a heavy agenda facing the City Council when it reconvenes next Monday (Jan. 12) at 7:30 p.m. in City Hall after being in recess for the holidays.

The agenda list is:

- Loan order for $3,407,000 to be used to acquire property at the proposed Presidents' Place site. The land will then pass to the developers who will repay that amount when they take title. The developers have a deadline that requires council action by the end of the month.
- Election by ballot of two members for the board of supervisors at Quincy City Hospital.
- Authorize the mayor to execute deeds for Adams Temple and school fund, and Public Safety Committee

The City Council's Public Safety Committee will meet Tuesday, Jan. 20, at 7 p.m. in the City Hall Council Chambers to consider a also an election by ballot of two members to these items.

- Appropriation for $18,500 for data processing-capital outlay, from 1987 revenue.
- Appropriation of $6,035, Board of Appeals, personal services and expenses, from revenue of 1987.
- Appropriation of $70,000, parking facilities, personal services, from parking meter receipts.
- Accepting gift of $2,824 from post properties, Quincy Traffic 2000 study.
- Request county commissioners to discontinue a portion of Mayor Thomas J. McGrath Highway between Washington St. and a point 160 feet northerly.
- Abandonment of a parcel of land off Edinboro Road.

resolve requesting that parts be kept on hand to repair signalization equipment.

The meeting was rescheduled from Monday, Jan. 5.

McGrath Re-elected Council President Cites Wollaston School, Police, Zoning Studies As Accomplishments

The re-opening of the Wollaston School next September, the study of the Police Department and the Zoning Task Force recommendations are pointed to by Stephen McGrath as highlights of his first term as City Council President.

McGrath was unanimously elected to a second and final term as president during the Council's organizational meeting Monday at City Hall.

McGrath was nominated by Councillor John Lydon. The nomination was seconded by Councillor Richard Koch, Jr. and Councillor Patricia Toland.

He noted that the Zoning Task Force he appointed last spring has made its report to him and many of the recommended changes will be made to the City Council Jan. 20.

McGrath said the City Council has "engendered a more favorable and harmonious working relationship with the School Committee."

He said he considers "the reopening of the Wollaston School next September an excellent example of what can be accomplished with all city branches—mayor, council and school committee working together."

He also said "the council working with the mayor successfully sought and obtained a comprehensive study of our Police Department."

He said he will soon appoint council members to the Implementation Committee to work with the study consultants and Police Department command staff in seeking national accreditation.

The text of McGrath's acceptance remarks follow:

"I am very pleased and honored to be re-elected as the President of the Quincy City Council. I said when first elected, one year ago, that there was no greater honor than to be selected by one's own peers to a position of leadership. I believe, however, that I have been further honored by my colleagues by their vote of confidence to continue after having served as President for the past year."

"I will once again pledge to my fellow Councillors that it will be my goal to continue to conduct the business of the Council in as fair and impartial a manner as possible."

"I believe that the City Council has had a very successful year, and has a record of accomplishment of which it can be proud."

"The various council committees have been quite active and their chairmen and women diligent in the performance of their duties: whether it be the active and important business of the Finance and Ordinance Committees, or the more specialized committees of Public Safety, Human Services and Education."

"I believe that the City Council has engendered a more favorable and harmonious working relationship with the School Committee, a primary goal of mine as Council President."

"I consider the re-opening of the Wollaston School next September an excellent example of what can be accomplished with all City branches - Mayor, Council and School Committee working together toward the positive and important goal of better education for our school children."

"In addition, the Council working with the Mayor successfully sought and obtained a comprehensive study of our Police Department. I look forward to working with the consultant and the Command Staff of the Police Department in seeking national accreditation. I shall be announcing shortly the Council appointees to the Implementation Committee."

"I look forward to a most active and interesting upcoming year for the City Council."

"Various development projects are or will be considered by the Council beginning next week, with several important hearings on the Presidents Place Project."

"In addition, the Zoning

Task Force, which I appointed last April to re-examine the current zoning structure of the City, has now made its report to me and I anticipate many of the recommended zoning changes to be introduced by the Task Force members and myself on Jan. 20.

"I believe that the Zoning Task Force Report represents the first truly comprehensive plan by any City agency to deal with the issue of planned growth for the City and to deal forthrightly with the issue of potential overdevelopment."

"I would like, at this time, to single out the members of the Task Force for an excellent job: Councillors Tom Nutley, Patricia Toland and Mike Cheney - Planning Director, Rich Meade - and Planning Board member, Greg Galvin. Many hundreds of hours were spent by the Task Force over the past eight (8) months and I would like to publicly thank the members for a job well done."

"In closing, let me say that it has been an honor for me to preside over this City Council for the past year and I look forward to working with you for 1987."

A Will And A Way

If you're still looking for a good resolution to keep in 1987, Norfolk County Register of Probate Thomas P. Hughes has a suggestion:

Make a will.
If you already have one, be sure to update it periodically.

Most people think of a will as a lot of legal mumble-jumble. But they really don't have to be.

In fact there is one on file at the Register of Probate office that is quite the opposite.

A plain, four-word will, written on a piece of wrapping paper, it stipulates: "All to my wife."

It was properly signed and witnessed and, therefore, valid and binding. It is believed to be the shortest will ever in Norfolk County.

Another will on file is that of a former Boston newspaper cartoonist who drew a caricature of himself on a piece of stationery stating: "This is my latest will, July 6, 1967. Everything I possess belongs to my three children to divide equal among them."

He also named the children and one of them as his executor.

That will was valid and binding, too.

But Hughes, a West Quincy resident, recommends that you see a lawyer to draw up your will.

"It's the safest — and best way" he says.

Very few wills drawn up by lawyers run into legal difficulty, he notes. They are properly written and properly witnessed.

The wills of John Adams and John Quincy Adams are on file at Hughes' office. Of course, there was no problem with them.

Some of the wills on file contain unusual requests or thoughts, he noted.

Like the man from Brookline who left 27 percent of his assets to the "Treasury of the United States of America in appreciation for the privilege of living in this country."

Another bequeathed that his executors "shall pay $1,000 to each of my nieces and nephews who attended my funeral."

A Quincy man set up provisions to maintain his cemetery lot with the specific instructions that "The memorial and markers shall be cleaned of misfeance committed by birds."

Hughes has pamphlets from the Massachusetts Bar Association available at his office for those seeking guidance in preparing wills.

He speaks before senior citizens groups about the importance of not only making a will, but also of updating it from time to time.

"Many times," he says, "people named in old wills are no longer alive and people who should be named in them are not."

Why have a will?

"It gives you," says Hughes, "the opportunity to legally designate to whom you want your property and money left. And exactly how you want it divided."

HUGHES

It prevents a lot of arguments.

Hughes stresses that making a will should not be considered merely "an old person's" responsibility.

People should have wills drawn early in life and as they grow older and acquire more possessions and family they should periodically update the document.

Hughes doesn't suggest you wait too long or count on scribbling it out on a piece of wrapping paper or on an old envelope.

COUNT TIM CAHILL in the City Council at-large race this year. The co-owner of Handshakes in downtown Quincy and former Quincy High School wrestling coach says he definitely will be a candidate. Regardless.

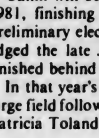

Regardless whether Councillor Joseph LaRaia runs for mayor or not.

If LaRaia goes for mayor, of course, there will be two open council at-large seats. The other is the one Richard Koch, Jr. will vacate.

Cahill, who lives on Summer St., Quincy Center says he will be making an official announcement in March or April after tying up a few personal loose ends.

Cahill will be making his second bid. He first ran in 1981, finishing fourth in a 10-candidate field in the preliminary election and fifth in the final election. He edged the late John J. Quinn in the preliminary and finished behind him in the final.

In that year's election Joseph LaRaia topped the at-large field followed by newcomer Richard Koch, Jr. and Patricia Tolland.

NICE GESTURE DEPT: Councillor Steve McGrath was unanimously re-elected president of the City Council at its organizational meeting Monday.

But before he was sworn in by City Clerk John Gillis, McGrath excused himself to thank and shake the hand of each councillor.

Someone noted that he seemed to have a nice handshake. Like the kind to use in a future run for mayor.

LOUISE BRABAZON, secretary to the City Council, was a bit alarmed the other day when she received a telephone call from Worcester regarding her daughter.

"Is this the home of Ann Brabazon?" the caller asked.

Ann had left earlier that day with a friend driving back to Michigan State where she is a senior.

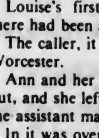

Louise's first thought was that there had been a car accident.

The caller, it turned out, was from McDonald's in Worcester.

Ann and her friend had stopped off there, it turned out, and she left her handbag behind. It was found by the assistant manager.

In it was over $300 in cash.

"Well," says Louise, "now I know there really are honest people in this world."

A 'Thank You'

From United Way

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

The efforts of thousands of area residents and the local media paid off recently in a record-breaking fund-raising drive for the United Way of Massachusetts Bay. We raised over $42.2 million--generating 3.2 million new dollars over last year--making the local United Way drive one of the best in the country.

The residents and employees of United Way's South Region (21 communities south of Boston) were especially generous. Contributions totaled $1,011,012--a whopping 107 per cent of the area goal!

Last year, more than 100,000 residents of the South Region were served by United Way agencies. Chances are, that number includes our families, our friends, our neighbors, and ourselves.

Contributions to the United Way benefit the hungry, the homeless, victims of domestic violence, cancer research, drug and alcohol abusers, senior citizens, families needing day care, and more. This record-breaking campaign, therefore, offers hope to the entire community.

Our appreciation and thanks extend to all who gave of their time and resources to the United Way...the best way to help so many.

Some sections of the seawall in Houghs Neck were damaged, from thundering waves which caused instant erosion. Along Quincy Shore Drive, some sidewalks were lifted up by the steady pounding of ocean surf. Because officials knew about the unusually high tides in advance, some preparations could be made to help combat the storm's severity.

Three hundred sandbags were stacked up by Marina Bay Thursday night. Civil Defense personnel along with some Marina Bay residents filled and placed the bags at the rear of the homes at Harborview at Marina Bay. O'Connell Managements made the sand available. "Without those bags, I'm sure that area would have suffered extensive damage," said Siciliano.

Federal Funds Available For Storm Damage

Mayor Francis McCauley has not yet received a damage estimate from owners of private property in the Adams Shore, Houghs Neck and lower Merrymount sections of Quincy following the recent winter storm.

"To my knowledge no municipal buildings suffered damage. We expect to receive some sort of damage estimate soon from the Red Cross and others involved in the recovery process," McCauley said.

McCauley also said Quincy could not file for any state aid until Gov. Dukakis has toured the damaged areas of Quincy and other communities hit hard by Friday's storm.

The mayor added federal funds are available from the Office of Housing Rehabilitation in Old City Hall. These funds are made available through the Community Development Block Grant Program to provide eligible residents with low-interest loans or grants for housing rehabilitation.

Loans up to $7,500 per unit are available at 5 per cent interest for damaged properties and to residents meeting the following income guideline:

- 1 person--$19,050.
- 2 persons--$21,750.
- 3 persons--$24,500.
- 4 persons--$27,500.
- 5 persons--$28,900.
- 6 persons--$30,600.
- 7 persons--$32,300.
- 8 persons--$34,000.

In addition, there is limited grant money available for those on fixed incomes or who fall under HUD low-income guidelines.

For more information, notify the Office of Housing Rehabilitation, Old City Hall, 1305 Hancock St., Quincy at 773-1380, ext. 489.

McCauley thanked Anthony Siciliano, Deputy Director of Quincy Civil Defense and Civil Defense volunteers for their assistance during the storm.

"Due to the dedication of such volunteers as those involved with the Quincy Civil Defense, even during the most severe moments of the storm and the times of flooding, situations were handled quickly and efficiently.

"There is certain relief to be found in knowing that the Civil Defense Unit for the City of Quincy will be on hand to take care of the storm situations properly," McCauley said.

1986: 'An Excellent Year'

In his mid-term address to the City Council, Mayor Francis McCauley said: "I think 1986 was a very excellent year in Quincy."

To back up this statement as he began his sixth year as mayor, McCauley recalled a number of important achievements that were accomplished during last year.

• Defeat of a proposal to relocate the Suffolk County House of Correction on Moon Island, an area that is only accessible through North Quincy and Squantum.

• As of the close of the past fiscal year, the city's finances were in the black with a cash surplus of some $4,283,000, as compared to an $11 million deficit in 1982.

• Last July's ground breaking for the $60 million-plus Quincy City Hospital replacement project. This was the first municipal hospital to obtain FHA insurance enabling the city to finance the construction with revenue bonds.

• An outside firm was hired to evaluate all real property in Quincy.

Seeks To Reduce Cigarette Smoke In Eating Places

By DAN CONNELLY

Non-smokers may soon be able to breathe a little easier while dining in one of Quincy's 300 eating places if a motion, made by the city's health commissioner at Tuesday's License Board meeting, passes in the council.

Fellow board members were in agreement with M.

Jane Gallahue when she suggested making it mandatory to install, what is called in commercial establishments as a smoke-eater electronic air cleaner system, in all new restaurants with a seating capacity of 40 and over, that open in Quincy.

The motion further states that existing restaurants with that same capacity for seating be required to install this system, that scrubs the air clean, within 2½ years.

The system, which has found success in commercial auto and paint shops, is designed to absorb fumes and works like a filtered kitchen stove fan. The system maintains its top performance by inspection of the filter plates.

Non-smoker Mayor Francis McCauley applauded Gallahue's suggestion. "She has spoken to me about it which she said has been adopted in other areas.

"I realize that smokers do have rights and things have been hard for them because of the number of ban smoking programs in public and commercial buildings, but I think this suggestion has merit," he added.

The health inspector will make the formal motion in a letter and submit it to board chairman John Gillis who will then submit it to the council for action.

QJC Joins National Campaign To Aid Adult Learners

Quincy Junior College is joining in a national campaign to help adults earn college credits by examination for knowledge gained outside formal classrooms.

According to Jody Hamilton-Davis, spokesperson at QJC, the program is called College Credit Campaign, endorsed by the Advertising Council, and conducted nationally by the College-Level Examination Program (CLEP).

Using the theme, "College Credit for What You've Learned on Your Own," the campaign informs adults that they can earn credit no matter how or where they've learned it, on their own, on the job, or in the armed forces.

Hamilton-Davis said QJC offers 26 different majors and up to 30 CLEP credits may be applied toward any major there. To obtain the credits, students must pass the appropriate CLEP subject examinations and be enrolled in a degree or certificate program at QJC.

More information can be obtained by calling QJC admissions office at 786-8799 days or 786-8741 evenings.

Quincy's Yesterdays

First City Manager Arrives

William Deegan arrived in Quincy this week and was unanimously elected Quincy's first city manager by the City Council.

Acting Mayor Charles Herbert met Deegan at North Station and drove him to Quincy.

Inclement weather in the midwest forced Deegan to take a train from Superior, Wisc., where he had been manager.

Deegan's first job was to find suitable quarters for his office. Mayor Thomas Burgin invited him to use the present Mayor's office until permanent arrangements were made. A re-arrangement of city offices in the city hall annex was being studied as a means of providing space at city hall.

QUINCY SHIPBUILDING COMMITTEE MEETS

Conboy And Cattaneo Honored By City Club

Donald E. Conboy and Raymond C. Cattaneo were honored at the recent Christmas breakfast meeting of the Quincy City Club.

Each was presented a plaque on behalf of the organization by Secretary Joseph M. Lydon and Treasurer Thomas R. Burke for their 12 years of exceptional efforts on behalf of the Christmas Charity Programs.

Conboy has been responsible for the efforts to raise funds from members to reach the goal each holiday season for the charitable endeavors while Cattaneo's role has been to coordinate the purchase and distribution of items to the hospitalized, elderly, homeless and mentally ill.

During the meeting, the 45th anniversary of the attack on Pearl Harbor was observed as Thomas M. McDonald, past state commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, conducted a brief exercise.

Rev. Cornelius J. Heery, chaplain of the City Club, brought a Christmas message to those present and praised their efforts on behalf of the poor and needy.

Richard J. Koch, club president, announced that a VCR had been delivered to Long Island Hospital at the request of the patients so that movies of years gone by could be obtained and shown for those confined.

The City Club has again provided and presented new woolen hats, gloves and socks to the homeless at the Long Island Shelter, Pine Street Inn and Rosie's Place and gifts to Medfield State Hospital.

The organization in its 12 years has expended some $43,000 in its charitable endeavor projects.

For A VCR Get Together Seafood Chowder And Homemade Pizza

After agreeing to keep our Friday night VCR get togethers easy as far as what to eat was concerned, the night it was at my house it was a cold blustery night, so I opted for a seafood chowder and homemade pizzas. (Some combination!)

And because all of us are diet conscious, but still like to eat palatable food, I used the two percent fat milk and then thickened the chowder with a couple of tablespoons of instant potatoes.

SEAFOOD CHOWDER

1 lb of bay scallops
1 lb of cod (you may use any kind of fish)
1 lb fresh shrimp
2 medium sized onions
3 potatoes about 1 tbsp of salt pork (chopped)
2 cups of water
1 pint of low fat milk
About 2-3 (tbsp) of instant potatoes (or equivalent of flour) to thicken the chowder (optional)
2 tbsps of butter or margarine
1 tbsp of oil

Saute the salt pork, butter and oil together. Add the onion and cook stirring so onions do not brown. (they get transparent). Add the diced potatoes and the water and cook covered until potatoes are tender (not to well done, otherwise when the chowder is completed, the potatoes will be too soft and mushy).

Add the shrimp and scallops and cook until the shrimp are pink and the scallops will be done about the same time. Add the milk, then thicken the chowder. The last 10 minutes, add the pieces of cod (or any fish) and cook until heated. (The fish won't disintegrate when you wait until last.) Serve hot with chowder crackers. It sure hit the spot on that cold night.

Feast of Light Service Sunday At Sacred Heart

The 11th annual Ecumenical Epiphany Feast of Lights service will be held Jan. 11, at 7:30 p.m., at Sacred Heart Church in North Quincy.

This annual event is sponsored by the Inter-Church Council of North Quincy and Wollaston which lists 12 member congregations.

The service will feature the A Cappella Choir on the Brass Ensemble of Eastern Nazarene College under the direction of Prof. Robert Howard. Rev. Richard Malmquist of the First Baptist Church of Wollaston will deliver a brief homily. Clergy and laity from all member churches will participate.

The service will be enriched by original costumes with the candle-lighting ceremony the central theme. This represents the light of Christ entering the world and gradually spreading through time and space. The ceremony culminates with each worshiper holding a lighted candle to carry forth into the world.

Members of the Inter-Church Council include the Memorial Congregational Church of Atlantic, First Church of Squantum, Star of the Sea Roman Catholic Church, Sacred Heart Roman Catholic Church, Wollaston Church of the Nazarene, First Baptist Church of Wollaston, Union Congregational Church, Wollaston Congregational Church, Wollaston Lutheran Church, The Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, St. Chrysostom's Episcopal Church and Quincy Community United Methodist Church.

Offering at the service will be used to further the mission of Christ in our community through the work of the Quincy Crisis Center, said the committee planning the service. A social hour will follow in the school dining hall, they added.

The committee points out that this Feast of Light is for the entire community and open to the public, and that there will be ample room for all who wish to attend.

United First Parish Church To Ordain New Minister Sunday

The United First Parish Church (Unitarian), Church of the Presidents, will ordain and install Dr. Sheldon W. Bennett as its new minister Sunday, at 4 p.m.

A graduate of Harvard Divinity School, with a Master of Divinity received in 1986, Dr. Bennett also brings to ministry a professional background in science, teaching, business management, and lay church leadership. He served as chairman of the governing board of First and Second Church in Boston, Unitarian-Universalist.

Richard Post, Chairman of the Board of Governors, will lead the congregation in the formal act of ordination and installation.

Participants in the service will include: Dr. Rhys Williams of First and Second Church in Boston, who will preside over the service and deliver the prayer of ordination and installation.

Dr. Walter D. Kring, emeritus minister of All Souls Unitarian Church in New York City and minister of the Eliot Church in South Natick, who will preach the sermon, "The Pulpit and Scientific Method."

Dr. Malcolm R. Sutherland, Jr., minister of the First Congregational Unitarian Church in Harvard, former dean of Meadville Lombard Seminary in Chicago and former minister of The First Parish in Milton, who will deliver the charge to the minister.

Dr. Helen L. Cohen, minister of First Parish in Lexington and president of the Massachusetts Bay Chapter of the Unitarian Universalist Ministers' Association, will extend to Dr. Bennett the right hand of fellowship.

Timothy W. Ashton, Executive Director of the Mass. Bay District of the Unitarian Universalist Association, will bring official greetings from the denomination.

Of special note, Natalie Gulbrandsen, Moderator of the Unitarian Universalist Association, who is the elected lay head of the continental denomination, will deliver the charge to the congregation.

Persons bringing official greetings from the Quincy community will include Rev. J. William Arnold, minister of Bethany Congregational Church, Rev. John J. McMahon, pastor of St. Mary's Church, Joseph B. Grossman, honorary president of Temple Beth El, and

DR. SHELDON W. BENNETT

City Council President Stephen J. McGrath.

Other participants in the service will include Rev. Elizabeth L. Leavitt, minister of the Unitarian Universalist Church in Marblehead, who will read from Isaiah, and Rev. Edward T. Atkinson, minister of First Parish in Cohasset, who will read from Ralph Waldo Emerson. As church members, Mrs. Walter Wrigley, James B. Pickel, and Mrs. Frank W. Vallier will present Dr. Bennett with symbols of office.

The combined choirs of United First Parish Church, All Souls Church in Braintree, and First Congregational Unitarian Church of Harvard, will sing anthems by Buxtehude and Tallis under the direction of Norman Corey, organist at United First Parish Church.

Greeters and ushers will include Mr. and Mrs. C. Henry Johnson of Scituate, Forrest I. Neal, Jr., of Hanover, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Porter of Quincy, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rimmer of Quincy, Mr. Russell Savella of Quincy, Dr. Walter Wrigley and Mrs. Thomas Wiggan, both of Quincy.

Dr. Bennett was born in 1942 in Seattle, Wash. He graduated from the University of Washington in 1964, earned a Ph.D. in physics from Columbia University in New York in 1970, and served on the faculty of Harvard University from 1968 to 1971, where he was Assistant Professor of Physics, leaving the academic world. Dr. Bennett then pursued a career in construction project management and then management consulting, and earned a master of business administration, at night, from Boston University in 1981. It was from his leadership experience at First and Second Church in Boston that he was called to a professional career in ministry and was accepted at Harvard Divinity School in 1983, graduating with a M.Div. in 1986.

Dr. Bennett talking about his future ministry said.

"We live in a most challenging and exciting new age, full of promise and possibility. It is an age of science and discovery. It is an age in which the world is becoming truly one global city. But it is also a terribly dangerous age. The beauty and vision of our science with all its power to build a more just and humane society is perverted to awful weapons of annihilation by fear, prejudice, and greed. We, as a human people, must proclaim the vision of a just and compassionate world society. We must each dedicate ourselves to the building of a better world for humanity, for life and the children of tomorrow. We must learn greater respect for the natural ecology of which we are all a part."

"I believe that the principles of our tradition—freedom of conscience, respect for people and nature, and a faith informed by critical reason—offer a positive, constructive way toward a better world and greater fullness in life."

"As we look to science and its penetrating insight into the wonder of our natural realm and to its knowledge, which offers the practical means to a more just society, we must also always look to the great religious traditions of the world—Christianity, Judaism, Buddhism, Hinduism, and Islam—and to poetic works of art, music, and literature for spiritual wisdom and images of beauty that inspire the necessary vision of peace and that lead us to compassion and life. But most important, we must build communities of faith and worship to sustain that vision."

"As minister of this great and historic church, the church of the Adams and the Hancock, first gathered in 1636, and within the Unitarian Universalist tradition, I dedicate myself to the life of our congregation and to further the cause of peace within our individual lives, our families, and the world."

Dr. Bennett is married to the former Molly Matfield, a poet and religious educator. They have two daughters, Gabrielle and Elizabeth. He also has two older daughters, Marta and Erin, by a previous marriage. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Manson O. Bennett of Seattle, will be in attendance at the service.

'How Do We See Persons' Sermon At Bethany Church

There will be two worship services Sunday, Jan. 11, in Bethany Congregational Church, Coddington and Spear Sts., Quincy Center, at 9 a.m. in the chapel and at 10 a.m. in the sanctuary.

The Rev. J. William Arnold, senior minister, will preach the sermon at both hours on "How Do We See Persons?" based on scriptural texts from 1 John 4:16-21 and the Gospel of Matthew 5:43-48.

Lay scripture readers will be Linda Massey for the early service and Robert R. Peoples, Jr., for the late service. The associate minister, Rev. Joel F. Huntington, will serve as liturgist for both services. The sacrament of Christian Baptism will be administered to two children during the 10 a.m. service: Christopher Matthew McSweeney, son of Daniel J. and Christine (Brun) McSweeney, and Kurt Kim Nason, son of Charles C. and Kathleen (Thru) Nason.

At the sanctuary service the Chancel Choir under the direction of Peter E. Krasinski, organist, will sing "Christian Dost Thou See Them?" by John B. Dykes, and as an offertory anthem, "How Lovely Are Thy Dwellings Fair," composed by Jeremiah Clark.

The worship service will be broadcast live direct from Bethany's sanctuary at 10 a.m. over station WJDA, 1300 kc.

Sunday School will be in session beginning at 10 a.m.

with classes for pre-school through eighth grade. Nursery care will be provided for babies and toddlers, under the supervision of Denise Fleming. Bethany's professional early childhood coordinator. The youth fellowship will meet Sunday evening at 7 in the parish house.

At 11 a.m. Sunday, there will be a fellowship hour in the Allen Parlor following the worship service. Persons from the community are invited to attend the worship and fellowship, and to enroll children in the Sunday School.

For additional information concerning Bethany's ministries and programs, contact the church office at 479-7300.

Two Services At Squantum First Church

Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin of The First Church of Squantum announces that Sunday's worship will begin with the 8:30 a.m. guitar service followed by the traditional service at 10:30 a.m.

Last Sunday "Reflected Light" was the topic of his sermon at the early service. His text "Let your light shine before men that they may see your good works and give glory to your father who is in heaven," was taken from Matthew 5:16.

Guitarists Andy Ogilvie and Mary Ruth Scott were accompanied by singing. Karen Reister and Marci Hurd were ushers.

At the later service, Dr. Langevin preached on the topic "Thoughts on the Journey."

Stewart and Mary Scott were the greeters. Ed Reister and Stewart Scott handled usher roles; Gretchen Bumpus and Valerie Gorrell were in charge of Fellowship Hour.

The Chancel Choir was directed by Mary Ruth Scott.

Safe Driving Tips

Rear end collisions are a very common type of auto accident, particularly in the winter. Here are some tips on how to avoid being involved in a rear end collision.

Stay Alert For Sudden Stops: Expect the driver in front of you to stop anywhere, any time! Look for clues that he's going to stop ...

- Driver slows down
- Directional signal blinks
- Brake lights go on

Stay Ahead Of The Situation: Watch the traffic and side roads. Keep an eye on what's happening way up ahead. Often you'll spot when the driver in front of you may have to stop suddenly. Here are some tipoffs:

- Vehicles entering from side roads or ramps
- Traffic signals ahead
- Someone cutting into your lane up front
- Road repairs ahead

Stay Back: Keep your distance -- allow a safe interval at all times. Increase the interval on slippery pavement. Watch out for ...

- Slick ice -- three to twelve times more stopping distance needed.
- Tightly packed traffic -- makes keeping your distance difficult.
- Smaller vehicles -- they can stop quickly.

Start Stopping Sooner: When you know you have to stop - DON'T PUT IT OFF. Delayed braking is doubly dangerous since, if you can't stop as short as you figured, you ram the vehicle up ahead. And, if you do get away with it up front, you still might get clouted from behind. Stay away from ...

- Unnecessary sudden stops
- Speed too fast for the weather conditions
- Too much speed for the type of road
- Maintaining expressway speed after a turnoff

If you stay alert and pay attention to what is going on ahead of you, you stand a much better chance of avoiding a rear end collision.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

The "good ole days" ... Time and time again this expression has been spoken with reverence. It seems that there is something about the past that is irreplaceable. The present just cannot meet the past's standards. Let's think upon this ...

Would we have been happier in ancient times or even 100 to 150 years ago in America? Perhaps we have the tendency to day-dream in this respect. When we think of ourselves in ancient times or in times past we are not the poor slaves, the poor farmers ... rather we think of ourselves as members of the aristocracy. We could be sitting in Athens listening to Socrates ... we could be debating in the Roman Senate ... we could be Knights riding with Charlemagne.

What was life really like in America 150 years ago? Was it really the "good ole days"? One thing people did not have to worry about was pollution because life was brief. The average life span of a male was a hard, grueling 38 years! The average work week was 72 hours. The women fared even worse. They worked an average of 98 hours a week. They had no fresh vegetables in the wintertime. Vitamin deficiency was prevalent. Homes were sweltering in the summer - cold in the winter.

"Good ole days!" we wonder ... What are your feelings?

Cablesystems Wins Another Round On Program 'Pirating'

American Cablesystems and the New England Sports Network have won another court round against three Quincy bars after a federal district court judge denied the bars' request to dismiss the pirating charge filed against them last summer.

American and NESN, a cable company which broadcasts primarily Boston Red Sox and Boston Bruins games, are suing the bars for using satellite dishes to pirate shorts programs and showing them to customers.

The two companies filed a complaint in July saying the bars are violating federal law by using NESN's programming without paying the local cable company a $75 fee.

Judge Andrew Caffrey dismissed a motion Dec. 31 filed by the bars by ruling in favor of American on four points, said an American Cablesystem's spokesman.

Caffrey ruled:

- American Cablesystems has a standing in the suit and has a need to protect itself from pirating.

- American and NESN's contract was damaged by the bars.

- Bars' action interfered with American and NESN's capability to acquire new subscribers.

- American clearly has an interest in the pirating programming.

Originally, four bars were charged with pirating but one has since settled with the companies.

Still charged are: Darcy's Village Pub, 93 Willard St.; Kane's Place, 23 Des Moines Rd.; and Sully's, 28 Chestnut St.

Dee Dee's Lounge, 295 Newport Ave., has settled with American and NESN.

American and NESN will next seek a hearing date on their contempt charge against the bars who continued to broadcast NESN programming while a restraining order was instituted.

The restraining order prohibited the bars from receiving satellite signals while the case went to court.

O. Donald Gohl To Receive McIntyre Good Scout Award

O. Donald Gohl will be presented the James R. McIntyre Good Scout Award Jan. 8 at the annual holiday party benefiting Camp Massasoit.

The Good Scout Party will be from 7 to 9 p.m. at Granite Place, 125 Granite St., Quincy Center. Cocktails and hors d'oeuvres will be served.

The presentation of the award to Gohl will recognize his outstanding record of service to the community. His efforts and leadership have benefited the United Way, U.N.I.C.E.F., the Cancer drive, the P.T.A., the Boy Scouts, and Camp Massasoit. He also entertains seniors at 1000 Southern Artery, Fenno House, Town Brook House, and other senior citizen homes as a singer and dancer. A vice-president of Quincy Cooperative Bank, he is a long-time, active member and past president of the Quincy Rotary Club participating in their many service projects.

Past award honorees have been Richard Koch, Sr., who was recognized last year, Governor Edward J. King, John and Buell Fuller, Congressman James Burke, Marshall Sloane, Captain Richard Stratton, USN, and the late Quincy mayor and senator James R. McIntyre for whom the award is now named.

O. DONALD GOHL

McIntyre, who attended Camp Massasoit as a Boy Scout, initiated this series of Good Scout parties which have funded the continuing redevelopment of Camp Massasoit into one of the finest year round camping facilities. Generations of Quincy Boy Scouts attended Camp Massasoit as a summer camp, but today as a year round facility, Camp Massasoit annually accommodates more campers than ever before in its sixty year history.

The honorary chairman of the party is Sheila McIntyre who is interested in continuing this important effort begun by her husband. Co-chairing the event are Leo Kelly and Harold Crowley, two more men who have fond memories of camping at Camp Massasoit as boys.

Tickets for the party are $30 per couple and are tax deductible contributions. They may be obtained from any of the committee members. Checks should be made payable to the Camp Massasoit Development Fund.

Committee members include:

Robert Ulchak Appointed QCH Patient Business Director

Mark J. Mundy, director of Quincy City Hospital, announces the appointment of Robert Ulchak of Wollaston as Director of Patient Business Services.

Ulchak had been employed with Boston City Hospital, Department of Health and Hospitals since 1980. He has held various management positions including Director of Medical Records, Director of Admitting Outpatient Administration, and most recently as Patients Accounts Manager.

Prior to his hospital management career, he had 10 years of retail business management experience. He

Raiderettes Lose To Brookline In Squeaker, 36-35

The North Quincy girls' basketball team opened its Suburban League season last Saturday with a 6-0 non-league record but lost a 36-35 squeaker to Brookline in a sloppily-played league opener.

The Raiderettes will play at Newton North Friday at 5 p.m. and will host Cambridge Rindge and Latin next Tuesday, also at 5.

North opened up an early 8-2 lead over Brookline thanks to two quick jump shots by Maureen Donovan, and baskets by Lisa Mitton and Nancy Flukes. The Raiderettes had a 10-5 lead after one quarter but squandered many chances to be up even more as they had six steals, four by Donovan.

North went up by seven in the second quarter but Brookline scored 10 straight points for a 15-12 lead. North turned the ball over nine times, missed 10 shots and three free throws and Brookline led, 23-16, at halftime.

North cut the gap to 23-20 on baskets by Donovan and Mitton and the Raiderettes took a 31-30 lead into the final quarter.

North widened its margin to 35-30 on an 18-foot set shot by Flukes and an offensive rebound basket by Anne McGuiggan, but those were North's final points as it failed to score on its last 14 possessions, missing 11 shots and turning the ball over three times. North had a chance to win with three seconds left, but a Flukes jump shot rimmed the basket as time ran out.

Flukes led the way with 10 points, Donovan had eight points and seven steals, Mitton, with her best game, eight points and four steals and McGuiggan 12 rebounds.

Earlier in the week North had defeated Somerville, 50-33, to finish a perfect 6-0 non-league schedule.

McGuiggan led all scorers with 16 points and 12 rebounds. Flukes had 15 points and six assists, Donovan and Rita Rooney had five points each and Marybeth Maloney had five assists.

"We didn't play our best basketball during the Christmas break, but did come out of it with a 6-1 overall mark," said Coach Paul Bregoli. "Our Brookline game is one I lost sleep over because of all our missed opportunities, especially in the fourth quarter. We should beat them on our home court."

"Kellene Duffy, Karrie Pistorino, Mitton and Donovan all played well in the Brookline game. Our defense has been outstanding lately, having held our last four opponents to 36 points or less. If we can continue to play this type of defense all year, I feel we can make a run at the league title."

Raiders Bow To Brookline

After defeating Somerville, 87-77, with its biggest point output in some time, to even its record at 3-3, the North Quincy boys' basketball team lost to Brookline last Saturday, 60-49.

The Raiders will host Newton North Friday night at 7:30 and next Tuesday will play at Cambridge Rindge and Latin at 3:30.

In the big win over Somerville, Bob Sylva and Dave Lawless each scored 23 points and Lawless added 12 rebounds.

Ted Stevenson scored 13 points and had nine assists and Joe DeGrande had 10 points and 10 steals.

Capt. Jimmy Phelan had a strong all-around game as he scored eight points, had seven assists and six steals.

North jumped out to a 45-30 halftime lead but Somerville cut the gap to 60-50 in the third quarter. Each team scored 24 points in the final session with North shooting an impressive 13-for-15 from the free throw line.

Hard Luck Follows Quincy Girls

The Quincy girls' basketball team, playing better than its 2-4 record indicates and which lost a 53-50 squeaker to Weymouth South in the North Quincy Christmas tournament, continued to play in hard luck last week as it dropped a 31-30 heartbreaker to Arlington.

The First Ladies will be home to Brookline Friday at 5 p.m. and next Tuesday will play at Brockton, also at 5.

The Quincy-Arlington game ended in frustrating fashion for the First Ladies, as a last-second layup refused to fall.

Gayle Morrell, having an outstanding year, led Quincy with eight points and her sister Patti had six points and 10 rebounds and Karen Craig also had six points.

Sue Parry and Linda Walsh played excellent floor games.

Quincy Icemen Win First, 8-4

It took awhile, but the Quincy hockey team finally captured its first victory last Saturday after four straight losses as it defeated Peabody, 8-4, paced by Adam McGregor's six-point performance. Saturday the Presidents will play at Waltham at 4 p.m. McGregor, a senior center, scored four goals against Peabody and added two assists.

Kevin Provenzano, another senior center, contributed a hat trick and added two assists and Greg Chambers had another fine night in goal with 28 saves.

Strypers Defeat Dorchester

The South Shore YMCA Stryper boys' swim team recently defeated Dorchester Y, 164-130.

Sparkling the Strypers were David Cangiano (11 and 12), who qualified for the N.E. area championships with a 26.81 in the 50-yard freestyle; Brian Kowalski (15-17), who won the 50-yard freestyle in 24.67, and the B relay team of Eric Fagerlund, Michael Martorano, David Cangiano and Jonathan Dyer, who turned in a 1:48.04 in the 200-yard freestyle relay.

The 8-and-under 100-yard freestyle relay team of Corey Madera, James Keyes, Terrence Roche and Jay Magno qualified for the N.E. area championships with a solid (1:12.16) victory.

The boys team will face Middleboro Saturday at Middleboro.

Mite A's Win Hingham Tourney

The Quincy Mite A team, sponsored by DAV #79, won the recent Santa Claus Tournament at the Pilgrim Arena in Hingham.

In the second round Quincy handily defeated Braintree, 6-1, with Chris Grant looking strong as he set up play after play. Solid backchecking by Matt Logan, Tom Moriarty, David Rowell and Mark Regan held the Braintree offense under control.

In the semifinals Quincy held scoreless for 35 minutes, scored three quick goals to top the South Shore Eagles, 3-0. Quincy goalie Mark Smith was spectacular and he was supported by his "awesome D" defensemen, Jenna Nolan, Jason Fennelly, John Healy, Danny Hughes, Danny Stone and Danny Donahue, who were effective penalty killers throughout the entire tournament.

Quincy edged Plymouth, 3-2, in the championship game to win the Rudolph Flight Division. Plymouth pulled its goalie with 4:32 left and went on the attack, 6 on 5. But again it was Smith who turned back shot after shot to clinch the win and the title.

Quincy's scorers during the tournament were Ronnie McGann, Paul Princiotti, Grant, Hughes, Donahue, Brendan O'Brien, Jamie Murphy, Stone, Moriarty, Barrett, Regan, Logan, Nolan, Rowell, Fennelly and Healy.

Koch Basketball Resumes Thursday

The Koch Club Youth basketball program will resume its weekly schedule tonight (Thursday) at 6:30 p.m. at Atlantic Middle School Gymnasium on Hollis Ave.

The activity was cancelled for the three weeks during the holiday season.

The program will continue each Thursday evening through March 26 when the league will close out its 38th season with a Parents and Awards Night for the participants.

Initiated in the fall of 1949 at the original North Quincy High School Gymnasium, the Koch Club has conducted its basketball programs at Atherton Hough School, Broadmeadows Middle School and the Montclair School gymnasium during the past 38 years.

Simone J. Koch is director of the program and Bob Woods is treasurer. Others assisting are Ed Leary, Tom Bowes, Dave Barnes and Mike Bowes.

Carroll Bruins Representative In Quebec Tourney

Stephen Carroll of Quincy has been selected along with 16 other boys from the Greater Boston area to represent the Boston Bruins and the Greater Boston Youth Hockey League in a hockey tournament in Quebec in February.

The team will be playing for the America's Cup with teams from many other nations. Over 200,000 people will see the games which will be televised throughout Canada.

The boys must raise $20,000 in order to make the trip. Donations can be made to Carroll and he will get credit for raising the money.

Checks made out to the Greater Boston Pee Wee All-Stars can be sent to Carroll, 79 West St., Quincy 02169.

Mite B's Runner-Up In K. Of C. Tourney

Quincy's Mite B team was runnerup in the K. of C. tournament at the Quincy Youth Arena, losing to Randolph, 8-6, in the title game after edging Weymouth, 5-4, in double overtime, and defeating Pembroke, 3-1.

In the Weymouth game, Jimmy Gallagher's unassisted goal gave Quincy the win in the second overtime session. A.J. Carthas, Tim Hunter, Robbie Callow and Shawn Johnson had the other goals and John Ryan had two assists and Hunter, Carthas, Scott Cooper, Mike Ryan and Gallagher one each. Goalie Brian Walsh and defenseman Matthew Jarnis and Eric Griffin were outstanding.

Gallagher, Mike Ryan and Hunter had the goals against Pembroke. John Ryan, Jarnis, Cooper and Callow had assists.

In the title game with Randolph Stoughton, Quincy fought gallantly as it trailed, 3-0, 5-1 and 7-3 and was unable to quite make up the deficits. Hunter and Gallagher had two goals apiece and John Ryan and Carthas one each. John Ryan had three assists, Carthas two and Hunter one.

Resuming Greater Boston League play last weekend, Quincy scored a decisive 7-0 victory over Wellesley, as Walsh earned his second shutout.

Callow scored two goals and Mike O'Brien, Gallagher, Hunter, Carthas, and Johnson one each. John Ryan and Mike Ryan had two assists apiece and Gallagher, Johnson, Brian Beaton, Carthas, Hunter, Chris DiMattia, Jeff Coleman, O'Brien and Jim Kelley one each.

Quincy moved into first place in the league for the first time.

Prior to the tournament, Quincy defeated Allston-Brighton, 5-2, and Dedham, 7-1.

Cooper, Gallagher, Mike O'Brien, Johnson and John Ryan had the Quincy goals against A-B and Gallagher and Carthas had two assists apiece and Kelley and O'Brien one each.

In the Dedham game Hunter had two goals as did Johnson and Gallagher, Eric Griffin and Callow one each. Carthas, John Ryan, Johnson, Gallagher and O'Brien had assists.

Squirt B's Eliminated

Quincy's Squirt B team, sponsored by Quincy Cablesystems, advanced to the finals of the K. of C. Tournament at the Quincy Youth Arena before being eliminated by Framingham, 5-1.

Quincy's only goal was scored by Steve Provost with Jim Cipriano assisting.

Quincy won its first game over Billerica, 5-3, overcoming an early two-goal deficit. Provost scored twice to tie the score with Cipriano assisting on each and Eric Zimmerman also assisting. Billy Coughlin put Quincy ahead with Hughes and Paul King assisting. Cipriano scored the game-winner with Provost.

Zimmerman and King assisting.

Quincy then topped Hanover, 3-1, with Cipriano scoring twice and Coughlin once. Zimmerman had two assists and Provost and Tim Wassiege one each.

In Greater Boston League action Quincy defeated Hyde Park, 6-1. Provost and Cipriano had two goals apiece and Dave Pacino and Patrick Connolly one each. Zimmerman had three assists and Connolly, King, Paul Ginns, Cipriano, Provost, Pacino and Beaton one each.

Mike Manganaro was in goal for the GBL game and Wassiege for most of the tournament.

DiTullio Team Wins St. John's First Half

Art DiTullio's team won the first half of St. John's Holy Name Bowling League with a 59-25 record.

The rest of the standings: Bob Saluti, 47-37; Mike Panarelli, 42-42; Lou Faiella, 38-46; Dick Guerriero, 35-49.

Joe Marini, 33-51.

Guerriero rolled the weekly high single of 148 and Marini had 147. Marini had the high three of 369 and Saluti had 362.

Saluti's team rolled the high team single of 528 and DiTullio had 515 and 513. DiTullio had the high team three of 1492 and Faiella had 1478.

The Top Ten: Marini, 110.0; Dick Guerriero, 108.8; Saluti, 107.9; Panarelli, 105.3; John Grande, 101.9; Faiella, 100.8; Len MacLennan, 99.3; Tom Darcy, 95.4; Rick Comeau, 95.1; Frank Guerriero, 93.9.

Pee Wee B's Win 7 Out Of 9

Quincy's Pee Wee B team, sponsored by A&T Movers, was kept busy over the Christmas vacation break as it played nine games, compiling a 7-2 record in Greater Boston League and tournament play.

Opening the second half of the league season in first place, Quincy continued its winning form with a 5-3 victory over Dorchester. Bobby Fitzpatrick had two goals and two assists, Joe Zona had two goals and Sean McCarthy one. Jim Smith and Scott McClory had assists.

Quincy then lost to Somerville's A team, 6-3, but came back to defeat Triboro, 8-3. McCarthy scored the game-winner against Triboro and Sean Vermette had two goals and Zona, Sean McArdle, Smith, Fitzpatrick and Patrick Christopherson one each. Zona and Gladu had three assists apiece, Matt O'Toole, Steve O'Brien, Fitzpatrick, McCarthy, Christopherson and McClory one each.

Quincy opened the K of C Tournament with an 8-4 victory over Plymouth. Zona had a hat trick, Smith and Fitzpatrick two goals apiece and Christopherson one. Vermette had three assists, McCarthy and O'Toole two each and Mike O'Brien, McClory, McArdle, Fitzpatrick, Christopherson and Zona one apiece.

Quincy rolled over Cape Ann, 9-2, as Fitzpatrick and O'Toole had two goals apiece and Steve O'Brien, Zona, Vermette, Christopherson and McArdle one each. Vermette had three assists, McCarthy two and Zona, McArdle, Steve O'Brien, Smith, Fitzpatrick, Christopherson, McCabe, Gladu and Mike O'Brien one each.

Quincy then easily topped Randolph Stoughton, 9-3, with Zona and Fitzpatrick having hat tricks and three assists each and Vermette, Smith and McCarthy had a goal each. McClory had four assists and Vermette, McArdle, McCarthy, McCabe and Gladu one each.

In the semifinals Quincy was eliminated by Providence, the eventual tournament champion, 5-1, with Christopherson scoring the only goal.

Goalies Sean Connolly and Ed Gafanhao were outstanding throughout the tournament.

Earlier, in the final first half games in the GBL, Quincy had twice defeated Dedham's A team, 7-2 and 3-0.

Senior Hockey

Kelly's, Joe's Tied For Top

Kelly's Pub moved into a first place tie with Joe's Pub in the Quincy Youth Arena's Senior Hockey League with an 8-2 victory over Joe's.

Macomber Inducted Into Chelsea Hall Of Fame

Gene Macomber, dean of boys at North Quincy High School and a former assistant football coach at Quincy High for 10 years, was recently inducted into the Chelsea High Sports Hall of Fame at ceremonies at Lombardo's in East Boston.

Macomber, a 1949 Chelsea graduate, was a member of the Red Devils' 1948 backfield, considered one of the best in Eastern Massachusetts with Alan Rubenstein, Joe Bevere and Bobby Finnegan.

Gene was a two-sports star, excelling in football for three years and a top performer in basketball. He was recognized as the fiercest blocker and best pass receiver in Chelsea history.

Chelsea's 1948 team was promoted to Class A and the team, coached by Henry McCarthy, finished with a 7-

GENE MACOMBER

2-1 record. In the Thanksgiving game with arch rival Everett, Macomber caught a 20-yard touchdown pass to ignite a 12-6 victory.

One of the 1948 losses was to Quincy, led by fullback Charlie Sacchetti and halfback Aldo Lombardi, two of the Presidents' all-time outstanding backs.

One of Gene's most memorable moments was returning a kickoff 95 yards for a touchdown against Rindge Tech. This was a school record that still stands.

In 1947 he scored three touchdowns against Saugus.

Macomber went to Drake University on a scholarship and played varsity football for three years. He was named to the Missouri Valley all-star team.

When he finished college he was given an offer by the 49ers but refused because he was married and had a child. Before coming to Quincy he coached at Carroll High School in Iowa.

He began his coaching career at Quincy in 1963 under Jack Garrity and coached under Hank Conroy for the next nine seasons. He was an assistant on the Presidents' 1970 team which had the school's only perfect season and won the Greater Boston League title.

Macomber resides in Duxbury with his wife Anita and their nine children. Four of them, Michael, Mark, Matthew and Mitchell, starred in football at Hanover High. Mark went to Middlebury College, Matthew to the University of Massachusetts and Mitchell to Westfield State College.

Lewis, John Gladu and Jarnis one each. Joe Zona had two goals and John MacNeil one for Bersani and Peter Nee had two assists and Brian Kelley one.

Colonial Federal edged UCT, 3-2, on goals by Matt O'Toole, Sean Vermette and Jimmy Smith. Vermette and O'Toole had two assists apiece and Jimmy Smith one. David Mullen scored both UCT goals and Jason Radzevich had two assists and Aidan O'Donoghue one.

The standings: Keohane's, 5-2-4; UCT, 6-4-1; Colonial Federal, 4-4-3; Bersani, 3-8-0.

Squirt A's Win, Lose In Tourney

Quincy's Squirt A team, sponsored by South Boston Savings Bank, played in the recent Cranberry Tournament and defeated Falmouth, 2-1, but lost to Hanover, 7-4.

Falmouth scored first but Brian Connolly scored the tying goal with assists for Joe Carinci and Brian Wood and Wood scored the game-winner with Jamie Schatzl assisting.

Quincy led Hanover, 3-2, after a period with goals by Jeff Craig, Matt McGowan and Robbie Guarneri, but Hanover scored three goals in the second period for a 5-3 lead. Scott Joyce scored in the final period but it was too little and too late. Schatzl had three assists and Doug Nolan, Andrew Vermette and Danny Morrell one each.

In Greater Boston League play Quincy tied Parkway, 5-5. Schatzl had two goals and Kevin Barrett, Wood and Vermette one each. McGowan had two assists and Vermette and Carinci one each.

Quincy also tied Somerville, 5-5, with Joyce, Wood, Schatzl, Carinci and McGowan having a goal each and Steve Miller, Guarneri, Connolly, Carinci, McGowan and Schatzl having assists.

Violinist Ruth Simon In Concert At First Armenian Church Feb. 1

Violinist Ruth Simon of Quincy will be one of the featured artists at "Young Artists in Concert," presented by the Armenian Renaissance Association Feb. 1, at 3:30 p.m., at the First Armenian Church, 380 Concord Ave., Belmont.

Miss Simon, who played in the Quincy Symphony Orchestra for three years, has participated in many Armenian functions as well as various organizations in and around Greater Boston.

Her program will include music by Mozart, Kresler as well as Gregorian and Komitas. She will be accompanied during the concert by Florence Tajian.

Simon, a sophomore at Emerson College in Boston, majoring in television broadcasting, studied the violin for 12 years under the direction of maestro Rouben Gregorian and has played in the Greater Boston Youth Symphony for two years, directed by Fuji Oue.

During the summer of 1983, she played in a concert tour in eastern Europe.

Even though she plans a career in television news, her music, she says, will always be a precious jewel that she will treasure throughout her life.

On the same program will be Elise Tatosian, dramatic lyric soprano of the New England Conservatory of Music and Marianne Gedigian, flutist, a senior at Boston University's Contemporary Collegium and Symphony Orchestra.

The public is invited to this concert and reception following. For ticket information call ARA office in Watertown. Tickets will be available at the door.

ATLANTIC MIDDLE AT LOGAN -- Students from North Quincy's Atlantic Middle School celebrated the holiday season with a selection of yuletide carols at Logan Airport's redesigned Terminal 'C'. Travelers and carolers were treated to cider and cookies during the event, coordinated by MASSPORT and the State Department of Food and Agriculture.

Guitar Classes For Children At Beechwood

Beechwood Music School announces its guitar class for children of all ages started Wednesday.

Classes will be held on Wednesdays from 4 to 5 and will run for 10 weeks. The fee for this 10 week class is $50.

A Suzuki Pre-Twinkle Piano Class is also being offered for children ages 3-6. This will be a six week class meeting on Fridays beginning Jan. 9. The fee for this six-week class is $35.

NQHS Drama Club To Present 'Imaginary Invalid'

The North Quincy High School Drama Club will present "The Imaginary Invalid" Jan. 9, 10, 15, 16, 17.

Set in France during the 17th century, the farce pokes fun at doctors and their practices. Medicinal knowledge in the 17th century was limited, and thus author Moliere has created a plot revolving around an elderly hypochondriac who took the doctors' remedies a bit too seriously.

Featured in the show are: Tim McDonald, Nanig Gheridian, Maria Megias, Christine Carroll, Jan Goldstein, Pat Murphy, Jeff Bell, Jeff Cluett, Alisan Johnson, Elizabeth Harrington, Michelle Briere, and David Bearon.

"The Imaginary Invalid" is directed by Miss Brenda Bryant, a senior at Eastern Nazarene College, and Drama Club Advisor Frank Moffett. The show goes on at 8 p.m. at the school's Blackbox Theatre. Tickets are $3.50 - adults, and $2.50 for students. They may be purchased by calling the school at 786-8745, or obtained at the door if the show is not sold out.

Aerobics Class At YMCA Jan. 12

The South Shore YMCA in Quincy will conduct an Aerobics In Motion class beginning Jan. 12.

The 10-week class will be taught by certified instructors and will be held Monday through Thursday from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m.

Fee for the program is $30 for "Y" members, and $50 for non-membership.

For more information call Cindy at 479-8500.

Fenno House Classes Start

Classes, ranging from knitting to line dancing, will begin for senior citizens Jan. 8 at Fenno House, 540 Hancock St., Wollaston.

Knitting, crewel and embroidery will be instructed Jan. 8, from 10 a.m. to 12 noon.

A dance class, especially line dancing, begins Monday, Jan. 12, from 10 to 11 a.m.

According to Phyllis Bogosian at Fenno House, Quincy senior citizens who are not residents at Fenno House are welcome to attend. If interested, call the office at 773-5483 to register. A minimal charge will be made for each class, said Bogosian.

Koch Club Charitable Program Completes 31 Years

The Koch Club Charitable Committee closed out its 31st season of Christmas activities Monday as hundreds of used toys and clothes were delivered to social service agencies, churches and organizations serving the needy in sections of Boston and Cambridge.

The Hispanic Community celebrates Three King's Day or the Feast of the Epiphany Jan. 6 and the toys were provided in time for presentation to needy children of the area.

In 1971, the Koch Club initiated the toys for needy children program providing 300 gifts to boys and girls who lost all their belongings in a pre-Christmas fire. The activity has increased to include thousands of used toys and articles of used clothing donated during the past 16 years to organizations serving the needy.

The Koch Club in the past three decades has sponsored the holiday assistance program for families in Quincy providing food, toys and clothing to those in need during the traditional Christmas holidays in December.

Richard J. Koch, chairman of the Christmas Charitable Committee, said that the organization is more of a coordinating agency with businesses, organizations, families and individuals contributing to the overall program with money, food, toys and clothing. The success of the numerous charitable projects would be impossible without the wonderful cooperation of those known and others anonymous.

In the 1980s the Koch Club has redirected and intensified its energies to charitable activities for the needy and homeless as the decline in school age children was over 100 per cent in 15 years in Quincy and has lessened the need of the popular recreational activities sponsored by the organization during the sixties and seventies.

Koch thanked the many who assisted in collecting and preparing the used toys for presentation to the young beneficiaries including:

Rita and Kenneth Kelleher, Thomas McDonald, Mrs. Ginny Derringer, Mrs. Simone Koch, Mrs. Linda Bowes, Mr. Robert Woods, Debra Koch, Harry Donaghue, Simone J. Koch, Mrs. Marilyn Nestor, David Donaghue, the leaders and members of St. Ann's Boy Scout Troop #21 as well as the Woodward School for Girls.

A Very Grateful

Christmas FESTIVAL COMMITTEE

An estimated 250,000 people viewed the 35th Annual Christmas Parade.

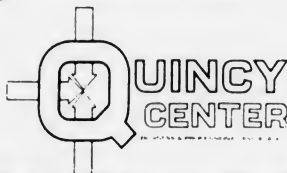

This great event featured twenty colorful floats, twenty seven talented bands and twenty six specialty units. It provided a very festive environment of the "family holiday spirit." The parade featured such crowd pleasers as the MacDonald Motor Home with MacDonald characters plus thirty other costume characters.

The Parade also featured the New England and State High School Marching Band Championship competition. The winner eligible to appear in the 1988 Cotton Bowl Parade.

For Community Service

Ruth Wainwright Sun 'Citizen Of Year'

Ruth Wainwright of Houghs Neck, a long-time volunteer in community causes and activities, is The Quincy Sun's "Citizen Of The Year" for 1986.

Mrs. Wainwright, who has clocked more than 3500 hours at Quincy City Hospital and countless others in other volunteer work was selected from among 43 nominations submitted by readers of The Sun.

She was selected by a special panel of judges from the 43 nominations.

RUTH WAINWRIGHT

Mrs. Wainwright, married and the mother of seven, and grandmother of 10 was nominated by Patricia Shea Ridlen of Rock Island Rd. who said of her:

"If Ruth was paid for all the volunteering she does, she would be a millionaire."

Mrs. Wainwright is the first woman and second person to be selected for the award established by The Sun in 1985 to recognize an individual for outstanding community service or achievement.

First winner was Anthony Siciliano, Civil Defense Deputy Director and Auxiliary Police Chief who was a member of this year's panel.

"Oh my gosh, I can't believe it," Mrs. Wainwright said when informed by Sun Publisher Henry Bosworth that she had been selected as the recipient. "Are you sure?"

"We were sure all right," Bosworth said. "But the selection was not an easy task for the judges because of the outstanding nominees.

"We congratulate not only Ruth Wainwright for being selected as the recipient but all of the other 42 nominees who are deserving of recognition. We commend them for their service to the community and neighborhoods."

The Quincy "Citizen of the Year Award" will be presented at a reception at the Quincy Sons of Italy Social Center. The date will be announced.

In addition to her volunteer work at Quincy Hospital, Mrs. Wainwright is a volunteer driver for the Meals On Wheels Program, brings books to senior citizen complexes and collects food for the needy.

A former Quincy Sun reporter and Patriot Ledger correspondent, she is the editor and considered the guiding force of the Houghs Neck Community Council Bulletin.

She co-authored with her friend, Dorothy Laing

Only One Voice In Opposition

Presidents' Place Gets Strong Support

OVERFLOW CROWD fills the Council at City Hall for two public hearings on Presidents' Place.

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

One of the largest crowds in several years overflowed the Council Chambers at City Hall Monday night to overwhelmingly support the $55 million Presidents' Place project proposed for downtown Quincy.

Twenty people ranging from the developers to laborers spoke in favor of the proposal during the first of two public hearings held by the City Council regarding the proposal.

The first hearing was on the overall proposal.

A total of 118 people recorded themselves in favor.

Only one person, Michael Jovanovic, spoke in opposition. He said he would have preferred a four-year college at the site of the former Bargain Center.

No one signed in opposition. The council took no action on the proposal which is to include retail, office, commercial and residential space.

Assistant City Solicitor Robert Quinn, who presented Mayor Francis McCauley who is on vacation, led off the proponents.

Quinn said the benefits would include "... removal of a blighted area, increased tax benefits, enhancement of the surrounding historic area, added vitality in the downtown area by the residential component, added employment, increased affordable housing, and benefit to Norfolk County with the proposed sale of the old courthouse to be included in the project.

"It's a true city project which we've been looking for over the past couple of years," said Principal Planner Kevin Shea.

State Sen. Paul Harold said he would be available to make passage of the downtown urban redevelopment plan "as speedy a process as possible in the State House."

Approval is needed by the State Department of Community Affairs as well as by the council and mayor.

One of the developers of the project, Stephen Ricciardi of Ricciardi Co. of Quincy, said that eight units of subsidized housing would be included in the residential component.

"All of the needs of Quincy Junior College are being cared for," said Quincy School Supt. John Osterman referring to the fact that QJC uses the old courthouse for classroom and office space.

Robert Quinn, president of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, said that his group's board of directors unanimously voted to support the project.

Robert DeMarco of Campanelli Industries, the other developer of the project, said he hoped the project could "move ahead expeditiously so as not to make it economically unfeasible."

Leo Kelly, chairman of the Citizens Advisory Committee on the project, said, "Our conclusion is that the overall

Council Rezones Shipyard Planned Unit Development

The City Council voted unanimously Monday night to rezone the General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard from Industrial B to Planned Unit Development.

That means that the council will have control over what goes into the yard which is in the process of being sold, according to council president Stephen McGrath.

Public hearings will have to be held, he explained.

"I'm leery of trusting General Dynamics as to who it will sell the yard to," said McGrath.

"I have much more confidence in City Council control."

McGrath praised Councillor Theodore DeCristofaro, in whose ward the shipyard is located, who proposed the zoning change several months ago.

But before the action was taken, the council first voted an amendment to allow Industrial B uses in Planned Unit Development areas so that shipbuilding would be allowed.

Shipyard union officials expressed concern that the rezoning would harm their chances of buying the shipyard.

The employee buyout committee had made a joint bid with a company which would build a $100 million power plant.

"They think we're trying to hurt them, but we're trying to help them," DeCristofaro said at the time.

At Monday night's meeting, DeCristofaro said the rezoning was very important for Quincy Point and for the whole city."

After the meeting, McGrath expressed the hope that the shipyard workers' bid would be successful.

"I hope they are successful in getting their package together," he said. "We'll give them every consideration."

Councillors Praise Siciliano

Two City Councillors praised the volunteers who assisted their constituents during the coastal storm which hit Quincy two weeks ago.

"We invited Tony Siciliano (deputy director of Quincy Civil Defense) to be here," said Councillor Michael Cheney at Monday night's meeting.

"But, typically, he's down in Fall River (the site of an industrial complex fire which caused an estimated $10 million damage)."

Cheney also thanked the Fire and Police Departments "and everyone involved."

Councillor Thomas Nutley commended "Tony and the Civil Defense volunteers."

"They really are on the ball," he said.

Urban Renewal Plan

An urban renewal plan in connection with the proposed $55 million Presidents' Place project was to be among the agenda items at a meeting of the Quincy Planning Board last night (Wednesday) at City Hall.

A public hearing regarding a Board of Appeals rehearing on Boulevard Haven, 795-829 Quincy Shore Drive was scheduled for 7 p.m.

The meeting was to follow.

MRS. NELL SLAWSON, whose Saville Ave. home developers of Presidents' Place have said they won't ask the city to take for the project, listens to speakers during Monday night's public hearings at City Hall.

Board Rules For Koch, Walsh Plans Appeal

By BOB BOSWORTH

The Quincy Board of Registrars has voted unanimously to keep Richard Koch Jr. on the city's voter registration list which apparently would keep him in his city council-at-large seat.

John J. Walsh, of Squantum, who filed the complaint charging Koch had relinquished his right to vote in Quincy since moving to Brewster last spring, said he plans to appeal the board's Jan. 8 decision in Norfolk County Superior Court, Dedham.

"I will be seeking a complaint against the board individually and in their capacity as registrars seeking to overturn their decision."

"It is clearly not based on any concept of law or laws in the Commonwealth," said Walsh.

Board members are John Papile, Louise Randall and Charles Sweeney, City Clerk John Gillis chairs that board.

State law stipulates a voter cannot be removed from a registration list unless notified by another community that the voter has re-registered in that community or unless the individual dies. A hearing can also determine a voter's legal registration.

In his complaint, Walsh said Koch, his wife and their three children live in Brewster and that Koch does not use the Quincy apartment at 164 West Elm Ave., the address Koch gave for voting purposes.

Appearing before the board in Council Chambers, Koch presented evidence to support his case. Included were a valid Quincy-addressed driver's license and mail addressed to his Quincy residence.

The license was instrumental in the board's decision. Papile said "A driver's license established a voter's place of registration."

Koch said he expects to renew his license from his 164 West Elm Ave. address.

Koch also refuted Walsh's allegation that he has attended town government meetings in Brewster.

"I have never attended any government meeting in Brewster," Koch said. "I have always been a registered voter in Quincy since I turned 18," Koch added.

After Koch's brief presentation and a short recess, Walsh asked a series of questions about Koch's Quincy apartment but Koch refused to answer them.

"I don't see any necessity to answer his questions. Mr. Walsh can continue to ask any question he wants but I think he's wasting my time and the board's time," Koch said.

Meanwhile, City Solicitor Joseph (Jay) MacRitchie said the city charter is unclear whether an elected official can live outside Quincy.

"You must be a qualified voter to be elected to office. Whether one can continue to serve that office if the official moves away has never really been looked at," MacRitchie said.

Quincy Furniture Closes End Of An Era For Jack, Ruth London

It was the end of an era for Jack and Ruth London Saturday evening at a farewell party at their Quincy Furniture, 1604 Hancock St., marking the closing of the downtown landmark.

Some three dozen family members and friends gathered to sip champagne, munch sandwiches and say so long.

After 66 years at that address Quincy Furniture, pioneer business in the downtown center, ended its days there. The store's remaining stock will be sold from the company's Washington St. warehouse.

The 69-year-old London said he had no plans to retire at this time because there's a lot to do and it may take some time to sell off the remaining stock.

Jack's father, Max London, now 105 and living in Connecticut, was a familiar figure at the store until a couple of years ago. He was often referred to as one of those Hancock St., business pioneers, when he started the firm in a barn behind the current location in 1920.

Jack recalls that in those days they used to spread all the furniture in the adjacent open field on good days. The new immigrants would come by to buy furniture. In those days you could get a good buy for $2 or $3.

In 1928 Max moved to the building across from Kincaide Furniture. Although they faced each other for decades, the competition was friendly. This ended last October when a fire burned down the Kincaide building.

Sumner Cohen, Kincaide's owner for more than five decades, brookline from his home in Brookline to attend the party and wish Jack and Ruth well.

Cohen described London

as a friendly competitor and said he was one of his closest friends. "We shared being in the same business and shared many good times on Hancock St.," he said.

Another business neighbor was Bernie Riesberg of Bernie's Formal Shop who described Jack and Ruth London as fantastic people and said Hancock St. will miss them.

In a toast to his parents, Steve London kidded that he and his brothers and sisters had fond memories of the store mostly because we really didn't have to work there.

Brother Howie noted that his father had never encouraged any of his children to go into the family business.

"What I remember most is him going to work every morning and coming home late every night. He never missed a beat."

Firefighters Local To Install New Officers

The Quincy Firefighters Local 792 will hold an installation of officers on Saturday, Jan. 17, at the Bryan VFW Post, 24 Broad St., Quincy.

New president is Michael C. Connors of Engine 2 in North Quincy.

Other officers to be sworn in are: Vice President John Menz; Secretary John Goddard; Treasurer James McCarthy.

A social hour from 7 to 8 p.m. will precede the installation.

Advanced Lifesaving Course Starts Jan. 21

Recreation Director Barry J. Welch announces the Quincy Recreation Department will conduct registration at the Lincoln Hancock Community School Pool for an American Red Cross Advanced Lifesaving Course.

The course is open to those at least 15 years of age and who are capable of passing a prerequisite swim test. Registration can be made in person at the Lincoln Hancock Pool from 5:30 p.m. 9 p.m. weeknights beginning immediately.

The course will be held Wednesday and Friday evenings beginning Wednesday, Jan. 21 at 7 p.m.

Cost is $10 for Quincy residents and $20 for non-residents.

Additional information can be obtained by calling the Quincy Recreation Office at 773-1380, ext. 204.

Central Middle In Tribute To King

Central Middle School will observe Martin Luther King's birthday with an assembly entitled "Fighters for Freedom," today (Thursday).

Students, who will present the men and women who have made outstanding contributions both in the past, and today, are:

Michael Giese has selected "Martin Luther King, a Man of Peace;" Rebecca Siteman has chosen "Abraham Lincoln, the Great Emancipator;" Timothy Johnson will present "John Fitzgerald Kennedy; the Fighter for Human Rights;" Stephanie Olsen has selected "Corazon Aquino, Woman of the Year." Paul McCloskey, who will serve as master of ceremonies, will present "Bishop Tutu, Nobel Peace Prize Winning Bishop."

The Central Morning Chorus is scheduled to sing "Abraham, Martin and John," "That's What Friends Are For," and "What the World Needs Now," which will be coupled with appropriate slides to complete the building on concepts of peace, friendship and compassion. Marion Clancy will direct the chorus.

School band, under the direction of Bernard Goldstein, will play for opening of the program with the flag and the national anthem. During the program the band will also play "Stars and Stripes" and "The Thunderer." The program will end with slides and "America, the Beautiful."

Program is coordinated by Mary Catherine Iannoni, head counselor.

Workshop At QJC For Women Planning To Work

Women who are thinking about going to work can attend a free workshop on

"Building Confidence And Getting Started - How To Make The Move From Home

To Work" at Quincy Junior College, Room 304 Monday, Jan. 26 at 1 p.m.

The workshop is sponsored by the Bay State Centers program which offers job counseling as well as help with finding education and training opportunities for women who are approximately 30 or over and are separated, divorced, widowed, married to a disabled spouse or receiving public assistance.

By BOB BOSWORTH
The Quincy Civil Defense Agency was one of five CD and nine fire departments that aided at Monday's spectacular general alarm fire which destroyed an eight-building complex in Fall River.

Anthony Siciliano, Deputy Director of Quincy Civil Defense, said Quincy equipment and personnel arrived in Fall River at 4:45 p.m. Monday and worked through the night until 3 a.m. Tuesday.

CD units from Quincy, Fall River, Fairhaven, Brockton and New Bedford responded with emergency power and lighting units.

Intense heat knocked out power lines and transformers, cutting off power as far as Westport.

Quincy personnel at the fire included Rescue Chief Jordan Cohen, Auxiliary Firefighter Robert Groleau, Lt. Robert Peters, Communications Officer William Dunn Jr. and Siciliano.

The fire forced the evacuation of about 700 residents within a mile radius. No injuries were reported.

Fire and city officials estimate damage at more than $20 million to the complex on Martine St. that included three large, six-story manufacturing plants formerly owned by the American Thread Co. Authorities said 650 garment workers lost jobs due to the fire.

Fire departments from New Bedford, Dartmouth, Westport, Freetown, Somerset, Swansea, Taunton, Raynham and Riverton, R.I. responded after a first alarm was sounded at 7:15 a.m.

"The Kerr Mill Complex Fire is a good example of how Civil Defense personnel work with local government Public Safety agencies and apply the concept of Emergency Management planning," Siciliano said.

Periodic explosions believed caused by propane gas stored in one of the structures sent flames as high as 300 feet into the sky. The intense heat burned fire hoses, caused granite curbstones to explode and macadam streets to turn to liquid tar.

Gov. Michael Dukakis met with Fall River Mayor Carlton Viveiros Monday and pledged state assistance, including any legislation that might be needed to aid the city.

Before 9 a.m., Fall River officials ordered the evacuation of homes within a one-mile radius of the fire and closed nearby highways, including Interstate 95, and Routes 6 and 24, when informed toxic chemicals were stored in one of the building's basements.

By about 4:30 p.m., officials ordered the reopening of highways and residents were allowed to return to their homes with the exception of those homes nearest to the fire scene.

Officials said most evacuees found shelter with family or friends and only about 12 families needed temporary quarters in two of the city's high-rise apartment buildings.

Authorities do not believe the fire was suspicious. Fall River has a history of fires in the old and often abandoned mill buildings.

Ricciardi Co. Donates $100,000 To Quincy Hospital

Quincy City Hospital's fund-raising drive has received a $100,000 pledge from the Ricciardi Company, a Quincy based development and construction firm.

Stephen C. Ricciardi, treasurer of the company, presented the pledge to John W. Kane, general chairman of the hospital's capital campaign.

"Our company believes in and supports the excellent work which Quincy City Hospital does," explained Ricciardi.

"My mother's four children were born here and our four grandparents spent their last days here."

"This hospital is important to our family, employees, friends and neighbors and the quality of life for all city residents and surrounding South Shore communities. 'Imagine what it would be like not to have it here,' he said.

Ricciardi noted that he and his brother, Paul, would dedicate the gift in honor of their parents, Paul and Rose Ricciardi.

Kane accepted the gift and said, "The hospital campaign is doing very well."

"Prior to the Ricciardi Company gift, we had raised $500,000 towards a $1,600,000 goal from the hospital employees, medical staff, auxiliary and board of managers. The support we're receiving has been gratifying and overwhelming."

"We're on our way to a successful campaign," added Kane. "The monies raised through voluntary contributions will go for the hospital's $60.2 million construction and modernization project."

"When completed, the new buildings will house 25 hospital departments in the most modern and up to date setting for a hospital today and will ensure quality health care to the people of Quincy and its neighboring communities."

7 Injured In School Bus Accident

An 11-year-old Germantown boy was discharged from Quincy City Hospital Sunday after being injured in a school bus accident in Wollaston last week.

Charles Seppala of 26 Taffrail Road was released after undergoing surgery on his jaw following the accident Friday morning at the intersection of Elm Ave. and Willow St.

Patricia A. Maher, 30, of 99

Taffrail Rd., Germantown, was transporting students to the Jenkins School of Scituate when the school bus station wagon was struck by a car driven by Trent A. Ervin, 20, of Dorchester, police said.

The station wagon is owned by Park Transportation.

Maher was cited for operating after suspension of license, according to police.

Ervin, of 44 Stanton St., was cited for operating so as to endanger and failing to stop for a stop sign.

Treated at the hospital and released were Maher, her daughters Holly, 3 months, and Jill, 3; and students James Bryan, III, 13, 59 Saratoga St.; Steven Pagnani, 10, 95

Taffrail Rd.; and Mary Guarnatta, 17, 288 Beach St., Wollaston, according to police.

Zoning Task Force Report At Four Library Locations

Copies of the Zoning Review Task Force report are available at four locations of the Thomas Crane Public Library, according to councillor Thomas J. Nutley, task force chairman.

The locations are the central library at 40 Washington St., Quincy Center; and branches at 519 Sea St., Adams Shore; 381 Hancock St., North Quincy; and 41 Beale St., Wollaston.

Nutley noted that public hearings will be held to allow further input by interested parties before any of the recommendations are voted on by the City Council.

How Much Does LaRaia Need?

There will be some head counting and quick arithmetic done by political observers at the coming fundraiser for Councillor Joseph LaRaia.

The $50 per person event Jan. 19 at Quincy Bay Inn's Grill 29 is considered vital to LaRaia's plans to run for mayor.

He needs big bucks most observers agree, to wage an effective campaign to unseat incumbent Francis McCauley.

Some think LaRaia needs $100,000. Others figure $150,000 is more like it.

LaRaia

LaRaia has approximately $8,000 in the cigar box while McCauley has an estimated $40,000 to start things off with.

McCauley, who is considered by some as unbeatable this year probably will have an easier time raising more money to finance his fourth-term re-election bid. Incumbents usually have the edge in getting donors to reach deep into their pockets.

But when it comes to raising money, LaRaia has done it before and obviously believes he can do it again.

How much is the big question.

If he gets a good turnout at his first 1987 election year fundraiser, it will be a good start. It he draws a small crowd, he may find it real difficult to come up with enough money to effectively challenge McCauley.

There's no doubt that among those turning out for the LaRaia affair will be McCauley emissaries carrying pocket calculators.

CITY COUNCIL President Steve McGrath wants to someday sit in the mayor's chair but not when incumbent Frank McCauley is merely out of town.

McGrath was acting mayor while McCauley and his wife, Sandra, spent the past few days in St.
Thomas.

On a visit to City Hall in connection with Monday's City Council meeting, McGrath popped into the mayor's office to say hello and see what was doing.

Someone asked if he wanted to try out the mayor's chair.

"Oh, no," he laughed and declined to go anywhere near it.

But he would be interested in trying it out say maybe in 1989.

Readers Forum Airport Bus Shuttle Great But--

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

The best thing to arrive on the South Shore is the airport shuttle that operates out of Quincy Adams T station. No more hassle to get to and from the airport. Just sit back and relax. For $4 you can catch a bus to or from the airport. It leaves every half hour on the hour and half hour. But don't get too comfortable.

I had occasion to use the shuttle last month to go to the airport to meet a friend. When I arrived at Quincy Adams
I wondered what I thought was the entrance to the garage, lo and behold it was blocked with horses and no instructions as to what to do. I inquired of the ticket office and was told I'd have to go out of the station and make a loop at Cushing Circle and come back and enter where it said
Garage on the upper level.

As I drove out of the station in my search I looked longingly at all of the empty spaces just over the sidewalk.

After a half hour I managed to find my way into the open air parking lot for $1.50 just in time to catch the shuttle bus by the tail pipe.

As we drove out of the station past the empty area marked "Drop Off Only-Trespassers Will Be Towed" I wondered what diabolical monster dreamed up this frustration to all who would park. Why couldn't some of those spaces be allocated to people just going to and from the airport to pick people up?
It would be so convenient and would enhance the ride to the airport? At the very least if there was a map or instructions as to how to enter that maze of a parking place--

FR. WILLIAM MCCARTHY, pastor of St. John's Church, quietly celebrated the 35th anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood at the regular 4 o'clock Mass Saturday.

Fr. McCarthy, a community leader in helping the hungry and homeless, was given a standing ovation by parishioners attending.

He said the best gift he ever received was on his 25th anniversary when he was appointed pastor of St.
John's.

A nice gift for Quincy, too.

Fr. McCarthy

IT STARTED WITH a photo in the Dec. 18 issue of
The Sun showing Mayor Francis McCauley, Ward 2
Councillor Ted DeCristofaro and Quincy High School
Coach John Franceschini at the commonly known Elm St. Playground. The basketball courts had been refurbished at DeCristofaro's request and with an appropriation sought by McCauley.

Mrs. Marjorie Flynn DeCoste of Lorton St. saw the photo and wrote to The Sun wondering why the area is still referred to as the Elm St.
DeCristofaro Playground.

"This playground," she said, "was dedicated to the loving memory of my father, William H. Flynn, a former well known and loved councillor from Ward 2 back in the 1920's."

"I fail to see why it is not referred to as the William H.
Flynn playground as others throughout the city as O'Rourke in West Quincy, Kincaide Park in South
Quincy, LaBrecque Field in Houghs Neck, etc."

Her letter was called to the attention of DeCristofaro by The Sun and he took it from there.

On Jan. 20 he will introduce the following City Council order:

"Be it resolved that the City of Quincy Park and Recreation Board be notified that all future reference to the playground at the corner of Elm and South Streets in Quincy Point be referred to by its official name, William H. Flynn Playground, so-named in memory of William H. Flynn who served as Ward 2 Councillor 1921-1924."

Democracy at work

SPEAKING OF DeCristofaro, he made a presentation from the City Council to Don Gohl when the latter was honored last week with the James R.
McIntyre Good Scout Award for his work in behalf of Camp Massasoit and the Boy Scouts.

Gohl, a vice president at Quincy Cooperative Bank and one of Quincy banking's most popular figures, kiddingly told DeCristofaro, a long-time friend, "Put on your glasses" as he prepared to read the citation.

"We're not going to talk about age," DeCristofaro kidded back.

After the presentation, Gohl noted: "Ted and I go back a long way. My wife Helen's and Ted's Quincy High School class just celebrated it's 45th anniversary.
We had a great time."

Okay, Ted. Let's see, that makes you ...

The City License Board took the following actions at Tuesday's meeting at City Hall.

• Withdrew without

Ward 2 Councillor Ted DeCristofaro opposed the petition on the grounds the the "History of Houghs Neck." They are considered Houghs Neck's historians.

Mrs. Wainwright and her husband, Richard, received the Community Service Award from the Houghs Neck Council in 1968.

She has served on the Council's Scholarship Fund since 1965 and has been secretary since 1974. She was a member of the Houghs Neck 350th anniversary committee.

She is a past president of the Atherton Hough PTA, a charter member of the Broad Meadows PTA and a delegate to the Quincy Parent Teacher Council.

Her volunteer work at Quincy Hospital began in 1971 and has surpassed 3,500 hours.

She is secretary of the Quincy Historic Commission, secretary of the Manet Over Sixty Services (MOSS) and a member of the Quincy Historical Society. She was formerly a den mother of Cub Scout Pack 6.

A native of Stamford, Conn., she has lived in Houghs Neck since September, 1949.

She and her husband, Richard, who is active in the Houghs Neck Legion Post, have been married since Sept. 28, 1940.

They are the parents of seven children: Richard, Jr., Holly, David, Laurel, Jonathan, Paul and Stephen and have 10 grandchildren, six boys and four girls.

"This is truly a community award," Bosworth said. "The community has complete input in the choice. Sun readers have the opportunity to nominate and the panel, representing a cross section of the community, selects from those nominations."

"I wish to thank our readers and the panel for their interest and participation. Without them this would not be a community award."

42 Other Nominees

There were 42 other nominees for The Quincy Sun "Citizen Of The Year Award" for 1986.

They are, in alphabetical order and with comment excerpts from their nominations:

• LILLIAN AUSTIN for "the generous time she has given to her community."

• MARY KAY BAMBORD, Secretary Quincy Council on Aging, for "her life long commitment to making life easier for others, that special person who is there for her family, church and community... especially active in senior activities."

• MICHAEL BARRY, late Police Sergeant, for "being the perfect example of what a policeman should be...and a person who gave of himself always whether to help a young person who was in trouble or one of the many neighbors and friends who needed his help."

• JOSEPH E. BRETT, former City Councillor and State Representative and "a good citizen of Quincy."

• ROBERT E. BROWN, conductor Quincy Symphony Orchestra who "as a musician, conductor, choir director and educator is involved with people of all ages. He has worked untiringly to develop the Quincy Symphony Orchestra thus adding to the cultural life of Quincy—giving us another source of pride and certainly contributing to the enjoyment of its citizens."

• BRIAN BUCKLEY, coordinator Quincy Council on Aging and the Quincy Youth Commission, for being "so devoted to his work with youth and the elderly...an excellent basketball coach and an all around wonderful person."

• PETER J. CHIMINIELLO, Chick St., who "at the age of 73 still keeps busy, cooking for his family, gardening his tomatoes...who was an outstanding bowler with his seven brothers."

• MARY COLLINS, Charles St., "her whole life has been to help other people...She takes people to shop and to doctors every day."

• JOHN (JAKE) COMER, past state commander American Legion "who as the designated new National Commander of the American Legion is bringing national recognition and honor to Quincy...and as...Executive Director of the Quincy Housing Authority treats those in our public housing facilities with fairness and respect."

• M. ALICIA COREA, associate pastor Houghs Neck Congregational Church for being "kind, thoughtful and helpful not only to the people of her church but to the community...she goes out of her way to help the elderly and is great with the youth of the community. A credit to the City of Quincy."

• EUGENE W. CREDON, principal Broadmeadows Middle School for being "a very caring human being who cares deeply about his school and all his students. He knows every student in his school by name. He takes the time with students and parents. He's never too busy to listen."

• MARY F. CURTIN, teacher Atherton Hough School, "a treasured friend to all who call on her at any time for help and understanding...a terrific lady."

• TED DeCRISTOFARO, Ward 2 City Councillor for "being the moving force in Quincy Point and Ward 2 for the last 20 years...an outstanding citizen and a credit to the city...he is so giving of himself and always ready to help when needed."

• STEVEN DURKIN, Vice Chairman Quincy School Committee for "his concern for the school children of this city. He has gone out of his way to address the parental concerns in opening Wollaston School and his work with safety and special needs children."

• FRANCIS FINN, Police Chief, among other reasons, for "his many years as Police Chief, has faithfully served Quincy with high principles, integrity and professional ability...an honest cop."

• JOHN GILLIS, City Clerk, "a man who must have no enemies. Everybody considers him a true friend. Have never seen him grouchy except, maybe, when he is out of cigars."

• ROBERT HANNA, Crime Prevention Officer, Quincy Police Department "for his great work stopping crime in the City of Quincy."

• MORRIE P. HIBBARD, principal Snug Harbor School who "daily provides a leadership and support to the children, faculty, parents and neighborhood which inspires all of us...His style of leadership is a quiet sort which encourages other people to involve themselves in the education of our young people and which gives generously to any and all activities of the Germantown community."

• FRANK KEARNS, member Silver Haired Legislature who is "an activist for the elderly, homeless and poor...his days are devoted to help the elderly and handicapped."

• LEO J. KELLY, former Ward One City Councillor and local director Boy Scouts, who "has worked for years to clean the harbor and acquire open space. He serves on the Community Action Agency which lobbies for social programs...Through his life-long efforts he has shown his love for Quincy and his concern for his fellow man...as a person no longer in politics he continues to volunteer many hours..."

• RICHARD and SIMMY KOCH, for "their outstanding community service for over 35 years."

• BELLA KROVITZ, for more than a half century of public service in numerous community action organizations and as a pioneer in the

Wollaston Girl Receives Card From Roosevelt

1939

Six years before, Leona may have saved FDR's life when she spotted a gun in the hand of an assassin in Miami, Fla., and screamed a warning. The President escaped injury but Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago was fatally wounded.

BURGIN WARNS ABOUT DRINKING

Mayor Thomas S. Burgin warned members of the Quincy Police and Fire Departments that it would cost them a nine-month suspension if they were found to be drunk on duty. A second offense would bring dismissal.

"Due to the fact that we have had some cases of intoxication recently in these departments, I decided it was time to take a definite and firm stand on this matter," said the Mayor.

"I specified 'on duty' in my warning but of course a policeman or fireman is technically never off duty under the law."

The Mayor's warning was read to the firemen and policemen at roll call by Police Chief John J. Avery and Fire Chief William J. Sands.

SCHMITZ REELECTED

Walter A. Schmitz was reelected president of the Quincy Chamber of Commerce for the coming year.

PERILS OF MAXIE

Max Baer, the former world heavyweight boxing champion, refereed the battle royal among wrestlers Teddy Germaine, Chief War Eagle, Wild Bill Dolan and Quincy's Al Taylor at Quincy Arena and wound up the only casualty.

Germaine, who billed himself as the roughest wrestler in the world, tossed Maxie out of the ring early in the bout and the former champ suffered a split lip.

QUINCY-ISMS

Child star Bobby Breen was the big attraction in the film "Hawaii Calls" at the State Theater (orchestra, 15 cents, balcony, 10-cents) and hardly anyone talked about the second feature: "Accidents Will Happen" with May Maguire and Ronald Reagan... City Hospital trustees disclosed plans to buy the property of ex-mayor Russell Sears on Glendale Rd. for $17,000... State Rep. Joseph L. Whiton (R-Quincy) introduced a bill in the State House to cut the work week of Quincy firemen from 84 to 72 hours... The Anchor-In at 751 Wollaston Blvd. advertised the special chicken dinner for 50 cents and boiled, broiled or baked lobster for 75 cents... John Nestor presided over the first meeting of the new Irish American Club of Quincy at the Newbury Ave. Community Building in Atlantic... The Granite Market at 1568 Hancock St. ("The Clean Little Red Market") opposite the Quincy Theater had steak at two pounds for 50 cents... City Councillor William W. Jenness was named chairman of a special committee to study sewage conditions in Quincy Bay. Also on the committee: Councillors Myron N. Lane and Frank N. Orcutt... James Connor was installed as the new president of the Plumbers and Steamfitters Union Local 275 at ceremonies in Eagles Hall... The 103rd meeting of stockholders of the Granite Trust Co. elected J. Brooks Keys and Paul C. Reardon to the board of directors... Miss Dorothy Urquhart was elected president of the Philathea Club of Atlantic Memorial Church... The Quincy High School basketball team, with Fred DiSantis in a starring role, moved on toward a Tech Tournament berth with victories over Milton, 41-21, and Chelsea, 38-21... North Quincy showed promise, too, after beating Melrose, 40-13, and Attleboro, 28-26, on tom Underwood's overtime basket... Fred Geistel's Orchestra and baritone Jimmy Love were featured at Walsh's Cafe, 79 Bilings Rd., near the Norfolk Downs railroad station... The new enclosed baseball field at Merrymount Park was named for Quincy's favorite son, Charles Francis Adams... City Council President John W. Savage took over as temporary mayor while Mayor Burgin vacationed in Florida... Fire destroyed Jen's Cofee Shop at the corner of Hancock and Carruthers Sts. and damaged John Randazzo's fruit store next store.

Raviolis Not That Difficult To Make

Right after New Year's Day, our daughter Suzie arrived from Germany during that Friday Northeast with her five month old daughter. For her homecoming dinner, I decided to repeat what we had for Christmas dinner and make homemade raviolis. I had made the sauce earlier so I could concentrate on the pasta. They are not all that difficult to make (especially if you have a husband like I do who helps roll out the dough.)

Figure on using about 1 egg per person when mixing egg and flour which are the only two ingredients used. And even if you don't own a macaroni machine, they can still be made. The following recipe feeds eight.

HOMEMADE RAVIOLI

2-3 Cups of flour to start, and then add as you go along.

In a large bowl, beat the eggs. Start adding flour and beat until the eggs have absorbed and can be handled with your hands. Remove the dough from the bowl and put on a floured surface. Knead the dough until smooth and silky (not sticky). If you have a machine, cut a piece of the dough as big as a slice of bread and put on number 8, then five, then two. Put a teaspoon of filling on top of dough and turn as a turnover. Cut it with a ravioli cutter (you can purchase this in any department store). The cutter seals the edges. Put ravioli on a floured piece of wax paper in single layers. Cook in boiling, salted water (add a tbsp. of oil to prevent sticking). Cook until tender (taste one, you'll love it) Serve with tomato sauce and grated cheese.

RAVIOLI FILLING

1 Lb. ricotta
1 egg
1 1/2 tsp. of fresh finely cut parsley
2 tbsps of seasoned bread crumbs
2 tbsps of grated cheese
2 tbsps of shredded mozzarella cheese
Mix all together until blended. Fill each ravioli with about a teaspoon of the filling. With the pieces of dough left from the various cutting, knead again and then roll out, fold, and then cut into noodles (any size you desire). You can use the noodles in soup, or with a little leftover sauce. Also, if you don't have a machine, just roll the pieces out with a rolling pin until thin enough to fill. Good luck!

Dr. A. Albert Yurkstas Honored On 65th Birthday

DR. A. ALBERT YURKSTAS and his wife, Lee, at the doctors' 65th birthday party.

More than 150 relatives and friends recently gathered at the Neighborhood Club of Quincy to celebrate the 65th birthday of Dr. A. Albert Yurkstas of Quincy.

Dr. Yurkstas is professor and chairman of the department of complete denture prosthetics at Tufts University School of Dental Medicine.

The surprise party for Yurkstas was arranged by his daughters, Laurajean, Tufts Class of 1976, and Joanne, Tufts Class of 1982, and his wife, Lee.

Barbara Elliott of Cohasset was hostess for a "roast" that included recounting anecdotes of Yurkstas' career and the presentation of many gifts. Dr. Erling Johansen, head of Tufts' dental school, offered congratulations of behalf of the school. Johansen and Yurkstas were classmates and roommates while they attended Tufts' dental school in the 1940s.

Yurkstas began teaching there in 1948. By 1960 he had become professor and chairman of complete denture prosthetics.

He was a pilot during World War II and was held by Germany as a prisoner of war. He is a recipient of the Purple Heart.

Dr. Yurkstas has served as president of the Academy of Denture Prosthodontics, Northeast Prosthodontic Society and the American Academy of Dental Science.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Success is knowing how to evaluate your accomplishments. It is not measured by what we are or what we have done, but rather by what we are and have done compared to what we could have been and could have done. A person's attitude toward himself has a profound influence on his attitudes toward his family, his friends, his future, and many other important areas of his life. Although there have been many 'secrets' of success presented and defended, the real secret is very simple. It is interest.

If you are interested enough in something, you cannot help in most instances to succeed. But if you are disinterested or apathetic, you can't win. This goes for everything, from your job to the hobby you take up to beguile you. The secret of success lies in doing well what you can do, and forgetting about the rest. . . . Your comments on this and other subjects are always welcome. . . .

H. Maurice Hughes, 75 Retired Bank Executive

A funeral service for H. Maurice Hughes, 75, corporate clerk of Quincy City Hospital, and a retired senior vice president and trustee of Quincy Savings Bank, was held Jan. 10 in Bethany Congregational Church.

Mr. Hughes died Jan. 7 in Quincy City Hospital after a brief illness.

Mr. Hughes began his 47-year career in banking with a summer job as a teller in July, 1929. He was named assistant treasurer in 1949, a member of the corporation in 1951, vice treasurer in 1966, vice president in 1970 and senior vice president and trustee in 1972.

He retired in 1976.

He was a graduate of Quincy High School.

Mr. Hughes was an Army captain in the Signal Corps, serving in Europe during World War II.

He was active in the Quincy Neighborhood Club of Quincy and was an honorary member of the Quincy Lodge of Elks. He was a member of Cyril P. Morrisette Legion Post.

H. MAURICE HUGHES

He is survived by a brother, Ellis L. Hughes of Quincy; three nephews, three nieces and a friend, Adrienne Welsh of North Quincy.

Burial was in Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

Funeral arrangements were by the Sweeney Brothers Home For Funerals, 1 Independence Ave., Quincy.

Mary Lacerenzo, 90

A funeral Mass for Mary (Guidici) Lacerenzo, 90, of Quincy, who worked for Quincy public schools for 20 years, was celebrated Wednesday in St. John's Church.

Mrs. Lacerenzo died Jan. 11 at Quincy City Hospital after a brief illness.

She retired 20 years ago.

Born and educated in Barre, Vt., she lived in Quincy most of her life.

Wife of the late Michael Lacerenzo, she is survived by two sons, John J. Lacerenzo and Norman N. Lacerenzo, both of Quincy; four daughters, Cecilia Gernor, Mary Boyne and Violet Aniolowski, all of Quincy, and Julia Hart of Weymouth; two sisters, Emma O'Connell and Josephine Polli, both of Quincy; 14 grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren. She was also mother of the late Paul P. Lacerenzo.

Burial was in Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

Arrangements were by the Sweeney Brothers Home For Funerals, 1 Independence Ave., Quincy.

Lawrence S. Butler, 71 Former Election Officer, Taxations Examiner

A funeral Mass for Lawrence S. Butler, 71, of Quincy, retired senior municipal examiner for the Department of Corporations and Taxations for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and a former election officer for the City of Quincy, was celebrated Monday in Our Lady of Good Counsel Church, Merrymount.

Mr. Butler died Jan. 8 in Quincy after a long illness.

A well-known figure in Quincy politics, he was particularly well-known for his outspoken views and strong advocacy of veteran's benefits.

Mr. Butler had served as election officer for the city until his illness one year ago. He had assisted in election tabulation for 30 years.

Mr. Butler retired from the position of senior municipal examiner for the Department of Corporations and Taxations in 1982 after 35 years of service.

He was past commander of the Veterans Council of the City of Quincy, and a past member and former chairman of the Board of Commissions of the Quincy Housing Authority.

He was co-chairman of the Parade Committee for Quincy for many years, helping to run the Christmas Parades, the Memorial Day Parades, and the Veteran's Day Parades.

Mr. Butler's interest in politics dates back to when he ran for the Everett City Council when he was 20 years old. He won that election and became the youngest elected official in the country at that time. He was sworn into office shortly after his 21st birthday.

He stayed active in politics after he moved from Everett to Quincy after his marriage.

LAWRENCE S. BUTLER

He served as an usher at Our Lady of Good Counsel Church in Merrymount for 30 years. He was past president of the Holy Name Society of the church.

Mr. Butler was a member of many local civic organizations, including the Cyril P. Morrisette Post 294 of Quincy.

He was a Navy veteran of World War II.

A native of Everett, he had lived in Quincy 44 years.

He is survived by his wife, Margaret M. (Daly) Butler, a son, Lawrence S. Butler Jr. of Quincy, director of admissions at Quincy City Hospital, four daughters, Mary Ann Lencki, Judith P. Kolson, Margaret Hanna and Kathleen Butler, all of Quincy; two brothers, James Butler of Everett, and John Butler of Melrose, a sister, Helen Doyle of Melrose, and 11 grandchildren. He was the brother of the late Margaret Keefe of Medford.

Burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery, West Quincy.

Arrangements were by the Joseph Sweeney Funeral Home, 74 Elm St., Quincy.

Memorial donations can be made to Our Lady of Good Counsel Church, 227 Sea St., Quincy.

Helen R. Lewis

A funeral service for Helen R. (Thompson) Lewis of Wollaston, a retired teacher at Weymouth High School, was conducted Jan. 10 in First Baptist Church in Braintree by the Rev. Kenneth Raynor.

Mrs. Lewis died Jan. 7 at home.

She taught commercial subjects at the school.

Mrs. Lewis and her late husband, Sheldon W. Lewis, owned a paper store in Wollaston for over 30 years.

Born in Laconia, N.H., she had moved to Wollaston more than 50 years ago.

She was a graduate of Bay Path Institute.

She was a member of the Senior Citizen Center at 1000 Southern Artery. She was also an accomplished pianist and artist, and had given piano lessons.

She is survived by a daughter, Claire A. Currier of Braintree; a sister, Dorothy Thompson of Laconia; two granddaughters, Nancy I. Currier of Hanson and Susan R. Blake of Braintree; a great-grandson, Stephen C. Blake of Braintree; a nephew, Paul B. Thompson of Pembroke; and a niece, Priscilla Samaha of Meredith, N.H.

Burial was in Union Cemetery in Laconia.

Arrangements were by the Mortimer N. Peck Funeral Home, Braintree.

Beware Of Unscrupulous Contractor

This past week, I received several calls about a chimney and roofing contractor that has been taking advantage of senior citizens in Quincy.

This particular chimney and roofing company has been charging outrageous prices and, in some cases, the quality of work has been very poor. The company has advertised in a local paper, but uses a private post office box for an address and an answering service for a phone number.

One of the senior citizens thought that he was having two chimneys rebuilt. Instead, only the tops of the chimneys were rebuilt. He paid $800 for the job and it took the contractor only two hours to complete. To add insult to injury, while this contractor was repairing the chimneys, he drove staging nails through the shingles on the roof and caused a leak.

Although most contractors are honest and above board, there are some rules that you should follow so that no one will take advantage of you:

- Get several estimates. Most contractors offer free estimates.
- Ask the contractor for references of work that he has completed. Take the time to check these references. Find out if the contractors work was acceptable.
- Make sure that you read the contract thoroughly before signing it.
- Don't give the contractor all of the money until the job is done and you are satisfied with it.
- If you are not satisfied with the work that was done you can call:

Attorney General's Office, Consumer Affairs, at 727-8400.

City of Quincy Consumer Assistance Office at 773-1380.

When you call these numbers, you will register your complaint. Most of the above will send you forms to fill out. Fill out those forms and return them. You may be helping someone else from becoming a victim of an unscrupulous firm.

Ward 1 Democrats To Caucus

Registered Democrats in Ward 1 will hold a caucus Feb. 7, at 2 p.m., in the Houghs Neck Community Center to elect delegates to the 1987 state Democratic convention.

State Rep. Thomas Brownell will call the caucus to order.

The only persons eligible to participate are those who were registered Democrats in the ward as of Dec. 31, 1986. There will be no absentee or proxy voting.

Candidates for delegate and alternate must be present. Each candidate will be allowed to make a two minute speech and distribute on his or her behalf one sheet of paper listing qualifications and ideas.

All ballots will be written and secret.

Challenges to the delegate selection process can be filed in writing to the Massachusetts Democratic State Committee, 11 Beacon St., Suite 426, Boston.

'A Voice Crying In Wilderness' Sermon Topic At Bethany

There will be two worship services Sunday at Bethany Congregational Church, Coddington and Spear Sts., Quincy Center, at 9 a.m. in the chapel and at 10 a.m. in the sanctuary.

The Rev. Joel F. Huntington, associate minister, will preach at both hours on the topic, "A Voice Crying In The Wilderness," based on Psalm 40:1-4 and the Gospel of John 1:19-28. The Rev. J. William Arnold, senior minister, will lead the liturgy at both hours.

The lay Scripture readers will be Barbi Jones—a member of the Confirmation Class—at the chapel service and Sylvia Hofsepan at the sanctuary service.

At the 10 a.m. service, the Chancel Choir, under the direction of Peter E. Krasinski, organist and choir director, will present "Ah! Dearest Jesu" by J.S. Bach as an anthem. They will also present "Lo! He Comes With Clouds Descending" an 18th century piece arranged by David Willcocks as the offertory anthem.

The worship service is broadcast live over WJDA, 1300 kc at 10 a.m. In addition a cassette tape of the service can be obtained for $2 by contacting the church office.

The Sunday School will be in session from 10 to 11 a.m.

with classes for children of pre-school through eighth grade. Nursery care for babies is also provided as well as a Toddler class for young children. Our Early Childhood Coordinator, Denise Fleming, will be present to supervise the care of infants through first graders.

At 11 a.m. there will be a fellowship hour in the Allen Parlor. Individuals and families from the community are welcome to share in the worship and the fellowship. You are also invited to enroll children in the Sunday School program.

For additional information about Bethany's ministries, contact the church office at 479-7300.

Squantum First Church Annual Meeting Friday

The annual meeting of the First Church of Squantum, 176 Bellevue Rd., Quincy, will be held Friday, Jan. 16 at 7 p.m. in Fellowship Hall.

A pot-luck dinner will be held at 6:15 p.m. Members planning to attend are asked to bring food and their own dishes and silverware. A beverage and dessert will be provided.

There will be a guitar service at 8:30 a.m. and traditional service at 10:30 a.m. this Sunday. Officers newly elected at the annual meeting will be installed at each service.

"Staying Right Where You Are" was the title of the sermon the Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, pastor, gave Sunday at both morning services.

His text was taken from I Corinthians. "But I will stay in Ephesus until Pentecost, for a wide door for effective work has opened to me..." (16:9a).

At the early service, guitarists Robert Dixey and Mary Ruth Scott accompanied the singing of the congregation Sarah Mildram and Susan Scott were the ushers. Barbara Edgar was responsible for the refreshments.

During the later service, Mary Ruth Scott led the choir in singing an arrangement of "Dona Nobis Pacem" by Hal Hopson. The hymns sung included "Praise to the Lord, the Almighty," "I love to Tell the Story," and "Christ for the World We Sing."

Greeters for the morning were Cynthia Stanton and Craig Zashring. Ushers were Tore Wallin and Stewart Scott. After the second service, the Fellowship Hour was hosted by Evelyn Ahearn and Hazel Mayne.

Kindergarten Program Registration At St. Joseph School

St. Joseph School in Quincy Point will hold registration for its new kindergarten program Wednesday, Feb. 4 from 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. in the school library.

Parents should bring baptismal certificates and all health immunization records when registering.

The program will begin in September. For more information call the school office at 773-8080.

Don Gohl Receives James McIntyre Good Scout Award

A Quincy bank executive and Life Scout was awarded the James R. McIntyre Good Scout Award at the recent annual holiday party to benefit Camp Massasoit.

The presentation to O. Donald Gohl, a vice-president at Quincy Cooperative Bank, was in recognition of his outstanding record of service to the community and scouting.

Gohl, who at age 11 always wanted to be a Boy Scout and started out as a mascot, accepted his award from Sheila McIntyre, widow of the late Quincy mayor and senator for whom the award is now named.

"I'm pleased that my late husband is remembered in this way," she said. "It is a prestigious award and Don is most deserving to receive it."

In accepting the award, Gohl told the audience at Granite Place that "scouting is so rewarding and so much fun when you're young. To go out and camp and see everything going on in nature. It's a wonderful experience."

Gohl recalled those early years when he was called upon to raise funds for the struggling Quincy Blue Granite Council. "All of us involved worked hard and eventually our goals began to succeed for a most wonderful cause," he said.

He added that "it makes me feel so good when I see young men joining the Boy Scouts and go through life with a purpose."

"I'm thrilled about receiving this award. I'll display it prominently so that when I look at it I'll be reminded of this wonderful evening and also that you thought enough of me to give me this award."

Leo Kelly, chairman of the Blue Granite District of Boy Scouts of America, and Harold Crowley, chairman of the Camp Massasoit Development Corporation, co-chaired the event.

Both Crowley and Kelly noted that Gohl entertains seniors at 1000 Southern Artery, Fenno House, Town Brook House, and other senior citizen homes as a singer and dancer. They said he is also a long-time active member and past president of the Quincy Rotary Club participating in their many service projects.

It was noted that the late Mayor McIntyre, who attended Camp Massasoit as a Boy Scout, initiated this service of Good Scout parties to help fund the continuing redevelopment of Camp Massasoit into one of the finest year-round camping facilities.

Generations of Quincy Boy Scouts attended Massasoit as a summer camp, but today as a year-round facility. Massasoit annually accommodates more campers than ever before in its 60 year history.

A lodge will be named in McIntyre's memory at Camp Massasoit.

Employees Pledge $128,327 To Hospital Building Project Fund

The employees of Quincy City Hospital have pledged $128,327 to the hospital's capital campaign. The campaign is to raise $1,600,000 in voluntary contributions from area individuals and corporations for the hospital's $60.2 million building project.

"I'm very pleased with the tremendous success of the employee campaign in providing support for the new buildings," announced John W. Kane, general chairman of the campaign.

"The construction and modernization program for Quincy City Hospital has been designed to provide for improved space and functional requirements in virtually all of the hospital's existing facilities.

"The major part of the program will involve the construction of a new six-story building to accommodate the major departments and services of the hospital," commented Kane.

Mark J. Mundy, hospital director, said he was very impressed with the early results to the capital campaign.

"First, we wanted to give an opportunity for the hospital family - the employees, medical staff, board of managers and auxiliary - to show their support of our building program.

With a previous lead gift of $100,000 from the auxiliary, and now with such a generous voluntary response from the employees, we are demonstrating to the public our own positive support of the project," said Mundy.

Co-chairmen of the employee fund-raising drive, Nick Cristiani and Geraldine Smith, R.N., commented, "We are very excited with the support given by our fellow employees. Our goal was $100,000 and we went more than 28% over the top - and we're still totalling the results.

The Medical Staff and the Board of Managers of the Hospital have just begun their solicitation efforts.

When the entire "family" at Quincy City Hospital has been asked to contribute, key civic and business leaders will serve as volunteers in soliciting the community's support of the hospital's major construction and renovation project.

Quincy Icemen Explode: 16 Goals

Quincy's hockey team, after losing its first four games, has been playing lately like Coach Bob Sylvia knew it was capable of.

The Presidents exploded for 16 goals in rolling over Peabody and Revere and they made an excellent showing last Saturday despite losing to Waltham, 3-2, in their Suburban League opener.

Quincy will meet North Quincy Saturday night at 7:50 at the Youth Arena and will play Brockton at Brockton's Asiaf Rink next Wednesday at 6 p.m.

scored to give Quincy a 2-0 lead over Waltham, but Waltham rallied and scored the game winner at 8:36 of the third period on John Bolio's goal.

Earlier in the week the Presidents had sailed over Revere, 8-1, outshooting the visitors by an unbelievable 67-9 margin. In their previous game the Presidents had defeated Peabody, 8-4.

Adam McGregor paced Quincy with a hat trick as the Presidents broke a 1-1 tie with three goals in the second period and added four in the final frame.

McGregor had scored four goals in the victory over Peabody.

Dan Hurley added two goals and Scola, Hank Miller and Joe Cotter had the others.

Chris LaForest, McGregor, Wayne Chambers, Kevin Provenzano, Scola, Shawn O'Neill, Rich Manupelli, Rick Ames, Tim Hall and Brian Taylor all had assists.

"We now have a little momentum going for us and we believe in ourselves a little bit," said Sylvia. "We are starting to score goals and that's something that hasn't happened in five or six years."

Sullivan To Be Inducted Into Mount Saint Mary's Sports Hall Of Fame

By TOM SULLIVAN

Former Quincy High football and baseball coach Bill Sullivan, 1936 graduate of Mount Saint Mary's College in Emmitsburg, Md., will be one of four alumni to be inducted into the Mount Sports Hall-of-Fame Jan. 31 during winter homecoming activities at the college.

Sullivan was one of Mount Saint Mary's outstanding athletes and was a four-year starter in football at both end and tackle and was a top pitcher in baseball.

He was an honorable mention All-Maryland selection in football as a senior and was named All-Maryland by the Baltimore Sun in baseball.

Bill's pitching career included wins over Western Maryland, Juniata, Gettysburg, John Hopkins, Delaware, St. John's and Loyola. He captained the baseball team his senior year and is remembered as one of the Mount's most gifted athletes of the 1930s.

Last year Sullivan went back to the college on the occasion of his graduating class's 50th anniversary.

Bill, who was inducted into the Quincy High Football Hall-of-Fame two years ago, attended Wilbraham Academy following graduation from Quincy High and attended Mount St. Mary's on a scholarship.

At Quincy Bill was an outstanding football and baseball player.

He was assistant coach in

football to the late Munroe MacLean from 1938 through 1951, except for three years during World War II when both were in the service.

He took over as head coach in 1952 and had a 6-2 record against North Quincy. He is the only coach to lead his team to more than three wins in a row in the long Quincy-North series, his teams winning five games in a row from 1954 through 1958.

He was succeeded by Jack Garrity in 1960.

Obstacles For North On Tourney Road

The North Quincy hockey team is finding the road to a fourth straight state tournament berth a hazardous one as last Saturday the Raiders lost to Brockton, 6-1, to drop their record to 3-6 (0-2 in the Suburban League).

North Quincy will face Quincy Saturday night at 7:50 at the Youth Arena and next Wednesday will host Newton North at 6:40 p.m. at the Youth Arena.

Jay Rodriguez gave North an early lead over Brockton with a goal at 6:01 of the opening period, but that was the extent of the Raiders' offense and the Boxers (7-1-1 overall and 1-0-1 in the league) came back to keep the pressure on North goalie Brian Mahoney, who kept the score from mounting with a number of outstanding saves.

Earlier in the week the Raiders lost to Brookline, 8-2, in their league opener, with Rodriguez and John Pacino scoring the only North goals. Mahoney was called upon to make several more excellent saves.

The Raiders trailed, 3-0, after a period and 5-1 after two and Brookline never looked back.

In its previous game, the last of seven non-league games, North Quincy had defeated Peabody, 10-6, with its biggest scoring output of the season.

Mark Zimmermann had a great night as he scored five goals and Matt Furtado had a hat trick and added three assists.

Rodriguez and Mike Bartkus had a goal and three assists each as the Raiders led, 3-1, after one period 6-1 going into the third.

Mark Simonelli had an excellent game on defense for the North Quincy team.

Dudek Quincy's First In Super Bowl

Quincy will probably be represented in the Super Bowl for the first time ever as North's Joe Dudek is expected to be on the sidelines helping Denver Broncos Coach Dan Reeves.

Dudek, signed by the Broncos last year as a free agent, is on injured reserve but is still a member of the team and has been a key figure in the Broncos' preparations for their playoff games.

Reeves has used Dudek to emulate the opposition's top running backs in scrimmages. He played the part of Kevin Mack of the Cleveland Browns last week.

Dudek was seen on television during the Broncos-Browns game standing with Reeves taking notes and it is expected he will play the same role in the Super Bowl XXI game with the Giants.

Dudek has recovered from his injury and is putting on weight and improving his speed and is expected to be in the thick of the fight for a spot on the Broncos next season.

Quincy Wrestlers Strong In Two Tournaments

The Quincy High "Men At Work" wrestling team placed a strong fifth in the Chelmsford High School Invitational Tournament and finished a close second—losing by two points—to Bristol High School in the Durfee Holiday Tournament.

Robert Cabezas, the team co-captain, led the team by winning the 134-pound weight class defeating Steve McClure from Chelmsford High School in the championship match, 3-2. This improved Cabezas' record to 12-0 for the season. The senior is a returning sectional champion and placed third in the state last year. Three other Quincy wrestlers placed third in the tournament. They were Czarek Nalaskowski at 107 pounds, Robert Lingoes at 121 pounds, and Peter DePolo at 140 pounds.

Quincy's record now stands at 4-4-1. The addition of a strong freshman class to the already seasoned sophomore, junior and senior wrestler, has gotten Quincy off to a better start, as compared to last year's disappointing season. Head coach Rich Schiarizzi is looking forward to a very strong second half of the season due to a line-up change for the team. Czarek Nalaskowski is now wrestling the once-vacant 107 pound slot in Quincy's already potent line up.

Quincy has been forfeiting the 100, 107 and 188 pound classes in previous meets and all its losses have been by five points or less. Quincy's starting line-up is as follows:

At 107 pounds is Czarek Nalaskowski, a freshman from Idaho, who has managed a .500 record even though he had been competing at 121 pounds. He is 3-1 at 107 pounds with three pins.

At 114 pounds is Al Souza, a freshman who worked out with Quincy as an eighth grader. He is off to an impressive 8-1 dual meet record, with the one loss coming out of his weight class.

At 121 pounds is Rob Lingoes, a first-year junior wrestler, who is off to a 3-2 start and an impressive third in the Chelmsford Invitational Tournament.

At 128 pounds is Jay Colleton, a 3-year senior who is off to a 5-3 dual meet record.

At 134 pounds is co-captain Robert Cabezas. Rob is looking forward to a possible state championship this year.

At 140 pounds is Peter DePolo, a 3-year senior wrestler who is out to a quick 7-3 start. Most of Peter's wins have been by fall.

At 147 pounds is Todd Kimmell, a sophomore second-year wrestler who is quietly developing into an excellent wrestler.

At 157 pounds is Dennis DeCoste, a senior who has cut down from 169 pounds, where he was 5-1. Dennis has also been producing big things for Quincy with his toughness and determination.

At 169 pounds is senior Norm Hassan, who is off to a 15-0 start. Norm has also been wrestling up a weight class and should improve at 169 pounds.

The heavyweight is senior Dave Savage who has really impressed everyone since this is his first year of wrestling. Dave is 4-1 and looks to improve with each and every meet.

Co-Captain Chris Mackey was hurt earlier this season and is undergoing arthroscopic knee surgery this week. It is questionable as to whether he will return to the starting lineup. He continues to help out with the team in practice and at the meets.

Quincy's next meet will be Saturday, Jan. 17 at 11 a.m. in the Vo-Tech gym against Needham and Stoughton.

Raiderettes Defeat Brockton, Lose To Newton North

The North Quincy girls' basketball team defeated Brockton, 48-45, but continued to have its troubles at Newton North and lost, 52-39, last week. The Raiderettes are 7-2 overall and 1-2 in the Suburban League.

The North girls are idle Friday and will play at Quincy next Tuesday at 5 p.m.

The Raiderettes have always had trouble at Newton North, the defending league and South Sectional champions, and the Tigers took a 12-10 lead after one quarter thanks to their offensive rebounding.

North's defense was outstanding in the second quarter but it could score only six points as Newton went off at halftime leading, 19-16.

Nancy Flukes hit a jump shot on North's first possession in the third quarter but, with the score 21-20, the Raiderettes missed six shots in a row, including four layups, and also turned the ball over four times until a Maureen Donovan baseline jumper brought North to within six points, Karrie Pistorino made a driving layup to keep North within six and Flukes cut the gap to four. Newton took a 32-26 lead into the final session.

North missed four foul shots in a row to start the final quarter. Pistorino hit on two to move the Raiderettes to within four again. However, Newton quickly pulled ahead by 10 as North missed many easy shots and free throws.

Flukes led North with 10 points. Donovan had eight. Tricia Koski and Anne McGuigan six each and Pistorino five.

North's depth was the key factor in the big win over Brockton as Coach Paul Bregoli again used 10 players while Brockton played only six.

The first quarter ended 8-8 and Brockton took a 20-16 halftime lead. Bregoli got good efforts from his bench. Lisa Milton, Rita Rooney and Patty Feeney.

Both teams scored well in the third quarter as North had a 20-16 tie to move into a 36-36 tie after three. McGuigan's two free throws with a second left tied the score.

North took a 44-37 lead in an exciting final quarter with three minutes left behind the scoring of McGuigan and Flukes. Marybeth Mahoney made two key plays, converting a steal into a layup and taking a foul court pass for another layup.

Donovan's 10-footer with 15 seconds left gave North a three-point cushion and helped clinch the win. Koski, who played a solid all-around game, collected two big rebounds in the last minute to help key the win. She had eight rebounds for the game.

Donovan led a balanced attack with 12 points. McGuigan had 10, Flukes 10 and four assists. She broke the school record for assists held by Jean Welby. Maloney and Mitton had six and five points respectively.

"Our Brockton win was a big one and this is the third time in a row we have beaten them in the last two years," said Bregoli. "All the kids contributed to the win, but I was especially pleased with the play of Maloney."

"I'm at a loss as to why we play so poorly at Newton every year. We were right in the game midway through the last quarter but we missed a bunch of easy shots. Their press did not bother us as we broke it quite easily. But we did not finish at the other end. If we had, we could have won by at least 10 points."

• Executive Hockey

Lenihan, Ryan Spark Sailmakers To Win

Ed Lenihan had a hat trick and John Ryan scored with 30 seconds left in the game to give DiMattia's Sailmakers a 4-3 victory over Grogan's Business Machines in Executive Hockey League action Monday night at the Youth Arena.

Chet Brunsrum, Jim Conso, Mike Owings and Bill Shea had assists. For Grogan's Paul Vanazio scored twice and Gary DeCoste once. DeCoste had two assists as did Lee Kearney.

Art Boyle scored twice and son Artie once to lead Beacon Sports over South Shore Bearing, 4-3. Pete DiBona had the other goal. Artie Boyle also had two assists.

Steve Dymont, Larry O'Connor and Chip Linscott scored for South Shore and O'Connor, Charlie Chambers, Linscott and Buddy Reardon had assists.

Dennis O'Connell, Paul O'Brien and Billy Hansen scored two goals apiece to spark Adams Sports to an 8-4 victory over Bob White's Lounge. Ed Grogan and Jibby Lewis, Fred Ahearn had four assists, O'Brien and Kevin Cobban two each and Bob O'Connell, Hansen, and Alan Gullickson one apiece.

Dave Mullen had two goals and Joe Flibbotte and Doug McLean one each for White's. Jack Valle had three assists and Flibbotte, Mullen, Kevin Lewis and Dave Casey one each.

First Ladies Edged By Brookline, 45-44

The Quincy girls' basketball team must be one of the hard luck teams in the area after dropping another one-point decision last Friday, losing to Brookline, 45-44, in overtime to drop its record to 3-5.

The First Ladies will host Cambridge Rindge and Latin Friday at 5 p.m. and will be home to North Quincy next Tuesday, also at 5.

The Quincy girls, who had lost a 31-30 squeaker to Arlington earlier and dropped a 53-50 decision to Weymouth South in the North Quincy Christmas Tournament, lost to Brookline when it failed to get off a shot in the final 28 seconds of overtime and Brookline's Melanie Reardon converted a three-point play for the victory.

Brookline actually won the game from the foul line as it was 13 for 20, while Quincy was only four for nine.

Patti Morrell scored 15 points and had 12 rebounds for Quincy, sister Gayle had 10 points, Susan Parry had six points and seven rebounds.

The First Ladies led, 14-10, after a quarter but missed three one-and-ones from the foul line in the second quarter to trail, 19-18, at the half. They took a 33-30 edge into the fourth quarter.

Earlier in the week, Quincy, which had lost its previous three games by a total of nine points, defeated Waltham, 45-34, in its Suburban League opener.

Gayle Morrell had 11 points and 16 rebounds, sister Patti had eight points and 10 rebounds, and Ann Scolaro had eight points.

Quincy trailed, 12-9, after a quarter but took a 22-20 halftime lead when Ginny Duggan hit from half court at the buzzer. The First Ladies had a 33-26 edge going into the fourth quarter.

Mite A's Win 3, Lose 1

Quincy's Mite A team, sponsored by DAV #79, improved its Greater Boston League record to 12-2-1 as it defeated South Boston, 7-3; Canton, 6-4; and Medfield, 2-1, but lost to Westwood, 3-2.

In the South Boston game Ronnie McGann scored twice and Paul Princiotto, Brendan O'Brien, Chris Grant, Tommy Moriarty and David Rowell one each. McGann and Princiotto had two assists apiece and Grant, Mark Regan and Moriarty one each.

McGann had a fantastic game against Canton, scoring five of Quincy's six goals. Moriarty had the other goal. Princiotto had two assists and Grant and Rowell one each. Quincy goalie Mark Smith and defensemen Danny Hughes, Danny Donahue, Danny Stone, Jenna Nolan, John Healy and Jason Fennelly were outstanding. Smith made some outstanding saves.

Quincy's attack was bottled up for the first two periods by a physical Medfield team, which took a 1-0 lead.

Quincy's Steve Barrett and Jamie Murphy showed fine playmaking skills but Quincy just couldn't put the puck in the net until Matt Logan tied it in the third period with Grant and McGann assisting. McGann scored the game-winner on a Grant rebound.

The Mite A's will face South Boston Sunday at 10 a.m. at the Canton rink.

Bantam A's Win Pair

Quincy's Bantam A team, sponsored by the Rotary Club, began the second half of the Greater Boston League on a positive note with a 3-1 win over Dorchester and an 8-5 victory over Allston-Brighton.

In the Dorchester game the score was tied, 1-1, until there was only 3:05 left in the game when Steve Connolly scored the game-winner. Rich McDonald and Bob Miller had the other goals and Mike Baylis had two assists.

Scott Raptelis had a hat trick against Allston-Brighton, Brian Taylor had a goal and three assists and McDonald, Sal Mangano, Baylis and Jeff Hemphill had a goal each. Bob Miller, Mancini and Connolly had two assists apiece and Mangano and McDonald one each.

Also playing well were Scott Hohmann, Duane

Keegan, Jim McCarthy and Terry Hack, while Scott

Cunningham and Fred Regan were excellent in goal.

Frustration Follows Quincy

The frustration continues for the Quincy boys' basketball team and the Presidents took an 0-8 record into Tuesday's game with Brockton.

The Presidents will play at Cambridge Rindge and Latin

Friday night at 7:30 and next Tuesday will play at North

Quincy, also at 7:30.

Last Friday Quincy lost its eighth in a row to Brookline, 70-47, despite an outstanding effort by Tom Logan, who scored 18 points and took down 10 rebounds.

Steve Austin also had a fine game with 15 points and six rebounds and Steve David and Nick Dragone, playing his first varsity game, turned in excellent defensive performances.

Quincy trailed by only three, 18-15, after a quarter but Brookline widened its lead to 37-26 at halftime and put the game out of reach with nine unanswered points in the third quarter.

Earlier in the week Quincy lost to Waltham, 64-55, despite more outstanding performances by Austin (22 points, eight rebounds) and Logan, 15 points). Dan Biagini scored nine points and had seven assists.

Waltham led, 18-12, after a quarter and 30-27 at the half. The Hawks widened their lead to 46-35 in the third quarter and never looked back.

Raiders Bow To Newton N., Host Dorchester Friday

The North Quincy boys' basketball team, after a promising start in non-league games, continues to find the going tough in the Suburban League and a 67-61 loss to Newton North last Friday dropped the Raiders' record to 3-6.

North will be home to Dorchester in a non-league game Friday night at 7:30 and next Tuesday will host Quincy, also at 7:30.

Joe DeGrandis scored 18 points and Ted Stevenson had 15 for the Raiders, who led Newton North, 36-33, at halftime, but they ran out of steam in the last two quarters, Newton outscoring them, 19-9, in the third session.

Bob Sylva had a fine game for North Quincy with 14 points and eight rebounds.

Earlier in the week the Raiders stayed within reach of Brockton for three quarters, but finally succumbed to the Boxers' pressure defense and Brockton rolled to a 90-64 win.

The Boxers (8-1 on the season) led by 10 points after three quarters but outscored North, 28-12, in the finale to win going away.

Dave Lawless, Sylva and Stevenson had 16 points each for the Raiders, while Sylva had 12 rebounds and Stevenson seven assists. DeGrandis contributed 10 points.

SANDRA DUNN of Quincy is a member of the University of Bridgeport women's volleyball team. A sophomore and co-captain, she is a graduate of Quincy High School.

Mite B's Hold League Lead

Quincy's Mite B team held on to the lead in the Greater Boston League with a 9-5-1 record as it topped Hyde Park, 7-2, for its fourth straight league victory.

Quincy broke a close game wide open with two goals late in the second period and three unanswered goals in the third period.

Jimmy Gallagher sparked the Quincy attack with a hat trick, Tim Hunter had two goals and Scott Cooper and Shawn Johnson one each. Mike O'Brien had two assists and A.J. Carthas, John Ryan, Johnson, Jeff Coleman and Gallagher one each.

North Swimmers Defeat Framingham South

The North Quincy swim team bounced back from its first loss of the season to defeat Framingham South, 101-68, last Thursday and improve its record to 4-1.

The Raiders will host Brookline Friday at 3:30 at the Lincoln-Hancock School pool and will be home to Brockton next Tuesday, also at 3:30.

Although North won only three events against Framingham, its depth proved too much for the visitors.

The Raiders' only individual winners were Eric Giordano in diving (174.7 points) and Jason Moriarty in the 100 breaststroke (1:13.6).

The North 400 freestyle relay team of Derek Borek, Chris Burke, Bradley Waltermire and Fred Cawthorne also won in 4:08.7.

Taking second places were Cawthorne, 200 freestyle; Brian Ramos, 200 individual medley and 100 butterfly; Moriarty, 50 freestyle; Mack McCusker, diving; Borek, 100 freestyle; Burke, 500 freestyle; and John Donlan, 100 breaststroke.

Placing third were Waltermire, 200 freestyle; Paul Nitschke, 200 individual medley and 100 freestyle; Borek, 50 freestyle; Michael Jacobacci, diving; Ralph Willard, 100 butterfly; Cawthorne, 500 freestyle; and David MacKay, 100 backstroke.

The Raiders had only one individual winner, Moriarty in the 100 breaststroke (1:13.4) as they lost to Newton North, 108-61, in their Suburban League opener.

Seconds were taken by Cawthorne, 200 freestyle and 500 freestyle; Jacobacci, diving; and Waltermire, 100 freestyle.

Placing third were Waltermire, 200 individual medley; Moriarty, 500 freestyle; Ramos, 100 butterfly; Borek, 100 freestyle; Burke, 500 freestyle;

Harry Towle, 100 backstroke, and Donlan, 100 breaststroke.

Registry Tip

Registrar of Motor Vehicles Alan Mackey reminds motorists of several tips to help make winter driving safer.

• Clear all windows of snow and ice before starting out.

• While driving leave more room than usual between your car and those in front of you.

• Never apply your brakes suddenly: pump them gently to avoid locking the wheels.

• Use your seat belt.

LeVangie Receives Varsity Letter At NU

Marlo LeVangie of Quincy has just completed an outstanding freshman volleyball season for the Northeastern University Huskies and as a result received her first varsity letter.

The talented freshman outside hitter was a badly needed boost for a team which was in tough shape after the loss of six powerful starters to graduation. The team also switched from ECAC division 11 to division 1 which put added pressure on head coach Mark Massey and his players.

The schedule that resulted from the switch is the toughest ever faced by Northeastern's volleyball teams, but thanks to the strength and enthusiasm of LeVangie and her four freshman teammates, the team overcame the adverse conditions and ended the season with a respectable 18-15 record during a rebuilding year.

LeVangie was an outstanding volleyball player at Quincy High School where she was a Suburban League all-star, MVP, a Patriot Ledger all-star, a Boston Globe all-scholastic, a member of the South Sectional all-star team, Quincy High School MVP, all in '84 and '85. And she was captain of her high school team and a Boston Globe MVP in '85. Marlo's efforts led her team to two state championships and two second place finishes in her four years at Quincy.

Marlo is an electrical engineering major and a member of the class of 1991.

Women's Fitness-Gym Classes Scheduled

Linda Chiccino Named Membership Manager At South Shore Chamber

Linda Chiccino has been named the new manager of membership development services at the South Shore Chamber of Commerce in Quincy.

Chiccino, whose husband, James L. Chiccino, is vice president of Quincy Savings Bank, replaces Margaret Mitchell who resigned to move to western Massachusetts.

Prior to coming to the chamber, she was previously employed as a manager with Arco Corporation in Newton.

Of her appointment, Chiccino says, "it is a pleasure to be part of an organization that maintains the reputation of being the largest suburban Chamber of Commerce in the country. I have been pleased to be a part of a team that has helped the chamber to grow to more than 2,000 dues paying members in 39 communities on the South Shore."

Hospital Board Meeting

The Quincy Hospital Board of Managers will meet Tuesday, Jan. 20 at 7:30 p.m. in the Dennis F. Ryan Board

Vin Giordano Assists In Ice Sculpture

Vin Giordano, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Giordano of North Quincy, participated in Boston's "First Night" ice sculpture installation.

Giordano, along with a dozen students at the Massachusetts College of Art, created a 50-foot long ice serpent that cascaded down the steps in front of Trinity Church at Copley Square.

Giordano assisted in carving and shaping a serpent out of seventy 300 pound blocks of ice using a chain saw and chisel. He is a sculpture student in his sophomore year at the Massachusetts College of Art.

Scarborough Chamber Concert Feb. 21 At Wollaston Manor

Virginia Sindelar, flutist and William Buonocore, guitarist, members of the Scarborough Chamber Players, will present a concert of classical music Feb. 21, at 7 p.m., in Wollaston Manor, 91 Clay St.

Sindelar, of Squantum, and the artistic director of the musical group, said the artists will perform works by Handel, Albeniz, Tedesco, Leisner and Diabelli.

Sindelar and Buonocore recently performed at five colleges and universities in the Chicago area including a live radio broadcast from the Chicago Public Library on the Dame Myra Hess Series.

They have performed in over 15 local concerts this past fall including the Quincy Art Association, the Boston Classical Guitar Society, MIT's First Night '87, and the South Shore Conservatory Special Artist series.

Beginning this March, Sindelar will host and produce two prime time weekly television programs for American Cablesystems.

VIRGINIA SINDELAR and WILLIAM BUONOCORE

The concert, to be held in the first floor recreation room of Wollaston Manor, is open to the public and is made possible by a grant from the Quincy Arts Council and the Mass. Arts Lottery and is part of an on-going series to present live chamber music in the senior centers of Quincy.

WEEK OF: JANUARY 15

AQUARIUS - January 21 - February 19
It's important that you remain accessible - an influential individual may be trying to reach you. In general, concentrate both on details and the broad picture, balance is essential.

PISCES - February 20 - March 20
Adventurous Pisces may be enjoying some local travel this week. Uninvited guests can be a way of life on the weekend. Cultural events are highlighted through this period.

ARIES - March 21 - April 20
Relationships flourish more on an intellectual level than on an emotional plane. Intuition is surprisingly sharp, your perception of the motives of others may be right on target.

TAURUS - April 21 - May 22
Expect to be in the limelight for much of the week. Romancewise, this is a quiet time. Opportunities arise for joining a prestigious organization. Communications improve.

GEMINI - May 23 - June 21
Praise from a very important person comes your way. Week is stimulating from an intellectual point of view. Partner surprises you with a combination of generosity and gentleness.

CANCER - June 22 - July 22
Career advancement is lively but avoid taking unnecessary risks. Partnership ventures are highlighted, especially if you and your partner are not in total agreement on everything.

LEO - July 23 - August 22
Be more willing to share the limelight, both with loved ones and coworkers. Important goal is within grasp - but don't rush the natural process. Check guarantees carefully.

VIRGO - August 23 - September 22
Experimentation is the key in a week that features a mix of trial, error, and eventual success. Opportunities for travel open up. Fairway friend may be contacting you.

LIBRA - September 23 - October 22
Supervisor may approach you for confidential information, discretion is all important. Mapping your plans for the year ahead is a worthwhile task, especially where financial goals are involved.

SCORPIO - October 23 - November 21
Staying informed of community happenings may help you professionally. Children seek you out for advice. Coworkers may indulge in petty arguments, avoid stooping to their level.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22 - December 22
You're in the limelight through much of this period and can do a good deal to help favorite causes. Surprise gift may arrive after weekend. Partnership venture is favored.

CAPRICORN - December 23 - January 20
Change of scene may prove helpful, especially if you're experiencing difficulties getting motivated. Your artistic abilities are highlighted and may lead to profitable venture.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
You're determined and careful, always planning ahead for that proverbial rainy day. Your sense of humor is a dry one. You're thirty. Year ahead sees a maturing of an important relationship thanks to a willingness to think in terms of "we" rather than "I."

BORN THIS WEEK
January 15th, actress Margaret O'Brien, 16th, singer Marilyn Horne, 17th, actor James Earl Jones, 18th, actor Danny Kaye, 19th, singer Dolly Parton, 20th, actress Patricia Neal, 21st, actor Telly Savalas.

Leland Anderson, 90 Retired QHS Assistant Principal

Leland H. Anderson, 90, of East Sandwich, a retired assistant principal of Quincy High School, died Monday at his home unexpectedly.

Mr. Anderson was born in Malden. He had lived in Hingham before moving to East Sandwich in 1963.

He was an assistant principal at Quincy High School many years, retiring in 1962.

He was a member of the Quincy Teachers Association, Massachusetts Teachers Association, New England Teachers Associations and the Quincy Retired Teachers Association.

He was also a member of the Sandwich Garden Club. He was an Army veteran of World War II, serving as a captain from 1942 to 1945.

He is survived by his wife, Catharine (Hanscom) Anderson of East Sandwich; five grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren. He was the father of the late Ruth D. Basiliere.

Burial was private in the Veterans Administration National Cemetery in Bourne. In lieu of flowers, donations can be made to the Hanover Permanent Scholarship Fund in memory of Ruth D. Basiliere, c/o Hanover High School, Hanover, MA.

Prof. Alice Spangenberg, 84 Member ENC First Class

A funeral service for Alice Spangenberg, 84, professor emerita of English at Eastern Nazarene College in Wollaston, was held Jan. 4 in the college church.

Professor Spangenberg died Jan. 2 at the Quincy Nursing Home after a long illness.

A member of the first graduating class in 1923, she was also the first Eastern Nazarene alumna to attend graduate school at Boston University.

She returned to ENC as professor of English, a position she served 50 years. During that time she also did additional graduate work at Boston University and Harvard.

She was a member of the Malden Church of the Nazarene where she served as church organist for many years.

Professor Spangenberg received the denomination's highest award for college educators, the Citation of Merit.

She edited the freshman Greenbook, a collection of the best freshman works of the year, and The ENC Advance and its successor, The Christian Scholar, sent to college supporters from Virginia to New England.

She is survived by a brother, Dr. Leonard Spangenberg of Fort Lauderdale; a nephew, Robert Spangenberg of Newton; a niece, Suzanne Straley of Hull and six grandchildren and nephews.

Burial was in Forestdale Cemetery, Malden.

Memorial donations can be made to the Student Scholarship Fund, Eastern Nazarene College, 23 E. Elm St., Wollaston 02170.

Ledger Celebrating 150th Anniversary

The Patriot Ledger is celebrating its 150th year.

To commemorate the milestone, the newspaper is planning a year-long celebration.

In 1837, The Quincy Patriot, the forerunner of The Patriot Ledger, was a four-page weekly published for the town of Quincy, a farming and granite mining center just south of Boston. Independently owned by the Low family for four generations, The Ledger has grown to be Massachusetts' largest evening daily newspaper. It serves 30 communities south of Boston with a circulation of nearly 91,000.

Representatives of every department of the newspaper were involved in planning the celebration which will include displays of the first edition of The Quincy Patriot at area malls, a special Newspaper in Education package for area schools, a carrier recognition program, a reception for advertisers and dignitaries, an employee outing, and other programs and events.

Promotional campaigns highlighting the newspaper's history, the people behind it, and its strength in the highly competitive Boston market will run throughout 1987.

On the actual anniversary date, January 7, 1987, the Patriot Ledger published a 72-page supplement entitled "150 Years Old...New Every Day" which outlined the history of the paper and traced today's production process for readers. A second commemorative section will be published April 28. Entitled "Famous Front Pages," the section will be a compilation of newsworthy front pages and prize-winning photos from The Patriot Ledger's history.

In addition, on Jan. 7 an internal celebration complete with birthday cake, balloons and gifts was held in each department of the newspaper. Patriot Ledger top management attended each celebration and senior employees helped with the cake-cutting.

Thelma F. Perry, 80 Owned Seafood Company

A funeral Mass for Thelma F. (Hansen) Perry, 80, of Quincy, a former owner of the Perry Seafood Co. in South Boston, was celebrated Monday in Star of the Sea Church, Squantum.

Mrs. Perry died Jan. 7 at the Milton Healthcare Facility after a long illness.

Born in Boston, she had lived in Quincy 40 years.

She and her late husband, Walter Perry, had owned the seafood company for 65 years before retiring in 1971.

She is survived by a son, Walter P. Perry of California; six daughters, Irene M. Stokes, Thelma M. Williams and Linda M. Cibotti, all of Quincy; Dorothy A. Burum and Gloria E. Ferrullo, both of Marshfield, and Joan F. Dorsey of Pembroke; 16 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. She was the sister of the late Christine Torgerson.

Burial was in Blue Hill Cemetery in Braintree. Funeral arrangements were by the Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Wollaston.

Minna Wallace, 87

A funeral service for Minna (Schaffer) Wallace, 87, of North Quincy, a retired insurance underwriter, was conducted Wednesday at the Mortimer N. Peck Funeral Home in Braintree by the Rev. Arthur Rice of the Highland Congregational Church, Roslindale.

Mrs. Wallace died Jan. 10 in Colonial Nursing Home in Weymouth after a long illness.

Born in Boston, she had lived in Quincy 40 years.

She was an accident and health underwriter for the American Mutual Insurance Co. in Wakefield.

Mrs. Wallace was a recording secretary and member of the Highland Congregational Church in Roslindale. She was also a member of the Boston Business and Professional Women's Club and the Wollaston Women's Club.

Wife of the late Philip J. Wallace, she is survived by a sister, Helene T. Wynot of North Quincy; a nephew, Robert D. Schaffer of North Quincy; and a niece, Carol W. Bebekarklis of North Weymouth. She was the sister of the late Henry A. Schaffer.

Burial was private. Memorial donations can be made to the Highland Congregational Church, P.O. Box 92, Roslindale, MA 02131, or to a favorite charity.

Mary E. LaCroix, 66

A funeral service for Mary E. (Pinerio) LaCroix, 66, of Quincy, formerly of Boston, was held Tuesday at the Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave., Quincy.

Mrs. LaCroix died Jan. 10 at Quincy City Hospital after a long illness.

Born and educated in Boston, she had lived in Quincy 40 years.

Wife of the late Leo P.

LaCroix, she is survived by two daughters, Janice A. Bailey of Chesapeake Bay, Va., and Phyllis Malone of Ansonia, Conn.; two sisters, Edith Pallidine of Roslindale and Irene G. Pinerio of Quincy; and four grandchildren. She was the sister of the late Walter W. Pinerio and Emma H. Signorelli.

Burial was in Knollwood Memorial Park in Canton.

Joseph Demaggio In Honor Society

Society of Distinguished American High School Students announces that Joseph Demaggio of Quincy, has been selected a member in its honor society for 1986.

His sponsor, the Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, North Quincy, was presented with the society's National Appreciation Award for "assiduous devotion to the development and encouragement of student leaders."

Membership is designed to be not only an honor but also an incentive for those exhibiting top performance while in high school. To be accepted, students must have excelled in academics, extracurricular, or civic activities.

As a member, Demaggio will have the opportunity to compete for college scholarships through the society's awards program. This program, now in its 17th year, is funded by 140 U.S. colleges and universities. To preserve the honor, these members' names and their accomplishments will be listed in the society's 1986 registry.

project is good for the city - it's a golden opportunity." Members of several workers' unions also spoke in favor.

"It will provide a lot of work for a lot of people and that's what is important to me now," said a man who identified himself as an employee of the Ricciardi Co.

In opposition, Jovanovic said the project could have been done differently.

He also said he was disappointed that Quincy Junior would only be getting the same amount of space from the developers.

"Not a single voice but mine is raised against this," said Jovanovic.

"Is this the place for condominiums? It would have been an excellent place for a four-year college."

The second public hearing, a much briefer one, was on the proposed taking of five commercial and three parking lots.

Speaking in favor were Assistant City Solicitor Quinn and Carmine D'Olimpio, president, Building and Construction Trades Council of Quincy and the South Shore.

Those in opposition were Atty. Paul Hunt, who said he represented the owners of two parcels, and David Bolander, a developer of the Elks Building which owns the three parking lots.

EILEEN COHEN of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, records herself in favor of the Presidents' Place project.

Mrs. Nell Slawson of Saville Ave., whose home developers have said they will not ask the city to take, presented a petition to the council which she said contained 1,000 signatures.

Mrs. Slawson began collecting the signatures last summer at a mini-protest at City Hall when the possibility of taking her home by eminent domain was first mentioned.

"I want to thank the City Councillors who took a stand and protected my rights," said Mrs. Slawson.

LaRaia: Presidents' Place Needs More Parking

City Councillor Joseph LaRaia thinks the proposed $55 million Presidents' Place project in downtown Quincy needs more parking.

So he submitted a resolve at Monday night's council meeting to change the parking requirement for such a project.

The resolve, which was adopted by the council and forwarded to the Planning Department, proposed that the zoning laws be amended in Business C districts within the Historic District.

It would require 1.5 parking spaces for one bedroom condominiums or apartments, and 2.0 parking spaces for two bedroom condominiums or apartments.

"The Presidents' Place proposal has planned a major development that affects the Quincy Center Business area," stated LaRaia.

"It's proposal calls for a condominium development that allows one parking space per condo unit and will further impact an already impacted area of Quincy Center," he said.

"This particular matter (parking) has been avoided," said LaRaia, who noted that about 850 parking spaces have been planned for the retail, office, and condominiums as well as Quincy Junior College.

"The developers may be under the umbrella of what is required, but I feel they are not really addressing the problem."

"I'm disturbed about the hype that went into the proposal tonight," continued LaRaia, referring to the many comments made in favor of the proposal during two earlier public hearings.

"This particular proposal epitomizes what the public fears about development - density, parking and impact on the business district.

"We're going to have Presidents' Place for a long, long time.

"It's not necessary to push the proposal because it looks good at the time.

Board Upholds Clam Digger's License Suspension

By DAN CONNELLY

The License Board took a clam digger to task and upheld the 30 days suspension of his license when it was disclosed there was a discrepancy in the number of racks of clams he submitted to the Newburyport Purification Plant on Dec. 3.

The board told Kevin Boudreau of 77 Darrow St., Houghs Neck they supported clam warden Andrew Ayers' action and that of the Quincy Board of Health who suspended Boudreau's master clamming license last month. The board also ruled he has 10 more days to go on the suspension.

Ayers said that when he checked Boudreau's truck at Post Island Rd. in Adams Shore Dec. 3, he counted eight racks of clams to be transported to the purification plant. The plant later notified

Ayers they counted only six. Each rack contains about 60 pounds of clams that were dug on a beach that showed a very high fecal count that day, said Ayers.

Boudreau, who requested the hearing, cleared up the mystery of the two missing racks when he admitted to redistributing those clams into the other six racks, some of which were not full. He also told the board he brought a pail of them home.

Police Chief and board member Francis Finn told Boudreau that there are checks and balances in all types of businesses--particularly the clamming industry. They were put there to protect the public and he, Boudreau, had no right in creating a discrepancy in the rack count, he said.

After Ayers was alerted by the purification plant he notified Health Commissioner M. Jane Gallahue, whose office is keeping a close watch on all shellfish operations along city beaches.

She said in a letter to Boudreau that as a result of a Dec. 22 hearing:

"You were not able to present sufficient evidence to explain the discrepancy between the eight racks observed by Mr. Ayers on Dec. 3 and the six racks submitted to the Newburyport Purification Plant on Dec. 3.

"Therefore, in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 130, Sec. 2 of the Mass. General Laws, your license to dig clams in Quincy is being suspended for a period of 30 days."

She also notified Boudreau he had a right to a hearing before the full licensing board on the incident.

4th Woman Attacked Task Force Seeks Knife Assailant

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

A special task force from the district attorney's office, Quincy, Milton and Boston police has been created to step up the search for a knife-wielding attacker who has stabbed four women.

The latest attack occurred Monday about 6:30 p.m. when Patricia Sullivan, 41, of Medford was stabbed from behind as she walked on Governors Rd., Milton, near the Quincy line.

She was listed in critical condition at Milton Medical Center at press time Tuesday.

Quincy Police Capt. David Rowell, Chief of Detectives, said the task force held its first meeting Tuesday morning.

Rowell said that Dist. Atty. William Delahunt would be the commanding officer and spokesman for the task force.

"We have set up a command post in conjunction with the uniformed officers here and in Milton who are investigating the case," said Rowell.

Quincy and Milton police continued to caution women to travel in groups.

"If possible, women should not go out alone, but have a companion with them," said Lt. Neil MacDonald of the Quincy Police Detective Unit.

MacDonald noted that the advice applies to daytime as well as nighttime hours as a result of the attacks which police believe were done by the same person.

Sullivan, who was stabbed three times, told police a man came up from behind and stabbed her.

The attacker did not speak or steal anything, she said.

Kelda Caldwell, 26, of Quincy was stabbed twice last Friday morning while walking to work at the State Street South Complex in North Quincy.

She was reported in good condition Tuesday at Quincy City Hospital.

As a result of the stabbing, women have been leaving the State Street South office building in groups.

Lois Walker, 27, of Milton, was stabbed in the back while jogging in Milton Thursday night.

She was treated at Milton Medical Center and released Monday.

The first attack occurred Dec. 30 when a woman was stabbed twice while walking to work on Willet St.,

Would Reduce Density

30 Proposed Zoning Changes Go To City Council

Some 30 zoning orders aimed at reducing density were to be introduced by the council president and three city councillors at Tuesday night's meeting.

The proposals, part of a special Zoning Review report, were to be submitted by Council President Stephen McGrath and task force members Thomas Nutley, chairman; Michael Cheney and Patricia Toland.

They included such recommendations as increasing the square feet per dwelling unit in residence C from 1,000 to 1,800, and reducing the maximum number of building stories in residence C from eight to six.

"I feel that the report which came in to me from the task force, which I appointed, had a lot of very good changes to tighten up zoning so that the city does not end up being overly developed," said McGrath.

"Some things are very controversial, but for the most part, the changes are necessary for the city.

"I'm sure we'll have quite a bit of public comment from hearings and committee meetings," he said.

McGrath discussed some of the proposals.

He said that no changes were suggested for Residence A, which is comprised of single family homes, or Residence B with one to three units, a low density zoning district which only allows three stories in height.

But for four and above units in Residence B, the dimensional requirements would be increased from 2,500 to 3,500 square feet per dwelling unit.

The square feet per dwelling unit in Planned Unit Development areas would be increased from 1,000 to 1,800 square feet, he said.

McGrath noted that during last week's council meeting, a proposal was introduced which would require a special permit from the Zoning Board of Appeals to cross over from one zoning use to another.

An example of cross over would be if a parcel of land with a small store or garage,

As A Gift

QHA Receives 27.5 Acres Of Waterfront

The Quincy Housing Authority announces the receipt of an extraordinary gift of 27.5 acres of waterfront land in Germantown from a private family trust.

Authority Chairwoman Rosemary Wahlberg said the gift was donated to the authority from the Frank Palumbo family trust which is named for the late Frank Palumbo, a businessman whose family dates back many years in the city.

Mrs. Wahlberg scheduled a press conference to release details of the gift for Wednesday, at 5:30 p.m., in the O'Brien Towers at 73 Bicknell St.

She said the gift was the first to her knowledge that the Quincy Housing Authority has received, or any housing agency receiving such a unique and valuable donation.

Mrs. Wahlberg said there will be a feasibility study organized to determine the best use of the land. "There is a limitless potential for such a gift."

The 27.5 acres are located in the Riverview section of Germantown off Doane St. and Sextant Circle and overlooks Rock Island Cove, Town River and Fore River.

"We see this as a unique method for persons with property and no relatives to bequest their property, to make a true humanitarian gesture by entrusting us with property to care for the citizens of the city. Their names become a permanent memorial in the community through such a gift."

John P. Comer, executive director of the housing authority said the gift is very exciting.

"The land could be used for building, for ecology and for recreational purposes. The recreational uses would include passive recreation, open space use, basketball courts or other pastimes," Comer noted.

Project Manager Leo J. Kelly said the uses for the property are limitless.

"The land overlooks the Town River and is an ideal location for a waterfront preservation area. The ecology in the area is vital as part of the river watershed area and by preserving the land we ensure a pristine vista for future generations," Kelly said.

Mrs. Wahlberg said

there will be further information on the gift at the Wednesday press conference.

CAPP Zoning Petition Submitted To Council

A group of Quincy residents calling themselves Citizens Advocating Proper Planning (CAPP) was scheduled to submit to the City Council Tuesday night an initiative petition to amend the zoning bylaws in the city.

Except for Residence B, where the requirement would be 3,500 square feet per dwelling unit, the zoning changes would require a minimum of 2,500 square feet of land area for each residential unit in multi-unit housing.

It would also limit the height of all buildings to six stories.

The group has obtained 5,500 signatures so that the petition can be placed on the ballot for the next regular city election if it is not approved by the City Council.

The zoning changes proposed by the initiative petition were to be submitted Tuesday so that they could be considered concurrently with the City Council's Zoning Task Force recommendations.

"CAPP has taken these measures to change the zoning bylaws in the City of Quincy to reduce effectively the scale and intensity of land use within the city," said Arthur Chandler.

"The proposals do not prohibit development, renewal or multi-family housing, but, rather, will allow development to take place at a scale and intensity consistent with the existing land use in the city," Chandler said.

Peter Colson said, "While obtaining these signatures, Citizens Advocating Proper Planning found there is a widespread concern with the overdevelopment of Quincy and the negative impacts caused by this overdevelopment."

The proposed changes are:

- Residence A zoning remains the same.
- Residence B zoning remains the same except that buildings of more than four residential units must have a minimum of 3,500 sq. ft. of lot area per unit.

- Residence C changes the minimum sq. ft. of lot area per dwelling unit from 1,000 sq. ft. to 2,500 sq. ft.

- Residence D changes the minimum sq. ft. of lot area per dwelling unit from 2,000 sq. ft. to 2,500 sq. ft.

- Business A remains the same.

- Business B changes the minimum sq. ft. of lot area per dwelling unit from 1,000 sq. ft. to 2,500 sq. ft.

- Business C changes the minimum sq. ft. of lot area per dwelling unit from 325 sq. ft. to 2,500 sq. ft. and the maximum number of stories from 10 to 6.

- PUD changes the minimum sq. ft. per dwelling unit from 1,000 sq. ft. to 2,500 sq. ft., and the maximum number of stories from 10 to 6.

- PUD 1 changes the minimum sq. ft. of lot area per dwelling unit from 1,000 sq. ft. to 2,500 sq. ft., and the maximum number of stories from 10 to 6.

- Industrial A and Industrial B change the maximum number of stories from 10 to 6.

- Height shall be no more than 60 feet above existing average grade, rather than 110 feet above average grade.

McCauley To Visit Washington, Taiwan

Mayor Francis McCauley is scheduled to visit Washington, D.C. this week for the Mayor's Mid Winter Conference and the Republic of China (Taiwan) in March as part of a delegation of American mayors.

The Washington trip, from Wednesday to Friday, is also being made by McCauley's executive secretary, Peter Kenney, Planning Director Richard Meade, and City

Councillor Patricia Toland.

"It is always informative," said McCauley who noted that the conference includes meetings, seminars and speakers.

As examples of the agenda, two U.S. senators are scheduled to speak, and a session is planned on reorganization of the Community Development Block Grant program, said McCauley.

"The conference gives a good indication of what is going on nationally," said the mayor.

McCauley was among eight other mayors invited, with their spouses, to visit Taiwan March 21-29, with expenses paid by the Chinese National Association of Commerce and Industry.

The delegation will meet with local and national government officials to discuss matters of mutual concern and interest including foreign trade, transportation, water supply, urban planning and programs for youth and senior citizens.

The group will leave from Los Angeles.

"Taiwan has built a strong, free enterprise economy," said McCauley.

"I'm looking forward to meeting government officials and discussing how they solve municipal problems."

Hingham Man Gets Post

Jay 'Stunned' As McCauley Names New Treasurer-Collector

Mayor Francis McCauley announced that he will not reappoint City Treasurer and Collector Franklin Jay who has served in that position since August, 1982.

Instead, McCauley said he will appoint Dana Childs of Hingham to the $40,800 a year position effective Feb. 2. "I feel that a new direction in the administration of the office of treasurer-collector is necessary," said McCauley, who stressed that Jay has conducted his office in a highly ethical manner.

Jay told Sun Ch. 8, "I am just shocked... I'm stunned. I don't know what happened. I'll be cleaning out my desk shortly."

Childs is a graduate of Salem High School and holds a bachelors degree in business administration from Salem State College.

He has been employed as a general accounting manager with a Boston firm for the past six years.

Childs is married and the father of three children.

McCauley said that all other members of his administration will be reappointed.

McCauley Appoints 3 To Unpaid Board

Mayor Francis McCauley announces the appointment of three Quincy residents to terms on three city unpaid boards.

William T. Spencer of 1035 Southern Artery has been appointed to a three year term on the Council on Aging. A former Quincy police officer, Spencer was appointed supervisor of attendance for the Quincy School Department in 1956 and retired in 1977. Active in civic affairs for many years, he is a former member of the Quincy Kiwanis Club, and the Knights of Columbus. He is presently serving as President-ProTem of the recently organized Quincy Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons (A.A.R.P.). Bryant Carter, Jr., of 100 Faxon Rd., North Quincy has been appointed to a one year term on the Park and Recreation Board, representing Ward 6.

Carter is a graduate of North Quincy High School and Bentley College and is employed as office manager for Woodward Springs Shop of Quincy.

Carter is a member of the Quincy Festival Committee, Marching Band Coordinator for Quincy High School and a member of the Rural Masonic Lodge and Taleb Grotto of Quincy. He succeeds Mrs. Janet Coughlin of Squantum who declined reappointment.

Atty. John D. Boyle of One Cutter Lane, Squantum has been appointed to a three year term on the Conservation Commission succeeding James Donahue whose term expires Feb. 2.

Boyle is a graduate of the University of Massachusetts and Suffolk University Law School. He is a practicing attorney with the law firm of Sloane and Walsh of Boston. He is a member of the Squantum Community Association and a trustee of the Harborside Condominium Association at Marina Bay.

Grossman Pledges $50,000 To Quincy Hospital Project Fund

A pledge of $50,000 was given by Joseph B. Grossman to Quincy City Hospital's $60.2 million construction and renovation project.

The gift was made in the name of Joseph B. and Esther Starr Grossman.

In presenting the pledge to John W. Kane, general chairman of the hospital's fund-raising drive, and to Mark J. Mundy, director of the hospital, Grossman pointed out that "I was born in Quincy, have lived in the neighborhood all my life, and have daily contact with the citizens of the community."

"I find the hospital is much needed and has served its purpose in a commendable way."

In accepting the gift, Kane said, "Over $700,000 has been pledged toward the $1,600,000 goal. We're off to a fantastic start and soon we'll be going to the community at large to solicit its support. The hospital needs and encourages the support of all of us."

"More than 75 business and civic leaders," added Mundy, "will be calling on area corporations and individuals. These volunteers will provide an opportunity for the general public to add their support to this important project."

The funds raised in this community-wide campaign will help provide for improved space and functional requirements in virtually all of the hospital's existing facilities. The major part of the program will involve the construction of a new six-story building to accommodate many of the major departments and services of the hospital.

Low Interest Mortgages Available For First Time Buyers

There's good news from two Quincy state representatives for those residents of Quincy who have been priced out of the buying market but would still like to purchase their own home.

Reps. Michael Morrissey and Thomas Brownell jointly announced that the Massachusetts Housing Finance Agency (MHFA) is making approximately $45 million available, at a fixed rate, 27 years at 7.9 per cent, to first time buyers for low interest mortgages.

"Most of us realize how tough it is for people starting out," Morrissey said. "They really need two incomes and when they have small children, it's added financial burden on people of moderate means."

The legislators said there are limits on income because the money has been set aside for low and moderate income buyers, and the MHFA would especially like to accommodate Vietnam era veterans and the physically handicapped.

The minimum down payment, they said, is five percent and purchasers would be responsible for associated expenses such as: application, bank, and attorney fees, as well as title and in some cases, mortgage insurance. The banks have begun accepting applications and people can call the MHFA for participating banks, they added.

The money has been allocated in three groups: $25 million is set aside for the General Lending Program, $8 million will be awarded for Neighborhood Rehabilitation (new purchases and certain owner-occupancies), and $12 million will be for construction of new single family homes. It is expected that over 600 mortgages will be available.

Brownell said, "This program should continue to provide an excellent opportunity for those residents of Quincy who have been priced out of the buying market but would still like to purchase their own home. By taking advantage of the low-interest rates and small down payment requirements provided in this program,

As it turned out, it was a good idea but at the time a lot of people weren't that excited about Quincy becoming a city.

The new form of government was adopted at a special town meeting June 11, 1888 by a 358-vote margin. The vote was 812 for and 454 against.

There were more than 2400 residents eligible to vote at the town meeting but just a few more than half of them -- 1266 -- bothered to turn out and speak out on this milestone issue.

But for those who favored Quincy's transition from town to city, it was a great day.

William C. Edwards, late City Historian gave this account in his book "Historic Quincy":

"When the result of the voting was declared by the Town Moderator from a platform in the Town Hall, the announcement was received with great delight, and soon the bells rang loudly, amid the sound of horns and guns and the explosion of fireworks.

"The bell in the tower of the 'Stone Temple' opposite, sent forth a peal as if some great victory had been achieved.

"The King is dead; Long live the King!" exclaimed Mr. Charles Francis Adams II who had bitterly fought against the change of government."

committee to be appointed to carry out plans for the celebration.

McCauley, who is a Quincy history buff, says he would have named former Mayor James McIntyre, another history buff, a co-chairman if the latter was still alive.

"He had a great feeling and respect for history," McCauley says. McCauley, who has that same kind of feeling, wants to come up with a special budget for the celebration which would start in June 1988 and carry over to January 1989.

The city government voted in June, 1888, became effective Dec. 4, 1888 with the first election for mayor, city council and school committee.

On Jan. 7, 1889 Charles H. Porter, a Civil War veteran, took his oath as Quincy's first mayor.

"I visualize a series of special events over the period from June 1988 to January, 1989 commemorating the adoption of the new government, the first election and the seating of the first mayor, city council and school committee," McCauley says.

He is thinking of a parade, a dinner and poster and essay contests in the schools among other activities.

"It should be a celebration for residents of all ages," he says. "And I'm sure Gene Creedon and Joyce Baker will have plans along those lines.

"It should be done up big and right. Quincy won't get another chance for another 100 years."

The new charter changed the executive branch from a three-man Board of Selectmen to a single mayor as its chief executive. And established the city council as the legislative branch in place of the Town Meeting.

Sunbeams

Centennial To Be Done Up Big

The original City Council, incidentally, comprised 23 councillors -- five elected at large and three from each of the six wards.

And did someone say those must have pretty long council meetings?

They must have been cumbersome, anyway, because in 1915 a group of citizens advocated the Plan A form of government calling for a mayor and nine city councillors elected at large.

"A city council of nine capable men sitting around a table can transact business more intelligently and with greater dispatch than a council of 23 men," said George E. Pfaffmann, chairman of the Plan A Charter Revision Committee.

These days, Pfaffmann might be considered a bit of a male chauvinist in referring to "nine capable men." He and others of that day probably never dreamed a women would ever sit in the City Council chamber other than in the audience.

And it didn't happen until Edna Austin broke the political sex barrier in 1947. Only two other women -- Joanne Condon and Patricia Toland -- have followed her to the City Council.

In the 1916 election under Plan A there were 52 candidates for the nine City Council seats.

They say it was a good year for champagne and owning a local newspaper.

Joseph Whiton was elected Quincy's first mayor under the Plan A charter, defeating Gustave Bates 3,131 to 2,962 -- a 169 vote plurality.

The original Plan A charter calling for nine councillors-at-large was modified to include the present ward representation in 1920.

Quincy had a romance with Plan E, accepting the city manager form of government in 1947 and holding the first election under it in 1949.

There were 59 candidates for the seven City Council seats and 15 contenders for the six seats on the School Committee.

Obviously another good year for champagne and owning a local newspaper.

The Proportional Representation or Preferential Voting method under Plan E in which voters numbered the candidates in the order in which they preferred them got off to an unpopular start.

It took 48 counts of the ballots and almost a week to determine who the seven winning candidates for the city council were and 11 counts to determine the School Committee winners.

The following January, 1950 as Plan E took effect, William J. Deegan of Superior, Wis., was named the city's first city manager by the City Council.

Thomas S. Burgin, the top City Council vote getter was unanimously elected first Plan E mayor by his colleagues, a post that was similar to the City Council president and ceremonial.

Plan E promised a lot, like a lot of suitors. But the honeymoon was soon over and after a stormy marriage, Quincy divorced Plan E in the 1955 city election and returned to its true government love -- Plan A -- in 1958.

McCauley is looking forward to the centennial celebration in 1988-89.

He faces re-election this year seeking a fourth term. He obviously expects to participate in the centennial as the incumbent -- and not -- as a former mayor.

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Due to your very good help in publicizing the status of the blood supply, and the response of the public in Massachusetts and Maine, the critical deficits which existed last week have been reduced.

Thanks to the support of the media, 1983 units of blood were collected on Wednesday, Jan. 7, 2270 on Thursday, Jan. 8, 1581 on Friday, Jan. 9 and 886 on Saturday and Sunday the 10th and 11th, for a total of 6720. These figures represent the largest number of units ever collected on a single day and the highest total for a five day period in our history!

We send our deep appreciation for your prompt and effective response to the needs of patients in area hospitals--they are the real beneficiaries of the success of the media appeal for blood donors.

The need for blood donations is never-ending and we hope you will continue to make that known. Our goal is to maintain a safe and adequate supply of blood at all times to avoid reaching a potentially dangerous situation.

A Beautiful Room And Story For Squantum Teacher

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

"I know there must have been more beautiful rooms," said Jane McCarthy Bopp, a Squantum School kindergarten teacher who won the $5,000 grand prize in the Better Homes and Gardens Decorating Contest.

"But I don't think there was a more beautiful story," said the Hingham resident whose prize-winning child's nursery was featured in the October issue of the magazine.

Inspiration for the room was Jonathan, the 21-month-old Korean child adopted in June, 1985, by Jane and her husband, John, quality control manager for The Boston Globe.

"Our hearts are filled with joy at the arrival of our son, his room reflects that," said Jane. "It was a labor of love."

Aside from a pine floor which cost about $1,500, the room was decorated over eight months for under $300 by Jane, her husband, and, in large part, her father, Gene McCarthy, 71, of Weymouth, a retired concrete company employee.

It was to demonstrate to her father how pleased she was with his "labor of love" that she entered the Better Homes and Gardens contest. She had her entry postmarked two minutes before the deadline and never expected to win.

But when she did, her father was so proud that he even showed the issue of the magazine featuring the nursery to strangers at the supermarket.

The room features primary colors.

"We wanted it to be bright, lively and cheery," said Jane. "Before Jonathan arrived, we didn't know if we would get a boy or a girl," she said. "So we opted for yellow."

"But I think we still would have picked that color had we known."

White and yellow wallpaper has a duck border which inspired stencils on a white floor.

Jane's father made such things as a changing table, floor lamp, toy box shelving, night light and window seat over lattice work which lets heat into the room.

A yellow wicker giraffe and elephant are among the many toys in the room.

The only negative aspect to winning the prize is that visitors to the Bopp's home sometimes expect the rest of the house to be award-winningly decorated as well, she said.

"I said to my husband, we better get the rest of the house spiffed up," she laughed. "But we're just normal people."

"We won because of what the room represents - a boy from Korea and a family who desperately wanted him."

The Bopps decided to adopt a Korean child after six years of marriage when they were unable to have their own children.

"I've always gravitated towards Oriental children," said Jane. "And there is a real need for those children to be taken care of."

She and her husband contacted Love the Children, based in Philadelphia, and six months later, they were waiting at a New York Airport for their child.

"There was only one child crying as the group came off the plane, and it was Jonathan," Jane remembered. She described him now as spirited and inquisitive.

"It's fascinating to watch his personality develop," Jane said.

Jonathan will have the chance to see other Korean children at meetings of the adoption agency several times a year, according to Jane.

"There is also a 13-year-old boy next door who is Korean," she said. "Hopefully, he'll be a nice resource person as Jonathan grows older."

One of Jane's friends also adopted a Korean child.

Has Jane's experience as a kindergarten teacher helped her in raising Jonathan?

"Being a kindergarten teacher didn't help one iota when he was six months old," she laughed.

Jane, who always wanted to be a teacher, said her philosophy towards children is to "love them, support them, listen to them, and set limits for them."

"You do a child justice by setting limits. It's easier for them in the long run," she said.

"The enthusiasm of children is the best part," she said. "They love learning. They're excited about learning."

A teacher for 16 years in Quincy in several different schools, Jane took almost a year off after Jonathan was adopted. "I really enjoyed being home last year," she said.

She went back to teaching part time in September.

"I don't think I could work full time, come home to Jonathan, and not feel frazzled at the end of the day," she said.

While Jane doesn't intend to increase her teaching time for at least a while, she would like to increase the size of her family.

It is an expensive proposition, she explained, but the prize money has taken care of that.

"It will be just shy of $5,000 to adopt another Korean child," she said. "And the prize money was $5,000."

It's like money from heaven.

"I think God was telling us it was the right thing to do."

Panelists are Deanna White-Hebert, Snug Harbor School; Paul Phillips, North Quincy High School; Jack Buckley, president, Central Middle School; Thomas Walsh, Quincy High School; and Mary Curtin, Atherton Hough School. Teacher profiles will continue in The Quincy Sun.)

MTA-RAILROAD PROPOSAL

A special legislative commission recommended daytime use by the Metropolitan Transit Authority (MTA) of three railroad commuter lines, including the Old Colony branch of the New Haven Railroad.

The commission promised:

"Communities which fear the coming of the MTA because of its huge deficit might find that the marriage of the MTA to railroad commuter lines would expand passenger traffic to such an extent that the deficit might melt away and even disappear."

George A. Yarrington, executive secretary of the Quincy Taxpayers Association, also waxed enthusiastic over the commission's conclusions.

"The report," he said, "contains the solution to the problem of our deficit-ridden railroad commuter service."

TRANSPORT PROBLEM SNAGS MAP

City Planning Director Regis J. Harrington had transportation problems of his own.

Seems the Planning Department's request for an automobile of its own was cut from the 1958 budget, leaving Harrington with no way to tour the city's streets while preparing an official map.

He complained that there was no city-owned car for his use and his $45 a month travel allowance was not enough to enable him to complete the mapping job by rented car or taxi-cab.

Baked Beans They're Good Anytime

When we were kids, my mother often made homemade baked beans. After we were all married, she still made them and sent each of us a container full. She always used a heavy bean pot which she would put in the oven. However, when my daughter Rita makes them she uses a crock pot. They can certainly be made ahead of time and they make such a great side dish with any meats or even fish cakes, and especially with hot dogs!

BAKED BEANS

1 lb. of Navy beans or pea beans
1/2 cup chopped onion
1/2 lb. or so of salt pork (cubed)
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 cup maple syrup
1/4 cup molasses
1/4 tsp. dry mustard
1/4 tsp. allspice
1/2 tsp. salt
1 cup water

Fill large pan with cool water to three times the volume of the beans.

Add the beans, bring to a boil and continue boiling for 10 minutes. Reduce heat and simmer for 1 1/2 hours or until tender.

Strain the beans and put them into a crock pot (or other). Add the cup of water and all other ingredients and mix well. Cook on low for 10-12 hours. If beans look watery toward the end of cooking time, remove lid for remainder of cooking time.

If you cook the beans using the even method, heat oven to 300 degrees F., and bake for five or six hours, stirring every couple of hours.

Sons Of Italy Reach $542,168 Mark In Donations

The Quincy Sons of Italy lodge celebrated its 15th anniversary recently by making donations to the City of Quincy and St. Joseph's Building Fund bringing to $48,000 its total contributions for 1986. The lodge presented a check for $10,000 to Mayor Francis McCauley for Quincy's Capital Improvement Fund during a dinner dance held at the Sons of Italy Social Center, Quarry St.

A check for $300 was presented to Fr. Joseph Downey, pastor of St. Joseph's Church, Quincy Point, for the church's building fund in memory of Belardino R. Pagnani, chairman of the lodge's board of trust until his death in July.

The contributions brought to $542,168.46 the total donations made by the lodge since it began in 1972.

The donations were in the form of scholarships and contributions to such other organizations as St. Coletta Day School, Quincy Youth Soccer League and South Shore YMCA.

"Tonight, besides celebrating the 15th anniversary of the building, we take our annual, well deserved bows, for the charitable works we have done in the past year," said Richard Realini, club president.

"Highlighted by our $4,000 donation to build a dugout at Adams Field, and capped by our $10,000 gift to the city tonight, we were involved in many varied projects.

"...I thank all the members who have contributed time, effort and sometimes their own monies to make this a most successful year," Realini said.

John J. Fantucchio, chairman of the lodge's board of trust, said, "During the past 15 years, our Social Center has been the place of many civic and social activities, we have been involved in many activities both charitable and social. We have made many friends and this has brought us much happiness.

"...Tonight we pause and thank all of our brothers here tonight and those whom have passed on, for their help that in so many ways has made our lodge home a place of great pride."

Head table guests were state president and Mrs. Charles H. Perenick, Sen. Paul Harold, Rep. and Mrs. Robert Cerasoli, Mayor and Mrs. Francis McCauley, grand deputy and Mrs. Frank Manzell, national trustee; Mrs. Mary Johnson, toastmaster, grand trustee A. Mario Salvatore, grand Buonvicino, president and Mrs. Richard Realini and Fr. Joseph Downey.

In addition to Fantucchio members of the board of trust are Joseph Sacco, recording secretary; John Marella, treasurer; John Cascarano, assistant treasurer, and board members James Perfetuo, Thomas Santangelo, Salvatore Lombardo, Nicholas Fantasia, and Charles Middendorf.

What Bus Drivers Say About Auto Drivers

Greyhound Lines, the nation's largest over-the-road bus carrier, recently conducted a survey, among its senior drivers to determine, among other things, what in their opinions were the leading causes of accidents.

The drivers listed motorists who drive under the influence of alcohol or other drugs and "tailgaters" as their two top choices.

The drivers were also asked to recommend safe driving tips for other motorists.

The Greyhound drivers listed the following as leading causes of highway accidents, in addition to driving under the influence and tailgating.

- Driver fatigue or stress
- Driving an unsafe vehicle
- Speeding
- Lack of concentration.
- Driving too fast for road conditions.
- Failure to use directional signals.
- Improper lane change.
- Disobeying traffic signals, signs, and laws.

Among the safe driving tips offered were:

- Stopping every few hours to walk around and relax helps keep drivers alert.
- Learn to anticipate danger by thinking ahead and be prepared to react to trouble.
- Drive with the flow of traffic and show respect for other drivers.
- Keep your mind on drive and your vehicle under control.

zoned Business B, were purchased and an eight-story building erected on that site, by crossing over to Residence C, McGrath explained.

"The basic recommendations are very good, and I hope they will move along fairly expeditiously," said McGrath, who declined to predict the reaction of other council members.

"It will be the first opportunity of the council to see what some of the changes are," McGrath said. "They will need time to digest the changes."

Developers have already expressed concern with the proposed changes, according to McGrath.

"They will also have an opportunity to be heard," he said.

In each of the last three instances, a man approached the woman, stabbed her and drove off in a rust-colored Chevrolet Nova without saying a word.

He is described as a light-skinned black man with closely cropped black hair, 5 feet 8 inches to 5 feet 9 inches tall.

Police have no motive, according to MacDonald.

"The motive was apparently not robbery, and it was not sexual assault," said MacDonald. "It seems that he is just out there to do harm."

Mayor Francis McCauley said that he has been in contact with Police Chief Francis Finn about the attacks.

"The police are exerting every effort they can," said McCauley. "They are dealing with a very dangerous person."

"We are urging women who tend to travel about the city alone to change their habits until the attacker is apprehended."

Lydon Says Hospital Work Clouds Neighborhood With Dust

Ward Three Councillor John Lydon Jr. has notified the director of Quincy City Hospital that the debris, dirt and dust coming from the reconstruction site of the hospital is a disgrace.

In a letter, dated Jan. 20 to Mark Mundy, Lydon stated: "I have been reviewing Whitwell St. and the excavation work that is being done as a result of the construction of the new hospital.

"Specifically I am writing with regard to the debris, dirt and dust that is coming from the job site. Friday it was a disgrace. I have had a number of calls from the neighborhood with regard to the high dust level going throughout the neighborhood.

"There is absolutely no need for this, and it was a commitment of the hospital and the contractor that this would not happen. I spoke to a Jeff Harsfield, who assured me that the contractor had a regular maintenance schedule of cleaning the streets of debris. To date this has not been done, or not done to the satisfaction of the neighborhood.

"I do realize, and the community realizes, that there will be some inconveniences as a result of this construction. However, this situation must not be allowed to continue. The contractor must provide, in writing, a schedule of when the street sweepers will be working to clean the roadway. Also, with the congested parking in the area, I would suggest a laborer be assigned to the areas where the street sweeper is unable to clean.

"The above is common practice in construction and common courtesy to any neighborhood abutting a construction site. It is probably the worst I have seen in any of the construction sites throughout the city."

Lydon also said when he visited the site Friday to seek someone in charge so that he could correct the situation before the long weekend, "I could find no one in charge nor did anyone know where the individual or individuals in charge could be found."

Liquor Store Given Year's Probation For Selling To Minor

By DAN CONNELLY
A North Quincy liquor store was put on probation for a year by the License Board Tuesday for selling alcoholic beverages—two cases of beer—to a Quincy minor.

Robert Couté of Stoughton, who operates Murphy's Liquor Store, 385 Hancock St., was told his license was suspended for six months, but the board was suspending that suspension and ordering the probation because of circumstances relative to the 19-year-old clerk who made the sale.

A police report, submitted to the board by Patrolman William Horick, who attended the hearing, said in part:

"On Dec. 26, 1986, I observed a youth coming from Murphy's Liquor Store carrying Budweiser beer. Upon questioning, this youth related to me that he was only 19 years of age. He stated that he went into Murphy's and asked for the beer and was never asked for any identification. The clerk who waited on him...related the same that he never asked the said youth for any identification.

The police report also said there have been continuous calls on youths purchasing beer from the area of this store.

Because the clerk is attending college out of state, and unable to appear at the liquor violation hearing at City Hall, he submitted a sworn, notarized deposition to Board Chairman John

Gillis which read:

"On the night in question I was working for the very first time at Murphy's Liquor Store. I was a little bit confused and disoriented because it was my first day at a new job. Between 9 and 9:30 p.m., the customer entered the store and made a purchase. In my judgement he was of age to purchase alcohol. About 10 to 15 minutes later the police officer entered the store with the customer. After the officer left I realized I had made an honest mistake."

First Parish Church To Mark Hancock's 250th Birthday

United First Parish Church remembers one of its illustrious own at its worship this Sunday as it marks the 250th birthday anniversary of John Hancock.

Born here Jan. 23, 1737, Hancock, the patriot and first governor of Massachusetts under the new constitution of 1780, was the son of the Rev. John Hancock, who served as the fifth minister of First Parish Church from 1726 to 1744. Young Hancock was baptized by his father in the church, but following the early death of his father when he was only seven, he was adopted by his uncle, Thomas Hancock, a prosperous merchant in Boston. Nevertheless, his early childhood in the liberal spirit of First Parish and the Quincy community no doubt was an important influence. His father, the Rev. Hancock, is buried in Hancock Cemetery next to City Hall.

Dr. Sheldon W. Bennett, minister, will deliver remarks in memory of John Hancock's life at the Sunday worship at 10:30. He will also preach a sermon, "Making the Peace," taking up the practical question of achieving peace in our own lives and in the world.

'The Best Seat' Sermon Topic At Bethany

There will be two worship services at Bethany Congregational Church, Coddington and Spear Sts., Quincy Center, at 9 a.m. in the chapel and at 10 a.m. in the sanctuary.

The Rev. J. William Arnold, senior minister, will preach the sermon at both services entitled "The Best Seat," based on the scriptural text from the Gospel of Luke 14:1-14.

Lay scripture readers will be Lois Nordstrom for the early service and Marsha Archer for the late service. The associate minister, the Rev. Joel F. Huntington, will assist in leading the worship at both hours.

At the sanctuary service, baritone soloist Paul D. Johnson, will sing "Omnipotence" by Franz Schubert. The Chancel Choir, under the direction of organist Peter Krasinski, will sing as the offertory "Christ, the Fair Glory" a 17th century Rouen melody.

The service will also be broadcast "live" direct from the sanctuary, over station WJDA, 1300 kc at 10 a.m.

Sunday School will be in session from 10 to 11 a.m. with classes for pre-school through eighth grade. Nursery care is available for babies and toddlers, under the professional supervision of Denise Fleming, Bethany's early childhood coordinator. The Sunday School pupils will remain in rehearsal from 11 to 11:45 a.m. in preparation for two Spring musical productions.

At 11 a.m. there will be a fellowship hour in the Allen Parlor. Individuals and families from the community are welcome to attend the worship services and share in the fellowship hour, and to enroll children in the Sunday School.

The Annual Congregational Meeting will also be held Sunday Jan. 25, in the downstairs social hall, beginning with a turkey dinner at 11:45 a.m. The business session will follow at 12:30 with the moderator, Louise Forsyth, presiding.

A Bible Study course, "Covenant III" covering the New Testament will begin Wednesday, Jan. 28, from 7:30 to 9 p.m. in room 3 of the Parish Hall. This seven week course will be taught by Pastor Arnold and the public is welcome.

For additional information about Bethany's ministries and programs, please contact the church office at 479-7300.

Squantum First Church Elects Officers, Boards

Members of the First Church of Squantum held their annual meeting last Friday, after a potluck supper, in the Fellowship Hall of the church.

Rev. Gene Langevin, pastor, said he was pleased to note that more members attended the annual meeting this year than last.

Highlights of the reports read at the meeting included: Church pledges were $1500 higher this year than last. Both the church flea market and fair have been record fund-raisers this year. Members of the church have continued to make mission a priority, eighteen new members have been received during the year with three others preparing for membership, and the number of children in the Sunday School is growing steadily.

Officers of the church for 1987 will be:

Sally Johnson, moderator; Janet Townsend, clerk; Alyson Barnum, assistant clerk; Douglas Randall, auditor; Evelyn Ahearn, treasurer; Craig Zaehring, assistant treasurer; Hazel Mayne, financial secretary; Tom Williamson, benevolence treasurer; Grace Holmes, historian; Tore Wallin, head usher; May Lewis, Chris Dixey, and Dorothy Abbe, Church Council Members at Large.

Delegates for 1987 will be: Fred and Lorraine Josselyn, Inter-church Council; Tom Williamson, Metropolitan Boston Association; Si Porter, Protestant Social Service Bureau; and Ralph and Delina Dougherty, Massachusetts Conference of the United Church of Christ. Members of church boards for 1987 will be:

Board of Benevolence,

Members of church committees for 1987 will be:

Fair, Katherine Hansen, Flea Market, Hazel Mayne, Ruth and Luther Swenson; Flower, Barbara Edgar, Deborah Stohlberg, Ruth Swenson, Sandra Ahearn, Pat Olson, and Linda Mooney; Hospitality, Ruth Swenson; Furnishings, Barbara Walter, Kay Kelly, Gretchen Bumpus; Music, Gail Thornton, Janet Williamson, Valerie Gorrill, Barbara Walter, Joan Hansen, Lew Townsend and Mary Ruth Scott; Property, Calvin Bumpus, Si Porter, Dana Olson, Tore Wallin, Cynthia Stanton, Charles Todd; Security, Richard Hendry, Dana Olson, Peter Williamson, Stewardship, Tom Williamson, Barbara Anderson, Si Porter, Luther Swenson, Helen Miller, Stewart Scott, Richard Hendry, Andrew Ogilvie, and May Lewis; Wedding Arrangements, Valerie Gorrill, Linda

Thornton, Barbara Chapman, Renee Johnson, Genevieve Todd, Hazel Mayne, Lorraine Josselyn, Grace Holmes, and Barbara Anderson; Nominating, Joan Hansen, Gretchen Bumpus, Mary Ruth Scott, Arthur Sorenson, and Ellen Ogilvie, chairperson. The deacons emeriti remain Katie Crossman, Carrie MacIntyre, Helen Sorenson and Eva Martin.

Sunday morning the newly-elected officers were installed at both services. Dr. Langevin preached on the subject, "Reflections of a Social Gospel," at each service in honor of the memory of the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Guitarists Andy Ogilvie and Mary Ruth Scott accompanied the congregation during the first service.

"Morning Has Broken" as arranged by Dick Auerer was the special music at both services, sung by Karin Reister, Minda Hurd, Susan Scott and Sarah Mildram.

The anthem at the second service was Samuel Wesley's "Lead Me, Lord" sung by the Chancel Choir. Mary Ruth Scott directed.

Scott Catton and Deborah Stohlberg assisted the pastor with a special reading at the early service. Ushers at that service were Kim Olson and Kristen Reister; greeters at the later service were Andy Ogilvie and Robert Dixey; the ushers were Tore Wallin and Stewart Scott; and the Fellowship Hour after the service was hosted by Paulette Potter and Gail Thornton.

The young people of the church are sponsoring an all-church breakfast Sunday morning at 9:15 a.m. There will be a single service of worship for all at 10:30 a.m. that morning.

Ministering In Music Concert At Sacred Heart Friday

Singer Jon Polce and Alan Bissett will appear in concert Friday, Jan. 23, at 7:30 p.m. in St. Joseph's Oratory (lower church) of Sacred Heart Church, 386 Hancock St., North Quincy.

Polce, who has appeared at Sacred Heart many times, will be joined for the first time by

Over 100 Attend Foster Children's Party

Christmas came early to a group of foster children and their families on the South Shore.

With the aid of several area businesses and organizations, an early holiday party for over 100 people was held Dec. 7 at St. John's Church, Quincy.

Among the guests were foster children, foster parents and their children, and those interested in supporting the foster care program and learning more about it.

Also coordinating the event was the Quincy area office of the Department of Social Services and the Protestant Social Service Bureau in Quincy.

Santa Claus was guest of honor and presented attending children with a welcome gift.

Area businesses who help make the party a success were Barbara Jo Dolls in Brockton, The Red Balloon, Cohasset, the Quincy Salvation Army, Bradlee, Woolworth's, Brigham's, Toys for Tots and Games People Play of Cambridge.

League Directors Approve Quincy, North To Terminate Brockton Football Rivalry

Quincy Athletic Director Martin Finnegan announces that the Suburban League athletic directors have voted to allow North Quincy High and Quincy High to terminate their football rivalry with Brockton effective in the fall of 1988.

The teams will meet for the last time next fall.

Quincy and North are the two smallest schools in the league and Brockton has as many students in the freshman class than either Quincy and North have in the entire school.

It was hoped both schools could drop out of the Suburban League and join another league such as the Bay State or Old Colony League, but, according to Finnegan, it doesn't appear this will happen.

Both Quincy and North Quincy have been able to compete with Brockton in most other sports but, with rare exceptions, haven't been competitive in football.

Brockton has about 6000 students to choose from and has dominated the league in football and most other sports.

Quincy and North will stop playing Brockton only in football and will continue to face the Boxers in all other sports.

Most Productive Game

Presidents Skate To 9-3 Win Over North

At the start of the season, veteran Quincy hockey coach Bob Sylvia said if the Presidents could score some goals to offset the opponents' scoring, they might make up for the poor records of the past two seasons.

Since losing their first four games, the Presidents have done some scoring and last Saturday had its most productive game of the year in rolling over North Quincy, 9-3, their first win in three years over the Raiders.

The win improved Quincy's record to 3-6, giving it as many wins as it had last year. The loss dropped North to 3-7 and all but ended the Raiders' hopes of making the state tournament for the fourth year in a row.

After losing their first four games, the Presidents scored eight goals against Peabody and again against Revere, then lost two tight decisions to Waltham and Newton North by 3-2 scores.

Quincy will host Cambridge Rindge and Latin Saturday night at 7:50 at the Youth Arena and next Wednesday will be home to Brookline at 8:15, also at the Youth Arena.

Kevin Jago's North team will be home to Waltham next Wednesday night at 6:40 at the Youth Arena.

Adam McGregor had his third hat trick of the season to lead Quincy over North Quincy. He scored his "trick" in the middle of a 5-0 Quincy burst in the second period.

Tim Hall and Chuck Quigley had given the Presidents a 2-0 lead in the opening period before Mark Simonelli scored for North.

In the middle period Kevin Provenzano made it 3-1 for Quincy before McGregor's three goals and a Dan Hurley score ran the score to 7-1.

Provenzano, who assisted on two of McGregor's scores, and Joe Cotter scored to make it 9-1 before goals by North's Mark Zimmerman and David Young.

Wayne Chambers had three assists and Rick Ames two for the Presidents.

Greg Chambers, who has been playing extremely well for Quincy in goal, had 16 saves and North goalie Brian Mahoney had 22.

Earlier in the week Quincy was edged by Newton North, 3-2, despite another fine game by Chambers, who had 22 saves. Quincy peppered Newton goalie Bob MacDougall, who kicked aside 30 shots.

Newton's Lance Connery scored the game-winning goal with 5:22 left in the game, spoiling another fine effort by the Presidents.

Hall gave Quincy a 1-0 lead with Hank Miller and Rod Davis assisting, but Newton's Jay Cappello tied it. Jon Bertoni again put the Presidents ahead, 2-1 with Paul Scola assisting, early in the third period, but Newton's Joe Prota and Connery then scored to hand the Presidents their second straight hard-luck 3-2 loss.

Quincy Matmen Win 3 Meets

Quincy's wrestling team, enjoying its best season in the past few years, won three meets last week to improve its record to 7-4-1.

Rich Schiarizzi's Presidents will host Cambridge Rindge and Latin next Wednesday at 4 p.m.

Quincy defeated Stoughton, 41-27, and Needham, 52-18, last Saturday in a non-league tri-meet at Quincy. Rob Cabezas won his two bouts to improve to 12-0.

Against Stoughton Czarek Nalaskowski won by pin at 107 pounds, Al Souza won by pin at 114, Jay Collerton won, 13-0, at 128; Cabezas won by pin at 134, Todd Kimmell won by pin at 147, Dennis DeCoste won by pin at 157 and heavyweight Mim Feeley won by pin.

In the easy win over Needham Nalaskowski won by forfeit at 107, Souza won by pin at 114, Collerton won, 10-2, at 128, Cabezas won by pin at 134, Kimmell won by pin at 147, DeCoste won by forfeit at 157, Norm Hassan won by pin at 169 and Feeley won by pin in the heavyweight bout.

Earlier in the week the Presidents had defeated Newton North, 48-24, in a Suburban League meet.

Souza won by pin at 114, Rod Lingoes won by pin at 121, Collerton won by pin at 128, Cabezas won by pin at 134, Peter DePolo won by pin at 140, Kimmell won by pin at 147, DeCoste won by pin at 157, and Feeley won by pin in the heavyweight bout.

North Swimmers Lose

After winning four of its first five meets, the North Quincy swim team ran into two of the Suburban League's top teams last week and lost both meets to drop its record to 4-3.

The Raiders will be at Waltham Friday at 3:30 and will meet Quincy Friday, Jan. 30, at 6 p.m. at the Lincoln-Hancock School pool.

North lost to undefeated Brookline (9-0), 94-75, last Friday despite an excellent effort by Bradley Waltermire, who placed in three events.

Waltermire was North's only individual winner, taking the 200-freestyle in 2:15.3.

The Raiders' 400 freestyle relay team of Paul Nitschke, Chris Burke, Fred Cawthorne and Waltermire also won in 4:04.9.

North second place finishers were Nitschke, 50 freestyle; Cawthorne, 200 freestyle; Eric Giordano, diving; and Brian Ramos, 200 individual medley.

Placing third were Derek Borek, 50 freestyle; Waltermire, 100 freestyle; Burke, 200 freestyle and 500 freestyle; Matt McCusker, diving; Ramos, 100 butterfly; and Jason Moriarty, 100 breaststroke and 200 individual medley.

Earlier in the week North bowed to Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 93-79.

North's winners were Waltermire in the 200 freestyle (2:14.82); Burke, 500 freestyle (6:18.37); Moriarty, 100 breaststroke (1:13.17); and Giordano, diving (178.65 points).

Placing second were Cawthorne, 100 freestyle; Waltermire, 500 freestyle; and McCusker, diving.

Taking third places were Nitschke, 100 freestyle and 500 freestyle; Cawthorne, 200 freestyle; Ramos, 100 butterfly; David MacKay, 100 backstroke, and Harry Towle, 200 individual medley.

Lack of Depth Hurts Raiderettes

Although the North Quincy girls' track team has only a 1-3 record, the lone win being over Quincy, the Raiderettes have made a fine showing in each meet with only five points or less.

Coach Peter Chrisom hopes his team will make a good showing in the state coaches meet Saturday at Harvard. He also has high hopes for a good performance in the upcoming Suburban League championships and the state meet.

"Our main problem obviously is lack of depth," said Chrisom. "If two or three more of our athletes had placed, it would have made a big difference."

The North coach has some steady performers that he can count on to score in two or more events in each meet.

All-scholastic Tricia Barrett has run the distances strongly and has provided much needed leadership to the many young runners on the team.

These young runners include Sherrin Quintiliani, one of the top freshman runners in the league, and Joanne Moriarty, another promising freshman. The veteran distance runners are led by Ann Toland, Bridgette Toland and Leanne Fitzgerald.

The sprinters, who have become stronger in recent weeks, are led by the versatile sophomore Robin Guilfoyle, who has run the second best 50-yard dash in the league this season and also has won the shot put twice.

Sophomores Betsy Zadig and Holly Rendle challenge each other in the 300-yard run, in which both are tops in the league. Senior Jen Raferty sets the pace in the hurdles and high jump and Maryellen Cavanaugh, Tracy Panushka, Kathy Gordon and Margaret Heaney round out the sprinters.

The middle distances lack depth, but have the best all-around athlete North has had in recent years. Sophomore Karen Cashman continues to turn heads in the league with her spirited performances in the 600-yard run, high jump and the mile relay.

"She is the fiercest competitor I have seen and she hasn't even tapped her potential," said Chrisom.

Also running the middle distances are Melissa Flaherty and Karen Collings. Chrisom has a top shot putter in Gloria Gougian and is developing Kim Whalen and Sarah Harrington into strong shot putters.

• Mite-Squirt House

Balducci's Takes First Place

Balducci's broke a three-way tie and took over sole possession of first place in the Mite Squirt House League with an 8-4 victory over Quincy Surgical.

Brad Watkins had two goals and Eric Wood, Mark Regan, Sean Dillon, Brendan O'Brien, John Holler and John Barron one each. Brad Watkins and Dillon had two assists each and Key in Regan, Barron, Matt Watkins, Wood, Holler and O'Brien one apiece. For Surgical Kevin Boylen and Matt Suchan scored two goals each. Eric Kreuz had three assists, Robbie Callow two and Jamie Murphy, Danny Hughes and Dan Boylen one each.

Lydon-Russell topped Newcomb Farms, 7-3, with Jimmy Gallagher having a hat trick, Dan Donahue two goals and Scott MacPherson and John Healy one each. Healy and Mike DesRoche had three assists apiece and Gallagher one. Mike Grant scored twice and Jenna Nolan once for Newcomb Farms and Chris Grant had two assists and Grant and Danny Stone one each.

The Paul Harold Club defeated Rogan Hennessy, 6-2, sparked by Robbie Pirelli's hat trick. Ron McGann, Paul Princiotto and Joshua Wingate had a goal each. Chris Geary, Wingate, A.J. Carthas and Pat McGann had assists. Steven Barrett and Matt Logan scored for Rogan.

The standings: Balducci's, 6-2-2; Quincy Surgical, 5-3-2; Lydon-Russell, 5-6-2; Rogan Hennessy, 5-4-2; Bo Car Printing, 4-4-2; Harold, 4-7-0; Newcomb Farms, 3-6-0.

• Pee Wee House

Keohane's Widens Lead

Keohane's widened its Pee Wee House League lead to five points as it defeated Colonial Federal, 3-1.

Chris McCallum, John Bertrand and John McGowan had the goals and Mike Christopherson, Mike O'Brien, Bob Collins and Bertrand had assists. Matt O'Toole scored for Colonial Federal and Sean Vermette and Shane Abboud assisted.

Bersani Brothers topped UCT, 4-2, on goals by John

MacNeil, Sean McCarthy, Sean McArdle and Paul Bamber. Steve Keddy, John Wisnes, McArdle, McCarthy, Joe Zona and Mark Zych had assists. Sean Hannon and David Mullen scored for UCT with an assist for Mike Morrison.

The standings: Keohane's, 7-2-4; UCT, 6-6-1; Colonial Federal, 4-5-4; Bersani, 4-8-1.

Mite B's Win On Carthas' Last Shot

Quincy's Mite B team remained in first place in the Greater Boston League with a 9-5-2 record when A.J. Carthas scored with no time remaining on the clock to give the team a 4-4 tie with South Boston.

South Boston took an early 2-0 lead before Scott Cooper scored unassisted on a breakaway for Quincy early in the second period. South Boston scored twice more to take a 4-1 lead.

Quincy battled back as Robbie Callow scored two goals in a row late in the second period and early in the third to make it 4-3.

The third period featured outstanding goaltending by Quincy's Brian Walsh and South Boston's Paul Gruely and Quincy's hopes seemed to be lost when South Boston kept the puck in the Quincy zone.

With 15 seconds left Quincy defenseman Eric Griffin cleared the puck to Carthas at center ice and, after dodging one defender, Carthas' shot was stopped by Gruely. However, Carthas grabbed the rebound and scored the tying goal with no time remaining. The referee ruled the puck was in the air when the buzzer sounded and the goal counted.

St. Mary's School In Celtics' Shoot-Out

St. Mary's School of West Quincy will participate in the Boston Celtics Easter Seal Basketball Shoot-Out on Feb. 9. This statewide event, sponsored by Zayre and co-sponsored by Channel 56, will raise funds for Easter Seal services for people with disabilities.

Kevin McHale of the Boston Celtics is honorary chairman of the event and will present autographed Celtics basketballs to the statewide winners at the Celtics game on March 20.

Each student participating in the shoot-out will ask friends, neighbors and relatives to pledge a specific amount for each basket he or she makes. During the event, students shoot baskets for a three minute period and then collect money for Easter Seals based on pledges received.

All proceeds from the event are used to fund Easter Seal services for people with disabilities. These include therapeutic swim programs, stroke clubs, an equipment loan program and Easter Seal Home Health Care.

Panarelli, Faiella Teams Lead St. John's Second Half

St. John's Holy Name Bowling League opened the second half of the season with Mike Panarelli's team and Lou Faiella's team taking the lead by sweeping six points.

The standings: Panarelli and Faiella, 6-0; Bob Saluti, 4-2; Dick Guerriero, 2-4; Joe Marini and Art DiTullio, 0-6. Guerriero rolled the weekly high single of 148 and Marini had 147. Marini had the high three of 369 and Saluti rolled 362. Faiella's team had the high team single of 528 and DiTullio had 515 and 513. DiTullio had the high team three of 1492 and Faiella had 1478.

The Top Ten: Marini, 109.9; Dick Guerriero, 108.8; Saluti, 107.4; Panarelli, 105.4; John Grande, 102.1; Faiella, 100.2; Tom Darcy, 95.5; Rich Comeau, 95.1; Lew MacLennon, 94.8; Frank Guerriero, 94.7.

Raiders' Offense Sputters

The North Quincy boys' basketball team's offense hit a new low last week as the Raiders scored only 60 points in two games as they lost to Cambridge Rindge and Latin and Dorchester, dropping their record to 3-8.

North will play at Waltham

Friday night at 7:30 and next Tuesday will be at Brookline, also at 7:30.

As if things weren't bad enough, the Raiders had to face Dorchester last Friday without three suspended starters and lost a non-league decision, 56-36.

Ted Stevenson and Bob Silva scored 12 points each for North and Kip Caldwell, playing in his first varsity game, took down eight rebounds.

Earlier in the week North played a fine defensive game as it held Suburban League powerhouse Cambridge Rindge and Latin to a season-low 48 points, but the Raiders couldn't move the ball against the much bigger Cambridge team and lost, 48-24.

Denis Cronin had seven points and Stevenson added six for North.

Presidents' Famine Continues

Things don't get any better for the luckless Quincy boys' basketball team.

The Presidents had to face the top two teams in the Suburban League, Brockton and Cambridge Rindge and Latin, last week and they lost both as expected, dropping their record to 0-10.

Quincy will host Newton North Friday night at 7:30. Last Friday the Presidents were bombed by perennial league champion Cambridge, 83-49.

Earlier in the week much bigger Brockton (9-1) defeated Quincy, 74-40, rolling to a 29-18 lead at the half.

Steve Austin paced the Presidents with 11 points and Tom Logan added seven, but each got into early foul trouble.

North Girls Defeat Cambridge

The North Quincy girls' basketball team defeated a pesky Cambridge Rindge and Latin team, 41-34, last week, to improve its record to 8-2.

The Raiderettes are rated sixth in Eastern Mass. according to the Division I coaches' poll.

North will host Waltham Friday at 5 p.m. and will be home to Brookline next Tuesday, also at 5.

Trailing, 6-4, early in the game, North ran off seven straight points behind the scoring of Anne McGuigan, Nancy Flukes and Tricia Koski, to take an 1-6 lead. However, Cambridge scored three straight baskets and led, 12-11, after a quarter.

Cambridge scored first in the second quarter for 14-11 lead but North held the Warriors to three more points in the quarter and the Raiderettes took a 23-17 lead at halftime and never trailed again. Reserves Karrie Pistorino and Rita Rooney made themselves felt with Pistorino standing out on defense. After McGuigan brought North to within a point, Rooney scored the next six points.

Maureen Donovan hit two free throws and Pistorino had a steal at halfcourt and hit on a layup.

McGuigan dominated the boards in the second quarter, taking down five defensive rebounds.

Two technical fouls were called on the Cambridge coach at the end of the half and McGuigan made two free throws to start the second half to put North up by eight points.

Cambridge closed the gap to 33-27 after three quarters as North failed to convert on four layups.

Cambridge scored the first two baskets of the final quarter, but North's defense again rose up to stop the Warriors on their next 11 possessions as the visitors failed to score for the next five minutes.

Baskets by Donovan and McGuigan gave North a 39-33 lead with 30 seconds left and Flukes hit on two free throws with 10 seconds left to ice the victory.

North was led by an inspirational effort by McGuigan who, despite receiving 10 stitches to close a cut received the previous day in practice, scored 15 points and took down 17 rebounds. Donovan had 11 points, Flukes, held under double figures for the first time, dished out a school record nine assists, Rooney had six points and Koski eight rebounds.

"Our kids are quite happy to be at 8-2 halfway through the schedule," said Coach Paul Bregoli. "But they are not totally satisfied in that they feel they could be 10-0 if they had played a little better in their two losses. Our second unit was a real key in our win over Cambridge as they provided that second quarter spark we needed when we were flat. Patty Feeney, Nancy Leonard, Pistorino and Rooney all came in to a tight situation and played well.

"They really made things happen for us on defense. We have two big games this week (Quincy and Waltham). Quincy has been playing much better lately and will be a tough test for us."

Finnegan On Ch. 38 Drug Program

Boston's Channel 38 aired a drug program last night (Wednesday) and the program will be repeated Sunday night on Channel 38 Sports Talk at 10 p.m.

The program, "Paying the Price," includes the documentary, and "Candy to Cocaine." Quincy Athletic Coordinator Marty Finnegan is featured on a panel discussing local efforts in this area of concern.

First Ladies Find Suburban League Tough

The Quincy girls' basketball team continues to play well but finds the going tough in the strong Suburban League.

Last Friday the First Ladies suffered a big loss when their leading rebounder, Patti Morrell, injured her ankle early in the game and did not return as Cambridge Rindge and Latin took a 49-29 decision, dropping Quincy's record to 3-7.

The Quincy girls will play at Newton North Friday at 5 p.m.

When Morrell went out, the pressure was on her sister, Gayle, who scored eight points and took down 11 rebounds. Quincy shot only 30 per cent from the floor.

Cambridge took a 26-18 halftime lead and never looked back.

Earlier in the week Quincy lost to Brockton, 79-46, despite another fine effort by Gayle Morrell, who scored 17 points and took down 19 rebounds.

The First Ladies stayed even with the lady Boxers until midway in the second quarter when Brockton applied its full-court press and took a 31-25 lead at the half. The Boxers quickly put the game out of reach in the second half. Ginny Duggan had a fine game for the First Ladies and scored 10 points.

Squirt B's Blank Canton

Quincy's Squirt B team, sponsored by Quincy Cablesystems, blanked Canton, 4-0, in a Greater Boston League game.

Steve Provost had two goals and Jim Cipriano and Paul Ginns one each. Eric Zimmerman had two assists and Derek Mullen and Cipriano one each.

The Squirt B's also defeated Pembroke, 3-1, in a non-league game. Ginns, Provost and Patrick Connolly had the goals and Keith Driscoll, Tim Kinz, Cipriano, Lee Hughes and Billy Coughlin had assists.

Goalies Tim Wassiege and Mike Manganaro were outstanding in both games.

2 West Quincy Quarries To Open As MDC Park Facility

Two West Quincy quarries, once dangerous swimming holes, will open this spring as a recreational complex managed by the Metropolitan District Commission.

MDC Commissioner William Geary said his Metro Parks unit plans to be ready in April or May with recreational programs at Granite Rail and Little Granite Rail quarries consisting of nature tours, picnics, birdwatching and rock climbing. There will also be educational ventures, such as history lessons about the granite industry and the sites that yielded the stone blocks that built Bunker Hill Monument in Charlestown. But no plans to allow swimming at the rail quarries.

Geary said he has named Richard Doucette, 27, of Woburn, to an $18,400 post as quarry manager. Doucette will prepare the site and recreational programs and serve as park manager.

The MDC acquired the two rail quarries last May when the agency bought 22 acres of West Quincy land at a cost of $440,000. The quarry site is adjacent to the MDC Blue Hill Reservation and sits beside the city-owned Swingles Quarry, where swimming has long been outlawed by the city.

The two quarries are near the Granite Railway, a relic of what is sometimes called America's first commercial railway.

Besides Bunker Hill, the railway transported granite to barges at Neponset for transport to construction of Fort Independence on Castle Island in South Boston, and the Customs House in Boston.

As quarry manager, Doucette will be working with the Quincy Historical Society, the Appalachian Mountain Club, and the Friends of the Blue Hills and Railroad Enthusiasts in order to better preserve the quarries.

Geary said that due to MetroPolice presence at the two quarries this past summer, there were no fatal swimming accidents for the first time in many years. Future plans call for an ongoing supervisory presence there that will also consist of MetroParks Rangers.

RICHARD DOUCETTE

Tozzi Directs Auerbach, Track Meet

Former North Quincy High track and cross-country coach Lou Tozzi is the director of the third annual Red Auerbach freshman-sophomore development track meet to be held Saturday, Jan. 31, at MIT.

The meet is sanctioned by the MIAA. The small schools division meet, boys and girls, will be held at 9:30 a.m. and the meet for the large schools will be held at 1 p.m.

There is no entry fee and the Red Auerbach Foundation will be financially sponsoring the meet for all male and female athletes, including medals. There will be no team award and neckeribboned Red Auerbach medals will be awarded to six place winners in each event except the relay (three places only).

Each school may enter two boys and two girls per event with no qualifying standard.

Entries must be postmarked by next Monday and should be mailed to Lou Tozzi, 26 Hayes Way, Marshfield 02050. His home phone is 837-5185 and work phone is 786-8743.

Vision Support Group Formed Here

Vision Foundation, a support organization for people coping with sight loss, is sponsoring a self-help group which plans to meet in Quincy on the first Monday of each month at 7 p.m.

According to Marshall Weimann the Quincy group is one of 18 such groups across the state who encourages visually impaired people of all ages and backgrounds to share information, provide emotional support and suggest solutions to common everyday problems.

Weimann, who will designate where the meetings will be held, said each self-help group is led by a visually impaired group coordinator.

For more information and meeting location call 926-4232 or toll free: 1-800-852-3029.

11 Quincy Seniors Attend National Guard Seminar

Eleven Quincy seniors, members of the Jobs for Bay State Graduates, participated in an officer training seminar, sponsored by the National Guard.

They joined students from other Job chapters in Chelsea, Everett, Haverhill and Cambridge Rindge and Latin High Schools at the seminar and luncheon, where guard personnel, stationed in Quincy, spoke of the many benefits available to graduates who enlist in the guard.

Those attending from the North Quincy High School chapter were:

Daniel Gaudiano, president; Gloria Gougian, coordinator of career preparation; Andrea Ayer, secretary; April Jean Dempsey, coordinator of social affairs; Laura Ciulla, coordinator of civic affairs, and Maureen Marrella, coordinator of career development. Quincy High School chapter of officers were:

Amy Beardsley, president; Ginger McGee, leadership development; Tracey Cullen, secretary; Christine Reynolds, career preparation; Colleen Cushing, social affairs.

Jobs specialist officers who also participated were North Quincy's Chuck MacLeod and Quincy's Cynthia Lamanno, Lawrence Fitch, president; Dr. Mary Catherine Conroy, vice president; Jayne Happel, metro-regional director, and David Hamilton, business manager for the Patriot Ledger who is a Jobs regional vice chairman.

Jobs for Bay State Graduates is a school-to-job transition school program where employment skills are taught to students so they can be successful in the job market following graduation.

Estate Planning Seminar At Chamber Jan. 28

The South Shore Chamber of Commerce will hold a seminar on estate planning Wednesday, Jan. 28 from 8:30 a.m. to 12 noon at the Educational Training Facility of South Shore Bank, 19 Chestnut St., Quincy.

Information will be provided in the areas of trust aspects of estate planning, insurance planning, accounting procedures and legal ramifications. A panel will explain the planning of an estate and the changing of an existing estate.

Panelists include: John Field, senior vice president of South Shore Bank; John Doody, president of Arthur L. Doody Insurance Co. of Randolph and Mattakesett Insurance in Pembroke; James Drew, partner of O'Connor and Drew, CPAs; and Ralph Rivkind, Esq., partner, Rivkind, Baker and Golden P.C.

Gerry Gigon, plant manager of Armstrong World Industries of Braintree and vice president of community development for the Chamber, said the estate planning seminar is one of the best attended seminars put on by the Chamber. This year will be even more important because of changes brought on by the 1986 tax reform law, he added.

Cost of the seminar is $50 for chamber members, $75 for non-members. There is a 40-people limit for the seminar and program materials will be provided.

For reservations and more information call Maureen Rogers, manager of community development for the Chamber at 479-1111.

Kennedy, Bulger At Chamber Reception

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, Senate President William Bulger and South Shore legislators will attend the South Shore Chamber of Commerce Legislative Buttonhole Reception on Thursday, Jan. 22 from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. at the Sheraton-Tara in Braintree.

Tickets are $25. To make reservations call 479-1111.

Lydon Asks Check On Venting At Dry-Cleaning Shop

Councillor John J. Lydon, Jr., has requested Building Inspector Kenneth Johnson, to make a thorough review of the venting of the dry-cleaning establishment now being constructed on West Squantum St. at the site of an old gas station.

Lydon said a number of neighbors have called him expressing concern with the venting of chemicals into the neighborhood. He has requested that the building inspector inform him as to the exact location of vents in an effort to ensure that there will be no venting of chemicals into the neighborhood.

Executive House Tenants, Management To Meet On Evictions, Other Issues

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

A group of Executive House tenants plans to meet soon with management of the 1025 Hancock St. high-rise to discuss phasing out a special 40-year tax agreement with the city and a rent roll back.

The tenant group also hopes the meeting will lead to cancellation of eviction notices, and provision of a written statement against condominiums in the building.

The group reached the consensus following a two-hour meeting with city officials at Temple Beth El last week.

The meeting was held after 95 of the 176 tenants received notices of rent increases of up to $207 a month. Forty-five who paid the increase into an escrow account, pending resolution of the matter, instead of to the landlord received eviction notices.

At the meeting, tenants association attorney Jonathan C. Young said the tax agreement, called a 121A agreement, governs taxes paid by the building and the uses the building can be put to.

"No condos or coops can be developed in that location until the 121A agreement is terminated," said Young, who noted the agreement was signed in 1965.

Young said that supporting the landlord in breaking the agreement would be a tradeoff to resolve the immediate threat of the rent increases and evictions.

"I think it is very unfortunate that you people are the pawns of management's very cruel, in my judgement, game as far as attempting to convert this building into condominiums," said City Council president Stephen McGrath.

McGrath said he was opposed to any conversion of the building to condominium and any dissolution of the 121A agreement.

"The 121A agreement was a useful tool as far as providing some affordable housing," said McGrath, "and that was what was provided."

"As long as I have anything to say about it, we're not going to change that particular rule just to accommodate some people who would like to make some quick money on this thing and convert to condos."

Cornelius Sullivan, the landlord's attorney, had told tenants recently the rent hikes were necessary because the city increased the building's assessment from $4 million to $7.5 million which raised the taxes which must be paid.

The higher rents were also needed to press a lawsuit that contends that the city is trying to collect more taxes than it was due, according to Sullivan.

Assistant City Solicitor Robert Quinn said that state laws mandated the increased assessment by requiring municipalities to assess property at fair market value.

Quinn also said that rent increases of about $12 to $14 a month for each of the 176 units would have covered the increased tax due the city.

If the building were converted to condominiums, the city would expect to collect an estimated $4 million in tax money which would have been paid if the special agreement had not been in effect for 21 years, Quinn said.

The meeting was arranged by Jane Reikard, executive secretary of the Rent Grievance Board.

5-Hour Session

Police Study Committee Has 'Positive Meeting'

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

A committee on implementation of recommendations in the police study conducted under the auspices of the Massachusetts Municipal Association held its first meeting Monday at City Hall.

"It was a very positive, lengthy meeting," reported Mayor Francis McCauley, who said he met with the consultant and the MMA representatives prior to the meeting, but did not stay for the five-hour session.

His representative at the meeting was Assistant City Solicitor Robert Quinn.

Police Chief Francis Finn, who was among members of the Police Department at the meeting, had no comment on the session.

Other committee members are City Councillors Michael Cheney and James Sheets and Lt. Dennis Mannix of the Quincy Police Department.

Also attending were Police Capt. Paul Nestor, Capt. Walter Frazier, Capt. William Murphy, Capt. Frederick Laracy and Capt. David Rowell, consultant Charles Hale, and Mark Morse and Brent Wilkes of the MMA.

The committee reviewed progress made toward recommendations in the study that can be implemented immediately, according to McCauley.

Each of the recommendations in the study was placed in one of three categories, he said.

Category One is for immediate implementation of up to six months, 26 recommendations; category two, intermediate implementation, six to 12 months, 23 recommendations; and category three, long range implementation, 12 months or more, 13 recommendations.

The committee was suggested by the MMA to review recommendations, assign priorities and suggest implementation strategies.

It will hold its next meeting in March, McCauley said.

McCauley Praises Plowing Efforts

"It" was a very good performance by the Department of Public Works" said Mayor Francis McCauley of clean-up efforts by the city department after the fifth winter storm of the season Monday, the fourth in nine days.

"We didn't receive many calls or complaints of unplowed streets," said McCauley, after the blizzard-like storm which left residents digging out from six more inches of powdery snow.

School was cancelled, as were many other activities.

McCauley said that city sanders were sent out when the storm started about 5 a.m.

At about 10 or 11 a.m., 35 pieces of outside equipment were hired, bringing to 50 the total complement of snow fighting equipment.

McCauley said he did not have cost estimates of Monday's storm, but noted that $300,000 had been appropriated in the budget.

"In February, we should know what the snow situation is," he said.

DPW Commr. Paul Anderson said that cost estimates are delayed because this year the figures are being computed through data processing.

"This way, when we come up with the numbers, we'll be right on the money," said Anderson.

But I can tell you one thing, I think we're going to bust the budget this year."

Input Requested On Presidents' Place

Councillor Patricia Toland, chairman of the City Council's Downtown and Economic Development Committee, is inviting local residents to voice their opinions of the proposed $55 million Presidents' Place project at a meeting tonight (Thursday).

The meeting, postponed from Monday night because of the snow storm, will begin at 6:30 p.m. in the Council Chambers at City Hall.

"We'd like to see some citizens give input on the design as well as any other aspect of the project," said Councillor Toland.

"Presidents' Place will be the most important development project downtown Quincy will have in this decade," she said.

"It will speak to what 20th century architecture in Quincy is, and we'll want it to be comprised of beautiful buildings.

"We'd like people to be there to listen and comment," she said.

Councillor Toland explained her own concerns about the project.

"I'd like to see some changes in the design," she said. "I like the concept of the project, combining retail, commercial and residential aspects. It's an excellent idea for downtown Quincy.

"But we want to be very careful that the architectural integrity is maintained in this project with the 11 other buildings in the historic district.

"We want everyone to be satisfied when the development is completed, that we have done the best we can," she said.

2 Residents Sworn In As Suffolk Deputy Sheriffs

Two Quincy men were among 45 members of the Northeastern University Public Safety Division recently sworn in as deputy sheriffs of Suffolk County by Sheriff Robert Rulo.

As deputies, James M. Cooney and Michael J. Dwyer will now be able to assist the Boston Police Department in providing emergency police services in the neighborhood of the Northeastern campus.

Dwyer is a detective, and Cooney, a police officer, in the school's public safety division.

McCauley Calls Washington Trip 'Positive Session'

"It was a very positive session," said Mayor Francis McCauley of his recent trip to Washington, D.C., for the annual Mayor's Mid Winter Conference.

Making the trip with McCauley were his executive secretary Peter Kenney, Planning Director Richard Meade and City Councillor Patricia Toland.

Among the speakers were Sen. James Wright and Sen.

Robert Byrd of West Virginia, the senate majority leader, he said.

"The new Congress is moving to take favorable action that is important to cities," said McCauley.

The $100 million Clean Waters Act has been passed by both the House and Senate, he said. It signed by the president, it will help clean up Boston Harbor and Quincy Bay, as well as other areas.

The Mass. Transit Bill is in the process of being passed and there is a movement to reauthorize the Community Development Block Grant program, according to McCauley.

Also discussed was a Housing and Community Development Act which would authorize such funds as $200 million in fiscal 1988 for the Emergency Food Distribution and Shelter Program for the homeless, noted McCauley.

The mayor said he was assigned to a task force to study city and state relations.

"We'll compile a list of items such as what works well with state government and what does not," he said.

Blaze Injures 5 Firefighters, Causes $70,000 Damage

Officials are investigating the cause of a three-alarm fire in West Quincy Saturday night which caused an estimated $70,000 damage to a three-story wood-frame house being converted into a two-story dwelling.

It is not being called suspicious at this time, according to Acting Fire Chief Carl Valenti.

Several firefighters were injured, apparently not seriously, battling the blaze in near zero temperatures.

Valenti said the Fire Department encountered two frozen hydrants which hampered efforts at fighting the fire at 31 Filbert St.

"We had to have apparatus on Common St. relay water up to the apparatus on Filbert St.," said Valenti. "Filbert St.

is a very narrow area and it was tough to get into."

The owner of the building, Brian Green of 16 Furnace St., Marshfield, had been occupying the second floor but was not in the house that night because of the cold, Valenti said.

The blaze apparently started at the front of the first floor and the main body of the fire quickly spread up through the roof, he said.

"It was a tough job to knock down the fire under very adverse conditions," said the chief.

Lt. Francis Sullivan and Firefighter Dan Polvers were injured when flames blew through a door, said Valenti. Polvera's injury was minor, and Sullivan was taken to Quincy City Hospital where he was treated and released, he said.

Lt. Anthony DiNardo, and Firefighters Henry Lynch and Joseph Barron were operating a line on the side porch when part of a gutter fell on them, according to Valenti.

Barron was taken to Quincy City Hospital where he was treated and released, Valenti said. The other men were treated at the scene and remained on duty, the chief said.

"The temperature was about zero, the roads were icy, the ladders were icy and it was a tough night to fight a fire," Valenti said.

The first alarm came in at 8:22 p.m., the second at 8:28 p.m., and the third at 8:37 p.m., with the all out at 12:07 a.m., Valenti said.

After Hours Liquor Hearing Continued

By DAN CONNELLY
The License Board continued to Feb. 10 a hearing on an alleged liquor law violation at The Hat Rack, Copeland St., Quincy, to allow input from Ward 4 Councillor James Sheets and abutters.

At Tuesday's meeting, Chairman John Gillis had read into the minutes of the hearing a police report detailing the Jan. 8, 1987, 2:13 a.m. violation. The board also heard testimony from Cindy Silveria, representing the Quincy Neighborhood Housing Services, that the bar is an area of contention with the neighborhood.

Police Sgt. Angus McEachern turned over to the board a copy of a report that stated:

"At 0205 hours, this date (Jan. 8) the police department communications sergeant received a complaint that persons were drinking at The Hat Rack on Copeland St. He dispatched two officers and myself.

The report said they arrived at 0213 hours and entered through the door which was opened by a person who was exiting. Inside there were a total of eight persons. Two were behind the bar and the rest either standing or sitting at the bar. On the bar to the front of a man and woman were an empty beer bottle and a glass full of ice, a straw and the remains of a dark colored liquid in the bottom. Also on the bar between two women were two tall cups each of which was three-quarters full of liquid, ice cubes and a straw. The report then went on to describe the contents.

McEachern's report added that a Stephanie Kondrat Nye was behind the bar and identified herself as the bartender and person in charge of the premises.

She cleared the bar of the drinks and bottles, had all persons present leave and in general was very cooperative, the report stated.

License Board Briefs

The License Board took the following action during its Tuesday meeting at City Hall:

- Granted Guylan McKenzie a Motor II license to operate National Auto Recovery, located at 64 Washington Court.
- Granted the Houghs

Neck Superette, 106 Bay View Ave., a common victualer take out only license. Mrs. Joanne Bythrow requested the permit.

- Granted a one-day all alcoholic license for the Woodward School for Girls to hold a Las Vegas Night on Saturday, Feb. 7, from 7 p.m. to 12 midnight.

- Granted Mrs. Pauline Sweeney, representing the American Cancer Society, a permit to conduct the society's annual Daffodil Day on Wednesday, March 18, in Quincy. Rain date for the benefit drive is March 19.

'Molotov Cocktails' Touch Off West Quincy Fire

A two-alarm fire Thursday night at Tech Hydrolics, West Quincy, caused an estimated $7,000 damage and fire department officials are calling it arson.

"It was definitely a case of arson," said Acting Fire Chief Carl Valenti of the blaze at 113 Garfield St.

"It appears that three molotov cocktails were thrown through the office window at the south side of the building," he said. "One of them did ignite, the other two did not go off."

Valenti said that there were two separate fires burning at the same time in the middle office where the blaze was contained.

The building is owned by Stephen Malone, Dexter Ave., Woburn and Robert Tedesco, Grove St. Hanover, according to Valenti.

The two molotov cocktails which did not go off will be brought to the state Fire

Marsh's office to determine what type of accelerator was used, he said.

The fire is being investigated by that office, the Quincy Fire Department and Quincy Police Department.

No injuries were reported, but Valenti said that the roads on the way to the fire were "extremely slippery" during the snow storm.

The first alarm was called in at 9:34 p.m. and all out was at 11:14 p.m., he said.

Safety Tips For Women

Because of the attacks against women in the past several weeks, the Metro-Police Crime Prevention Office has issued the following self-protection tips:

Walk In Pairs-A lone

walker or jogger is an easy target for a mugger or attacker.

Avoid Short Cuts-An

attacker will often be familiar with these routes and try to catch you with your guard down.

Drop For Freedom Of Movement-Avoid long confining skirts, clogs, platform shoes, tight pants, easy to grasp cables, long necklaces or scarves. They help a potential mugger knock or pull you down.

Be Suspicious-Keep alert and look over your shoulder frequently when walking or jogging. It lets the person following you know that you can't be taken by surprise.

If Being Followed On Foot-

Cross the street, vary your pace, change directions, be ready to break into a run. Go to a lighted store, home or other business and call the police with a description.

If Being Followed By A

Car-Turn around and drive in the opposite direction. If the car continues to follow you, do not drive home. Go directly to a well lit business or police station and blow your horn.

Walk Confidently-Know where you are going. An attacker often sizes up his victim. If they look like an easy mark he is more likely to single them out as a potential target. If you do get lost go to a public place like a store for directions.

Your Appearance Counts-

Expensive jewelry or clothing is added enticement for a mugger with robbery on his mind. Be alert in banks and stores as well, these are favorite hangouts for muggers. They watch for people who just withdrew money or are carrying expensive items.

Protect Valuables-Grip

your purse or briefcase close to your body. Keep wallets with cash and valuable credit cards in an inside pocket. Many women carry a decoy or throw-a-way bag with no valuable items in it. If a handbag snatch occurs, the thief gets worthless property and a physical confrontation is avoided.

If you are physically attacked and have no possibility of escape, MetroPolice suggest that you:

Yell Or Scream-As loud as you can to alert others and to scare your assailant off.

Turn Aggressively On Your

Attacker-Twist, bite, jab, bite or scratch at the assailant's vital area (eyes, nose, groin, throat). Be prepared to be aggressive. A half-hearted defense will only further agitate the attacker. The best defense is to be prepared for an attack. Try to escape first. If your best attempts fail, resist with as much force as possible.

Weapons-Unless you are thoroughly trained in their use, it is best not to carry them. Guns, knives, tear gas and other weapons can easily be turned against you by the assailant.

If you are the victim of an attacker the MetroPolice Crime Prevention Office recommends:

- Report the incident to the police as soon as possible.
- Not down as many details as possible. The more complete the description of a motor vehicle or the assailant's physical appearance, the easier it will be for the police to identify and locate the suspect.
- Press charges by following through with your local police. Too often out of fear or retaliation, the victim won't report the attack and a dangerous criminal can remain at large to prey on others.
- If you are raped seek help immediately from a rape crisis center or your nearest hospital. Go as you are to preserve valuable time and evidence. Notify the police immediately.
- Memorize the telephone number of your local police or dial the operator and calmly give your exact location and nature of the incident. Be sure to give the town or city you are calling from before you hang up.

Tax Aid For Elderly Starts Feb. 9

Tax Assistance for the elderly will start Feb. 9, 9 a.m., at the J.F. Kennedy Health Center.

In order to participate you must make an appointment. Starting Feb. 2, The Quincy Council on Aging will accept calls daily from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at 773-1380 ext. 243.

Those having their taxes done are asked to bring last year's completed forms, all bank statements, and any other tax forms received, both federal and state.

Without all information, volunteers cannot assist. It is important that appointment be made because of the large number of participants in this program.

School Committeemen Frank Anselmo who will be 89 Sept. 22 is probably the oldest elected official in Massachusetts.

And, maybe the U.S.A. But at heart, he feels like "a kid of 50".

Anselmo, who was first elected in 1961, is up for re-election this year.

His 89th birthday and the city preliminary election will arrive almost hand-in-hand. In fact, Sept. 22 which is a Tuesday this year could very well be the designated election day.

Is he going to run again?

"I think I'll sit tight for awhile -- maybe until June -- before I decide," he answers to that one.

Well, is he leaning toward running?

"Sure, I'd like to run again," he says. "If I don't feel any worse than I do now, I will run."

Well, how does he feel?

"Good. I just got over a bad cold. And I sprained myself in a fall on ice the first storm of the winter. But I'm going to Florida next month for a little sunshine and that should take care of things."

He expects to come back "tiring to go."

Raring to go campaigning?

"My brains are still ticking and I like to keep active. So ..."

Anselmo, incidentally, says he thinks its about time the city spent some money for repairs, upkeep and maintenance to the city's school buildings.

"We have neglected the schools by not spending any money for maintenance. We're being penny wise and pound foolish."

"Our schools need new windows, roofs, doors and other capital improvements. I would say we could spend $4 to $5 million to put the schools back into good physical shape."

Anselmo has requested a list of physical needs from School Supt. John Osterman.

At the next School Committee meeting, Anselmo plans to request that Mayor Francis McCauley float a bond of $4 to $5 million over a 10-year period.

"We can get 60 percent reimbursement from the state on any capital improvements," says Anselmo.

"If we don't take care of these buildings now, the work will soon cost $8 to $10 million."

Anselmo notes that Mayor Francis McCauley is allocating a half million for the re-opening of the Wollaston School.

"That's peanuts," he sniffs. "It's going to take a lot more than that to get the Wollaston School back into shape."

Part of the $4 to $5 million he wants the mayor to initiate would go to putting the Wollaston School in good condition.

Anselmo says he is not against thrift.

"But," he says, "sometimes we can over do penny pinching. And I think we already have."

Hospital To Hold Stop Smoking Program

Free introductory meetings on Smoking Cessation, a five-day stop smoking program, will be held Thursday, Feb. 5, at 7:30 p.m. in the second floor Conference Room in the Administration Building of Quincy City Hospital.

The first class will be held Monday, Feb. 9, at 7:30 p.m. in Room 121 of the Hunting Building.

The program is presented by Jean Hodgkins, R.N.C., health educator at Quincy City Hospital, who is an instructor certified by the American Institute of Preventive Medicine.

More information is available by calling 773-6100, ext. 3005 or 3056.

The 1983 Surgeon General's Report on Smoking and Health called it "a particularly successful" stop smoking program because quitting rates are two to three times the national average. Dr. Don R. Powell, the program's founder, has presented SMOKING CESSATION at the national meetings of various organizations including the American Medical Association, American Public Health Association, and the American Heart Association. In addition, the program has been featured on numerous television and radio talk shows including "Good Morning America" and has been written about in a variety of publications.

Organizations that have offered the program are Blue Cross/Blue Shield, Center for Disease Control, Exxon, Upjohn, J.C. Penney, General Motors, Equitable Life Assurance, CBS, Burlington Industries, and McGraw Hill.

After a free introductory meeting, participants in the SMOKING CESSATION system enter into four consecutive one and one-half hour skill development sessions where they are taught how to prevent cigarette urges from occurring and how to immediately eliminate an urge if one should present itself.

The smoking habit is viewed from psychological, physiological, behavioral and sociological viewpoints. In addition, a maintenance program to keep people off cigarettes permanently is included.

Quincy City Hospital offers a guarantee. If any graduate of Smoking Cessation should ever go back to smoking, or wants to reinforce their non-smoking behavior, they may re-attend the program at no additional charge.

The disposable paper goods are needed by the coalition because it does not yet have a permanent site, according to the Parish Advisory Council.

The council reported that there was a great response to an earlier drive.

The paper goods will be collected at Masses this weekend at 4:30 p.m. Saturday, and at 7, 9:30 and 11:30 a.m. Sunday.

A QUINCY DELEGATION will be on hand in Australia rooting for the Stars and Stripes crew to bring home the America's Cup.

The group which flew out of Boston for the long trip to Down Under included:

George Riley, insurance agency co-owner and his wife, Pat, former Building Inspector Allan MacDonald and his wife, Jan, his brother, Jay MacDonald and his wife, Virginia; Plumbing Inspector James Irwin, Don McNally, plumbing firm owner, and fiancée Paula Scanlon.

The group was scheduled to fly to San Francisco and then to Hawaii where they will stay for two nights and arrive in Australia Friday.

The first race is Saturday.

The U.S. hopes to bring back the coveted America's Cup which was lost to Australia in 1983.

The Quincy Group is part of a 300 member rooting section out of America's Cup Club in Newport, R.I.

Riley plans to send some eye-witness reports back to The Sun and to WJDA.

Parishioners are asked to bring plates, cups, and flatware to the church where containers will be available to receive them.

Task Force Continues Search For Knife Attacker

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

While a special task force continued to search for a knife-wielding attacker who has stabbed four women in Quincy and Milton, a crime prevention meeting was scheduled to be held Tuesday night at the Bryan Post for concerned residents.

The meeting followed a similar session Monday night in Milton which drew more than 200 people despite a winter storm earlier in the day.

One of the speakers at the meeting, Crime Prevention Officer Robert Hanna of the Quincy Police Department, outlined some of the suggestions he offers.

- Be aware of your surroundings.

- Try to walk with someone else.

- If you are followed, try to attract attention because this is something the suspect doesn't want.

- If you do become a victim, use an umbrella or a hat pit, scream, yell, kick the attacker in the shins or groin.

More of Hanna's crime prevention suggestions are listed in his Crime Watch column on Page 9 of this issue.

The meeting was also to include talks by Dr. Philip Quinn of South Shore Mental Health, as well as representatives of the task force and District Attorney's office.

Hanna, who appeared on WBZ's "People Are Talking" earlier Tuesday to discuss crime prevention, said that another community meeting will be held one evening next week at the Atlantic Neighborhood Center.

The last attack occurred Monday, Jan. 19, at 6:30 p.m. when Patricia Sullivan, 41, of Medford was stabbed from behind as she walked on Governors Road, Milton, near the Quincy line.

She was listed in fair condition at Milton Medical Center at press time Tuesday. A spokesman said she has been transferred from the intensive care unit where she had been since the attack.

Kelda Caldwell, 26, of Quincy was stabbed twice the morning of Jan. 16, while she was walking to work at the State Street South Complex in North Quincy.

She was hospitalized and has since been released from Quincy City Hospital.

Lois Walker, 27, of Milton, was stabbed in the back while jogging in Milton the evening of Jan. 15.

The first attack was reported Dec. 30 when a woman was stabbed twice while walking to work on Willet St., Wollaston. She has since recovered from her injuries.

In all of the instances, the attacker did not speak. He is described as a light-skinned black man with closely cropped hair, 5 feet 8 inches to 5 feet 9 inches tall.

Quincy's Yesterdays

Super Destroyer Keel Laid At Fore River

The keel for the super destroyer USS Wilkinson was laid at the Bethlehem Quincy Shipyard but it was an occasion for sober thought, not rejoicing.

Once Wilkinson and her sister ship, Willis A. Lee, are delivered to the Navy in March, 1952, under a $30 million contract, work will cease at the shipyard.

But Frazier A. Bailey, president of the National Federation of American Shipping, held out some hope for the future at a "Save Shipbuilding" mass meeting at Quincy High School.

He told the meeting, sponsored by the Quincy Committee for the Advancement of the American Merchant Marine, that a long range ship subsidy bill will be passed soon by the Congress.

And Alexander Purdon, executive vice president of the Quincy Chamber of Commerce, urged those attending the meeting to bombard Congress with letters, telegrams and phone calls for the bill.

NEW SCHOOLS NEEDED

Mayor Thomas S. Burgin told the School Committee that the city needs to spend up to $3.5 million on improvements, including four new schools and an addition to City Hospital.

The problem, he said, is that the city's borrowing capacity within the debt limit is only $1 million. Borrowing outside the limit requires an act of the State Legislature.

The Mayor said the new schools needed are elementary schools at Fenno St., in Germantown and in the Cranch Hill Section, and a new junior high school.

Stress Management Program At Hospital

A free introductory program on "Systematic Stress Management" will be held Tuesday, Feb. 3, at 7 p.m. in the second floor conference room of the administration building at Quincy City Hospital.

The stress management program, given in three, two-hour sessions, is designed to teach individuals to cope more effectively with stress in their lives.

As part of the program, participants will learn a systematic technology that is designed to prevent and minimize all types of stress. The techniques are effective, easy to learn and can be readily used in a person's normal living and work environment, according to Jean Hodgkins, R.N.C., Health Educator at Quincy City Hospital, who is an instructor certified by the American Institute of Preventive Medicine. Topics covered in the program include how to identify the causes of stress in your life, how to relax your mind and body, and how to recognize erroneous, self-defeating thoughts and replace them with realistic, relaxing beliefs.

Stress is a complex pattern of biochemical and behavioral changes organized by the body in order to cope with any increased demand placed upon it, said Mrs. Hodgkins.

"We begin life with a natural stress level and a capacity to adapt to life events. Over time, this adaptation energy is slowly spent fighting emotional and physical emergencies. Every stress event leaves an invisible scar that causes our bodies to become more run down," she said.

Calling ours "a nervous age," Mrs. Hodgkins cited several reasons for inner turmoil. They include the high cost of living, crime, unemployment, over-demanding work and the changing roles of men and women.

"We pay a heavy emotional price for all this. The costs include tension symptoms, psychosomatic illnesses, physical complaints, and unsatisfying relationships. Developing effective ways to cope with the stresses of life has become a necessity," she added.

The first class will be held Tuesday, Feb. 17, at 7 p.m., in the Hunting Building, Room 121. Individuals who are not able to attend the introductory session, are invited to arrive 15 minutes early for the initial session, to be oriented with the program.

For additional information, contact Mrs. Hodgkins at the hospital at 773-6100, ext. 3005 or 3056.

The applications must be returned by March 15.

Announcement of the winners will be made on or near Mr. McIntyre's birthday, May 25.

Democrats In Ward 1 To Caucus

Registered Democrats in Ward 1 will hold a caucus at 2 p.m. Feb. 7 at the Houghs Neck Community Center to elect delegates to the 1987 Massachusetts Democratic Convention.

State Rep. Thomas Brownell will call the caucus to order.

The only persons eligible to participate are those who were registered Democrats in the ward as of Dec. 31, 1986. There will be no absentee or proxy voting.

Candidates for delegate and alternate must be present. Each candidate will be allowed to make a two minute speech and distribute on his or her behalf one sheet of paper listing qualifications and ideas.

All ballots will be written and secret.

Challenges to the delegate selection process can be filed in writing to the Massachusetts Democratic State Committee, 11 Beacon St., Suite 426, Boston.

Preparing Pasta A Quite Different Way

Here is something different from the usual way to prepare pasta and that is a stuffed cannelloni or large shells done with seafood with a white sauce. Although if you wish, you can use the traditional tomato sauce, but for today's recipe I am using a white delicate sauce instead.

A cannelloni is a large tubular macaroni that is very easy to fill after it is parboiled. You may also use a large shell.

SEAFOOD STUFFING FOR CANNELLONI OR SHELLS

- 2 large fresh shrimp (cut up small)
- 4 large scallops, also cut up
- 1 egg
- 2 Tbsps butter
- 2 Tbsps olive oil
- 1 cup seasoned bread crumbs
- 2 Tbsps cooking sherry
- 1/2 lb. of cannelloni or large shells
- 2-3 cups sauce
- extra grating cheese

Heat butter and olive oil in a skillet and saute the cut up shrimp and scallops together. Add the bread crumbs, egg and wine stirring until the mixture is the right consistency for stuffing. Set aside.

LIGHT SAUCE

- 1 stick unsalted butter
- 1/4 cup of parmesan cheese
- 1 pint cream
- 1 tspn fresh parsley

Melt the butter and add the parsley, sauteing for a minute or two. Add the parmesan cheese, stirring while you add the cream. Set aside.

After you have parboiled the cannelloni and drained them, stuff each one with the seafood mixture. In a lightly buttered baking pan, place a layer of the sauce and then layer the stuffed cannelloni side by side. Pour sauce on each one and bake in a 350 degree oven for about 25 minutes. Use a cover for the first 15 minutes and then uncover and bake until done. Serve hot with extra sauce and grated cheese.

If you have any information concerning any of the above crimes, or any crime, please call the Quincy Police Detective Bureau at 479-1212 ext. 371. If you have any information about the stabbings in Milton and Quincy please call the Task Force at 328-4527. You will not be required to identify yourself.

About Self-Protection!

During the past several weeks there has been a lot of concern about the recent stabbings in our city, and there is good reason to be concerned.

I would just like to assure you that the streets of our fine city are still safe if you take a few simple precautions.

First: While you are walking stay alert for the unexpected. Keep your mind on what is going on about you. Know who and what is around you.

Second: Don't take any unnecessary chances. Whenever possible walk with another person. Stay in well lit areas and avoid shortcuts.

If you are followed, cross the street and reverse direction. If the subject continues to follow, get help at a home or at a business that may be open. If there are no businesses or homes in the area, attract attention by yelling or flagging down a passing car. You may also use a whistle to attract attention.

If you are attacked, yell and scream to attract attention and scare your attacker off.

If you are attacked try to get a description of your attacker. His height, weight, skin tone, age, hair and eye color and description of clothing. You may also make a mental note of any scars tattoos or disabilities or any odor of alcohol or drugs on his person. All of these things will help police to capture the suspect.

We do not feel that you should carry a weapon unless you are thoroughly trained in its use and licensed to carry it. You must remember that anything that you use as a weapon can also be taken from you and used against you. I feel that you would be better off using the time that it would take getting the weapon out to get out of the situation or attracting attention.

You might consider carrying an umbrella as a weapon. You would have it in your hand and ready to use in case of attack. The handle of an umbrella makes a good weapon and the length of the umbrella makes it a good weapon for holding an attacker back.

I have also been asked about self-defense training. I feel that Karate, Judo and other martial arts can improve your self defense skills, but you must remember that it takes years of practice to become good at these skills.

If you follow these suggestions you will diminish your chances of becoming the victim of an attacker.

Above all, it is important that you report anything suspicious to the police IMMEDIATELY!! If it is an emergency call us on 911. If it is information or suspicion about the stabbings, call us at 328-4527 ... The Task Force. Any other information can be given at the regular number 479-1212.

REMEMBER: You do not have to identify yourself.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

We at the Deware Funeral Home realize that there are problems in even attempting to do any funeral home advertising. Almost all funeral homes can and do say the same thing ... The ads usually stress quiet, dignified service - reverent care - sympathetic understanding - reputation for attention to detail and so on ...

Actually, however, when funeral home services are needed, the selection is nearly always made for reasons of reputation. For over 45 years, the Deware Funeral Home has earned a deservedly good reputation. Through the years we have believed that a funeral director should be a vibrant member of the community as well as a trustworthy businessman ... Through the years we have believed that a director should be sensitive to all his clients' needs as individuals, and we have tried hard to recognize the many intricate needs of those seeking our services ... Through the years we have done everything in our power to make sure that wishes are carried out implicitly ... And most importantly, we have always believed that our foremost responsibility is to see to the mental, physical and emotional well-being of you, your family and friends in the time of need ... We try hard to live up to these standards. We welcome you to visit our facilities and welcome all questions ...

Annual Meeting Sunday At Covenant Congregational

The annual business meeting of the Covenant Congregational Church of Quincy, will be held Sunday following the 10:45 morning worship service.

Each family is requested to bring sandwiches and sweets for the luncheon which will precede the meeting.

Last Sunday the church participated in a pulpit exchange. The Rev. Fred Lawson preached at the Cape Cod Covenant Church in West Dennis while Rev. Catherine Bouts, pastor of the Community Covenant Church in Hopkinton, was the speaker in Quincy.

This is a district wide exchange for the First District of the East Coast Conference of the Evangelical Covenant Church.

As usual, classes for all ages, nursery through adult, began last Sunday at 9:30 a.m. and the worship followed at 10:45. The services this winter are being held in the sanctuary rather than in the basement of Fellowship Hall.

The nursery, for children age five and under, was attended by Robert Purpura and Mrs. Linda Day led the junior church.

The choir, directed and accompanied on the organ by Richard Smith, minister of music, sang an original composition by Smith, "A Winter Hymn," and featured a soprano solo by Luisa Dano. The organ prelude, offertory and postlude was played by Mr. Smith.

Choir rehearsals are held on Wednesday evenings at 7 p.m.

The church office can be called at 479-5728 for further information about any of the church activities.

'This Has Touched Your Lips' Sermon At Bethany Sunday

Holy Communion will be celebrated Sunday, Feb. 1, in Bethany Congregational Church, Coddington and Spear Sts., Quincy Center, at both the 9 a.m. chapel and the 10 a.m. sanctuary service.

The Rev. J. William Arnold, senior minister, will preach the Communion meditation at both services entitled "This Has Touched Your Lips," based on texts from Isaiah 61-8 and 1 Corinthians 11:23-29.

Reading the scriptures at the chapel service will be Marion Lockwood, and at the sanctuary service Lisa Coolidge. The Rev. Joel F. Huntington, associate minister, will be the liturgist at both hours.

Deacons and deaconesses serving Communion will be Robert Lockwood in the chapel, and Irene Belcher, Harry Massey, Jr., Corinne Mikami, Darryl Mikami, and Kinva Mikami, during the sanctuary service.

At 10 a.m. the chancel choir under the direction of Peter E. Krasinski, organist, will sing the anthem, "Lord, for thy Tender Mercies' Sake," composed by Richard Larrant.

The newly elected church leaders for 1987, officers and committee members, a total of 83 persons, will be installed by Pastor Arnold during the 10 a.m. service. Louise B. Forsyth, moderator; Marcia W. Jacob, clerk; Lisa Coolidge, assistant clerk; and Pauline L. Anderson, treasurer, were all reelected to one year terms as officers of the congregation.

The service will be broadcast live at 10 a.m. over radio station WJDA, 1300 kc. The Communion commentary during the radio broadcast will be by Wendell C. Cosgrove.

Sunday School will be in session from 10 to 11 a.m.

with classes for pre-school through 8th grade. Nursery care will be provided for babies and toddlers, under the supervision of Bethany's professional early childhood coordinator, Denise Fleming.

At 11 a.m. there will be a fellowship hour in the Allen Parlor. Individuals and families from the community are welcome to come and share in the worship and fellowship, and to enroll children in the Sunday School.

On Wednesday, Feb. 4, 7:30 to 9 p.m., Rev. Arnold will be teaching a Bible study course, "Covenant III" covering the major portions of the New Testament. The course will be held for six weeks and is open to the public.

For information concerning Bethany's ministries and programs, please contact the church office at 479-7300.

'Summons To Adventure' Squantum First Church Topic

"Summons To Adventure" was the title of the sermon preached Sunday at the First Church of Squantum by the Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, pastor of the church.

The morning had begun with an all-church breakfast sponsored by young people of the church.

The sermon, which was about the way in which God speaks to Christians through the Bible, was based on a text from Paul: "...forgetting what lies behind and straining forward to what lies ahead, I press on toward the goal for the prize of the upward call of God in Christ Jesus." (Philippians 3:13b-14)

Hymns sung during the service included "Holy, Holy, Holy! Lord God Almighty,"

"We Limit Not The Truth Of God," and "Lead On, O King Eternal."

Lois and Anne Wallin were the greeters. Steve Williams, Andy Ogilvie, Stewart Scott and Torc Wallin were the ushers. Katherine Hansen and Eva Martin hosted the fellowship hour after the service.

There will be only one service this Sunday, an observance of the Lord's Supper for the whole church at 10:30 a.m. Orange Crush, the junior high youth group, will meet at 4 p.m. Seven-Up, the senior high youth group, will meet at 6 p.m.

Healing Service

St. Chrysostom's Church, Wollaston, announces that a healing service which was to have been held last week has been rescheduled to tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m.

The service will focus on AIDS.

The Commonwealth of Massachusetts

By His Excellency

MICHAEL S. DUFAIS

Governor

A PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS John Hancock was born in Quincy, Massachusetts, on January 23, 1737; and
WHEREAS The Honorable John Hancock was a noble patriot who rendered distinguished service to the establishment of free and representative government in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and the Nation; and
WHEREAS The Honorable John Hancock was elected and served as the first Governor of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts under its present constitution adopted in 1780; and
WHEREAS The Honorable John Hancock's father was the Reverend John Hancock, Parish Church in Quincy from 1724 until his death in 1744 and who baptized his son, John Hancock, in the same church;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, MICHAEL S. DUFAIS, Governor of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, do hereby proclaim January 23, 1987 as

THE 250th ANNIVERSARY DAY OF THE BIRTH OF THE HONORABLE JOHN HANCOCK

and send good wishes to the congregation of United First Parish Church in Quincy and the citizens of Quincy in remembrance of our distinguished son.

Given at the Executive Chamber in Boston, this twenty-ninth day of January, one thousand nine hundred and eighty-seven, and of the Independence of the United States of America, the two hundred and eleven.

By His Excellency the Governor

MICHAEL J. CONNELLY
Secretary of the Commonwealth

OD SAVE THE COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS

Dukakis Proclamation Honors John Hancock's 250th Birthday At First Parish Church

Gov. Michael Dukakis sent state greetings, in the form of an official proclamation, to members of the United First Parish Church and the City of Quincy, to mark Jan. 23 as the 250th birthday anniversary of John Hancock, born Jan. 23, 1737.

In the tradition of early New England, the Rev. Sheldon Bennett, church minister, read the proclamation to the congregation during the worship service last Sunday (Jan. 25), and spoke additional words of tribute in remembrance of a distinguished son of the church and the city.

Hancock, the patriot and first governor of Massachusetts under the new constitution of 1780, was the son of the Rev. John Hancock, who served as the fifth minister of First Parish Church from 1726 to 1744.

Young Hancock was baptized by his father in the church, but following the early death of his father when he was only age seven, he was adopted by his uncle, Thomas Hancock, a prosperous merchant in Boston. His father, the Rev. John Hancock, is buried in Hancock Cemetery next to City Hall.

The official proclamation from the governor is currently on display in the window of The Quincy Sun.

New Lineup Pays Off For Raiders

North Quincy boys basketball coach Ed Miller unveiled a new lineup last week that included just one senior, Capt. Jim Phelan, and seven underclassmen, and it paid off with the Raiders' second win over Quincy, 43-33.

However, last Friday North lost to Waltham, 51-38, dropping its record to 4-8.

The Raiders will host Brockton Friday night at 7:30 and next Tuesday will play at Newton North at 3:30.

The young North players did an excellent job against Quincy as juniors Ted Stevenson (15 points) and Bob Sylva (12 points, nine rebounds and two steals) led the way and sophomores Sean McDonough and Kipp Caldwell had 10 rebounds and four points each. Sophomore Mike Ainsley contributed four points.

"I was very pleased with the way our youngsters responded," said Miller. "We did the things on defense that we wanted to do and when we had to we scored some points. Our long-range future looks promising."

Trailing, 10-6, in the opening quarter, North scored six unanswered points to take a 12-10 lead after a quarter and, holding Quincy to two points in the second quarter, widened its lead to 22-12 at the half.

North took a 30-22 lead into the final quarter but found its edge cut to 36-33 before scoring the final seven points of the game to salt away the win. Stevenson had two baskets, Phelan added two free throws and McDonough finished it off with a free throw.

Quincy's Offense Still Sputtering

The Quincy boys' basketball team continues to be plagued by poor shooting, hitting on only 31 percent from the floor for the year and the Presidents lost two more games last week.

The two defeats dropped their record to 0-12.

First, Quincy lost to North Quincy for the second time, 43-33, and last Friday bowed to Newton North, 74-57.

The Presidents will play at Waltham Friday night and will be home to Brookline Tuesday, both games starting at 7:30.

We go along pretty well when suddenly we hit a dry spell and can't hit anything," said coach John Franceschini.

"Generally we come back but the damage has been done."

Quincy started the North Quincy game hitting its first four shots with Steve Austin (16 points, eight rebounds, a block and a steal) getting two on a drive and a corner set and Tom Logan making one from the deep right corner and Pete Cannavo (eight points) scoring from the baseline.

However, after two free throws by Cannavo gave Quincy a 10-6 lead, the Presidents didn't score again for almost 11 minutes, until 6:30 had gone in the second quarter. North came back to lead, 12-10, after a quarter and, holding Quincy to two points in the second quarter, widened its lead to 22-12 at halftime.

The Raiders took a 30-22 lead into the final quarter. The Presidents, as their coach said, came back and baskets by Cannavo, Austin and Steve Davis, brought them to within three, 36-33.

That was it for Quincy as North added seven more points for the victory.

Austin had 16 points and seven rebounds and Logan had 14 points, but Newton North had a minium of trouble handing Quincy its 12th loss in a row.

One of the bright spots for the Presidents was the performance of freshman Joe Russell, making his varsity debut, who had 10 points and six assists.

Beechwood, Central Win Senior League Openers

The Quincy Recreation Department Senior Basketball League got underway with two games played at the Atlantic Middle School gymnasium.

Beechwood Knoll, last year's champion, picked up where it left off in a 49-26 victory over Atlantic in the season opener. Central needed an extra period to beat Point, 46-44, in an overtime thriller.

In the Beechwood game, Joe Mulvey led all scorers with 24 points, while Joe Foley led an excellent defensive effort. Kevin Duffy chipped in seven and Joe Nelson six in the Beechwood attack. Beechwood Coach Rick Radzik went to his bench early and used 12 men in his first outing. Jackie Green was singled out for his playmaking by Radzik. Coach George Dunn was optimistic after his first outing, and was quick to praise Dan Hobin and Brian O'Connell for their fine floor play. Mike Stanton led all Atlantic scorers with nine, while Mark Gillooly and John Mooney each contributed five.

Central mentor Dan Coughlin was patient with his young team and was able to come from behind for a 46-44 overtime win over a well-balanced Jamies Sullivan-coached Point team.

Central's Jamie Fennessy had 16 followed closely by Dan McLaughlin's 14 while Craig Good had six. Point's Jay McLaron drew Sullivan's praise for his work on the press while Dave Adams and Mike Scolaro had clutch baskets down the stretch.

Billy Ryan and Steve Sullivan each had 11 while Joe Russell had eight in a balanced attack that just fell short.

The other teams in the seven-team league are Montclair, Squantum and Sterling. Players are participants in the Quincy Recreation Department all-city 23-week winter recreation program. The league is open to persons in grades 9, 10, 11, and 12, who do not play for a high school varsity basketball team.

Recreation leaders from each center act as coaches for each club. Games are played each Saturday at 10:15 a.m. and 11:15 a.m. at the Atlantic Middle School. Spectators are welcome and no admission is charged.

Keohane's, Ideal, Plaza, Lydon Win

Keohane's defeated Colonial Federal, 3-1, in the Pee Wee Division of St. Ann's Youth Hockey League.

Dave Brown had two goals and Brian Connolly one. Louis Bertucci had two assists and Joe Carinici one. Kevin Karlberg scored for Colonial Federal with Bo Smith assisting.

Ideal Elevator defeated Goodhue's, 5-2, with Brian Pincso scoring twice and Brian Collum, Denise Collum and Mike Morke one each. Brian Collum also had an assist. For Goodhue's Brian Campbell and Mike Foley had the goals.

In the Bantam division Plaza Olds edged Mike 'N' Blade, 4-3, as Steve Doran scored twice and had an assist and Billy Morrissey and Gerry Demming had a goal each. Mike Morris scored two goals and Mike Noonan one for B 'N' B. Noonan had two assists and Paul Carty one.

Lydon-Russell topped M&I, 5-3, with Joe Toxone having two goals and an assist and Eric Visocchi, Mike Pederson and Kevin Cohaneca goal each. Bob Lind had two goals and Steve Doran a goal and assist for M&I.

Quincy Matmen Pin North

The last few years weren't the best for the Quincy wrestling teams, but the Presidents are enjoying one of their best seasons in some time, improving their record to 9-4-1 (3-1 in the Suburban League) with a 45-15 victory over North Quincy.

Rob Cabezas (14-0) and Al Souza continued undefeated as Quincy won nine of the 12 bouts.

Souza won, 5-4, over Gary Silverman at 114 pounds and Cabezas pinned Dan Gaudiano at 134.

North's winners were Ed Welby by forfeit at 100, Sean Clancy, winner by pin over Todd Kimmell at 147, and Paul Jeffers, who defeated Brian Burgess, 1-7, at 187.

Farther Quincy coach Rich Schiarizzi had reason to worry with four of his wrestlers overweight before a non-league meet with Braintree.

However, the four made the weight after a grueling workout and the Presidents went on to defeat Braintree, 33-28.

Quincy will be at Waltham Saturday for a 5:30 match and next Thursday will be home to Brockton at 4 p.m.

"That pre-meet workout impressed me," said Schiarizzi. "These kids are tough and I knew we'd have a good match after they worked hard to lose the necessary weight. We are competitive at a lot of weights and I wouldn't say we are weak anywhere."

Al Souza won by pin at 114 pounds, Rob Cabezas won by pin at 134 to improve his record to 13-0, Peter DePaulo won by pin at 140, Tom Kimmell won, 19-14, at 147, Dennis DeCoste won by pin at 157, Brian Burgess won by disqualification at 169 and Norm Hassan won by pin at 187.

• Bantam House

Burgin Defeats Sun, Johnson

Burgin Platner holds a four-point lead in the Bantam House League with two wins over the past week.

Burgin defeated the Quincy Sun, 4-1, as Jeff Connor had two goals and Scott Curtin and Mike Baylis one each. Jeremy Burm, David Pitts, Bob Loughlin, Baylis and Connor had assists. Mike Bamber scored for the Sun and Martin McGowan and Mark MacLennan had assists.

Burgin also edged Johnson Motor Parts, 4-3, with Loughlin scoring twice and Jim Mahoney and Steve McInnis once each. Connor, Dave Pitts and Brian Pitts had assists.

Doran & Horrigan got by Johnson, 1-0, on Jeff Freeman's goal. Ken Staskiewicz and Brian Mantville had assists.

Doran & Horrigan topped the Sun, 8-4, as Staskiewicz had four goals, Jamie Tapper three and Bob Ford one.

Staskiewicz had three assists, Mark McMillan two and Rich Keddy, Ford, Alan Murray and Jim McCarthy one each. Steve Sumpter, Bamber, Darren Murphy and Steve McInnis scored for the Sun and Murphy, John Cara, McInnis and Mickey Dunning had assists.

The standings: Burgin Platner, 9-2-0; Doran & Horrigan, 7-4-0; Quincy Sun, 5-6-0; Johnson Motor, 1-10-0.

• Mite-Squirt House

Newcomb Cuts Balducci's Lead

Balducci's lead in the Mite Squirt House League was trimmed to one point when it was tied by Newcomb Farms, 5-5.

John Barron, Tim Wood, Eric Wood, Brendan O'Brien and Brad Watkins had the Balducci goals and Kevin Regan, Eric Wood, John Holler, Watkins and Sean Dillon had assists. Mike Grant and Barry Canavan had two goals each and Jay Borden one for Newcomb.

Bob Winter had two assists and John Ryan, Joe McPhee, Danny Stone, Ed Chaisson and Chris Grant one each.

Rogan Hennessy blanked Bo Car Printing, 2-0, on goals by Brian Bartkus and Brian Sullivan. Sullivan, Sean Lewis and Duane Holmes had assists. Goalie Michele Melone got the shutout.

North Girls Defeat Quincy, Waltham

The North Quincy girls' basketball team moved nearer another state tournament berth by defeating Quincy, 36-34, and Waltham, 47-41, last week to improve to 10-2 (4-2 in the Suburban League).

The Raiderettes will play at Brockton Friday at 7:30 and next Tuesday will host Newton North at 5 p.m.

North defeated Waltham last Friday without the services of starters Anne McGuigan and Marybeth Maloney, out with injuries. Nancy Leonard, a guard, and Lisa Mitton, a forward, turned in solid performances as replacements.

Inicia Koski got North rolling with two foul line jumpers as the Raiderettes jumped off to a 5-0 lead. Baskets by Mitton and Nancy Flukes put North on top, 9-3, after one quarter.

Flukes hit two more jumpers and Mitton hit on a baseline jump shot extending North's lead to 15-7 midway through the second quarter. Maureen Donovan found the range late in the half with two baskets and North led, 19-11, at halftime. The defense, keyed by Lennard, Karris Pistorino and Rita Rooney, allowed Waltham only two field goals in the entire half.

Koski, playing her best game of the year, scored six of North's first nine points in the third quarter to put her team ahead, 28-16. Waltham closed the gap to six late in the quarter but sophomore Deirdre Murphy scored on an offensive rebound to help build the lead back to nine going into the final quarter.

The Hawks made another run to close to within three, 34-31, but North regrouped, scoring 10 of the next 14 points.

Flukes, North's lead in scoring and assists, had 17 points, seven rebounds and five assists. Koski had 10 points and 11 rebounds, both career highs. Donovan had eight points and Mitton seven points, three assists and three blocked shots.

Quincy gave North all it could handle and the First Ladies took a 10-6 first quarter lead.

North ran off six unanswered points to begin the second quarter and, holding Quincy to two points, took a 16-12 lead at the half. Quincy was fortunate to trail by only four as it turned the ball over 13 times against North's pressure.

Maloney's steal for a layup put North ahead by six but Quincy cut the gap to two and both teams traded baskets until Koski picked up her third foul. Murphy replaced her and scored the final four points of the quarter and North led, 24-20, going into the final quarter.

North quickly widened its lead to 30-20, but Quincy ran off 11 straight points and go ahead, 31-30, with 2:50 to play. Flukes took control, hitting two free throws and making a pretty reverse layup on a pass from Pistorino to give the Raiderettes a 34-31 lead. Quincy wasn't finished and tied the score at 34-34. With less than a minute to play, North won it on a driving layup by Maloney. Maloney also deflected a Quincy pass with Koski recovering and North ran out the clock.

Flukes had 12 points, six rebounds and four assists. McGuigan, despite playing with a badly sprained back, had 11 rebounds and held Quincy's high scoring Gayle Morrell to three points, and Maloney had seven steals.

"Defense and depth were the keys to our two wins," Coach Paul Bregoli said. "This team is the best overall group defensively since my 1980-81 team. It is rare that a team is able to get an easy basket against them. Our second quarter against Quincy and the whole first half against Waltham were nearly perfect defensively."

"And our reserves deserve a great deal of credit for the two wins. Patty Feeney and Murphy gave us 10 big points off the bench against Quincy and Leonard, Mitton and Pistorino played well against Waltham."

"The kids on this year's team are not going to put up great individual stats, only because we are playing 10 and 11 players a game with every one making some kind of contribution. Special praise must go to McGuigan, a tough kid who played with a very painful back sprain against Quincy, and Koski, who was outstanding against Waltham and who has been a steady performer for us all year."

A Tough Loss For First Ladies

The Quincy girls' basketball team, which has been playing well all season and has lost some tough games, won't drop a tougher one than last week's last minute 36-34 loss to North Quincy.

Later in the week the First Ladies bowed to Newton North, one of the top teams in the Suburban League, 65-44. It was one of their few one-sided losses, dropping their record to 3-9.

The Quincy girls will host Waltham Friday and Tuesday will visit Brookline. Both games will start at 5 p.m.

Against powerful tournament-bound North Quincy, the First Ladies trailed, 30-20, with six minutes to play but sophomore guard Karen Boussy sparked a run of 11 answered points. The surge was capped by a pair of 15-footers by Sue Parry and Ginny Duggan which gave Quincy a 31-30 lead with 2:25 remaining.

However, Quincy's inexperience cost it as it twice lost the ball in the last minute. North's Marybeth Mahoney scored her only basket with 59 seconds left for the win.

"It's inexperience," said first-year coach Doug MacFarlane. "North has the experience and the poise and we don't have that real floor leader."

"We've been this way all season but it is unbelievable the way these kids refuse to quit."

Five of Quincy losses have been by a combined total of 11 points. MacFarlane hopes the return this week of Terry Duggan, out with a broken leg, will provide a stabilizing influence.

Patti Morrell had eight points and Duggan and Sue Parry six each for the First Ladies.

Last Friday Newton North, 5-1 in the league, piled up a big 41-20 halftime lead and the Tigers never looked back despite an excellent performance by Gayle Morrell, who scored 24 points and took down nine rebounds.

Diane Parry played fine defense for Quincy and Kristin McGhee also played well.

Quincy Icemen Rally To Edge Cambridge, 4-3

The Quincy hockey team, playing well during the past few weeks, improved its record to 4-7 last Saturday when it came from behind with two third period goals to edge Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 4-3. The Presidents have won more games than they did all of last season.

Quincy will be idle Saturday and will be home to Waltham next Wednesday at 6:40 at the Youth Arena.

With the Presidents trailing, 3-2, Kevin Provenzano and Paul Scola scored in the third period to give them the victory.

Adam MacGregor and Sean O'Neil had the other goals for Quincy, while goalie Greg Chambers had 18 saves, many of them spectacular.

Earlier in the week Quincy dropped a 7-1 decision to powerful Brockton, one of the top teams in the Suburban League.

Tim Hall scored the Presidents' only goal. Chambers had another good night in goal with 18 saves, including three breakaways and several outstanding stops from point-blank range.

Meanwhile, North Quincy's hopes of making the state tournament for the fourth year in a row went out the window when it lost to Newton North, 6-0.

There were a few bright spots for the Raiders, who fell to 3-9. Sophomore goalie Jeff McClory had a good night with 31 saves and Jay Rodriguez, Sal Manganaro and Brian Zimmerman turned in excellent efforts.

North will play at Brookline Saturday at 7:30 and next Wednesday will be at Brockton for a 6 p.m. game.

North Swimmers Back In Winning Lane

The North Quincy swim team, which had lost three meets in a row after winning four of its first five, defeated Waltham, 107-61, to improve its record to a 5-4.

The Raiders will meet Quincy Friday at 6 p.m. at the Lincoln-Hancock School pool and next Wednesday will compete in the Suburban League meet at Cambridge Rindge and Latin at 3:30.

North's winners were Jason

Moriarty in the 50 freestyle (27.0), Harry Towle, 200 individual medley (2:40.97); Eric Giordano, diving (163.85 points); Bradley Waltermire, 100 freestyle (59.1); John Donlan, 100 breaststroke (1:23.1), and the 200 medley relay team of Dave McKay, Moriarty, Brian Ramos and Giordano (2:07.4).

Placing second were Waltermire, 200 freestyle; Ramos, 200 individual medley; Matt McCusker, diving; Ralph Willard, 100 butterfly; Paul Nitschke, 100 freestyle; Chris Burke, 500 freestyle; Towle, 100 backstroke, and Donald Howie, 100 breaststroke.

team single of 528 and Art DiTullio's team had 515 and 513. DiTullio's team had the high three of 1492 and Faiella had 1478.

Bersani Upsets Keohane's

Keohane's lead was cut to three points in the Pee Wee House League when it was upset by Bersani Brothers, 2-1.

Paul Bamber and Kevin Mantville scored for Bersani and John MacNeil had two assists and Mark Zych and David Edwards one each. Mike O'Brien scored for Keohane's.

U.C.I. defeated Colonial Federal, 4-2, as Mike Kelly scored twice and Aidan O'Donoghue and Jim Kadlick once each. O'Donoghue had two assists and Mark Walsh one. Eric Backman and Jimmy Smith scored for Colonial Federal and Karen McCabe had an assist.

The standings: Keohane's, 7-3-4; U.C.I., 7-6-1; Colonial Federal, 4-6-4; Bersani, 5-8-1.

QHS Cheerleaders Third In Competition

The Quincy cheerleaders recently placed third in the Junior High division in the 1986-87 National High School Cheerleading Championship held at Boston College.

The annual event sponsored by Personal Products Company, involved area high school and junior high school squads. The regional competition is one of nineteen tournaments to be conducted across the country to select squads to compete in the National finals. At the regional level over 6,000 cheerleaders representing 500 schools will compete for a berth to the National finals.

This is the eighth year the National High School Cheerleading Championship will be conducted at Sea World in Orlando, Florida. The culmination of the tournament finals will be a nationally televised one hour program on the Entertainment Sports Program Network (ESPN).

The squads were judged on a two and one half minute (2½) performance that combined partner stunts, pyramids, tumbling, cheers and dance.

Teams Sought For Easter Seals Volleyball Marathon

Local residents are being asked to reach out and help someone this winter by participating in the sixth annual Century 21 Easter Seal Volleyball Marathon.

The marathon is a statewide effort by Century 21 to raise funds for Easter Seal services for children and adults with disabilities.

Games will be played at North Quincy High School March 14 and 15. The marathon is open to any group of people who want to form a team and play for Easter Seals.

Teams may be formed by companies, organizations, or just a group of friends. The minimum entry fee is $150. All teams are eligible to win prizes, such as t-shirts, key chains, Red Sox tickets.

Converse athletic shoes and gift certificates from local sporting goods stores, depending on the amount of each team's contribution or entry fee.

Managers whose team raises over $600 will receive 2 Red Sox tickets; those over $1,000 will receive a color T.V. Also, any manager who recruits a new, additional team to play will be eligible to receive a dinner for two at La Paloma, Quincy; Jimbo's, Braintree; and the Village Steak House, Weymouth.

All funds raised in Massachusetts will benefit local programs offered by the Easter Seal Society to more than 10,000 children and adults with disabilities.

JAMES JAEHNIG of Quincy, a four-year starter for the Framingham State College football team at center on offense and linebacker in defense, was recently selected the Rams' team captain. At the awards ceremony he received the team's MVP award and was named offensive lineman of the year. A graduate of Boston College High, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jaehnig.

Mite B's Streak To 7th Win

Quincy's Mite B team extended its unbeaten streak to seven games in the Greater Boston League as it tied Charlestown, 3-3, and defeated Belmont, 6-1.

Quincy is now 10-5-3 overall and under a revised league standings plan announced last week, Quincy is alone in first place with a 5-0-2 record.

Quincy and Charlestown traded goals in the first period at the Skating Club in Boston as A.J. Carthas scored with Tim Hunter assisting.

Quincy took a 3-2 lead after two periods with Mike O'Brien and Carthas scoring and Jimmy Kelley having an assist.

The third period featured fine defensive work by both teams, with Quincy's Brian Walsh and Charlestown's Pat Lacey outstanding in goal. A Charlestown goal early in the period at 3-3 and that ended the scoring.

The game against Belmont, a newcomer to the league, was played at Boston University with Walsh just missing a shutout as Belmont scored with one minute to play in the game.

Jimmy Gallagher scored first for Quincy in the opening period with O'Brien and Shawn Johnson assisting and the lead was extended to 3-0 after two goals by Carthas, from Hunter and Robbie Callow, and Eric Griffin, with Carthas and John Ryan assisting.

Hunter scored on a rebound in the third period with Griffin and Scott Cooper assisting. Callow scored on a breakaway with Ryan assisting and Carthas scored with assists for Cooper and Ryan.

Special Program For Children With Asthma

There are still openings in the Physical Conditioning and Asthma Education Program for children with asthma at the South Shore Y.M.C.A. in Quincy.

The program which is beginning its 12th season, is jointly sponsored by the Norfolk County-Newton Lung Association and the Y.M.C.A.

Program is open to any child between the ages of six and 13. It includes swimming, conditioning exercises and activities. Specialized breathing and relaxation skills will also be taught.

Interested parents are asked to contact Joseph Stone, coordinator, at the Norfolk County-Newton Lung Association, telephone number 668-6729.

• Senior Hockey

McGinnis Hat Trick Paces Kelly's, 9-0

Kelly's Pub defeated Boh White's, 9-0, to hold on to first place in the Quincy Youth Arena's Senior Hockey League.

Jim McGinnis had a hat trick, Jim Moore and Frank McGinnis two goals apiece and Dave Ohlund and Leo Doyle one each. Dennis Doherty had six assists, Fred Palmer five, John Pelican three, Romeo O'Rourke two and Doyle and Jim McGinnis one each. Goalie Andy Marhoffer earned the shutout.

Joe's Pub remained two points behind with a 7-0 win over Manet Lunch. Mark Bouss had two goals and John Findley, Tom Findley, Bob Beniers, Steve Cockinos and Tony Messina one each. Tom Findley had three assists, Bob Hayes, Bob O'Brien, John Findley and Bob Falvey two apiece and Karlus Mentz, Beniers and Bob Wilkerson one each. The shutout went to goalie Chuck Dooley.

Nostalgia edged Chevy's, 3-2, on goals by Paul McIntyre, Tom Vicory and Bill Soundze. Jim Bowen, Mike Lerner, Tom Lester and McIntyre had assists. Brian Silcox and Steve Olsson scored for Chevy's and Phil Pendsroth, Steve Baylis and Brian Silcox had assists.

Kane's Place topped Fowler House, 3-1, with John Andrews scoring twice and Dave Perdios one. Goalie Bob Tierney, Mark Andrews, Scott Mikuneskin, Mario Megs, Dave Peters and Jim Fitzpatrick had assists. Brett Loud scored for Fowler House and Peter Janis and Moses Mullaney assisted.

The standings: Kelly's, 13-3-1; Joe's, 12-4-1; Nostalgia, 9-6-2; Kane's, 8-6-3; Fowler House, 7-8-2; Chevy's, 6-9-2; Manet Lunch, 4-13-0; Bob White's, 3-13-1.

Mite A's Defeat S. Boston, Belmont

Quincy's Mite A team, sponsored by DAY #79, edged South Boston, 3-2, and defeated Belmont, 7-4, defeating each for the second time.

Quincy took a 2-0 lead against South Boston in the first period when Steven Barrett scored with an assist for Danny Hughes and Ronnie McGinnis scored with David Rowell assisting.

South Boston answered with two quick goals in the second period to tie the score. Quincy penalties gave SB another scoring opportunity, but defenseman Danny Donahue, Danny Stone, Jenna Nolan, John Healy, Jason Fennelly, Tommy Moriarty and Hughes pulled up a tight defensive net around goalie Mark Smith and effectively shut down the Southie offense for the rest of the game. Smith had another outstanding game in goal.

Quincy forwards Paul Princiotto, Jamie Murphy, Matt Logan, Mark Regan and Brendan O'Brien provided the team with excellent passing and playmaking tactics.

In the third period Chris Grant scored the winning goal unassisted.

In the first period against Belmont Belmont scored three goals with Quincy answering each. Quincy's scorers were Murphy, McGinnis and O'Brien with assists for McGinnis and Logan.

McGinnis' second goal in the second period put Quincy ahead, but Belmont tied it up again with 30 seconds left in the period. Grant took a Fennelly pass and scored to give Quincy a 5-4 lead going into the third period.

Quincy's defense pulled together in the period with Nolan, Moriarty, Donahue, Healy, Stone and Fennelly providing the solid defense. Rowell and Smith also looked strong at wing. McGinnis scored his third goal and, with three minutes left, Barrett passed it to Regan, who scored the final goal.

Danny Hughes got the win in his first appearance of the season in goal.

Iacobucci Announces For Council-At-Large

Ronald P. Iacobucci, 31, has announced his candidacy for City Councilor-at-large in this year's city election.

Iacobucci, 31, made his announcement at the Neighborhood Club before a crowd of about 200 friends and family.

It will be Iacobucci's third run for councillor-at-large. He is the first official candidate to enter this year's election.

All three councillor-at-large positions will be up for election.

Iacobucci said that several of the issues he raised during the 1985 campaign, including development and public schools have only recently been taken up by the City Council.

"Together we took a stand on issues that affect the quality of life in our city," he said. "We can be proud of our efforts because people have started to respond, our campaign has made a difference—but the job is still not done, so that is why I announce my candidacy for councillor-at-large."

Iacobucci said that because of development, "someone is needed in the City Council who is going to be a strong pro-neighborhood person. There is nothing more important than protecting our neighborhoods. I have been working with local groups from across the city the last four years to protect our neighborhoods."

Iacobucci said he plans to outline during the next nine months an agenda for action on issues that affect the quality of life in Quincy.

"The next councillor-at-large must provide the leadership to take this city into the 1990's. It is time to put in place a master plan that will guide the development and progress of our city's future," said Iacobucci.

Iacobucci stressed his qualifications for office, his background in government and business. Iacobucci is president of Commonwealth Resource Group, Inc., a consulting group in Boston. He also manages Iacobucci

Masonry, Inc., a family-owned business. He was president of the community education council in Quincy and was chairman of the city's charter review commission. He is on the board of directors of the Beechwood Knoll Neighborhood Association.

Iacobucci was a Little City Hall manager in Boston, worked on the Elderly Commission in Boston, was an aide in Washington, D.C., to late Congressman James A. Burke, was an assistant manager of a cable company for Adams-Russell, and handled constituent service for former Lt. Governor Thomas P. O'Neill III. He also worked in Boston's federal relations office.

Iacobucci lives with his wife, Jeanine, at 59 Andrews Rd., in Wollaston. They are expecting their first child in several weeks. A graduate of Quincy Public Schools, he received a bachelor's degree in communications from Boston College. Iacobucci serves on the Board of Directors of the Adam Walsh Child Resource Center.

Among those in attendance at Iacobucci's announcement reception were City Councilors Joseph LaRaia and Michael Cheney, state Senator William Golden (D-Weymouth), state Representative Robert Cerasoli (D-Quincy) and School Committee woman Peggy Nigro.

Good News For Everyone Born Before 1921.

IF YOU'RE A SENIOR CITIZEN, AND YOU'RE WILLING TO SPEND FIVE MINUTES READING THIS, WE'LL GIVE YOU TODAY'S CABLE FOR A MONTH, FREE.

Until now you probably thought that cable wasn't for you. That it was just an extra expense. If you'll be good enough to spare us your time, we've got some facts that may well change your mind.

There's always something good on today's cable. You'll always find programs to entertain you, inform you and keep you in touch, just when you're in the mood. Cable's even got programming especially for seniors. You don't have to watch more, you just enjoy it more.

BASIC. THE HEART OF THE CABLE DIFFERENCE.

People often think that cable must be expensive. But the fact is that the essence of cable, Basic Cable, is really a bargain. You get great reception on the channels you're getting now, plus 33 fascinating new channels. Here's just a taste of what they offer:

- Senior Spotlight with local personalities and senior issues
- Senior Nutrition and Senior Exercise
- The Discovery Channel with the world of nature and science
- Senior Smarts and the Senior Dating Game
- Classics from the golden days of TV and Hollywood
- Lifetime with tips on finance and life extension
- C-Span with coverage from Congress
- News, 24 hours a day, world, financial and local
- Country and Classical music, The Home Shopping Network
- Economics of one and two person households
- National Geographic Explorer Series every week
- Plus The Weather Channel and documentaries not seen on ordinary TV

If Basic is the heart of cable, Senior Service is the soul. Our people go out of their way to provide thoughtful, courteous and prompt service to everyone. But especially to senior citizens. Just listen to what some of our senior subscribers have to say about us:

"Senior Smarts has done a great deal to add to the enjoyment of senior citizens and helps to keep them young, active, and important!"

Steve Marx

"Let me thank you for your good service and especially for providing such good TV as Mother Angelica."

Mary A. Maloney

"I'm pleased beyond words... I find your working crew polite, efficient and you keep your word!"

Phyllis Aceto

"It is really a pleasure to deal with honorable people. Thank you very much."

Joe and Esther Ross

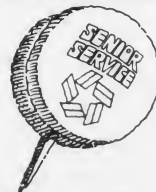

SEE FOR YOURSELF, FREE.

We could tell you about cable for hours, but there's no substitute for first hand experience. That's why we're making this special offer to senior citizens only. We'll install cable and give you a month's Basic Cable service, all for free. You can sit back and see what Basic Cable's got for you, without spending a cent.

A GUARANTEE, NOT A GIMMICK.

We don't want you to rush into anything. We're giving you a month's free service to help you make up your mind. If, at the end of it, you're not completely satisfied, we guarantee we'll remove your cable and that will be that. So, what have you got to lose?

If you'd like to give cable a try, please give us a call at One month after installation, you'll see why some of our happiest subscribers are seniors. Because you'll be happy too.

'Quincy In The Civil War' Exhibit Opens At Historical Society

"The Generation that Walked through Fire: Quincy in the Civil War" opens at the Quincy Historical Society Thursday, Jan. 29.

Director Elliott Hoffman will present a slide lecture on the exhibit at 1:30 p.m. at the Adams Academy Building located, 8 Adams St. The program is free and open to the public.

The Civil War became the most dramatic event of the 19th century, bringing nationalism to a dividing country and ending the institution of slavery. Over 600,000 Americans died in the war, more than in all other American wars combined. Quincy sent over 650 men into the Army and Navy and over 100 died in battle, accidents, or from disease. Over 20 died in Southern prisons.

Surviving Quincy veterans enrolled in the Grand Army of the Republic, a veterans organization that met regularly and also collected and exhibited artifacts brought back from Southern battlefields. When the last veterans died in the 1930's the items were put in storage and loaned to the Quincy Historical Society.

This exhibit consists of many of the Grand Army of the Republic items, plus artifacts from the Historical Society's collections and over 50 photographs of Massachusetts soldiers in action. The most unique item is the first flag that flew over Richmond after that city's surrender in 1865.

Handmade by Elizabeth Van Lew, a woman who spied for the North, the flag became a possession of the Paul Josiah Revere family in Quincy because Miss Van Lew nursed the wounded and captured Major Revere in Richmond in 1861. Although Revere was killed later at Gettysburg, the two families became close after the war and Miss Van Lew gave the flag to Revere's widow as a remembrance.

Other items include weapons, uniforms, and equipment of Quincy soldiers as well as Confederate weapons and equipment the Quincy men sent home. Francis Souther, a 24-year-old Quincy native, became the first Massachusetts soldier killed in a Civil War battle when he received a mortal wound at the skirmish of Big Bethel, Virginia June 10, 1861.

Items of his equipment sent home with his body are part of the exhibit as well as a contemporary portrait donated by his daughter.

Included also is information relating to all Massachusetts units including numbers of members from Quincy and the units' losses. There is information on all Quincy soldiers who died during the war.

The Quincy Historical Society is open Monday through Friday from 9:30 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. and Saturday from 12:30 p.m. until 3:30 p.m. Ample parking is available.

QSO To Present Second Concert Feb. 13

The Quincy Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Robert E. Brown, will present its second concert of the season Friday, Feb. 13 at 8 p.m. in the North Quincy High School auditorium.

The program will consist of Karl Goldmark's Kustic Wedding Symphony, and vocal selections of Samuel Barber and Charles Gounod performed by soprano Pamela Wolfe.

Wolfe attended the Boston

PAMELA WOLFE

Conservatory of Music and continued her studies at the Mozarteum in Salzburg, Austria. She was a 1985 and 1986 semi-finalist in the prestigious Oratorio Society of New York Competition and a 1986 Fellow at the Aspen Music Festival.

She teaches voice at Brandeis University in Waltham and has performed with the Aspen Chamber Choir, and the Boston Premiere Ensemble.

Free Intro Sessions On Leanlines Program At Quincy Hospital

Free introductory sessions on the Leanlines Program, designed to teach individuals how to conquer a weight problem, will be held Monday, Feb. 9, at 5:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. at Quincy City Hospital.

They will be held in the Hunting-I solarium at the hospital.

A morning introductory session is scheduled for Friday, Feb. 13, at 10 a.m. in the hospital's conference room on the second floor of the administration building.

The program also teaches individuals to maintain a healthy weight through proper eating and activity.

As part of the program, individuals learn to identify their own problem eating behavior.

Participants will work with Leslie McGovern, registered dietician and program director, to develop a personalized weight loss program.

In group sessions, individuals learn how to approach restaurant dining, how to modify behavior in the face of stressful situations, how to shop and cook for a healthy diet, and how to incorporate exercise into their daily routine.

Individual fitness evaluation and counseling as well as two-month fitness memberships are provided to candidates at a reduced rate.

"What is exceptional about Leanlines," said Miss McGovern, "is its incorporation of the expertise of a registered dietician for nutrition counseling, and a certified exercise physiologist for fitness evaluation."

"Thus, the participants are provided with a program which controls calorie intake, burns calories, and enhances fat loss while preserving lean muscle."

For more information, call Miss McGovern at 773-6100, ext. 6037.

QHS Honor Society Phonathon To Benefit Heart Assn.

The Quincy High School Honor Society will conduct a Phonathon Wednesday, Feb. 4 to benefit the American Heart Association.

Honor Society Students will be calling Quincy residents from Kemper Insurance, between the hours of 6 p.m. and 9 p.m. to obtain pledges from the community to support the American Heart Association's vital programs of research, education and community service.

NQ Seniors To Meet Feb. 5

North Quincy Senior Citizens Club will hold a meeting Thursday, Feb. 5, at 1 p.m. at the Quincy United Community Methodist Church, 40 Beale St., Wollaston.

The club will also hold a wrist party Thursday, Feb. 12, at 1 p.m. in the church.

Problem Of Cocaine On Brady's Beat

Brady's Beat was scheduled to take a look at the problem of cocaine last night (Wednesday) at 8:30 p.m. on Ch. 3, Quincy Community Television.
 Host Pat Brady interviewed Jack Donahue and his brother, Brian, regarding their life in the drug culture. The program takes an in-depth look at what has happened in the lives of Jack and Brian and their road back to recovery, according to Brady.

Both men would like to pass on the message to youth about the perils of drugs, Brady said.
 Brady, a Boston Police Officer for the past 30 years, is director of the Boston Police Hypnosis Unit.

Assault Seminar On Sun Ch. 8

A Quincy police seminar to help area residents cope with their concerns about four recent knifing assaults on women will be shown tonight (Thursday) at 8 p.m., on Sun Ch. 8.

 It was out of fear of the silent stabber that the police have programmed the seminar to offer helpful tips for protection against physical assaults.

The show will be repeated Friday (Jan. 30) at 6 p.m., and Saturday (Jan. 31) at 12 noon.

WEEK OF: JANUARY 29

AQUARIUS - January 21 - February 19
Friend is less possessive and relationship shows signs of improving. Paperwork may be backing up - conquer the problem before you're overwhelmed. Award may come your way.

PISCES - February 20 - March 20
Your quirky ideas may be more significant than you realize. Good week for completing small tasks before launching into major projects. Loved one takes a traditional approach.

ARIES - March 21 - April 20
Your enthusiasm is matched by your willingness to see tasks through to completion. This can be one of the most productive weeks in a long while.

Taurus - April 21 - May 22
Good week to go after awards and grants. Romance says for a brief while but you make the most of this introspective period. Family relationships are improving.

GEMINI - May 23 - June 21
Competition helps you reach a goal ahead of schedule. Nostalgic sessions take place when you get in touch with a childhood friend. Sports and fashion events are accentuated.

CANCER - June 22 - July 22
Branching out may lead to some bolt-lightening, but communications improve and your ideas catch the attention of key backers. Watch tendency to be fixed in your opinions.

LEO - July 23 - August 22
Be careful to arrange records meticulously - you may have to draw on them at a moment's notice. Travel or travel planning is highlighted. Earth tones suit your present mood.

VIRGO - August 23 - September 22
It's important to be seen and heard. Maintain a higher profile and don't hesitate to tout your own hunch. After a rocky course, a shaky relationship begins to stabilize.

LIBRA - September 23 - October 22
If going for an interview or taking an exam, prepare for possible trick questions. Visual sense is sharp - this is a good week for designing a room.

SCORPIO - October 23 - November 21
Group efforts may bring results, but be sure all parties understand division of responsibilities. Friend may be a little envious of your success but such feelings are temporary.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22 - December 22
Charismatic powers are strong - your charm helps you over some hurdles. Renew your commitment to a long-forgotten goal. Family disputes should be resolved before Wednesday.

CAPRICORN - December 23 - January 20
Financial news-brightener may arrive by Wednesday. Minor detours may make travel more time-consuming than expected.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
You're known for your original ideas and independent nature. Relationships thrive on an intellectual level. You're sometimes unconventional. Diversification is theme of the next eight months. Learning new crafts can lead to significant career strides.

BORN THIS WEEK

At Pearl Vision Center It Is Seeing With Style

Fashion is changing before your eyes! Especially if you're one of the more than 140 million American adults who wear some form of corrective lenses.

Today's eyeglasses have moved beyond mere medical hardware to full-fledged, fun-to-wear fashion accessories.

"Fashion conscious consumers have a wide range of styles to choose from to complement their individual look," says Bridget Kittredge, owner, Pearl Vision Center, 470 Southern Artery, Quincy.

The functional frames popularized in the early 1960's have given way to horn-rims and new materials such as carbon, titanium, and stainless steel," she adds. "Also becoming popular are reptile prints and jewel-tone rhinestone accents."

In addition, she suggests you determine your individual face shape. Classified in four ways -- round, square, triangular, or oval -- face shapes can be emphasized or de-emphasized with the proper frames.

"The general rule of thumb is not to wear the same-shape frame as your face. For example, a round face will look rounder with round glasses, and rectangular glasses will accentuate the sharp angles of a rectangular face. The exception is those with oval faces who typically can wear any shape," she explains.

"The objective in choosing any frame is to break up the lines and provide contrast," she says, adding that the true test for frames is trying on several pairs.

To simplify the selection process, Bridget provides the following guidelines:

- Round - Angular-frame shapes and wider frames de-emphasize roundness and create a slimming effect.

- Square - Frames with soft curves and upsweeping styles are best. Round and aviator styles for men and modified cat's eyes for women.

- Triangular - width of frame should stay within hairline; outward sweep at frame bottom adds balance to face.

- Oval - Most styles look good, since oval is the ideal face shape.

According to Barbara Koos, women's frame buyer for Pearl Vision Center, brown continues to be the single most popular frame for both men and women, with several other colors strongly emerging.

"Although 'safe' colors such as brown, grey, and burgundy are the most common, there are no restrictions today, with frames available in almost every color of the spectrum," she says. "Bright red, burgundy, blue, white, rose-pink, translucent pastels, and colored metal frames can be coordinated to match any outfit."

Lenses can also be tinted for added panache and practicality. According to Koos, a myriad of fashion tints such as pinks, blues, and other pastels are popular, but for the best protection from the sun, darker grays, greens, and browns are top choice.

In response to consumers' demands for a great variety of styles, eyewear retailers now stock a wider selection of frames for men, women, and children, along with an equally large assortment of non-prescription sunglasses.

Eyecare providers, like Pearl Vision Center, carry designer frames from such top names as Calvin Klein, Bill Blass, Ralph Lauren, Geoffrey Beene, Christian Dior, and Givenchy, for men. For women, there's Sophia Loren, Halston, Liz Claiborne, Evan Picone, and Gloria Vanderbilt, to name a few. Children's favorites include Pink Panther, Garfield, and Strawberry Shortcake.

Del McNally, another of Pearl's national frame buyers, predicts that "we will see an even larger selection of frames in the next 25 years, with the average consumer owning several pairs for different occasions."

"Materials such as stainless steel, titanium, and graphite will be used with greater frequency since eyeglass wearers are concerned not only with color and style, but also with construction and materials," adds McNally. Eyeglasses now come in zyls (plastic), metals or a combination of the two.

It's clear that whatever their function, whether it's to correct nearsightedness, farsightedness, presbyopia ("old eyes") astigmatism, or light sensitivity, more Americans are "seeing with style" than ever before.

There will be grand opening specials at Pearl Vision Center Friday Jan. 30 and Saturday Jan. 31. Register to win a 13-inch color T.V., microwave, cassette radio and more. Buy one complete pair of glasses Friday or Saturday and receive the second at 50 per cent off.

CITY OF QUINCY IN COUNCIL

January 20, 1987

ORDERED

Be it Ordained by the City Council of the City of Quincy that the Revised Ordinances of the City of Quincy, 1976, as amended are further amended in Chapter 3 Building, Plumbing and Gas Fee Schedule by adding the following:

Article III Sewerage Rehabilitation Fund.

In accordance with the provisions of Chapter 598 of the Acts and Resolves of 1986 the City of Quincy Sewerage Rehabilitation Fund is hereby established. Contributions to said account shall be made by applicants for building permits for the construction, erection, improvement, reuse or rehabilitation of land or the buildings thereon for industrial, commercial, multi-family and residential uses. Excluded however, shall be single family residences if the owner will occupy said residence as his primary residence for at least one year from the date of completion. Any applicant seeking a waiver based on this provision shall certify that fact by affidavit.

The amount of said contribution shall be one percent of the estimated construction cost. The estimated construction cost shall be computed by multiplying the gross floor area (square feet) by the average square feet as published in the latest edition of "Mean Cost Data" by R.S. Means Co., Inc., Duxbury, MA or other similar recognized national survey.

Payments made under this ordinance shall be made at the time of application for a building permit to the Building Department.

This ordinance shall apply to all building permits issued after the effective date of this ordinance. For any pending building applications, payment shall be made as a condition precedent to the issuance of a building permit.

New Oil Crunch Seen In 3 To 5 Years

A spokesman for the Massachusetts Petroleum Council says that cheap gas prices at the pump are a mixed blessing for American consumers "because we are burning the energy candle at both ends."

James F. Keating, Jr., territory manager for Shell Oil Company, told the Quincy Kiwanis Club that the drop in crude oil prices from more than $30 to less than $15 a barrel set in motion a scenario that is tailored to OPEC's interests.

"Low oil prices force us to produce far less while at the same time encouraging us to consume far more, with the result the candle is shrinking fast," said Keating.

"By lowering prices drastically, OPEC forced a lot of producing countries, including the United States, Mexico and others, to stop producing oil from expensive fields whose costs can never be recovered in the marketplace. If a florist is forced to sell roses cheaper than it costs him to grow them, he will stop growing roses and eventually, the product gets scarce and the costs go up."

Keating said that the same scenario is unfolding in the U.S. now. Consumption is rising rapidly, thousands of stripper wells have been shut in and analysts predict domestic production will drop by one million barrels within a year, by two million within five years.

Eventually higher consumption and shrinking production will use up the "glut" of oil in the world, creating a demand for OPEC's rich oil reserves that are easy and inexpensive to produce.

"With no pun intended, OPEC will then have us over a barrel," Keating said, adding many energy analysts expect another oil crunch within three to five years.

The only way to avoid it is for Congress to open up wilderness and offshore areas to exploratory drilling in order to increase domestic production, Keating said.

Council Gives Green Light Spring Start Seen For Presidents' Place

Developers are hoping for a spring construction start of the $55 million Presidents' Place project now that the City Council has unanimously approved four orders regarding the project.

"We're extremely pleased and look forward to working with the city to make Presidents' Place the showcase that it is and will be," said one of the developers, Stephen Ricciardi of Ricciardi Co., after the council's Monday night vote.

The other developer is Campanelli Industries of Braintree. The Boston Five Cent Savings Bank will finance and be the principal tenant of the project at the site of the former Bargain Center in Quincy Sq.

Ricciardi said that the office building, with four and eight stories, will probably be the first structure under construction along with the five-floor garage.

Also included in the project are a 10-story, 100-foot, condominium building and $1.1 million, two-story building on Saville Ave. to replace classroom and office space being lost by Quincy Junior College.

QJC has been using the old Norfolk County Courthouse which is expected to be included in the project.

The former Bargain Center is scheduled to be demolished to make way for the project but no date has yet been set, Ricciardi said.

Councillor Patricia Toland, chairman of the council's Downtown and Economic Committee, said that "most of the issues have been raised and resolved to everyone's satisfaction."

"We have to get going on it, we can't talk about it endlessly."

"We are replacing an area which needs revitalizing with something that hopefully will be a major boost to Quincy Center's economy."

"We'll be working closely with the developers on Community Meeting On Self Protection At Atlantic Center

A community meeting will be held tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m. at the Atlantic Neighborhood Center, 12 Hunt St., North Quincy, to acquaint women with means of self protection.

The meeting is being held by the Atlantic Neighborhood Association in conjunction with the Quincy Police Department.

It is in response to the recent stabbings of four women in Quincy and Milton, according to Ward 6 Councillor Thomas Nutley.

Crime Prevention Officer Robert Hanna of the Quincy Police Department will discuss the stabbings and demonstrate methods women can use to protect themselves.

Atlantic association president Robert McCauley invites all interested Quincy residents to attend the meeting at the center which is behind North Quincy High School.

Refreshments will be served.

Koch Warns Skaters Of Thinning Ice At Ponds

Richard J. Koch, executive director of the Park, Forestry and Cemetery Departments warns children of the thinning ice at skating ponds because of recent mild temperatures.

Koch said that the gates at the Sailor's Home Pond on Rice Rd. are locked despite the ice cover. He said the underground springs feeding into the pond cause a turbulence and above freezing temperatures in the air have reduced the maximum safe strength of the ice surface.

The gates at Sailor's Home Pond in Wollaston are locked unless a solid four-inch ice thickness is measured throughout by Park Department personnel.

All ice covered water surface areas should be avoided and artificial indoor skating rinks utilized whenever weather conditions make natural skating ponds and water bodies precarious or hazardous, he said.

Mayor May Ask For Landfill Life Extension

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Mayor Francis McCauley said at a press conference Tuesday that he will decide in two weeks whether or not to try to keep the landfill in West Quincy open beyond May when it is expected to reach its capacity.

Before that decision is made, McCauley said he plans to meet with James Hoyte, state secretary for Environmental Affairs, and representatives of the Department of Environmental Quality Engineering to ascertain the city's chances of success in keeping the landfill open.

The press conference was held after Quincy's Public Works Commr. Paul Anderson received a letter Monday from Hoyte stating that an environmental impact report submitted by Quincy was being rejected as inadequate.

The EIR was submitted as part of an application to keep the landfill open past May 1.

"I'm extremely disturbed that Hoyte and the DEQE turned down our EIR," said McCauley, who noted that the city has spent $265,000 over the past three years for testing required by state agencies.

McCauley said that his options are to spend more money for tests and resubmit an EIR in hopes this expansion will be approved, or to "write off" the landfill and spend $2.6 million a year to have the trash taken away.

In any event, McCauley said he does not expect an interruption of residential pickup of trash. Commercial users were prohibited from using the landfill last fall to extend the life of the dump for residential customers.

"I feel we've conducted a very good landfill, we do not pollute," said McCauley.

"A landfill is a landfill. It's not a flower garden, but it's necessary," the mayor said.

"All we'd like to do is expand the landfill until we can be out of that business prior to December, 1993."

McCauley said he did not understand why the state is not encouraging landfills to remain open since alternative methods are not completely in place.

The mayor was referring to methods such as incineration, which still need landfills for the ash which results.

"There seems to be a bias against landfills in general, and a bias against Quincy specifically," said Anderson, who referred to the situation as a "regulatory morass."

"The single most important problem the DPW has to deal with is the landfill," he said.

"We've taken a responsible position of not sending our problems somewhere else."

"But every time we knock down one of the barriers, another one crops up."

Anderson said that landfills throughout the state are polluting drinking water and are still open.

"They haven't applied the same standards to us and to towns such as Randolph and Braintree," Anderson said.

The mayor said that paying $2.6 million a year to have the city's residential rubbish taken away "would adversely impact spending in Quincy."

But he noted that if the landfill does close, no city employees would lose their jobs.

When the landfill matter was discussed at Monday night's City Council meeting, Councillor John J. Lydon, Jr., said he would rather put Quincy Police officers at the landfill to keep it open than pay $2.6 million to have trash taken away.

"Let the DEQE take us to court," said Lydon. "I think they are being unreasonable."

Councillor Michael Cheney proposed a resolve, a non-binding proposal, that the city sue the state for $1 million for exceeding its authority and holding Quincy to standards higher than 1978 regulations.

"Court action is not the route Quincy wants to go," said McCauley. "We want to work it out within the framework of the law."

License Board Approves 23 Room Lodging House

By DAN CONNELLY
The city's Licensing Board approved the request of a Quincy businessman for a license to operate a 23 room, all male, lodging house at 511-

512 Hancock St. Robert F. Crosby of Braintree, who also owns another lodging house in the city, said his Wollaston Hancock Realty Trust recently took ownership of what he described as a dilapidated dwelling; and once completely renovated, will contain six one room units in the basement, eight on the first floor, and nine on the second story. Two full baths will be installed on each level.

Crosby assured the board the lodging house will have an in-house manager, parking facilities and will comply with all city codes.

He said the majority of his tenants he will be leasing to will fall into three categories: transient, workers unable to find adequate housing to fit their financial situations, and those experiencing domestic problems.

The board granted the license with the stipulation that subsequent inspections by fire, building and health departments meets with their approval.

In other business, the board.

New Educational Program For Asian Americans

Chinese and other Asian American residents of the Quincy area are invited to enroll in a program to help new readers of the English language.

Offered at Wollaston Lutheran Church, 550 Hancock St., it will use trained volunteers to work with students on a one-to-one basis.

Called the "New Reader Project," and under the direction of Ann McLaughlin of the Thomas Crane Public Library, the program is free.

Students can meet with tutors for two hours a week in classes which can be scheduled either during the day or in the evening. Those interested should call McLaughlin (days) at 471-2400.

The program will be the first of several to be offered by the church for the benefit of Asian Americans.

Future programs may include an evening English as a Second Language class and a daytime program for young children.

They are being planned by the Asian American Committee and Wollaston Lutheran Church.

Information about the New Reader Project or the committee can be obtained by calling Amy Chan at 776-3028 or Winnie Chin at 479-9012.

$7,995,470 In New Wiring

Wire Inspector Thomas E. Purpura reports the Department of Wire Inspection issued 114 permits, for an estimated cost of $7,995,470 in wiring for the month of December.

The department collected $31,828.75 in fees.

Major projects for which permits were issued during December include:

One hundred condominiums at 21-45 Linden St., 114 condominiums at 275 Victory Rd. (East Wing), 212

condominiums at 81-111

Brackett St.; 122 condominiums at 100 West Squantum St.; 47 condominiums at 27 Adams; a new five story office building at 10 Granite St.; a new combination office mercantile building at 280 Victory

More Information Needed To Reduce Cigarette Smoke In Restaurants

By DAN CONNELLY

The License Board was notified by the city's solicitor's office that more information was needed before it can draft an ordinance for city council approval to install smoke removal devices in Quincy restaurants.

At its Jan. 6 meeting, board members were in agreement when M. Jane Gallahue, the city's health commissioner, suggested that non-smokers should be able to breathe a little easier while dining out. She then made a motion to make it mandatory to install an electronic type air cleaner system, commercially available, in all future restaurants with a seating capacity of 40 and over.

The motion further stated that existing restaurants with that same capacity for seating, be required to install, within 2½ years, this type of system that scrubs the air of cigarette, pipe, cigar smoke.

Assistant Solicitor Donald Hansen, in a letter to board chairman John Gillis, said that before the drafting of such an ordinance it will be necessary for the board to supply his office with further details as to the type of device being required, and provide information as to which other cities or towns have ordinances or bylaws of this nature.

Non-smoker Mayor Francis McCauley also agreed with his health commissioner's suggestion when he said: "I realize that smokers do have rights and things have been hard for them because of the number of ban smoking programs in public and commercial buildings, but I think this suggestion has merit."

Currently there are some 300 eating establishments in Quincy.

Fire Dept. Upgrading Costs $2 Million

Mayor Francis McCauley reported his administration's four year program to upgrade the city's fire department equipment and station houses has cost nearly two million dollars.

For the four year period, beginning with fiscal 1984 to the present, McCauley said $1,672,242 was spent on new equipment which included four pumper trucks, one aerial ladder truck and a new rescue vehicle. The average age of pumper and ladder trucks has been reduced from 16 years in 1983 to 10.4 years today, he noted.

McCauley said that new air masks, a "Jaws of Life" vehicle as well as over $200,000 in communications equipment is included in the purchases for that department.

McCauley went on to say that the $319,830 that had been spent on fire station improvements included a $200,000 renovation and expansion of the Quantum fire station, $48,080 for painting, $20,750 for roofing work and $31,000 to demolish the hose tower at the Houghs Neck fire station damaged during Hurricane Gloria.

McCauley said that the newly renovated fire station and Quantum Community Center will be dedicated on Saturday, March 7, at 2 p.m. Arrangements for the ceremony are being handled by the Quantum Community Center.

Second Half Tax Bills In Mail April 1

Mayor Francis McCauley said he hopes to have the second half property tax bills in the mail April 1, but is offering no hint as to what the rate might be.

"I wouldn't predict right now how much the tax rate will be," said McCauley.

The mayor said he expects to have the final figures for fiscal 1987 within the next week. The figures will then be sent to the Revenue Department for its approval, he said.

Then the city can start working on the tax rate, according to McCauley.

A public hearing will also be held by the City Council on the plan of classification.

If the bills are mailed April

1, they will be due May 1, McCauley said. If they are mailed later than that, they will be due after 30 days, he said.

"Hub's top savings rate: 6.25%"

—The Boston Herald September 5, 1986

At a time when other banks are actually reducing rates, a passbook savings account that pays more than most money market accounts is big news:

The Hibernia Savings Bank now pays 6.25% on its regular savings accounts. (That's an annual yield of 6.54%, based on continuous compounding.) It takes $100 to open one and you only need to maintain a balance of $10 to earn the rate.

That's better than my money market account!

If you like the convenience, safety and simplicity of regular passbook savings — and want rates that are better than most money market accounts — stop by and open an account with Hibernia.

It will be good news for both of us.

Clear A Path For Your Letter Carrier

Quincy's three U.S. Post Office managers urge residents to clear a path in the snow for their letter carrier so they can deliver the mail as timely and safely as possible this winter.

In an open letter, Thomas Keohane, Joseph Sullivan and J.J. Burke, managers of the Quincy, Wollaston and North Quincy branches said:

"Last year, thousands of letter carriers across the nation suffered sprains, fractures, or broken bones because they lost their balance on icy and snow covered driveways, sidewalks, steps and porches.

"We do everything possible to deliver the mail regardless of how bad the weather becomes. We do realize it's not always easy to remove ice and snow, but our carriers are not required to risk personal injury or slippery surfaces to deliver the mail."

All three managers also are asking the cooperation of local road authorities to keep public roadways clear of snow and ice to reduce driving hazards during the winter months.

"With postal customers and road authorities cooperating to reduce walking and driving hazards this winter, they will be protecting not only their letter carrier, but their family and the rest of the community as well," they concluded.

O'Connells Plan Huge Project In Ireland

The O'Connell brothers -- Peter and William -- are in the process of making history in Ireland.

The North Quincy firm they head is planning the biggest development project ever built in that country.

It will be known as the Custom House Docks Project in Dublin. According to Peter O'Connell it will be built on 27 acres of water front land and cost in the neighborhood of $200 million.

The project would include:

- An international hotel.
- Office buildings.
- Residential structures.
- An exhibition hall.
- A conference center.
- A marina.

O'CONNELL

Arthur Casey, President of Development for the O'Connells will be in charge of the project.

Officials from the O'Connell Management company have been flying back and forth to Dublin the past several months talking with officials there.

Peter O'Connell says it may take several more months before everything is firmed up.

CASEY

SPEAKING OF O'Connell, he and Congressman Brian Donnelly bumped into one another in Quincy the other day and made a discovery.

The pair got to chatting and learned that they were both in the same hotel in Dublin on the same day recently but didn't realize it.

THE NAME CONDON, it appears, will be on the ballot in this year's city election.

Michael Condon, son of Joanne Condon, former Ward 6 councillor and mayoral candidate in 1985, plans to run for City Councillor at-large.

Young Condon first got involved in public activities helping his mother at the Atlantic Neighborhood Center in 1973.

Now living in North Quincy, he will soon be moving to Elm St., Quincy Center, where he has purchased a house.

Condon, who owns a taxi and limousine service kids that he actually got into politics before his mother did. He was elected to the Boston College High School Student Council in 1974. She was elected to the City Council the following year.

He helped her in her campaigns and she plans to return the favor this year for him.

Condon has been attending City Council meetings the past few months raising speculation that he might be a candidate.

SMALL WORLD DEPIE. Pembroke optometrist John Murphy, who graduated with Mayor Francis McCauley from Boston College High School in 1948.

was rummaging around a souvenir shop in Fryberg, Me. the other day.

Murphy, who collects post cards, was sorting through a bunch of them when he came across one with McCauley's picture on it.

It was a campaign postcard sent out by McCauley when he ran for City Council at-large in 1967.

The card was sent to a voter in North Quincy and how it got to Maine is a bit of a mystery.

Murphy paid $1 for the card and will give it to McCauley.

Incidentally, McCauley who had been Ward 1 councillor lost his bid for an at-large seat that year.

But he's looking forward to getting the card as a souvenir of "the good old days."

McCAULEY

THERE MAY BE a fresh political face in the race for School Committee this fall. Robert Preble, Jr. of Crosby St., Houghs Neck is seriously considering running.

An associate member of the School Committee, he is a student at Quincy Junior College where he is treasurer of the Student Government and editor of the student newspaper, the Crusader. He is married to the former Jeanne Reynolds of Houghs Neck.

This would be Preble's first run for political office.

LIKE TO KEEP track of Presidential candidates? Well, you can catch Pierre (Pete) duPont, former governor of Delaware and Presidential hopeful locally Feb. 18. He will be the guest speaker at a 7:44 a.m. South Shore Chamber of Commerce breakfast at Lombardo's. For ticket information call the Chamber at 479-1111.

Incidentally, Ronald Reagan and George Bush were guests (separately) at similar Chamber breakfasts in 1979.

SEEING RED -- Red ties are among the most photogenic for television cameras, and there was no shortage of them at Monday night's Council meeting. Six out of the seven male councillors present sported red ties, or a variation of that color at the meeting. The only one who didn't was freshman councillor Thomas Nutley. City Clerk John Gillis, Planning Director Richard Meade, Auditor Robert Foy and Assistant City Solicitor Robert Quinn also wore red ties. Is Hollywood watching?

Readers Forum Quincy Visiting Nurse Assn. Concerned Over Confusion With Other Organizations

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I am writing to report that the Quincy Visiting Nurse Association, Inc. is completing its 81st year of providing service to the greater Quincy community. In 1986, with over 45,000 visits to more than 1,800 families in Quincy alone, this record stands unmatched by any other home health agency.

The Quincy VNA is proud to be an active part of the healthcare network for individuals and families of all ages. We have a long and successful history of working with other medical providers and businesses in the area. Our wealth of experience is complemented by our ongoing training in the most recent home health care techniques. Our active Hospice of the Quincy VNA which provides care for the terminally ill in their homes also receives support from the community.

As is common for home health care such as ours, much of our revenue is derived from Medicare, Medicaid, and other insurance. We also receive limited United Way of Mass Bay support, but were on the contributions of former patients and their grateful friends and relatives, community groups, and businesses to help pay for those services that are not fully funded by insurance plans or that are not covered at all. The Quincy community has been quite supportive in the past, and we hope for their continued support in the future.

I am concerned by the flood of calls we have received from patients and business community members who are puzzled by letters received from another VNA, the Visiting Nurse Association of the South Shore (VNASSI) which is not based in Quincy. These letters state confusing facts about the number of years and volume of service they have been providing to Quincy residents. Our callers do not quite understand those statements because their own community Quincy VNA has been providing a high volume of service for 81 years including much free care.

Many of our supporters are on fixed incomes and have sent contributions to this other VNA. However, once realizing the oversight, they have sent contributions to us while requesting that their other donation be returned. We urge everyone whose intent was to give to the Quincy VNA but who mistakenly contributed to VNASSI, to do the same.

I extend my best wishes to all. Good health and peace in 1987.

Harbor Cleanup Importance Stressed By Donnelly

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Cong. Brian Donnelly stressed the importance of the cleanup of Boston Harbor and Quincy Bay during a recent interview with The Quincy Sun and Sun Ch. 8 which also covered such topics as President Reagan and aid to Nicaragua's Contras.

Donnelly discussed the $100 million Clean Waters Act which was recently vetoed by President Reagan. The veto is expected to be overridden by both houses of Congress.

"That, frankly, is a substantial amount of money, but it's a drop in the bucket compared to what would be needed," said Donnelly.

"I also included monies in last year's budget, to study the wastes that have been accumulating over the years at the bottom of Quincy Bay in terms of their toxicity and whether, in fact, things like PCBs or other toxic agents are at the bottom of Quincy Bay.

"I think it's critically important since we've been dumping in Quincy Bay for 20 years that we know what's down there.

"We need to know for our fishing industry, we need to know just for the basic health and welfare of the citizens of Quincy and the people that use Wollaston Beach."

Donnelly said that he mandated that the Environmental Protection Agency do a study to find out what is at the bottom of the harbor and bay.

"Then, when we find out what's down there, we'll have that analyzed by the Health and Human Services Department and we'll go from there.

"If there are toxins there, we'll have to make the scientific decision.

"But it's going to cost a substantial amount of money to build that (sewage treatment) plant over at Deer Island. We all thank God it's not on Long Island or any of the other indigenous islands here in Quincy.

"I hope we can do something we don't usually do in Massachusetts—build something that is futuristic.

"We won't be building an environmental equivalent of the Southeast Expressway, that was outdated even before it was operative.

"That's one thing that we're all insisting that we build a state-of-the-art facility that will be good for the next 40 years, so that our children won't ever have to worry about it, it will be our grandchildren."

Donnelly also commented on Reagan's recent state of the union message, the president's popularity, and the arms deal with Iran.

"I didn't think it was one of his better speeches," said Donnelly. "There was a lot of rhetoric, but very little on specifics.

"He didn't say enough about the Iran situation. The longer we can't get to the bottom of it, the longer it drags out, the worse it is both for the president and the country.

"On his domestic policy, initiatives, things like welfare reform, catastrophic health insurance coverage, he alluded to the fact that he would be sending a message later to the Congress.

"Those are two major issues that the Congress is going to proceed ahead with, irrespective of the president, because they are the things that the American people want done, number one.

"And number 2, just in the framework of the budget and the deficit problem, we need to get a handle both on health care costs and on the costs of the welfare program.

"This is in the order of restructuring the whole welfare program because I don't think there is anybody in the country who feels it works well.

"There have been some initiatives taken here in Massachusetts that have been successful.

"Hopefully, we can pattern some of the reform near to what Gov. Dukakis has implemented in Massachusetts."

The popularity of the 76-year-old president has not been damaged by the Iran controversy, according to Donnelly.

"None of the opinion polls seem to say so," said Donnelly. "I still think the American people like Ronald Reagan.

"They disagree with some of his politics. It's an interesting political circumstance that he's under.

"Poll after poll, since he's been elected, says that they like him as a human being; they think the president is a decent man, that his heart is in the right place.

"They disagree with some of the things that he has asked for—cuts in education, cuts in health care, those sorts of things.

"This whole cloud of the Iranian situation needs to be cleaned up as quickly as possible.

"There were low-level White House staff people, a lieutenant colonel, the head of a national security agency, it seems that they were making unilateral foreign policy on their own.

"On the one hand, Secretary Schultz is saying to our allies, 'Stand firm against terrorism, don't deal with terrorists.'"

"The European community and our allies in the middle east are supporting Iran against Iraq in the war. We have a so-called neutral position, and there we are demanding that our allies not deal with terrorists.

"There were, under the guise of secrecy, sending our people to Tehran, making an arms agreement supporting a government that is in fact the father of terrorism, Iran.

"Then there is the whole question of how much money was being made, where did it go? We still don't know whether, in fact, it ever went to the Contras.

"They say that it did, but the trail seems to lead to some bank in the Cayman Islands. It's more bizarre and Byzantine than anything, but it needs to be cleared up.

"The secretary of state needs to be the principal spokesperson and principal architect, along with the president, of foreign policy.

"On this situation, the long-term impact on our relationship and credibility with our allies has been damaged. Schultz being left out of it is amazing.

"The National Security Agency is not an agency that conducts covert operations. It is a policy, sort of think-tank, for the president.

"Covert, or overt, operations are undertaken by the State Department, the Defense Department or the CIA, and in this case, at least two out of the three were left out of it."

Donnelly said he thought people had to take Reagan at his word that he was not aware of the situation.

"I think that's the Congress' position. If the president says that he wasn't aware, then he wasn't aware.

"The responsibility of the Congress is to make sure that we put any future president under notice that he cannot do these things without making sure the proper agencies of government are informed, and in fact, the proper committee in Congress is informed.

"The law is very clear on that. The speaker of the house and the president of the senate, under the law, have to be informed of any covert actions that take place.

"It's the responsibility of those two persons to make sure that it stays covert, that nobody knows about it.

"We'll see how it all washes out, but the longer it takes, and people are asking, seeking immunity, not willing to stand up and say yes, we did it? yes, we did not, taking the fifth amendment, the longer it hurts Ronald Reagan's presidency.

"And when you hurt Ronald Reagan, you hurt the country, and that's why we want it put behind us.

"We have major economic problems in this country—the farm crisis, the energy crisis of oil producing states, an enormous trade program.

"So there are more important things that have to be addressed domestically.

"This think keeps focusing those others to the back burner."

Quincy's Yesterdays

North Quincy Dog Track Opposed

Proposals for a dog track on the site of Dennison Airport drew vehement opposition at hearings in the State House and City Hall despite a favorable referendum for it at recent Quincy elections.

Harold T. Dennison of 36 Curtis Rd., Quincy, president of the Dennison Airport Kennel Club, Inc., said his group planned to spend $150,000 to make it "one of the outstanding tracks of its kind in this country."

The opposition was led by Rev. William B. Ayers of Union Congregational Church, Wollaston, Rep. Charles W. Hedges of Quincy and City Councillor John R. Shaughnessy, who said:

"There is nothing lower than a dog track. Three of the six operated in Illinois were controlled by Al Capone."

One of those seeking the permit to build the track was former Quincy Mayor William A. Bradford.

NORTH QUINCY ADDITION

The City Council authorized construction of the final wing of North Quincy High School with $349,000 in federal funds provided by the Public Works Administration.

Unfortunately, all present PWA funds had been allocated and construction of a North Quincy High addition would have to wait for Congress to pass a pending public works bill.

The Quincy Council of Parent Teachers Association expressed concern that "political filibustering" would be used to delay construction.

The PTAs feared that the City Council, aware there were no PWA funds available, would borrow money for other city construction jobs, leaving North Quincy's youngsters high and dry.

HARD TIMES

The difficulties of the times were spelled out in the "Situations Wanted" columns on the classified ad pages:

"Young man, 24 years old, would like work of any kind, cleaning cellars, etc. Will work by day, hour or week. 30 cents an hour."

"Capable man, age 40, drive car, keep books, willing to do anything. $7 a week and room and board."

Salmon Loaf A Tasty Surprise

Each time the subject of food comes up at any gathering, and salmon is mentioned, most persons say they either have never had it or they haven't eaten salmon for years.

One of my mother's favorite ways to prepare salmon was in a salmon loaf. Here is a tasty recipe and one which you may be surprised your family will enjoy.

SALMON SURPRISE LOAF

- 1 large can salmon
- 2 eggs
- 3 medium sized potatoes (boiled)
- 1 Tbsp grated onion
- 1 Tbsp chopped parsley
- 1 cup seasoned bread crumbs
- 3 Tbsp melted butter
- 2 Tbsp cooking sherry

Boil potatoes, peel and chop. Combine salmon with onions, eggs and parsley. Add the potatoes, bread crumbs, melted butter and sherry wine. Mix well and put in a greased loaf pan and top with grated parmesan cheese. Bake in a 325 degree oven for 10 minutes (uncovered). I always serve it with creamed peas.

(Marie D'Olimpio is the author of "Simply Italian--And Then Some," a collection of her own recipes. Copies of the book are available at That's Italian, Franklin St., South Quincy, Previte's Market, Sumner St., Quincy Point and Samoset Pharmacy, Samoset Ave., Merrymount.)

"THE LITTLE DANCER" (La Petite Danseuse de Quatorze Ans), a bronze sculpture by Edgar Degas, caught the attention of North Quincy residents Kim Rudnisky, left, and Linda Kane who were among the first-day visitors at the reopening of Boston's Museum of Fine Arts Evans Wing for Paintings.

McCauley said there could be severe financial penalties if the city attempted to keep the landfill open without the state's permission.

Anderson said he agreed with the mayor regarding avoidance of court action, but noted that Boston Survey Consultants, the consultants used by the city regarding the landfill, "would like nothing better than to go to court."

"They feel they did a good job, their professional pride is hurt," said Anderson.

During the council meeting, Councillor James Sheets said, "The people of West Quincy (where the landfill is located) have considered civil disobedience to close the dump."

Sheets talked of "infestation of rats and other vermin" and said he did not feel the city is in a crisis situation now regarding the landfill.

"We can send the trash out if necessary, we have the money," Sheets said.

The landfill issue will again be discussed at a meeting of the Disposal and Sanitary Problems Committee Monday, Feb. 9, at 6 p.m., at City Hall.

Representatives of the DEQE will be invited.

"I feel they're being unreasonable and I'll say that to them," said Anderson.

various aspects of the project, and will make sure all conditions are met."

One of the concerns the committee has expressed since the orders were submitted in late November is about design.

"We're making progress on some design changes which I think will enhance the project's relevance to the historical area," said Councillor Ioland.

Another concern has been parking.

"There are problems with traffic now," said Councillor Joseph LaRaia during the meeting.

"With this project, the problems will be enhanced to the detriment."

LaRaia recently submitted a resolve increasing the parking requirements for such a project. The resolve was adopted by the council and forwarded to the Planning Department.

"The project will be a 1000-fold better structure than what is there now," said Council president Stephen McGrath.

The orders voted Monday night regard approval of the urban renewal plan, a land disposition agreement, abandonment of Faxon Ave., and authorizing the mayor to purchase the Norfolk County Court House which will then be sold to the developers for the project.

The remaining orders, which are still in committee, regard eminent domain land taking in the vicinity of Faxon Ave., and a $3,407,000 loan order for acquisition of property.

If negotiations are successful with the owners of property to be included in the project, land takings will not be necessary, according to Principal Planner Kevin Shea.

Mayor Francis McCauley noted that the negotiations for property cannot begin until after the state approves the urban renewal plan.

McCauley praised the council for its action.

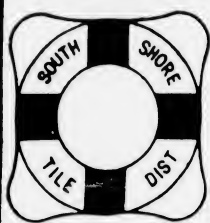

"It's a very important step forward," said McCauley, who particularly commended council president McGrath, Councillor Ioland, Assistant City Solicitor Quinn and Principal Planner Shea.

"This is a very important project for downtown Quincy. Without council approval, it wouldn't have moved forward," he said.

Good News For Everyone Born Before 1921.

IF YOU'RE A SENIOR CITIZEN, AND YOU'RE WILLING TO SPEND FIVE MINUTES READING THIS, WE'LL GIVE YOU TODAY'S CABLE FOR A MONTH, FREE.

Until now you probably thought that cable wasn't for you. That it was just an extra expense. If you'll be good enough to spare us your time, we've got some facts that may well change your mind.

There's always something good on today's cable. You'll always find programs to entertain you, inform you and keep you in touch, just when you're in the mood. Cable's even got programming especially for seniors. You don't have to watch more, you just enjoy it more.

CABLE ISN'T JUST MORE TV.

BASIC. THE HEART OF THE CABLE DIFFERENCE.

People often think that cable must be expensive. But the fact is that the essence of cable, Basic Cable, is really a bargain. You get great reception on the channels you're getting now, plus 33 fascinating new channels. Here's just a taste of what they offer:

- Senior Spotlight with local personalities and senior issues
- Senior Nutrition and Senior Exercise
- The Discovery Channel with the world of nature and science
- Senior Smarts and the Senior Dating Game
- Classics from the golden days of TV and Hollywood
- Lifetime with tips on finance and life extension
- C-Span with coverage from Congress
- News, 24 hours a day, world, financial and local
- Country and Classical music, The Home Shopping Network
- Economics of one and two person households
- National Geographic Explorer Series every week
- Plus The Weather Channel and documentaries not seen on ordinary TV

If Basic is the heart of cable, Senior Service is the soul. Our people go out of their way to provide thoughtful, courteous and prompt service to everyone. But especially to senior citizens. Just listen to what some of our senior subscribers have to say about us:

"Senior Smarts has done a great deal to add to the enjoyment of senior citizens and helps to keep them young, active, and important!" Steve Mann

"Let me thank you for your good service and especially for providing such good TV as Mother Angelica!" Mary A. Mannery

"I'm pleased beyond words. I find your working crew polite, efficient and you keep your word!" Phyllis Arden

"It is really a pleasure to deal with honorable people. Thank you very much!" Joe and Esther Weiss

The cables tell you about cable for hours, but there's no substitute for first hand experience. That's why we're making this special offer to senior citizens only. We'll install cable and give you a month's Basic Cable service, all for free. You can sit back and see what Basic Cable's got for you, without spending a cent.

A GUARANTEE, NOT A GIMMICK.

We don't want you to rush into anything. We're giving you a month's free service to help you make up your mind. If, at the end of it, you're not completely satisfied, we guarantee we'll remove your cable and that will be that. So, what have you got to lose?

If you'd like to give cable a try, please give us a call at One month after installation, you'll see why some of our happiest subscribers are seniors. Because you'll be happy too.

$5,000 Gift To Transport Handicapped

Mayor Francis McCauley announced the gift of $5,000 to the South Shore Coordinated Transportation, Inc. (SSCOOT), a non-profit organization established by transportation advocates to provide service to transporting disabled citizens.

The contribution from Quincy was taken from the mayor's Sons of Italy account. Each year Quincy Lodge No. 1295 donates $10,000 to the city.

This contribution, along with a $20,000 match by Massachusetts, will be used to purchase a handicap van. To date, SSCOOT has purchased six such vans. Each van can transport up to four wheelchairs.

As an acknowledgment, SSCOOT authorized the affixation of a city logo to the wheelchair-equipped van whose primary use will be in Quincy. This service begins tomorrow (Friday) out of the Beechwood Community Life Center.

Most Asked Questions About Self Protection

Following are some of the most frequently asked questions concerning self protection.

Q: What type of gun should I buy to protect myself?

A: We do not advocate the use of firearms. You have to remember that you must be licensed and you should be thoroughly trained in the use of any weapon. You must also be aware of the fact that any weapon you can use can cause a suit against you.

Q: What about mace?

A: Mace is good weapon, but there are some things that you should know about it.

1. You must be licensed to carry mace. You cannot have a licensed person buy it for you.

2. Mace is 99% effective, but it may not work on an individual that is very high on drugs or very drunk.

3. You may be better off trying to get out of the situation you are in rather than fishing your purse or pockets for the mace.

4. If you do purchase mace make sure that you know exactly how it works and what its limitations are.

Q: How do I get a license to carry mace?

A: A Firearms Identification Card (FID) is necessary to purchase and carry mace. You can get an application from the police department in your City or Town. The cost of the FID card is $2. Quincy residents can get an FID card in one day. The usual waiting period is one week, but because of the current situation in the city this has been waived. The records bureau of the Quincy Police Department is open from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Q: What is the best method to use to protect myself?

A: The best method to use to protect yourself is the use of your head. Think of what is going on around you, who and what is around you. Walk erect and confidently. When possible walk with another person. Stay in well lit areas and avoid shortcuts. An umbrella is a good weapon. It has a semi-sharp point at the end, the handle is heavy enough to strike someone with. It can also be used to hold an attacker at bay with its length. A hat pit can also be used very effectively and can be pinned to the outside of your coat for easy use.

Q: I park my car at the rear of my apartment house and it's dark at night. What should I do?

A: First, get your neighbors together and ask the owner of the property to install lighting for the parking area.

You might also start a neighborhood Watch Program with your neighbors. With this program you could call a neighbor before coming home and ask that neighbor to watch as you park and come into the apartment. If there were any problems that neighbor could call the police. You might also carry a flashlight to help light your way and also use to protect yourself.

There are many rumors going around about the stabbing situation and the suspect. These rumors do not help our investigation and also do not help you, the public. If you have any questions about rumors that you may have heard do not hesitate to call us.

If you have any suspicions or information on this case please call the Task Force at 328-4527. You will not be required to identify yourself. If you see anything happening call "911" IMMEDIATELY!!

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Everyone of us owes certain debts which life requires that we pay if we are to enjoy a harmonious relationship with others. We owe a debt of gratitude to those who extend a helping hand to us in a time of despair.

"No man is an island entire of itself" wrote poet John Donne. How true! No one accomplishes anything worthwhile without help from others along the way.

Another debt is that of loyalty. We owe it to our country; our family; our friends; to our firm or individual by whom we are employed; to those who patronize our businesses. We should be ever mindful that these folks are the source of our livelihood and well-being and that they deserve our loyalty, co-operation, respect, and honest performance at all times ... A third debt is courtesy. We owe it to whomever we meet, however casually or under whatever the circumstances. Another debt is kindness. We owe it to everyone, for no one is so fortunately situated as not to appreciate and remember kindness. A fifth debt is that of understanding. We owe this to those who are different from ourselves, or whose ideas or life-styles differ from our own. Understanding is a gift which creates lasting friendships and wins respect from others ...

These are the debts which require some payment every day if we are to measure up to the demands that life makes upon us ...

William Pedersen, 79

Editor Milton Transcript

A funeral service for William F. Pedersen Sr., 79, of Quincy, was held Tuesday at the Deware Funeral Home, 576 Hancock St., Wollaston.

Mr. Pedersen, a managing editor of the Tribune Publishing Company for more than 50 years, died Jan. 30 at Quincy City Hospital.

Born in Boston, he lived in Quincy most of his life.

Mr. Pedersen was editor of The Milton Transcript and The Hyde Park Tribune, both Tribune weekly newspapers.

He was an honorary deputy sheriff in Middlesex County and an honorary member of the Boston Police Department.

Husband of the late Alice C. (Waite) Pedersen, he is survived by a son, William F. Pedersen Jr., of Braintree; a daughter, Nancy Jones of Marshfield; four grandchildren and several nieces and nephews.

Burial was at Pine Hill Cemetery, West Quincy.

Memorial donations can be made to any charity of one's choice.

Thomas Schaetzl, 61

A funeral Mass for Thomas F. Schaetzl, 61, of Quincy, was celebrated Tuesday in St. Ann's Church, Wollaston.

Mr. Schaetzl, a self-employed landscaper, died Jan. 31 at home after a long illness.

A lifelong resident of Quincy, he attended Quincy schools and was a Marine Corps veteran of World War II.

Mr. Schaetzl is survived by his wife, Mary E. (Cairns) Schaetzl; a brother, John Schaetzl of Miami, Fla.; two sisters, Mary C. Cairns and Marguerite Scanlan, both of Quincy, and several nieces and nephews.

Nancy McCormick, 71

Retired Hospital Secretary

A funeral Mass for Nancy E. (McNally) McCormick, 71 of Quincy, was celebrated Monday in St. Ann's Church, Wollaston.

Mrs. McCormick, a retired secretary at Quincy City Hospital maintenance department, died Jan. 30 at the hospital after a short illness.

She was secretary of the hospital's Former Employees Club and a volunteer at the hospital.

Mrs. McCormick was the wife of the late Quincy School committeeman James F. McCormick Sr., who was also a mayoral candidate.

She was a volunteer with the Red Cross blood donor program, and a member of the Wollaston Mothers Club and the Altrusa Club of Quincy.

Born and educated in Boston, Mrs. McCormick lived in Quincy 45 years.

She is survived by two sons, James F. McCormick and John A. McCormick, both of Quincy; four daughters, Mary E. Hayes of Milton, Patricia M. Peters of Milton, Nancy Cruz of Treasure Island, Fla. and Theresa J. Gandy of Long Beach, Miss., 16 grand children, and two great grandchildren.

Burial was in Pine Hill Cemetery, West Quincy.

Funeral arrangements were by the Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Quincy.

Memorial donations can be made to the Quincy City Hospital Building Fund.

Annette 'Etta' Settimelli, 82.

Former Granite Company Office Manager

A funeral Mass for Annette P. 'Etta' Settimelli, 82, of Quincy, former office manager for the granite company of F. Settimelli and Sons Inc. of Quincy, was held Monday at St. John's Church, Quincy Center.

Miss Settimelli died Jan. 29 at Carney Hospital, Dorchester, after a brief illness.

Born in Quincy, she was employed 50 years at F. Settimelli and Sons, which was established by her late father, Emmanuel Settimelli in 1903.

Among the well-known monuments built by the company are one of Mark Twain, which stands in Elmira, N.Y., and Babe Ruth, in Yankee Stadium.

Many subway entrances in Boston were also built by the company.

Miss Settimelli was a volunteer for the Home for Italian Children, Jamaica Plain, and a member of Stella Del Nord, Quincy, the Senior Citizens Club of St. John's Church, Quincy, and the Quincy Catholic Club.

She was also a former member of the Quincy Business and Professional Club.

She is survived by a sister, Fernie Sansone of Assonet, and six nieces and nephews.

Miss Settimelli was the sister of the late Mary Fontana, Augustus Settimelli and Joseph P. Settimelli, who owned and operated the company until his death in March.

Funeral arrangements were by Bolea-Buonfiglio Funeral Home, 116 Franklin St.

Burial was in Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

Donations may be made to St. John's Memorial Fund, 7 Gay St., Quincy, Ma., 02170.

Snow Storm Costs Still Unknown

Mayor Francis McCauley said he hopes to have figures soon on the cost of cleaning up the recent snow storms.

"There's no major problem," said McCauley. "We're not going to stop plowing if we go over the $300,000 snow removal budget."

"We'll just add it to next year's budget, or use the surplus from the fiscal 1986 budget," he said.

The delay in receiving the cost figures is due to the time it takes to put all of the information on the back-to-back storms into the computers, according to McCauley.

While discussing the storms, McCauley took the opportunity to urge residents with off-street parking to get their vehicles off the road when a storm approaches so the plows can do their work.

Those without such parking can park on the odd numbered side of the street this year, he noted.

Problems with plowing streets because of parked cars were among the complaints voiced by city councillors at Monday night's meeting.

Several councillors also praised the city employees who operate the snow plows, but criticized some private contractors for such things as driving down streets with their blades up.

"Middle management is not doing its job," said Paul Anderson, Department of Public Works commissioner.

"Foremen are paid quite well to keep an eye on those people," he said.

Council president Stephen McGrath also asked about plowing sidewalks on main streets following a snowstorm, particularly in the vicinity of schools and municipal buildings.

Anderson said such plowing is usually done, but the closeness of the recent storm hampered such efforts.

Bancorp Of Concord To Buy Quincy Cooperative Bank For $58 Million

The Quincy Cooperative Bank and Cooperative Bancorp of Concord, announced jointly they have agreed on the basic terms under which the Concord thrift would acquire all of the outstanding shares of the Quincy Bank for about $58 million in cash, or $30 a share.

The two banks, which are roughly the same size with assets exceeding $250 million, are expected to enter into a definitive agreement promptly. Cooperative Bancorp would pay $30 for each of the 242,825 shares of common stock held by the Quincy bank, for a transaction totalling approximately $58 million. The bank then would become a wholly-owned subsidiary along with the Cooperative Bank of Concord under the holding company, Cooperative Bancorp.

The proposed acquisition is subject to a number of conditions, including execution of a definitive agreement, regulatory approvals and approval by Quincy Cooperative's stockholders.

Quincy Cooperative said no assurance can be given regarding the timing or consummation of the proposed transaction, or the receipt of regulatory or stockholder approvals required.

Laity Sunday At Bethany Congregational

Laity Sunday is a special occasion at Bethany Congregational Church, Coddington and Spear Sts., Quincy Center.

Once a year at the 10 a.m. worship service, lay persons of the church lead the congregation in all aspects of worship. This year there will be two lay sermons given by Gerald A.J. McCluskey and Tora Fernald Huntington entitled "Angry With God" and "Words That Heal" respectively.

In addition six other persons will help lead the service: Richard Pinel, Marsha Archer, Bruce Byorkman, George Nicholson, Heather McLain, and Jean Ross.

There will be special music as well. Under the direction of Peter F. Krasinski, the Chancel Choir augmented by additional voices from the congregation will sing two anthems.

The worship service is broadcast live over WJDA, 1300 kc at 10 a.m. In addition a cassette tape of the service can be obtained for $2 by contacting the church office.

Sunday School will be in session from 10 to 11 a.m. with classes for children of pre-school through eighth grade. Nursery care for babies is also provided as well as a Toddler class for young children. Our Early Childhood Coordinator, Denise Fleming, will be present to supervise the care of infants through first graders.

At 11 a.m. there will be a fellowship hour in the Allen Parlor. Individuals and families from the community are welcome to share in the worship and the fellowship. You are also invited to enroll children in the Sunday school program.

For additional information about Bethany's ministries, contact the church office at 479-7300.

Scout Sunday At Wollaston Congregational

As part of Sunday's 10 a.m. worship service the Wollaston Congregational Church will observe Scout Sunday and recognize all members of troops 14, 51, and Webelos who meet in the church social hall weekly.

Prior to service a 9:45 hymn sing will be held in the sanctuary by the choir, led by organist Donald Reade.

The Rev. Eldon D.J. Zuern's sermon topic will be: "I'm Going To Let It Shine." Scripture reader will be Robert Olson. Ushers are Buell and John Fuller. Greeters will be Irene and Eric Olson; acolyte, Harry Towle.

Church School will be in session from 10 to 11 a.m., and junior and senior high youth groups will meet at 7:30 p.m.

Board Of Deacons Leads Squantum Service

Members of the Board of Deacons of the First Church of Squantum led the congregation in worship Sunday.

Participating were deacons Renee Johnson, Barbara Anderson, Mary Ruth Scott, Steve Williams, Stewart Scott, Grace Holmes, Lew Townsend, Kate MacRitchie, Dana Olson, Gretchen Bumpus, Tom Williamson and Ed Reister.

As usual during the winter months, the service was held downstairs in Fellowship Hall. For the first part of the service, the congregation gathered at one end of the hall for the opening portion of the service, including a videotaped study of the Lord's Supper. Halfway through the service, the whole congregation moved to the other end of the hall to gather around a U-shaped Communion Table, patterned after the ancient "triclinium" used for banquets in Jesus' day. There, before the fire in the fireplace, the congregation celebrated the Lord's Supper by candlelight.

Renee Johnson gave the call to worship. Barbara Anderson led the opening prayer. Mary Ruth Scott and Steve Williams provided guitar accompaniment for the hymns with Robert Dixey and Andy Ogilvie. Stewart Scott gave the prayer of dedication. Lew Townsend read the scripture, Matthew 20:20-28. Serving the elements of bread and wine were Grace Holmes, Lew Townsend, Kate MacRitchie, Dana Olson, Gretchen Bumpus, and Tom Williamson. Mary Ruth Scott offered the prayer before the bread and Ed Reister gave the prayer before the wine.

Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, pastor, spoke on the subject, "Where Do You Fit In?" After the sermon, he presided at the Lord's Supper.

"My Jesus, I Love Thee" was the offertory anthem by the Chancel Choir. Mary Ruth Scott directed.

Adelaide Nelson and Renee Johnson were the greeters. Ushers were Deborah Stohberg, Chris Dixey, Amy Hayhow and Tore Wallin. Sandra Stohberg and Pat Sorensen hosted the Fellowship Hour after the service.

This Sunday there will be two worship services: the guitar service at 8:30 a.m. and the traditional service at 10:30 a.m. On Feb. 15 at 10:30 a.m. a single service for all will be held after a Valentine's Breakfast at 9:15 a.m.

Symposium On Divorce, Separation At St. John's School

Men and women interested in dealing with issues of separation and divorce, are invited to register for a free symposium to be held Saturday, Feb. 21, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at St. John's School Adult Center, 30 Phipps St., Quincy.

The symposium will cover four major areas:

- Psychological emotional: including pre-divorce and divorce counseling; rebuilding self-esteem, coping with anger; helping the children to cope.
- Legal Financial: including property and marital assets division; child maintenance and supervision; alimony and taxes.
- Rebuilding after the breakup: including career building, daycare options;

reentering the job market, a new and happy relationship.

• Spiritual Dilemma experiences during separation or divorce.

Among questions to be answered by the trained professionals are: How do I tell the children? What Helps? Why Do I Feel So Badly? How Can I Deal With The Ups and Downs? Where Do I Go From Here? and When Does It Get Better?

The symposium is being offered as a community service by The Delphi Center of Quincy, a provider of psychological services, in cooperation with the St. John's School Adult Center.

Speakers will be: Martha L. Arthur, clinical social worker and an expert in women's issues, The Delphi

Center

Tanya Konjolka, attorney Murphy, Lamere & Murphy. Florence Vinger, coordinator, Separated Divorced Ministry of Family Life Apostolate.

Dr. Ronald Heisch, psychologist, The Delphi Center.

According to Martha Arthur, symposium coordinator, attendees may ask specific questions and talk privately with the experts in the various fields.

Admission is free with advance registration requested.

Those wishing to attend wishing more details should call The Delphi Center, 44 Billings Road, 786-0137 during normal business hours.

Foster care is temporary until the children are returned to their own families or are placed for adoption. During this temporary period, the children need substitute parents who can offer them love, affection, patience and understanding. The Bureau will offer supportive services to foster parents and to the children placed in their homes. As much relevant information as possible regarding the children will be shared with the foster parents prior to the placement. Board, clothing and Medicaid expenses will be arranged by the agency.

The Catholic Bureau speaks to interested groups about the foster care program. To arrange for a speaker or to obtain further information about becoming a foster parent, call Kim Ravidia at 523-5165.

Brockton Delays Berth

North Girls Enroute To E-Mass. Tourney

The North Quincy girls' basketball team defeated Brookline, 50-44, last week but, needing one win to qualify again for the Eastern Mass. Tournament, lost to Brockton last Friday, 68-52.

The Raiderettes (11-3 overall and 5-3 in the Suburban League) hoped to qualify for the tournament this week, facing Newton North Tuesday and playing at Cambridge Rindge and Latin Friday at 3:30. North will host Cathedral in a non-league game next Tuesday at 5 p.m.

North ran into a hot-shooting Brockton team as the Boxers hit nine of their first 10 shots to take a 20-14 lead after one quarter. North matched Brockton basket for basket early and had an 8-6 lead after Maureen Donovan converted an offensive rebound for a score. She continued to keep North close with two long jump shots and finished the quarter with eight of the team's 14 points. Four three throws by Nancy Flukes and an Anne McGuiggan basket were the only other offensive contributions.

Brockton raced to a 26-16 lead but North went ice cold, failing to convert on 10 of its next 11 possessions, a Flukes layup keeping the Raiderettes within 10.

Brockton outscored North, 14-10, in the third quarter with McGuiggan the entire offensive as she scored all her team's points on three baskets and four free throws.

Trailing, 46-32, entering the final quarter, the Raiderettes were able to cut the lead to 11 thanks to a long jump shot by sophomore Paula Tolson, a Rita Rooney basket and a Flukes driving layup. However, the Boxers ran off seven straight points. North made one more run late in the game on a Nancy Leonard three-point play and a Koski steal and layup.

McGuiggan had 15 points and seven rebounds, Donovan had 12 points, Flukes 10 points and five assists, Koski six points and Leonard five.

Earlier in the week at home the Raiderettes avenged an earlier defeat at the hands of Brookline in an exciting game.

After a sluggish start, Donovan took matters into her own hands, hitting five straight baskets, giving her team a lead it would never give up. Donovan scored 12 of North's 16 points as it led, 16-12, after a quarter.

With North up by four, neither team could score until Patty Feeney hit a jump shot four minutes into the second quarter.

North increased its lead to 24-15 as the defense completely shut down Brookline, not allowing a basket during the entire quarter. Karrie Pistorino, Rooney, Tolson and Deirdre Murphy were standouts on defense. Flukes put North up, 27-16, after three quarters with a three-point play at quarter's end.

Brookline cut the gap to 29-24 before McGuiggan hit a jump shot, Pistorino fed Flukes for a layup and McGuiggan converted a three-point play. North widened its lead to 38-24 going into the last quarter.

North went back up by 16 but Brookline scored 11 unanswered points. With North ahead by three with 1:25 left, Flukes took control, stealing a Brookline pass and hitting three of four from the free throw line to clinch the win.

Donovan had 15 points and four assists, Flukes 12 points, eight rebounds and four steals and McGuiggan 10 points and six rebounds.

CO-CAPTAINS Anne McGuiggan, left, and Marybeth Maloney, are having fine seasons for the North Quincy girls' basketball team, which hopes to qualify again for the Eastern Mass. tournament this week.

"Our Brookline win was a sweet one because our girls felt they should have beaten them at Brookline. Our defense in the second quarter was what turned the game around and it was encouraging to see it was our young kids who did the job for us," said coach Paul Bregoli.

"Pistorino, Rooney, Murphy, Feeney and Flukes were all on the floor for us at that time. And Paula Tolson, who has been playing extremely well at the junior varsity level, gave us some solid minutes in that quarter. She will be getting more varsity time as the season winds down.

"At Brockton we were a little flat and they shot very well. It was probably the only game all year we have been that far out of it. Donovan had a super week for us. She had two incredible shooting games. My only problem is to get her to keep shooting when she is in one of those streaks.

We look forward to qualifying for the tournament this week. We lost to Newton North earlier but we feel we can beat them on our home court. Cambridge will be a tough opponent on its home court."

North Swimmers Defeat Westwood

The North Quincy swim team improved its record to 6-4 with an 89-81 victory over Westwood.

The first event, the 200-yard medley relay, was won by North's Harry Towle, Jason Moriarty, Brian Ramos and Eric Giordano in 2:09.7.

"At the time it just seemed to get us off on the right foot," said coach Bill Walker. "But it turned out to be the margin of victory. Had we not won by 4-10s of a second, the meet would have ended in a tie. It was a great win and we really worked hard under some adverse conditions. Water temperature was six degrees below normal and the air temperature was between 60 and 65 degrees."

This was North's only win but the Raiders' depth paid off with many second and third place finishes.

Placing second were Braley, Waltermire, Matt McCusker, Paul Nitschke, Derek Borek and Fred Cawthorne.

Taking third places were David MacKay, Donald Howie, Mike Jacobacci, Chris Buric, John Donlan, George Gavros and Erik Gustafson.

North will face Quincy Friday night at 6 and will host Walpole next Monday at 3:30. Both meets are at the Lincoln-Hancock School pool.

St. Ann's Hockey

Carty's Hat Trick Sparks Plaza, 8-4

M & I defeated Plaza Olds, 8-4, in the Bantam Division of St. Ann's Youth Hockey League.

Paul Carty had a hat trick, Robert Ieralade two goals and Ed Pulifico, Steve Doran and Billy Morrissey one each. Mark Noonan had a hat trick and an assist and Joe Tosone a goal and two assists for Plaza.

Lydon-Russell and Bike 'n' Blade battled to a 7-7 tie. Joe Tosone had four goals and two assists, Steve Doran two goals and three assists, Eric Visocchi a goal and Mike Pedersen and Louis Rodophele an assist each. For B 'n' B Paul Carty had a hat trick and an assist, Mike Noonan two goals and three assists, Chris McDermott and Paul Shine a goal each.

In the Pee Wee Division Colonial Federal edged Goodhue's, 1-0, on Kevin Karlberg's goal.

Ideal Elevator walloped Keohane's, 11-3, as John Jackson scored five goals and had two assists. Mike Moular had a goal and three assists, Denis Collum a goal and an assist, Brian Collum a goal and assist and Brian Pineo, Paul Anderson and Louis Russell a goal apiece. Brian Connolly had two goals and an assist for Keohane's, Dave Brown a goal and an assist and Joe Carinci two assists.

Faiella Team Leads St. John's

Lou Faiella's team leads St. John's Holy Name Bowling League with a 14-4 record, followed by Bob Saluti's team at 12-6.

The rest of the standings: Mike Panarelli, 10-8; Joe Marini, 8-10; Dick Guerriero, 6-12; Art DiTullio, 4-14.

Guerriero rolled the weekly high single of 148 and Marini had 147. Marini had the high three of 369 and Saluti had 362.

Faiella's team had the high team single of 528 and DiTullio had 515 and 513. DiTullio had the high three of 1492 and Faiella had 1478.

The Top Ten: Marini, 110.7; Dick Guerriero, 108.4; Saluti, 107.5; Panarelli, 105.4; John Grande, 101.9; Faiella, 99.9; Tom Darcy, 95.5; Lew MacLennan, 95.3; Rick Comeau, 95.1; Frank Guerriero, 94.7.

'North Connection' Propels Bridgewater Women's Basketball

The Bridgewater State College Women's basketball team is enjoying another excellent season, thanks in a great part to its "North Quincy Connection," coach Bo Ruggiero and senior standouts JoAnn Runge and Chris Choukas.

Ruggiero, who played basketball at North Quincy High under coach Ken Rickson, went after his 100th victory last Saturday but was foiled when Salem State, ranked 16th in the country, handed the Lady Bears a 75-63 setback, Bridgewater's first Mass. Conference loss. Bridgewater's record dropped to 13-4.

Ruggiero, who has coached Bridgewater for five years after serving as boys' coach at Medfield and Taunton and a hitch as assistant to Dr. Tom Davis at Boston College, hoped to get his 100th win Tuesday against Fitchburg State.

Runge and Choukas, who had outstanding high school careers at North Quincy under coach Paul Bregoli, have been two of Bridgewater's top players for four years and have played in 82 winning regular-season games in four years, losing only 10.

Runge, a candidate for Division 3 All-American honors, has continued her high school record-setting in her college years. She holds the Bridgewater career record for assists and leads her team this year in scoring, steals and assists.

A tri-captain this season, she is also an excellent student, having a grade average of 3.1. She hopes to get into the radio-television field.

She feels her background at North Quincy under Bregoli let her move into college ball right away. "We were grounded in the fundamentals real well under coach Bregoli," she said. Choukas echoed those sentiments and both had good words for Ruggiero.

"We've been awfully lucky to play for two such fine coaches," she said.

Chris, an elementary education major, was named Mass. Conference player of the week twice as a freshman. She was a Suburban League all-star in high school, as was Runge, and is averaging almost 50 per cent shooting from the field.

"These two girls have been the backbone of the basketball program here for four years," said Ruggiero. "They've won two conference championships and qualified for the NCAA tournament four years running."

Bo, whose parents live in Squantum, has fond memories of his high school days under Rickson.

"I learned a lot from Ken and I give him a lot of credit for my success," he said. "He was an excellent coach and teacher."

In the loss to Salem State Choukas had 15 points and, as usual, Runge had a bushel of assists.

In their previous game the Lady Bears had rolled over Amherst, 80-35. Choukas had 13 points and seven rebounds and Runge had eight points, six assists and three steals.

Bantam House

D&H Moves Up On Burgin

Doran & Horrigan moved to within two points of Burgin Platter in the Bantam House League with an easy 9-3 win over Burgin.

Jamie Tapper and Jeff Freeman had two goals each and Scott Flaherty, Bob Ford, Alan Murray, Mark

McMillen and Rich Keddy one apiece. Ford, Keddy and Ken Sousa had two assists apiece and McMillen and Murray one each. Scott Curtin, Jeff Connor and Dan Lovell scored for Burgin.

Johnson Motor Parts edged the Quincy Sun, 5-4.

with Mike Bamber scoring twice and Jeff Bina and Ken Staskiwyer once each for the Sun. Mickey Dunning and Mike Hughes had assists.

The standings: Burgin Platter, 9-3-0; Doran & Horrigan, 8-4-0; Quincy Sun, 5-7-0; Johnson Motor, 2-10-0.

Pee Wee House

UCT Cuts Keohane's Lead

UCT defeated Keohane's, 5-1, to cut Keohane's Pee Wee House League lead to one point.

David Mullen had two goals and Mark Walsh, Bob Dunkle and Aidan O'Donoghue one each. O'Donoghue had three assists, Mullen two and Walsh and Mike Kelly one each. Steve O'Brien scored for Keohane's with Chris McCallum assisting.

Colonial Federal topped Bersani Brothers, 6-3, with Jim Ford and Sean Vermette scoring two goals apiece and Janice Blaney and Shane Young one each. Matt O'Toole and Blaney had two assists apiece and Janet Fennelly, Jeff Bertoni, John Foley, Mike Moody, Jimmy Smith and Shane Abhoud one each. Kevin Mantville had two goals and John MacNeil one for Bersani and Brian Kelley, Scott Wysocki and Sean McCarthy had assists.

The standings: Keohane's, 7-4-4; UCT, 8-6-1; Colonial Federal, 5-6-4; Bersani, 5-9-1.

Squirt A's Win

Quincy's Squirt A team, sponsored by South Boston Savings Bank, defeated South Boston, 7-4, in a Greater Boston League game.

Brian Connolly scored first for Quincy early in the first period with Brian Wood assisting. South Boston tied the score but Jamie Schatzl put Quincy ahead late in the period with Andrew Vermette getting an assist.

Quincy went up by two goals early in the second period with an unassisted goal by Jeff Craig but South Boston came back quickly. Wood put Quincy ahead, 4-2, with Danny Morrell assisting.

Quincy scored three unassisted goals, one each by Vermette, Doug Nolan and Rob Guarnieri.

North Boys Make Brockton Earn It

The North Quincy boys' basketball team turned in one of its finest performances of the season last Friday but lost to Brockton's powerhouse, 79-66.

The loss dropped the Raiders to 4-11, while the Boxers' Suburban League co-leaders improved to 13-2 overall and 7-1 in the league.

North Quincy will host the other league co-leader, Cambridge Rindge and Latin, Friday at 3:30 p.m. The Raiders are due next Tuesday.

Junior Dave Lawless had an outstanding game against Brockton with a career-high 32 points, including 10 of 11 free throws, and 12 rebounds. Bob Sylva also had a good game with 14 points and eight rebounds and Ted Stevenson had 10 points and eight assists.

Brockton led all the way, but the Raiders cut the gap to 71-66 with 1:30 to play. The Boxers then iced it with six late free throws.

Earlier in the week North lost a heartbreaker to Brookline, another league power, 40-39, just falling short as it scored four points in the final five seconds of the game.

Stevenson, who had 12 points, hit a jumper and, after North tied up Brookline on the inbounds pass, Lawless (11 points) scored on a layup with two seconds remaining.

Joe DeGrandis scored eight points and had four steals. Brookline had a 17-16 halftime lead in a real defensive battle and extended its edge to 32-27 after three quarters.

Meanwhile, the luckless Quincy boys' team went down to its 13th loss without a victory as it bowed to Waltham, 57-38.

Coach John Franceschini recently lost three players through ineligibility, adding to the Presidents' woes.

Quincy will play the Suburban League co-leaders in its next two games, playing at Brockton Friday night and hosting Cambridge Rindge and Latin next Tuesday night, both games at 7:30.

The Quincy wrestling team continued its winning ways last Saturday, defeating Waltham, 36-26, to improve its record to 11-4-1.

It was the Presidents' seventh win in a row.

Quincy will host Brockton today (Thursday) at 4 p.m. and next Tuesday will be home to Plymouth-Carver at 3 p.m.

Rob Cabezas and Al Souza remained undefeated for the Presidents, while Dennis DeCoste improved to 11-1.

Quincy's winners were Czarek Nalaskowski by pin at 107 pounds, Souza, 5-3, at 114; Robert Lingoes by forfeit at 121; Cabezas by pin at 134; DeCoste by pin at 157, and Norm Hassan, 10-5, at 169.

Earlier in the week Quincy easily defeated Cambridge

Rindge and Latin, 48-13, as Scott O'Brien came off the injury list to pin his opponent.

The Presidents' winners were Nalaskowski, 7-4, at 107; Souza by pin at 114; Lingoes by pin at 121; O'Brien by pin at 134; Peter DePaulo by pin at 140; Todd Kimmell by forfeit at 147; DeCoste by pin at 157; Hassan, 10-6, at 169 and Jim Feeley by pin in the heavyweight bout.

Quincy Girls Breeze By Waltham

The Quincy girls' basketball team which has had a frustrating season losing several one and two-point decisions, returned to the win column last Friday with a 33-27 victory over Waltham, improving its record to 4-9.

The First Ladies will be home to Brockton Friday night at 7:30 and next Tuesday will be at Cambridge Rindge and Latin at 3:30.

Sisters Gayle and Patti Morrell, junior forwards, combined for 15 points and 18 rebounds against Waltham as Quincy turned away a fourth-quarter comeback by the Hawks.

The First Ladies led from the start, but saw their 27-18 third quarter lead cut to five points in the final minutes.

Linda Walsh scored two key baskets and Sue Parry hit on a pair of free throws with 1:50 left to preserve the win.

Waltham had only four field goals but it had 19 free throws to stay in the game.

● Track

North Girls Defeat Brookline

The North Quincy girls' track team defeated Brookline, 47-39, last week to improve its record to 2-3.

The Raiderettes, who faced Cambridge Rindge and Latin yesterday (Wednesday) will compete in the State Coaches Relays Saturday at Boston University and next Monday will be in the Suburban League championship meet at Cambridge Rindge and Latin.

North's winners against Brookline were Robin Guilfoyle in the 50-yard dash (6.68); Sherrin Quintiliani in the mile (6:12.2); Caryn Collings in the 600 (1:40.7); Tricia Barrett in the two-mile (12:11.3), and the 4x440 relay team of Betty Zadic, Collings, Quintiliani and Karen Cashman (4:37.2).

Placing second were Jen Raftery, hurdles; Cashman, 1000; Zadic, 300; Cashman, high jump; and Gloria Gougian, shot put.

Taking third places were Ann Toland, mile; Joanne Moriarty, 1000; Tracey Panushka, 600; Maryellen Cavanaugh, 300; Bridgette Toland, two-mile; Raftery, high jump; and Guilfoyle, shot put.

Cashman and Quintiliani made excellent showings in last Saturday's Red Auerbach Development Meet at MIT.

Cashman finished second in the freshman-sophomore 1000 in 2:51.4 and Quintiliani finished second in the freshman-sophomore mile in 5:38.1.

Dudek Keynote Speaker At North Boosters Dinner

Joe Dudek, who led North Quincy's football teams to wins over Quincy in 1980 and 1981, later became the all-time scoring leader in NCAA Conference titles, and is now a member of the Denver Broncos, will be the featured speaker at the North Quincy

Individual awards will be given, including the annual Jack Donahue Memorial Award for the best North player in the Quincy game.

All football players and cheerleaders will be guests at Football Boosters Club's annual football awards dinner

Sunday at 4 p.m. at the Sons of Italy Hall.

Squirt B's Win, Lose In Bourne Tourney

Quincy's Squirt B team, sponsored by Quincy Cablesystems, played in the recent Coca-Cola tournament at the Gallo Arena in Bourne.

In the first game Quincy defeated Grafton, 3-1, with Patrick Connolly scoring two goals and Jim Cipriano one. Billy Coughlin assisted on both Connolly goals.

In the second game Quincy lost to Canton, 4-2, scoring both goals in the first period. Tim Kunz scored the first with Paul Ginnis assisting, and Steve Provost scored the second unassisted.

Quincy defeated Burrillville, 3-2, in the third game, coming back from a two-goal deficit. Quincy scored all its goals in the third period with Eric Zimmerman scoring two and Provost one. Danny Beaton, Cipriano and Provost had assists.

Tim Wassiege and Mike Manganaro were outstanding in goal. Dave Pacino, Justin Silverio, Derek Mullen, Paul King and Keith Driscoll had big games on defense and Lou Bertucci and Lee Hughes played fine two-way games.

Mite-Squirt House

Surgical Moves Into Tie For 2nd Place

Quincy Surgical moved into a three-way tie for second place, one point behind idle Balducci's, in the Mite-Squirt House League with a 7-1 victory over Bo Car Printing. The schedule was cut short by the snow.

Robbie Callow had a big night with five goals for Surgical and Jamie Murphy and Matt Suchan had one each. Murphy had four assists. Suchan two and Callow and Tim Sheehan one each. Mike McKinnon scored for Bo Car and Mike Smith and David Rowell had assists.

The Paul Harold Club defeated Newcomb Farms, 3-1, with Chris Geary scoring twice and Paul Princiotto once. Ron McGinn had two assists and A.J. Carthas and Robbie Pirelli one each. Chris Grant scored for Newcomb and Joe McPhee and Danny Stone had assists.

The standings: Balducci's, 6-2-3; Surgical, 6-4-2; Lydon-Russell, 6-4-2; Rogan Hennessy, 6-6-2; Harold, 5-6-0; Bo Car, 4-6-2; Newcomb Farms, 3-7-1.

Senior Hockey

Kelly's, Joe's Win

Kelly's Pub defeated Chevy's, 7-2, to hold on to its two-point lead in the Quincy Youth Arena's Senior Hockey League.

Jim Moore had a hat trick and Tom Gerry, Mike Storer, Leo Doyle and Frank McGinnis a goal each. Storer had four assists, Moore three, Mike Marks two and Doyle, John Pelican and Jeff Swenson one each. Bob Gervasi and Charlie Cocce scored for Chevy's and Cocce had an assist.

Second place Joe's Pub kept pace with a 7-3 victory over Kane's Place. Bob Taylor had a hat trick, Bob Falvey two goals and Bob Wilkerson and Hugh Gorman one each. Tony Messina had four assists, Gorman two and Taylor and Mark Bossy one each. John Andrews had all three goals for Kane's Place and Paul Messina and Jim Fitzpatrick had two assists apiece and Scott Mikuneskin and Mark Andrews one each.

The standings: Kelly's, 14-3-1; Joe's, 13-4-1; Nostalgia, 9-6-2; Kane's, 8-7-3; Fowler House, 7-8-2; Chevy's, 6-10-2; Manet Lunch, 4-13-0; Bob White's, 3-13-1.

YMCA Strypers Defeat Dorchester

The South Shore YMCA Strypers girls' swim team, gearing up for the Eastern Mass. district championships Feb. 21 and 22 at Brockton High, cruised to an easy 230-144 victory over Dorchester Y.

The Strypers have qualified 35 swimmers for the district meet.

The girls' team has dual meet victories over Middleboro, Wakefield, Somerville, Marshfield, Dedham, New Bedford and Norwell.

The seniors (15-18) are undefeated as are the C team (11-12) and the D team (9-10). The B team (13-14) and the 8 and under team suffered only one loss.

The girls still have one final hurdle before the championships, facing the always tough West Roxbury Y team Saturday at home. West Roxbury has undefeated B and C teams.

Lawlor Team Wins

Koch Women First Half

Pat Lawlor and her teammates won the first half competition in the Koch Club Women's Bowling League with 81 wins and 38 losses.

Sharing in the triumph were Shirley MacNeil, Danielle Duncan, Joanne Colluppy and Dot O'Connor.

The winners were followed by Linda Carpenter, 70-60; Linda Barba, 66-54; Carol Carchedi, 62-58; Barbara Matthev, 61-59; Linda McLaren and Debra Koch, 56-64; Dolores Connors, 55-65; Rose McDonald, 48-72 and Edie Maher, 45-74.

Debra Koch leads in the individual scoring with 99.8 and is followed closely by Dolores Connors, 99.5. Others in the top 10 include Nelda Penniman, 97.6; Pat Lawlor, 96.7; Jean Burns, 96.4; Edie Maher, 96.4; Linda Carpenter, 96.3; June Hillier, 95.8; Carol Carchedi, 94.2 and Jean Gogan, 93.6.

Jean Burns still owns the best individual three string total of 349 and the best single string of 154.

Linda Barba and her teammates have the best team three string total mark of 1462 and the top team single string of 528.

The league in its 32nd year bowls each Monday at 7 p.m. at the Merrymount Daylight Alleys in Quincy.

Bantam B's Tie

Quincy's Bantam B team was tied by Wellesley, 6-6, in Greater Boston League action.

Quincy will play Randolph - Stoughton tonight (Thursday) at 9 p.m. at the Quincy Youth Arena and the winner will go into the state tournament in March.

Mike Baylis had two goals against Wellesley and Aldo Mancini, Bob Miller, Brian Zimmerman and Scott Hohmann one each. Jeff Freeman and Rich McDonald had two assists apiece and Mancini, Sal Manganaro, Baylis and Steve Connolly one each.

John Caulfield V.P.

James Feurtado New Treasurer, At Granite Cooperative

The Granite Cooperative Bank has named James W. Feurtado treasurer and John Caulfield vice president and chief financial officer.

Feurtado, a Quincy resident, has been controller of the bank since 1982.

He graduated from the University of Hawaii with a Bachelor of Arts degree. He is a Massachusetts Certified Public Accountant and on the Board of Governors of the Quincy Tennis Club.

Feurtado succeeds Mrs. Marjorie Wardrop who was named treasurer of the Granite Cooperative Bank in 1981 and retired Jan. 1.

Mrs. Wardrop was formerly employed at the Shipbuilders Cooperative Bank of Quincy, which was renamed Presidential Cooperative, later to merge with the Granite Cooperative Bank.

Caulfield has previously served as vice president and treasurer of a major commercial bank on the South Shore. In his position with Granite Cooperative Bank he will be responsible for the accuracy of all financial and accounting operations, budgeting, planning, asset management and internal reporting. He will also coordinate all audits and examinations.

He was graduated from Bentley College in Waltham with a Master of Science degree in finance.

He lives in Needham.

• Senior Basketball

Sterling, Central Win

Second week action in the Quincy Recreation Department Senior Basketball League saw Sterling Center return to victory after a year's absence from the league.

Sterling defeated Squantum 47-41.

In the second game, Central went to 2-0 and Atlantic dropped to 0-2 as Central cruised to a 59-45 win on Atlantic's home court.

Sterling's Andy Taylor led all scorers with 21 points while teammate Rich O'Brien and John Barnes each had seven points. On the Squantum side, Chris Myers had 12, Mike McDonald eight and Doug Newton seven. Squantum coach Gerard Coughlin had praise for the rebounding of Henry Cunniff. Sterling Coach Steve Perfetto noted the fine floor play of Dan Santry and the rebounding of Bill Santry as the keys to sealing his first senior hoop victory.

John Mooney had 22 to lead all scorers in Atlantic's losing effort. On the Central side, Dan McLoughlin had 18 while Jamie Fennessey had 13 and Pete McLoughlin had eight. Others contributing for Atlantic were Nick Cangemi, six, and Dan Hobin, four. Central Coach Brian Buckley pointed out the rebounding of John Shea and the defense of Craig Goode as factors in the Central victory. George Dunn was also impressed with Brian Orwig and Mark Gillyolly who provided strong rebounding on both ends of the floor.

The senior hoop league is part of the Quincy Recreation Department's winter recreation program and games are played at 10 a.m. and 11:15 a.m. each Saturday at Atlantic Middle School.

Scottish Night On Cable Talk

Highlights of the recent Scottish Heritage weekend, conducted at the Quincy Point Congregational Church, will be featured tonight (Thursday) at 8 p.m., on Quincy Community Television Ch. 3 Cable Talk show.

Included in the program will be songs, dancing, poetry of Robert Burns, and the worship service of "The Kyring of The Tartans," which is the blessing of the Scottish clans ceremonial colors and grace with the rendering by the piper of the hymn "Amazing Grace."

Up With People Concert Feb. 8

Quincy Radio Station WJDA is sponsoring an Up With People concert to be held Feb. 8, at 7:30 p.m., in the Weymouth North High School, North Weymouth.

In a medley of songs from ragtime, the big band era and early rock and roll, the cast predicts that the music and dance of the past will be back in style in the year 2000, and today's top hits will be the golden oldies of the future.

With colorful costumes, the cast will continue its popular tradition of taking the audience on a special musical tour around the world. Their international medley will include a Chinese ribbon dance, the Russian "Gopak," a Scandinavian polka, and a good old fashion American hoedown, just to name a few.

The audience is always a part of the Up With People concerts. In a beat of the future the audience may find themselves singing with a computer or dancing in the aisles with a Japanese lion.

Advance ticket prices are $5 for children, senior citizens and $6 for adults. They are now on sale at Colonial Federal Savings Bank on Beach St., Wollaston, the South Shore Y.M.C.A., on Coddington St., Quincy, WJDA, Brackett St., Noble's Camera Shop in Hingham Square, and the South Weymouth Savings Bank in Columbian Square and their branch office at Shaw's Plaza in Weymouth.

WEEK OF: February 5

AQUARIUS - January 21 - February 19
Month is off to a bubbly start, your charismatic personality opens doors - especially at the workplace. Watch tendency to combine colors and styles in too exotic a manner.

PISCES - February 20 - March 20
Informed Pisces can make some wise moves, especially in professional and educational spheres. Stubborn friend starts to relent. Romantic entanglement is becoming much less complicated.

ARIES - March 21 - April 20
Difference of opinions does not mean a strain between romance partner and yourself - but tact is all important. Investment opportunity requires careful study. Travel planning is spotlighted.

TAURUS - April 21 - May 22
Interests begin to diversify in a week that stresses education and expansion. Do-it-yourself tasks may prove more trouble than they're worth. Avoid risk-taking in romance department.

GEMINI - May 23 - June 21
Good week to take on new challenges, especially in career realm. Community activities add to your prestige. Difficult tasks, especially letter-writing and telephoning - can be done with relative ease.

CANCER - June 22 - July 22
New sparkles - you have a wonderful way with words. New hobbies and other interests are in the picture. Surprise expenses may present themselves after the weekend.

LEO - July 23 - August 22
Your offbeat ideas win the attention of a prestigious individual. If feeling isolated, make an extra effort to be with people. Work-related travel may be in the picture.

VIRGO - August 23 - September 22
Lighthearted engagements are spotlighted through the period. Be sure not to read too much into remarks of loved ones - you're in a mildly suspicious mood.

LIBRA - September 23 - October 22
New hobby may prove costly. Friendships forged now are meaningful ones. Associate may be less trustworthy than you believe, this may not be the time to delegate tasks.

SCORPIO - October 23 - November 21
Enjoy free time while you can. A busy social cycle, coupled with career pressures, begins imminently. Home beautification project benefits from opinions of objective outsiders.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22 - December 22
Changes in scenery are accentuated. Focus is also on cultural activities. Romantic misunderstanding is less significant than you think. Avoid short cuts if pursuing important goal.

CAPRICORN - December 23 - January 20
Week may mark the beginning of both a meaningful relationship and an introverted period. Partner may not be as lavish in praise, but is more proud of you than you believe.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
Independence is your middle name - a trait that earns you admiration but sometimes keeps you at a distance. You become the champion of a major cause, likely toward July-August. Romance and finance considerations merit greater effort if you are to make key strides by late '87.

BORN THIS WEEK
February 5th, actor Red Buttons, 6th, actor Rip Torn, 7th, actor Eddie Bracken, 8th, actor Gary Coleman, 9th, singer Carole King, 10th, singer Leontyne Price.

Sold For $1.6 Million

Remick's Expected To Stay Despite Building's Sale

Indications are that Remick's department store will remain in the city despite the fact that its building was sold recently for $1,600,000. The building at 1513-1523

Hancock St. was sold to A & S Realty Development by Daniel Schectman of New York and J. Alan and Steven P. Hayman of Michigan. Among the buildings A & S

Realty Development also owns are Shawmut Bank in Quincy Sq. and Adams Office Park, according to Michael Kenealy of Key Realty. Kenealy represented both parties in the Remick's building transaction.

The new owners of the Remick's building plan to add a fourth floor and build a three-story greenhouse-style addition on its Parkway side, according to Arthur Simons of A&S Development. Owners of Remick's department store have been invited to remain in business on the lower levels of the building, he said.

Both retail space and two levels of offices would be provided in the renovated building, Simons said.

If city approvals are obtained, construction could start towards the end of the year, he said. Remick's was founded in 1887 by Alfred H. Remick and the business remained in the family until 1979.

It was sold by Frank Remick, father of actress Lee Remick.

Mayor Francis McCauley said he met with the new owners of the building.

"They assured me they would make every effort to retain at least the first floor and basement as a retail area," said McCauley.

McCauley noted the importance of Remick's as an attraction in Quincy both now and in the past.

"Years ago, you didn't observe Christmas properly if you didn't take a trip to Quincy Sq. to see Remick's windows decorated for the holidays," said McCauley.

Councillor Joseph LaRaia said at Monday night's council meeting that "Remick's is still a magnet store downtown."

"With the sale of Remick's, one has to think what direction the area is going into," said LaRaia. "Presidents' Place will hopefully enhance the downtown, but if you believe it will cure the retail area you are being misled.

"It's a signal that you may see the retail district really deteriorate," said LaRaia, and that's one thing I don't want to see.

"The danger is if we don't apply emphasis in helping retain trade, we'll be losing a valuable asset."

"It's important that we do what we can to help Quincy's retail center," LaRaia said.

GET A 1986 IRA TAX DEDUCTION BEFORE SOX SEASON STARTS.

OR WATCH YOUR LAST GREAT CHANCE SLIP BY.

If you think the new tax laws have fouled up 1986 IRAs, think again.

For tax year 1986, nothing's changed. The same eligibility and deductibility rules apply as in previous years. You can still get the same great tax benefits. But only if you make your 1986 IRA contribution by April 15. (That's about the time Sox Manager John McNamara starts getting a few more gray hairs.)

As for tax year 1987, it's a whole new ballgame. We've put together a free booklet that explains the changes, and helps give you a winning edge on your 1987 IRA.

Finn Favors Keeping Miranda Rights

Members of the Massachusetts Police Association recently rallied around the Miranda decision which U.S. Attorney General Edwin Meese has proposed to overturn.

And Quincy Police Chief Francis Finn joined them in supporting the 1966 legal ruling which obliges police to advise suspects of their right to remain silent and to an attorney when interrogated.

According to Meese, the Supreme Court decision is detrimental to law enforcement and abused by defense attorneys who win freedom for felons on technicalities.

"I support the Miranda rights," said Finn. "It's only fair."

"I don't have any problem with it. But I do feel a review is definitely in order."

"I feel that the interpretation of the rights in many courts goes far beyond what they are meant to be," said Finn.

"Some technical interpretations by various courts need to be clarified. This is the time to look at it."

Finn conceded that when the Miranda decision went into effect in 1966 "it was a shock to most police officers at the time.

"We didn't know how it would affect things," Finn said. "But I don't think it hindered things as much as we thought it would."

Finn noted that some suspects have been freed on technicalities regarding the Miranda rights.

"But I'm not saying it hasn't been good," he said.

"I think if the attorney general wants to review it, I'd be sympathetic to a review to see if there is a real problem."

"If it has a lot of validity, it won't have any trouble withstanding a review."

Finn said that given a choice, most Massachusetts Police Chiefs would probably continue to use the Miranda rights.

"A person should know they have their rights," he said.

Council Committee Meetings Rescheduled

Two City Council committee meetings which were to be held at City Hall Monday night but were cancelled due to the snow storm, have been rescheduled to Tuesday, Feb.

17. The Disposal and Sanitary Problems Committee will meet at 6 p.m.

The Ordinance Committee will meet at 7 p.m.

Public hearings on rezoning land in North Quincy and zoning council orders which have been recessed, have not yet been rescheduled, according to City Clerk John Gillis.

Still Within Budget

Storm Costs Near $200,000

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Prior to Monday's snow storm, the city had spent $172,434 for snow removal this winter, well within its $300,000 budget, according to Mayor Francis McCauley.

That breaks down to about $122,000 for hired equipment, and $50,000 for city salaries such as overtime, McCauley said.

The mayor said that he met Sunday afternoon at his home with Paul Anderson, Department of Public Works commissioner, and Robert Federico, Highway Department superintendent, to plan for the storm predicted for Monday.

Problems in handling prior storms were also discussed, McCauley said.

"We decided to declare a snow emergency as soon as the magnitude of the storm is apparent so that we can start towing cars," said McCauley, who explained that vehicles illegally parked on streets hamper snow plowing efforts.

Cars are allowed to park on the odd-numbered side of the street this winter.

The mayor and department heads also devised a new plan to deal with narrow and dead-end streets, according to McCauley.

"We have a list of streets that are chronic problems," said McCauley. "Some of the big plows can't go down the streets."

Under the new plan, a foreman and driver with a smaller plow will be assigned to the narrow and dead-end streets, a number of which are in West Quincy, he said.

McCauley said he has not yet received a report on how the plan worked during Monday's storm which left Quincy with about five inches of powdery snow and resulted in the cancellation of many events.

The city's 17 pieces of equipment worked through the night on Quincy's streets to prepare for the morning rush hour, he said.

About 30 pieces of hired equipment were called in Monday from about 3 p.m. to midnight.

'Critical Meeting' On City's Landfill

Mayor Francis McCauley said he will hold a "critical meeting" this week in Quincy with representatives of the Department of Environmental Quality Engineering (DEQE) to discuss the city's landfill.

"What comes out of the meeting will determine whether we prepare another Environmental Impact Report to continue the landfill," said McCauley.

"Before we go back and prepare another EIR, and spend more money, we'd like to know if we have a reasonable chance of approval."

"We don't want to throw good money after bad. It's a positive sign that they are willing to meet with us."

McCauley announced at a press conference last week that he would decide in two weeks whether or not to try to keep the landfill in West Quincy open beyond May when it is expected to reach its capacity.

The press conference was held after Quincy's Public Works Commr. Paul Anderson received a letter from James Hoyte, state secretary for Environmental Affairs, stating that an EIR submitted by Quincy was being rejected as inadequate.

The EIR was submitted as part of an application to keep the landfill open past May 1.

McCauley's options are to spend more money for tests and resubmit an EIR in hopes the expansion will be approved, or to "write off" the landfill and spend $2.6 million a year to have residential trash taken away.

He has included $2.6 million in next year's budget in case the second option is chosen.

In any event, pickup of residential trash is not expected to be interrupted, according to the mayor.

McCauley has said that Quincy is not polluting the environment, and would like to close its landfill by 1993 and use alternative methods.

Anderson has said that Quincy is being held to unfair standards.

Montclair Men's Club Protests Area Poor Street Lighting

The Montclair Men's Club is appealing to the mayor to correct what they term inferior street lighting that exists in certain sections of that North Quincy residential area.

In a letter to Mayor Francis McCauley, the club civic committee chairman, Joseph Gildea Sr., said:

"Lighting on our streets in residential areas is very poor and Quincy citizens have become more aware of the situation due to the recent stabbings, particularly one in Montclair.

"Studies of street lighting have proven that high pressure sodium lights produce more lumens (units of light) at less cost than older type units, and the Montclair Men's Club is recommending that West Squantum St. from Hancock to the Milton line and Holbrook Rd. from Newport Ave. to at least Belmont St. be replaced with these lights.

"Besides being poorly illuminated, West Squantum

St. is a speedway, except during rush hours when traffic is backed up from Newport Ave. to Amesbury St. and sometimes to Harvard St. and the 16,000 or more cars daily pose serious safety hazards for children using it as a main walkway to North Quincy High School, Atlantic Middle School and Sacred Heart grade school.

"Conditions are aggravated further when sidewalks are not plowed, causing pedestrians to walk in the street.

"Holbrook Rd. has become an alternate route for vehicles circumventing West Squantum St. and the ever increasing traffic and speeding is cause for concern for parents with children attending the Montclair School.

"Here again, the school and abutting Montclair Men's Club are prime targets for vandalism, along with Bishop Field, due to inferior street lighting, not the best environment for women or anybody else to be walking, particularly at night.

"Quincy has provided good lighting and many other benefits for the business sections of the city but is ignoring its lifeblood, the residential areas."

Gildea also sent a copy of his letter to Ward five Councillor Stephen McGrath who is council president.

Mayor Francis McCauley said Tuesday he has not yet received the letter and will postpone comment on the complaint.

City Needs More Taxis, Says Cheney

Councillor Michael Cheney has introduced a resolve, approved by the City Council, to have the city study the feasibility of increasing the number of medallions issued for taxi service in Quincy.

"There is an increase in the demand for taxi service in the city of Quincy," stated Cheney.

Cheney noted that "taxi service provides a valuable means of transportation, particularly to our senior citizens."

The resolve was referred to the city solicitor's office for proper drafting.

Cheney also suggested that taxi companies offer a 10 per cent discount to senior citizens as does such a business in North Quincy.

Charlotte Digiacoimo First Woman Chairman Park-Recreation Board

Mrs. Charlotte E. Digiacoimo of 110 Lancaster St., Quincy Point was elected the first woman chairman of the Quincy Park and Recreation Board at its annual election of officers Monday night at the Park and Recreation Complex, 100 Southern Artery, Merrymount Park.

Anthony T. Delmonico was elected vice chairman and Bryant I. Carter, Jr. secretary of the Park and Recreation Board.

Mrs. Digiacoimo, by profession, is a registered nurse but is presently on inactive status spending her time raising her three sons, Vincent, 16, Christopher, 13 and John, 11 and caring for her husband, Anthony, who is retired due to a heart condition. She is a graduate of Orange Memorial Hospital School of Nursing, Orlando, Fla., and served as a lieutenant in the Army Nurse Corps.

She is active in community concerns especially in the area of education. She has served on the Parent Advisory Boards at Point Webster Complex and Central Middle School. She also served for several years on the Chapter I City-Wide Board. At present, she serves on the parent board at Central Middle School and is an active member of the Mother's Club at Don Bosco Technical High School, Boston. She has held positions of secretary and vice-chairman on most of the boards that she has been involved with.

Mrs. Digiacoimo has been a Ward 2 Commissioner on the Park and Recreation Board for the past five years. She served as secretary for two years and has held the office of vice-chairman for the past two years.

Mrs. Janet M. Coughlin of Squantum was honored for her five years service as a member of the board and presented a citation from retiring chairman Gerard A. Coletta, Jr. A personal gift from her colleagues on the board and Park and Recreation Departments was also presented by Mrs. Digiacoimo.

In other business, the board adopted the Park, Playground and Beach Regulations of the Park and Recreation Board, voted to continue the regular meetings of the Park and Recreation Board the first Monday of each month with the starting time at 6:30 p.m. and accepted the Park and Recreation Department letterheads.

City Budget Meetings To Resume Friday

Budget meetings with city departments on the proposed $100,792,614 budget for fiscal 1988 will continue Friday, according to Mayor Francis McCauley.

McCauley said he will hold meetings on budgets for the City Council, City Clerk's office, Election Department, License Board, Data Processing, Harbor Master, Public Works Department.

Budget meetings began last Saturday when he met with the heads of 20 small departments, McCauley said.

The proposed budget for fiscal 1988 represents an increase of $8.2 million, or 9 per cent, over last year's $91,962,295, McCauley said.

The increase is for capital outlay items, according to the mayor.

They include $2 million for personal services, $500,000 for current expenses, $3 million for contractual, including $2.6 million in case the city decides to close the landfill and truck out its rubbish; $600,000 for retirement and pensions; and $300,000 for sewers, he said.

McCauley noted that debt services are down $400,000.

He also said that the School Department budget of $31,150,000 includes an increase of $1 million for the repair of school buildings.

When the budget hearings conclude, the city will wait for the Cherry Sheets due in March. The Cherry Sheets will tell how much the city will get from the state in certain categories, and how much it will have to pay for such things as MDC costs.

McCauley said he would like to present the budget to the City Council at the April 6 or 21 meeting.

The council will have 45 days to act on the budget

McGrath Wants Sidewalk Plowing Along Main Streets

City Council President Stephen J. McGrath has requested Public Works Commr. Paul Anderson to reinstate the policy of plowing sidewalks on main streets following a snowstorm.

McGrath, in a letter to Anderson, noted that some sidewalk plowing is done in the vicinity of schools and municipal buildings.

"I feel, however, that long stretches of sidewalk areas such as Hancock St., along Merrymount Park, should be plowed so that pedestrians, especially school children, do not have to walk along a roadway such as Hancock St.," said McGrath.

"I would like to see this new policy implemented for the remainder of the winter," McGrath said.

Registry Out

Shelter Committee To Try Again For Permanent Home

"I'm not sure where we can go from here," said city Personnel Director David Smith, chairman of the nine member Committee for Permanent Location for the Homeless which will hold its next meeting Thursday, Feb. 26.

The city had hoped to locate a shelter at the Broad St. site of the Registry of Motor Vehicles which is looking for more space.

But the registry has failed to find a new location after advertising for bids twice recently, said Smith.

The registry must remain in Quincy according to law.

The committee will try to come up with a new approach at its meeting to begin at 9 a.m. in the second floor conference room at City Hall. "It's a frustrating situation," said Smith. "It's fortunate that the two churches are sheltering the homeless and providing the services they need in the meantime."

Quincy Point Congregational Church is currently housing women and Wollaston Lutheran Church is sheltering men.

Shelter committee member Larry Chretien, an aide to Rep. Thomas Brownell, said that members have informally discussed adopting a more aggressive approach.

One suggestion is that the city consider building a structure for the registry on city-owned land, use the registry's rent to pay for the building, and locate the homeless shelter at the old registry site which is owned by the city, according to Chretien.

However, Mayor Francis McCauley did not indicate support for the idea.

"We don't have any plans to build any building for the registry," said McCauley. "The responsibility for the registry lies with the state."

"We're trying to be helpful to the Interfaith Sheltering Coalition (which runs the shelters) but it is all contingent on the registry," said McCauley.

McCauley said he did not know of any available city owned-land on which to build a registry building.

He also said that the city has a "pretty full agenda" as far as construction with projects at Quincy City Hospital, the Police Station and Animal Shelter.

Smith agreed that the idea wasn't feasible.

"How much more building can the city commit itself to do within the year?," he asked.

"Our hopes are down again, and I'm tapped out of ideas," said Smith.

"If someone else in the group has some ideas, we'll take them under consideration," he said.

"We'll certainly entertain any suggestions."

Ward 6 Democrats Elect Delegates

The Ward 6 Democratic Committee elected nine delegates and four alternates to the Democratic Issues Convention to be held June 5-6, at Springfield.

Elected to represent Ward 6 were: Delegates Thomas P. Koch, Dale Musgrave, Kevin Cotter, Bob Gillyard, Timothy Healy, Mary Collins, Joanne Condon, Pauline Stanton and Ann Clarke and alternates

Bryant L. Carter, Jr., Charles Colby, Marilyn Nestor and Mary Blood.

Ward 6 Chairman Joseph M. Lydon and State Rep. Michael Morrissey are delegates by virtue of their office.

Approximately 3500 delegates were elected in 570 caucuses held statewide over the weekend to attend the state convention in June.

Sheets, Neighbors To Discuss Brewer's Corner Bar

Representatives of the Quincy Neighborhood Housing Services and Ward 4 Councillor James Sheets will meet tonight (Thursday) to discuss problems concerning The Hat Rack, a bar on Copeland St.

The meeting will be held at 7 p.m. in the conference room of the new City Hall annex and interested residents are urged to attend, said Sheets.

Sheets said complaints about the operation of the Brewer's Corner bar and disturbances created by patrons leaving the bar are pending before the License Board, which determines the conditions of operation for all liquor establishments in the city.

When Board Chairman John Gillis was informed about the planned meeting he continued Tuesday's License Board hearing to Feb. 24 regarding a police report of an alleged liquor law violation at the bar.

At a Jan. 27 hearing, Police Sgt. Angus McEachern turned over to Gillis a copy of a police report which said that on Jan. 8, when police responded to a complaint that after hours drinking was going on there, they entered the bar at 2:13 a.m. and found eight people, according to the report. On the bar were an empty beer bottle and a glass full of ice, a straw and the remains of a dark colored liquid on the bottom. Also there were two tall cups each of which was three-quarters full of liquid, ice cubes and a straw, according to the report.

At last month's hearing the board also heard testimony from Cindy Silveria, representing the Quincy Neighborhood Housing Services, that the bar is an area of contention with the neighborhood.

$13,546,333 Construction

The Building Inspection Department reports they issued 70 permits for construction estimated to cost $13,546,333 during the month of January.

The department received $45,520 in permit fees and $586 for public safety inspection. A total of 128 dwelling units was added through new construction and four through alterations.

Permits were issued for a one one-family dwelling estimated to cost $50,000.

There were four permits for multi-family dwellings (80, 17 and 4 unit condominiums, and a 26 unit apartment) at $6,677,000, one mercantile at 280 Victory Rd., Building No. 10, at $6,000,000, one garage at $15,000, 37 residential alterations at $456,570, 13 other alterations at $290,607.

"Hub's top savings rate: 6.25%"

—The Boston Herald September 5, 1986

At a time when other banks are actually reducing rates, a passbook savings account that pays more than most money market accounts is big news:

The Hibernia Savings Bank now pays 6.25% on its regular savings accounts. (That's an annual yield of 6.54%, based on continuous compounding.) It takes $100 to open one and you only need to maintain a balance of $10 to earn the rate.

If you like the convenience, safety and simplicity of regular passbook savings — and want rates that are better than most money market accounts — stop by and open an account with Hibernia.

It will be good news for both of us.

Winter Snow Parking Regulations

Quincy residents are reminded that no parking is allowed on main streets and arteries during a snow storm, according to Winter Parking Regulations.

Until April 15, parking is allowed on the odd numbered side of the street only, according to Paul Anderson, Department of Public Works commissioner.

"Parked cars, especially when parked in a disorganized manner, are the greatest hindrance to effective snow plowing," said Anderson.

"Returning to streets when parked cars have been moved following a snowfall is an inefficient method of operating as it adds to the length of time plows are out," he said.

"That adds to the cost of the storm, and causes driveways to be plowed in a second, which adds to the time and effort of residents in 'shoveling out.'"

Blood Pressure Screenings At Quincy Hospital

Quincy City Hospital will conduct a free blood pressure screening for the public Tuesday, Feb. 17, in the Ambulatory Care Department from 1:30 to 3 p.m.

The screenings, performed by nursing staff, will enable individuals to keep track of their blood pressure, and be aware of dangerous elevations in the pressure. Persons in need of referral to a physician, will be advised to do so.

The screenings, which take place on the first and third Tuesday of each month, are free of charge.

Poll Asks, Raises Questions

A pretty well disguised poll taken by telephone last week has Quincy political circles buzzing.

Who was it for and what were the results are the two big questions waiting for answers and touching off speculation.

A lot of names were mentioned in it -- including President Ronald Reagan's -- in an obvious attempt to shield the real purpose of the poll.

But it obviously was intended to get a reading on this year's mayoral race.

The questions covered the following ground:

The favorability rating of:

Ronald Reagan, City Council President Steve McGrath, City Councilors Ted DeCristofaro, Michael Cheney, John Lydon, James Sheets, Patricia Toland, School Committee members Steve Durkin and Christopher Kennedy, Leo Kelly, Tom Koch, Tony Siciliano, Ron Iacobucci, Joseph LaRaia, Sheila McIntyre and Mayor Francis McCauley.

Those called were also asked about party affiliation, union membership, favorite radio station, television channel, newspaper, religion, ethnic background, age and income.

Other questions dealt with:

The biggest issue facing the city.

The biggest issue facing the family.

How would they rate the job performance of the:

Mayor (excellent to poor)

City Council (excellent to poor)

School Committee (excellent to poor)

But the following questions seem to be the ones the poll was really all about:

If the mayoral preliminary were held tomorrow who would you vote for:

Joseph LaRaia, Sheila McIntyre, Frank McCauley?

If the final election were held tomorrow who would you vote for: McIntyre, McCauley? LaRaia, McCauley? McIntyre, LaRaia?

The poll apparently was professionally done by outsiders. Tip off that it was not carried out by local people was that at least one of the callers -- a woman -- had trouble pronouncing DeCristofaro's name and referred to Tom Koch (pronounced Coke) as Tom Kotch.

Who was the poll taken for?

The McCauley camp says not them. In fact two people close to McCauley were among those called at random. LaRaia says it wasn't him. And Sheila McIntyre was out of state.

Now, could it be someone else?

And, is there another poll in the works?

FRID NOLAN, who recently retired as director of elementary education for the Quincy School Committee, will not be seeking a School Committee seat this fall.

His name has been mentioned but, says Nolan: "It was more of a joke. I have no intentions of running this year. I've got too many things I want to do."

How about the future?

"Well, I don't know. I'll think about that sometime in the future."

JULIE PETRELLA, a third grade student at the Montclair School, wrote the following poem in memory of Christa McAuliffe:

We Love You

In memory of you,
We talk of tears and cry in tears.
We will never forget your love.
You're a great person.
Your students will remember your great teaching.
Your children and husband will remember your great motherhood.
From a stranger who cares.

Julie Petrella

GOOD FRIEND Irving Isaacson inadvertently gave Mayor Francis McCauley a promotion Sunday at Quincy Jewish War Veterans' "Classmates Today, Neighbors Tomorrow" breakfast at Beth Israel Synagogue.

McCauley was home nursing a cold and when Isaacson made note of his absence he referred to him as "President McCauley."

Well, His Honor once upon a time was a bank president.

Hospital To Observe Child Passenger Safety Week

The week of Feb. 8-14 has been designated as National Child Passenger Safety Awareness Week, and Quincy City Hospital is asking parents to make a special effort to "buckle up" their children.

Every year in Massachusetts, hundreds of children are seriously injured or killed in motor vehicle accidents, according to QCH.

Of the survivors, many are crippled for life by spinal cord injuries, brain damage and traumatic epilepsy, the hospital said.

Most of these deaths and injuries could be prevented by using car seats and safety belts, said QCH.

The Child Passenger Safety Law, in effect since 1982, requires all children under five years to be fastened in a properly adjusted car seat or seat belt.

However, some parents find the cost of safety seats too burdensome, and their children ride unrestrained, noted the hospital.

To remove the financial barrier, Quincy City Hospital sponsors an Infant Car Seat Rental Program for residents of the greater South Shore area.

The program, in effect since 1985, is similar to the 54 programs across the state which make safety seats available to parents on a loan or rental basis.

The program at Quincy City Hospital, made possible through a grant awarded by the Massachusetts Department of Public Health, has made available, Century Infant Car Seats for infants through 20 lbs.

Fee of the loan is $5.

For additional information on the program at Quincy City Hospital, contact Jean Arnao, R.N., Infant Car Seat Safety Loan Program Coordinator, at 773-6100, ext. 3112.

Readers Forum Thinks State Should Drop Distinction Between Veterans Status

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

In regards to the State of Massachusetts' classification of veterans, it is to my knowledge that Massachusetts is one of two states out of 50 that distinguishes between veterans who serve during war time and peace time for appointments to civil service positions and other benefits while the Federal Government makes no distinction at all.

On Nov. 18, 1986, Governor Michael Dukakis signed a Veteran's Benefit Bill extending veterans status to those who served and received a Campaign Medal for the "Lebanese Peace Keeping Force," and the "Grenada Rescue Mission." Although I applaud this recent step of recognition, I still feel that this is not enough.

There is a vast majority who were serving our country during this time that did not receive a Campaign Medal and who will not receive Massachusetts Veteran Benefits, but were still part of the military personnel and should be considered veterans.

Assignments in the service are select and direct. You cannot praise (A), for being sent to a dangerous place and ignore (B), for being assigned to a safe place when it could have just as easily been the other way around.

Under the Massachusetts General Laws a "Vietnam veteran" is considered a person who has served between the period of Aug. 5, 1964 to June 4, 1976, which means even if they weren't actually in Vietnam he or she would be considered a Vietnam veteran.

Therefore, I think this new General Law concerning Lebanon and Grenada veterans should be changed from specific combat presence to military service served during Oct. 25, 1983 to Dec. 5, 1983 for the Grenada operation and Aug. 25, 1982 to when the President of the United States withdraws armed forces from the country of Lebanon for the Lebanese Peace Keeping Mission.

For those of us in the armed forces who at the time were "standing by," could just as easily be there. Massachusetts should follow the other 48 states and Federal Government and drop this distinction to give credit where credit is due.

Central Middle Students Join Drive For National Nuclear Forum

By DAN CONNELLY

Some 305 students at Central Middle School feel that if the country's 15.6 million high school students petition for a televised program on the nuclear arms issue, people will watch.

That's why over 50 percent of the Central students have signed a National Forum petition, launched by Milton Academy seniors, to urge such a forum on nuclear weapons and other issues as well, be aired by the major networks.

Science teacher William McWeeney said Central's involvement in the drive began when eighth graders Jana Coccio and Erin Doherty heard about academy seniors who had launched such a project. Their aim was to unite the high school students coast-to-coast in a cooperative effort after Dr. Helen Caldicott, founder of Physicians For Social Responsibility, spoke last April to a student assembly in Milton on nuclear disarmament.

The project for petitions has been described as the greatest cooperative movement by high school students ever in American history.

As advisor to Central's part of the petition drive, McWeeney said Jana and Erin liked the idea. After communicating with forum planners, they received approval and encouragement from principal Lou DeMartinis to go ahead.

The girls then formed a group of 20 students to help them make announcements, display posters and visit homerooms with the petition.

After two months of hard work, they had 305 signatures, representing over 50 per cent of the student body at Central.

A celebration was held earlier this month at Central at which time they presented their signatures to Rebecca Plank of the National Forum in Milton Academy. There was even a cake with the number 305 on it representing the signature goal Central had achieved.

McWeeney said he sees in the forum the opportunity for his students to have an active voice about a national issue.

"If we can show students that they can affect decisions, that their voices will be heard, the chances are that they will be more active in society as adults.

"I am looking forward to seeing the national televised event and watching Central Middle School students realize their efforts have paid off.

"It will be one of the most important lessons learned during their education in Quincy."

$13.9 Million Budget All Time High For City

City Manager William J. Deegan Jr. submitted to the City Council an all-time record high city budget of $13,960,027.43 nearly a million dollars more than 1953.

Feb. 12-18
1954

"It may be impossible to avert a tax increase next year," he warned.

The Quincy tax rate for 1950 was $50.80 per thousand.

Three quarters of the budget increase was listed for items such as education, debt service and interest, and state and country taxes, over which the city manager had no control.

VA OFFICE THREATENED

Employees of the Quincy Veterans Administration office, located in the Chamber of Commerce Building in Quincy Square, were waiting to learn if the office would be one of 17 closed on April 1.

Since its opening in 1946, the office had been shut down for four months in 1948 and threatened with closure in 1951, 1952 and 1953.

Herbert F. Carroll, contact representative in charge, and the office handles about 800 personal requests and 500 telephone calls a month.

RENT BOARD RIVALS

Arthur I. Burgess, former city solicitor and state representative, was elected chairman of the Quincy Rent Control Board, replacing Joseph P. McDonough, who didn't want to go.

McDonough said he planned to appeal to the State Supreme Judicial Court his dismissal from the Board by City manager Deegan. He said he still considers himself a member and chairman.

NEW HOME FOR BRYAN POST

Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa attempted to resolve a dispute between the George F. Bryan VFW Post and Christ Church by offering the post a plot of city-owned land on Broad St. for a new post home.

The post was being evicted from its present home by construction of the second part of the John Hancock parking area.

The post had its eye on the old city dispensary on High School Ave., which drew protests from members of Christ Church, located across the street.

Koch Club Scholarship Fund Now At $18,978

The Koch Club Permanent Scholarship Fund has increased to a total of $18,978., according to Richard J. Koch, executive director of the organization.

The fund was established in 1973 on the 25th Anniversary of the Koch Club with a $5,000 trust.

A total of $3,000 was raised from the organization's silver anniversary events, a $1,000 gift was given by the parent North Quincy District and $1,000 was donated by the Broadmeadows District.

The fund, established in the City of Quincy, has increased by $13,978. during the past 13 years with a combination of memorial and individual gifts and the interest accrued.

The Permanent Scholarship Fund was established to guarantee that Koch Club Scholarship Activity would continue should the organization cease. On the 50th Anniversary of the Koch Club in 1998, the fund will provide scholarships annually. The interest accrued from the previous year and each year thereafter would assure that the principal amount would perpetuate the yearly scholarship awards each spring at graduation.

Scholarship awards of the Koch Club were initiated in 1959 by the late Robert J. Weaver when the organization wished to equally impress upon the boys and girls in its recreational programs the importance of its educational endeavors.

Since 1959, the Koch Club Active Scholarship Fund has provided a total of $12,400 in scholarship awards to 138 boy and girl graduates of North Quincy High School, Quincy Vocational School and Quincy Vocational Technical School.

Anthony T. Delmonico, director of the Broadmeadows District of the Koch

Club, is chairman of the Active Scholarship Committee of the organization.

Persons wishing to donate to the Scholarship Fund of the organization may make checks payable to the "Koch Club Permanent Scholarship Fund" c/o City Treasurer, City Hall, Quincy, MA 02169 or Richard J. Koch, 241 Newbury Ave., Quincy, MA 02171.

The Koch Club of Quincy has expended from its Active fund and committed in its Permanent Fund a total of $31,378 to date on behalf of present and future scholarship endeavors.

Quincy Allocated $4,500 For Veteran's Plots

Quincy has been allocated $4,500 to assist in the restoration or rehabilitation of veteran's plots, according to the state Office of the Commissioner of Veterans' Services (OCVS).

According to Commr. John Halachis, "These funds would be utilized, for example, to raise sunken flush grave markers, to right headstones, to generally improve the conditions of the veteran's plot, or to perform any necessary repair to a veteran's memorial."

Funds were made available in the 1987 budget as a result of surveys conducted by the OCVS in conjunction with the Massachusetts Veterans' Service Agents Association, Halachis stated.

Veal Parmesan It's Quick And Easy

At a recent cooking class, I asked the group what they would like to learn how to prepare for a quick and easy Italian entree. One of the things was veal parmesan. Here is a recipe that I have always used and one that never lets me down. The following recipe feeds six.

First off, you have to prepare a tomato sauce (meatless is okay) and set it aside.

VEAL PARMESAN

1 lb Veal cutlets
1 egg with 1/2 cup milk (mixed together) cornflake crumbs mixed with cracker meal or bread crumbs
6-8 slices of either mozzarella or meunster cheese

Dip the veal in the flour, then the egg and milk mixture, then the bread crumbs. Fry in hot oil until done. Drain on paper towel.

In a greased baking pan, layer the cutlets, cover with tomato sauce and then the cheese on top. Bake uncovered in a 350 degree oven until cheese is melted. Serve with any kind of pasta.

P.S. Last Sunday, I had quite a group and since I had to feed 16 guests, I used chicken cutlets. We purchased some boneless, skinless chicken breasts which my husband cut into cutlets. Three large boneless chicken breasts fed 16 easily with a few leftover. I served them with ravioli. Of course our meal began with antipasto, then soup and then the cutlets and ravioli. Which probably accounts for the few left over.

Library Offers Talking Books For Special Needs Children

A collection of talking book cassettes for children with visual disabilities or physical limitations is now available for borrowing from the children's room of the Thomas Crane Public Library in Quincy Center.

The collection is on deposit from the Perkins School for the Blind and includes such popular authors as E.B. White, Lois Lowry, Jean Fritz and John Fitzgerald. The two dozen titles in the collection are suitable for a variety of age groups.

Children with visual or physical limitations that prevent the use of standard printed materials as well as some children with reading disabilities are eligible to borrow these materials. Playback equipment may be borrowed from the state Commission for the Blind, and applications for talking book service are provided at the library.

This new service to children complements the established talking book service to adults offered in the circulation department of the library. It also enhances and supplements the children's room collection of special format materials designed for children with special needs.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Humility was a key element in Lincoln's personality. When asked to write an autobiographic sketch of himself, he wrote: "There is not much of it, for the reason, I suppose, that there is not much of me." This simple humility endeared him to the common people.

Lincoln was both "steel and velvet." He knew how to deal with people. There is a story told about his first encounter in a law case with Edwin N. Stanton, one of the most famous lawyers of the day. He walked into the courtroom wearing old boots and a wrinkled coat. When Stanton, impeccable lawyer that he was, saw Lincoln, he exclaimed: "He looks like a baboon." The remark did not go unnoticed by Lincoln...

The years passed. Abraham Lincoln became President of the United States. About to decide upon the members of his cabinet, he told his advisors: "I think I'll appoint Edwin M. Stanton as Secretary of War."

The relationship between these two men was indeed unique, but what Stanton said of Lincoln was not important... there was a job to be done.

Medical Quackery

Medical Quackery refers to the deceptive practices which promote instant cures and "miracle" gadgets. Arthritis patients are the most common market for fraudulent practitioners because instant pain relief is often guaranteed. Although some of these aids may temporarily relieve the symptoms of arthritis, none will ever cure the disease because there is no known medical remedy.

Before squandering your money on these medical miracles:

- Consult with your doctor, local health clinic or medical society.
- Do not trust anyone to diagnose your ailment and its cure through the mail.
- Go only to the medical laboratories and clinics recommended by your doctor or hospital.

Hearing Aid Scams:

Hearing Aid scams represent a booming industry. Without reliable references, it is difficult to separate the honest ones from the dishonest ones.

As a potential consumer, you should know that:

- Some hearing losses, more specifically, nerve deafness, cannot be corrected by hearing aid devices.
- Reputable audiologists NEVER go door-to-door to sell hearing aids.

Before making a purchase:

- Ask your doctor for the name of a reputable audiologist.
- Check the reputation of prospective hearing aid dealers with your audiologist, consumer protection agency, or the Better Business Bureau. Shop and compare.
- Check for a comprehensive guarantee. Make sure that the quoted price includes everything including the ear mold for fitting the hearing aid.
- Ask for written instructions for using and caring for the aid.
- Ask about the trial period which hearing aid dealers must offer to customers.
- Be sure that contracts for hearing aids may be cancelled within seven days regardless of whether the hearing aid is bought at home or in the dealer's office.

$226,683 In Wiring

Wire Inspector Thomas E. Purpura reports the Department of Wire Inspection issued 69 permits, for an estimated $226,683 in wiring for the month of January.

The department collected $1,508.50 in fees.

The department also reported there were 53 certificates of approval to Massachusetts Electric Company; 214 inspections, 15 defects noted, 10 re-inspections, and two fire calls. Purpura added his department spent much time recently handling storm-related problems.

Sean Biggins Eagle Scout

Sean M. Biggins, 18, of 55 Royal St., North Quincy, recently attained the rank of Eagle Scout during a Court of Honor at First Baptist Church of Wollaston.

A member of Troop 19, Biggins' Eagle Scout project was to clean the main church, lower church and chapel of Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy.

Biggins and nine volunteers did such things as vacuum, dust and polish the choir loft, sweep the aisles and stairs, and polish the woodwork in the altar area, over seven and a half hours.

SEAN M. BIGGINS

"All, especially myself, were impressed with the results," said the Rev. Cornelius Heery, Sacred Heart Pastor.

"Sean deserves a great deal of credit for organizing the project and seeing it to a most successful conclusion."

Biggins had already earned 21 merit badges ranging from emergency preparedness to American heritage.

Son of John and Mary Biggins, he is a senior at Don Bosco Technical High School and plans to study to become a doctor.

'Harlem Renaissance' At North Quincy High

The Quincy Public Schools will host the Boston Arts Group's presentation of "Harlem Renaissance," a theatrical vision of Harlem in the 1920s, today (Thursday) at North Quincy High School.

The performance is funded by the Quincy Public Schools Arts Council through the Arts Lottery.

The "Harlem Renaissance" will be done in "cabaret" form as a series of vignettes of music, poetry, character studies and dramatized literature of authors and composers working in the 1920s in Harlem.

Short stories and poems by Langston Hughes, Countee Cullen, and Zora Neale Hurston will be included.

Selections from the music of Duke Ellington, Fats Waller and Fletcher Henderson will be presented.

Players will be Merle Perkins, who played Susanna in the Nickerson Theatre production of "Tin Types".

STAN STRICKLAND

Allen Oliver, who will play Roland Hayes this month on WGBH, and Stan Strickland, singer and saxophonist who performs in night clubs and concert halls in Boston and New York.

They will be accompanied by pianist Vinny Jeffreys and directed by Bari McCarthy who works in an Arts Partnership with Broad Meadows Middle School, Quincy.

Quincy High School students will be transported to the production which is being sponsored by the English and Music Departments of Quincy High School and North Quincy High School.

"We're pleased to host this exciting musical and literary production for Quincy students," said Catherine Carnabuci. "We know it will be an interesting and entertaining educational experience for them."

Central Ties For First Place In National Math Competition

Quincy's Central Middle School's eighth graders tied for first place in the second round in this year's 341 schools competition of the Continental Math League tests.

Receiving perfect scores were Jason Bouffard, John Drohan, Allan Larson, Thomas Manning, Anthony Sabadini, Dean Tantillo and Allan Wong.

They are tied with two schools in California, Malasa Cove Institute and the J.L.

Stanford school.

At the seventh grade level Amy Wong achieved a perfect score.

The school's sixth graders scored third in New England with 51 schools competing. Perfect scores were earned by Elizabeth Crispo, Jeffrey Farnest, Carrie Frenette, David Goodman, Tanya Kutasa, Francette LeVangie, Patricia O'Malley, Kevin Price, Christie Richmond and Edward Wong.

The competition consists of a timed program solving tests after which the tests are sent to the Continental Math League Center in New York for grading.

Mary Catherine Iannoni, head counselor at Central, school principal, Louis DeMartinis, and Joseph Ryan, student's counselor, all agreed that the results of the tests has produced an enthusiasm and pride of accomplishments in the schools' students.

There is another three rounds in the competition slated for this school year, said Iannoni.

If you live in Quincy and your oil burner quits, we'll be over within 1 hour. Guaranteed.

The average wait for emergency burner service is four hours.

The company that turned heating oil prices upside down has turned oil burner service rightside up.

The Guaranteed One Hour Response.

Most oil companies call it their Emergency Service. As it turns out, that's a pretty descriptive name for it. Because an emergency is just what you're likely to have on your hands by the time someone shows up to start working on your oil burner—since the average response time is about four hours.

At The Oil Express, Emergency Service means something quite different. It means you'll have a repairman at your door one hour—or less—after you call us. That kind of service is practically unheard of these days. In any business. But we not only give it. We guarantee it.

Of course, the best way to deal with emergencies is to avoid having them. So our customers' oil burners are first meticulously tuned and then painstakingly maintained by a staff of skilled technicians. What's more, a computer-controlled fuel delivery system sees to it that they never run out of fuel. Ever.

Breakthrough service. Breakthrough prices.

Naturally, we haven't forgotten what made us a success in the first place: having the lowest prices around. We're part of a 3 billion dollar company that trades in petroleum futures on the international market. So when we buy heating oil, it's millions of gallons at a time—at locked-in prices that are far below what local oil companies have to pay. And you get it at prices that are far below what local oil companies have to charge. On top of everything else, it couldn't be easier to get started. Just give us a call.

Call today. 1-800-448-HEAT.

Or, if you prefer, send in the coupon; you'll have complete details by return mail.

'Doing What God Requires' Wollaston Congregational Topic

The Rev. Eldon D.J. Zuern's sermon topic Sunday at the 11 a.m. worship at Wollaston Congregational Church will be: "Doing What God Requires," based on the text from Matthew 5:17-26.

Greeters will be Henry and Louise McDaniel; ushers, Barbara Frazer and Kathryn Kelly; scripture leader, Harry Towle; acolyte, Robert Olson.

Alexander Cardullo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cardullo, will be baptized at the morning service.

Confirmation class will meet with the Reverend Zuern at 6:30 p.m.

Youth Fellowship will meet at 7:30 p.m. under the direction of Gus Oster in the social hall and will be an informational meeting about Camp Kingsmont which is the area camp for the South Shore Congregational youth in grades 7-12. This camp summer program combines church teachings and discussion with fun and games. Highlight at the meeting will be a video presentation of "Kingsmont '86."

The Singles and Doubles will hold a Valentine party on Saturday, Feb. 14, at 7:30 p.m., in the church social hall.

At last Sunday's service new officers and board members were installed at the morning worship and a reception preceded the communion. A pot luck luncheon followed service honoring the new members.

The Way Up Topic At Squantum Church

The pastor of the First Church of Squantum, the Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, spoke Sunday at the church about his work with The Way Up, a specialized youth ministry sponsored by churches throughout the South Shore and based at the church.

With the assistance of local volunteers, The Way Up ministers to teen-agers in the South Shore area who are out of touch with any church and to young people in two juvenile shelter-care facilities in Brockton. Parents and others concerned about their own teen-agers can reach Dr. Langevin at 328-7675 or 328-6649.

Besides special worship services and religious education groups, The Way Up provides service projects, employment, chaplaincy, counseling, advocacy, home visits, and activities by which teen-agers can earn a trip to Christian camps in New England or, this year, to a Christian conference in California. As examples of such fundraising, the pastor cited the dinners put on by young people of The Way Up last Sunday at the First Baptist Church of Wollaston and this Sunday at the Stratford Street United Church in West Roxbury.

Dr. Langevin, an American Baptist minister, is the founder and executive director of The Way Up. It is an entirely local group, having no connection with any other organizations with a similar name. The board of directors of The Way Up includes Christian people from throughout the South Shore area, and of whom all but one are members of churches other than the Squantum church where The Way Up is based. Support for The Way Up comes primarily from churches and individuals of these denominations: United Church of Christ, Episcopal, United Methodist, Presbyterian and American Baptist.

Sunday Dr. Langevin spoke about The Way Up in both morning services in a sermon entitled, "What Good News Do You Mean?"

It was illustrated with a large comic strip translation of the passage done by teen-agers in the Brockton Diagnostic Assessment Center where the pastor serves as a chaplain in connection with his work for The Way Up.

Robert and Paulette Potter were the greeters; and Tore Wallin and Stewart Scott, the ushers. The Fellowship Hour after the service was hosted by Barbara Edgar and Mildred Cunningham.

Two of the church youth groups, Orange Crush and Seven-Up, met Sunday. The Way Up service is Tuesdays at 7 p.m. Wednesday nights there is a Bible study program at the church, focusing its attention at the present time on the gospel of Mark. Crusader Choir (junior high) practices Thursday nights at 6:30 p.m. The Chancel Choir rehearses Thursday nights at 7:15 p.m. and Sunday mornings at 9:30 a.m. The Cherub Choir meets during Sunday School time and the Youth Choir (high school and college age) meets at 11:45 a.m. on Sundays. Mindi Hurd leads the Cherub Choir; Mary Ruth Scott directs all of the others.

This Sunday young people of the church will sponsor a Valentine's Breakfast for everyone in the church at 9:15 a.m. Reservations can be phoned in to Hazel Mayne at 328-4367. Sunday School, nursery and the regular Sunday morning service will all be held at 10:30 a.m.

In the afternoon, members of Seven-Up will go out to dinner together in Bridgewater. They will leave after the Youth Choir rehearsal. Orange Crush will meet at 4 p.m. to view a new Bible videotape. The Way Up will gather on Tuesday at 7 p.m. for worship and some fun with skits.

Marriage Vows To Be Renewed At St. John's Valentine Liturgy

Married couples may renew their marriage vows at a special Valentine liturgy Sunday, Feb. 15, at 11 a.m. at St. John's Church, Quincy Center.

The Spiritual Development Commission of the Parish Council has planned the liturgy to honor the concept of devoted family life and to provide a source of sanctification for those parishioners who dedicate themselves to the married state.

The Valentine Liturgy represents an opportunity for wives and husbands to renew their marriage vows collectively, to offer prayers of thanksgiving and ask the blessing of God upon their union, their homes and families.

All are welcome, from newlyweds to diamond wedding anniversary celebrants

Those elected serve three year terms. Installation of officers was part of the morning worship service last Sunday.

Faith Lutheran Holds Annual Meeting

Faith Lutheran Church recently held its semi-annual meeting.

Major agenda items approved were:

- The proposed church budget of $122,718 for 1987.

- The request for a six-month sabbatical leave for Rev. James Kimmel.

- The resignation of the assistant pastor Rev. Matt Salomaa because of a call for a new ministry at the Finnish Lutheran Church in Los Angeles.

Further action on the requests of both pastors will be taken by the Mutual Ministry Committee at a later date. The meeting was attended by approximately 100 members and adjourned at 2:15 with the Rev. Kimmel's benediction.

Healing Service Feb. 19 At St. Chrysostom's

Monthly healing service of St. Chrysostom's Parish will be held Feb. 19, at 7:30 p.m.

The Rev. Arthur Curtis will speak on "Getting What You Expect."

According to Priscilla

Dinger, new parish member, all are welcome to come to pray for others, yourself.

Bishop Banks SpeakerMorrisette Legion Military
Mass At St. Mary's Feb. 16

Members of Morrisette Legion Post, West Quincy, will honor the memory of deceased members and the first Quincy man to give his life in World War I Monday, Washington's Birthday, at 9 a.m. in St. Mary's Church.

The Most Rev. Robert J. Banks, Auxiliary Bishop of Boston, will be the celebrant and guest speaker at this 58th annual memorial Mass for Pvt. Cyril P. Morrisette who lost his life at age 32 in France on Feb. 24, 1918.

The activities will start at 8 a.m. with the placing of wreaths on the Cyril P. Morrisette and George Boyd graves, Morrisette and Boyd Squares by John Ryan.

Flag raising ceremonies on the post grounds, 54 Miller St., will commence at 9 a.m., with the national anthem played by the Waltham American Legion Band, directed by Dorothy Hill. The parade will then form behind the Quincy police color guard accompanied by the post, state and county legion colors and those attending veterans organizations.

Paul W. O'Neill, post commander, will be chief marshal.

Also in attendance Commander Charles Brooks, Jr., Historian Chairman John J. Ryan, and Sergeant-At-Arms, Mario Ghilardi.

A wreath will be placed at the West Quincy Veterans Monument at 9:25 a.m., followed by the resumption of the march to St. Mary's Church via Crescent St.

The military memorial mass will be celebrated at 10 a.m. All veterans, relatives of the deceased members of the armed forces and those of deceased members of the Morrisette post as well as the general public are invited to attend.

Guard of honor for Bishop Banks will be provided by the William Carter Post No. 16, American Legion.

After the Mass, the parade will continue back to the Morrisette Post for refreshments and a reception hosted by the post and its auxiliary members.

'From The Inside Out' Sermon At Bethany

There will be two worship services Sunday, Feb. 15, in Bethany Congregational Church, Coddington and Spear Sts., Quincy Center, at 9 a.m. in the chapel and at 10 a.m. in the sanctuary.

The Rev. J. William Arnold, senior minister, will preach the sermon at both services titled, "From The Inside Out," based on the Gospel reading from John 3:1-15.

Lay scripture readers will be Heather Stuart for the early service and George Nason for the late service. The associate minister, Rev. Joel F. Huntington, will assist in leading the worship at both hours.

The sacrament of Christian Baptism will be administered during the 10 a.m. service to Meredith Ann Maher, daughter of David M. Maher and Rita M. Buckmann. Theresa Ann Nickerson will be the Godparent.

At the sanctuary service, the Chancel Choir under the direction of Peter E. Krasinski, organist, will sing "My Shepherd Will Supply My Need" arranged by Virgin Thompson, and as the offertory "Holy Lord of All" arranged by Frances Williams.

The Church School will be in session from 10 to 11 a.m. with classes for pre-school through 8th grade. Nursery care is also provided for babies and toddlers, under the professional supervision of Denise Fleming, Bethany's early childhood coordinator.

At 11 a.m. there will be a fellowship hour in the Allen Parlor.

On Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m., there will be supervised recreation in the Bethany gym for children in 1st through 6th grades. At 3:30 p.m. the Youth Fellowship and Confirmation Class members and friends will leave for a visit to Glastonbury Abbey, Hingham.

For information about Bethany's ministries and programs, contact the church office at 479-7300.

First Parish Church To Present Chamber Music Concert

United First Parish Church, Quincy Center, will present for the public a concert of chamber music Sunday, Feb. 15, at 2 p.m.

The Chamber Music Quintet of The New England Conservatory of Music will perform works of Mozart, Moszkowski, and Dohnanyi.

Guests are invited to join after the performance in the Parish Hall for tea and sweets.

The church is sponsoring the event and underwriting part of the costs. Admission is $7, and $6 for senior citizens.

Cynthia Rankin, chairman of the Churchmanship Committee, says that the afternoon promised to be a wonderful opportunity to "come and experience the music of Mozart under the exquisite Lotus Dome of the Church of the Presidents."

Designed by Alexander Parris in 1828, the Dome caps a nearly perfect cubic granite chamber with outstanding acoustics, she said.

McGrath Requests Landfill Expenditures Reimbursement

City Council president Stephen J. McGrath thinks that the state should reimburse the city for money spent in connection with the Department of Environmental Quality Engineering's requirements for the landfill.

And he has written to State Auditor Joseph DeNucci requesting that if a formal request for reimbursement is made by the city, that the money be refunded under the local mandate section of the Proposition 2½ law.

McGrath noted that the Proposition 2½ law requires that any mandates imposed on the cities and towns by the Commonwealth requiring the expenditure of money be reimbursed to the municipality.

"I am writing to express my concern regarding the position of D.E.Q.E. on ordering closing of the Quincy landfill as a pre-condition to approving future expansion of the landfill," stated McGrath.

"My understanding is that under Proposition 2½ legislation, mandates of the commonwealth to municipalities are subject to reimbursement.

"Auditor John Finnegan had taken the position that a similar mandate to the town of Norfolk regarding their landfill was reimbursable," McGrath said.

McGrath noted that to date the City of Quincy has spent some $700,000 in consultant fees in order to comply with D.E.Q.E.'s requirements and yet approval of the landfill expansion is still not forthcoming.

"I would request that if a formal communication is forthcoming from the City of Quincy requesting reimbursement that you would take a strong position in favor of reimbursement," McGrath said.

Touch Of Spring On Daffodil Day March 18

Quincy will get its first touch of spring Wednesday, March 18, when the American Cancer Society's Quincy, Milton Unit sponsors its annual Daffodil Day festival.

Approximately 25 volunteers will bring this first spring flower to Quincy residents to raise funds for cancer research, education and patient service programs.

According to Dennis and Pauline Sweeney, Daffodil Days Chairs, thousands of daffodils from Washington state will be shipped to Quincy for the festival.

"The daffodil, as the first flower of spring, was chosen because it symbolizes hope and renewed life," they added.

Businesses and employers are encouraged to make advance orders for distribution to their employees or as gifts to hospitals and nursing homes.

"Most of the money we raise comes from corporations and businesses. Daffodils make a great gift," the Sweeneys added.

For more information on advance sales, contact Mr. and Mrs. Sweeney at 773-2728.

Taxi Co. Offers Seniors Fare Discount

Marina Bay Taxi Service, of Quincy has introduced a "Senior Citizen Discount Plan"

"We want to be the first company to offer such a discount to seniors," said owner Michael Condon. "The recent taxi rate increase has adversely affected some of Quincy's senior citizens and taxi service is vital to many seniors for their shopping, doctors' visits, etc."

Under the plan seniors are issued a discount card that will entitle them to a 10 per cent discount on all their taxi fares.

"It is my hope that this will help seniors by making taxi service more affordable to them," Condon added.

All interested senior citizens, aged 65 and over, are asked to contact Condon at 472-4111.

North Girls Qualify For E-Mass Tourney

By TOM SULLIVAN

The North Quincy girls' basketball team qualified for the Eastern Mass. tournament for the fourth time in Paul Bregoli's seven years as coach by edging Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 41-37, in overtime last Friday at Cambridge. The Raiderettes improved their record to 12-4 overall (6-4 in the Suburban League).

The North girls will host Quincy Friday night at 7:30, will be home to Newton South Monday at 1:30 and will wind up the regular season at Waltham Tuesday at 12:30.

North started fast at Cambridge thanks to the fine outside shooting of Anne McGuiggan and the passing of Nancy Flukes. The teams exchanged baskets throughout the first quarter and North led, 14-10, going into the second. Junior guard Karrie Pistorino, assigned to cover high scoring Erin Peterson, came up with three steals.

The second quarter was a nightmare for both teams with Cambridge scoring the only two points of the quarter, both from the foul line.

With North up, 14-12, the teams fought on even terms in the third quarter with Flukes opening the quarter with an eight-footer and closing out the session with a basket off an offensive rebound. The Raiderettes led, 27-25, entering the fourth quarter.

Cambridge tied the score but North came back with a McGuiggan basket and five free throws by Flukes. When Maureen Donovan hit a short jumper late in the game, North held its biggest lead, 34-28, and appeared to be in the driver's seat. However, with less than a minute to play Cambridge cut the lead to 34-32 and North failed to convert on its next possession. The Warriors tied it with seven seconds left. The score was 36-36 at the end of regulation play.

In the overtime Flukes hit five of six free throws and also led McGuiggan for a basket as North pulled away for the big win.

Flukes had 18 points and five assists. McGuiggan had 16 points on eight-for-11 shooting and had 14 rebounds. Donovan finished with six points.

Earlier in the week North failed to qualify for the tournament when it lost to Newton North, 50-38.

Donovan led all scorers with 16 points. McGuiggan had 10 and Flukes tied her own record for assists in a game with nine.

"Our win against Cambridge was a gutsy one," Bregoli said. "After our kids lost that lead late in the game, they refused to fold. They wanted the win badly and our defense was super, especially against Erin Peterson, whom I consider one of the top guards in Eastern Massachusetts. Pistorino, Marybeth Maloney and Nancy Leonard, held her without a basket until she scored on two steals with less than a minute to play."

"Donovan, McGuiggan and Flukes continue to be our scoring leaders, but players like Tricia Koski, Patty Feeney, Deirdre Murphy and Rita Rooney are doing their parts off the bench."

"We are pleased to be in this position again. It seems like we have established a tradition of success here at North Quincy and this year's players are carrying on that tradition."

with 13 points and 10 rebounds, her sister Patti had 12 points and 14 rebounds and Terry Dugan had 10 points, eight rebounds and three steals.

Quincy trailed, 36-23, after three quarters but bounced back to cut the gap to 40-37 with 1:20 remaining, but could not score the rest of the way while the Boxers added four more points.

Earlier in the week Quincy lost to Brookline, 59-42, despite another fine effort by Gayle Morrell, who had 16 points and 13 rebounds.

Brookline, which was 24 for 32 from the foul line, had a 45-30 lead after three quarters and the closest Quincy could come was 12 points.

Julie Coste had 10 points for the First Ladies and Terry Dugan had five steals and played a fine defensive game.

52 Teams To Compete In Kiwanis Tourney

Fifty-two teams are registered to participate in the Quincy Kiwanis Club's 14th annual International Youth Hockey Tournament.

The games will take place at the Quincy Youth Hockey Rink, Murphy Memorial Drive off Sea St., during school vacation week, Feb. 16-22. The Class A AHA-sanctioned tourney has attracted teams from four divisions, Bantams, Pee Wees, Mites and Squirts.

According to Beverly Reinhardt, tourney coordinator and manager of the Quincy youth hockey rink, several teams are coming from New York State, Canada, Nova Scotia, Connecticut and Massachusetts. Bay State communities represented include Quincy, Revere, Woburn, Framingham, West Roxbury, Canton, Brockton, Lexington, Burlington, Westwood, Dorchester and Plymouth.

The first game at 9:10 a.m. Monday morning will feature a Brockton Mites team versus Parkway of West Roxbury. Each team has been guaranteed three games with the finals in all four divisions taking place on Sunday, February 22. The final game in the Bantam division will be played on Sunday at 11:45 a.m. The Pee Wee final is scheduled to begin at 1 p.m. The Squirt final game will be at 2:15 p.m. and the Mites championship will begin at 3:30 p.m.

A pass good for admission to all games during the week-long event can be purchased from any Kiwanis member or at the door for $5. Single admission at the door is $3 for adults. Tickets for students 12-18 years are $1. Children under 12 are admitted free of charge.

Robert Parker, chairman of the Quincy Kiwanis Fund Raising Committee, stated that the tournament is designed to encourage youths who are interested in hockey and to raise funds to continue the Quincy Kiwanis Club's work in sponsoring programs for under privileged children as well as support for the Kiwanis Pediatric Trauma Center at the New England Medical Center in Boston.

Many of the teams scheduled to play this year have participated in the tournament in prior years. They continue to praise the Quincy Kiwanis Club and the Quincy Youth Hockey officials for the manner in which the tourney is conducted.

Persons desiring further information regarding specific game times should contact Beverly Reinhardt at the Quincy Youth Hockey Rink 479-8371.

Quincy Girls Bow To Brockton

The Quincy girls' basketball team, which has been playing fine ball all season but has lost several one and two-point decisions, turned in another excellent performance last Friday but lost to powerful Brockton, 44-37, dropping its record to 4-11, while the Lady Boxers improved to 11-3.

The First Ladies will play at North Quincy Friday night at 7:30 and will wind up the season Tuesday with a 12:30 home game against Newton North.

Cabezas, DeCoste Win But Quincy Wrestlers Lose

Rob Cabezas remained undefeated (15-0) and Dennis DeCoste improved to 14-1, but the Quincy wrestling team bowed to Brockton, 33-25, dropping the Presidents' record to 11-5-1.

Quincy, which met Plymouth-Carver Tuesday, will be at Brookline Saturday at 10:30 a.m. in the final scheduled match of the regular season. The South sectional tournament will be held Feb. 20 and 21.

Cabezas won his bout, 10-0, in the 134-pound division against Brockton and DeCoste won his bout by pin at 169.

The Presidents' Peter DePaulo won, 8-6, at 140. Todd Kimmell won by pin at 147 and Norm Hassan won by pin at 187.

Kane's 4 Goals Power Bantam A's

Bobby Kane scored four goals to lead Quincy's Bantam A team, sponsored by the Sons of Italy, to an easy 9-1 victory over Somerville in a Greater Boston League game.

Sean Cappelis had two goals and Ralph Richardson, Martin Feeney and Mike Toland one each. Toland had two assists and Jon Brosnan, Rob Carroll, Feeney, Matt Buccella and Paul McLellan one each.

Mark Dwyer played an outstanding game in goal.

Raiders Rally To Edge Newton N. 52-50

The North Quincy boys' basketball team came from behind in the final 18 seconds of the game to edge Newton

North, 52-50, last week but later lost to Suburban League co-leader Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 90-31, to drop its record to 5-12.

The Raiders will be at Quincy Friday, will host Marshfield in a non-league game Monday and will wind up the season at home against Waltham Tuesday, all games to start at 7:30.

North trailed Newton North by three points with just 18 seconds left in the game. Bob Sylva converted on a three-point play to tie the score, then hit an eight-foot jumper with eight seconds left for the victory.

North led at the half, 27-25, but fell behind, 44-34, in the third quarter before tightening its defense behind Dennis Cronin and Sylva, who had a game high 26 points and 13 rebounds. Dave Lawless had nine points and 10 rebounds and Joe DeGrandis also contributed nine points.

North didn't have a chance against Cambridge and the loss was one of the Raiders' worst ever. Cambridge completely shut down North's attack and Jim Phelan was the leading scorer with only six points.

Frustration Continues To Follow Presidents

The season is winding down and the luckless Quincy boys' basketball team is still without a victory following a 68-25 loss to Suburban League co-leader Brockton last Friday, dropping the Presidents' record to 0-15.

Quincy will host North Quincy Friday night at 7:30, next Tuesday will play at Newton North, also at 7:30 and will be at Milton next Wednesday night at 8.

The Presidents led Brockton, 11-6, after one quarter but the bigger and more experienced Boxers outscored Quincy, 19-4, in the second quarter and a 19-0 run in the third quarter put the game out of reach.

Tom Logan, who has been enjoying an excellent season, led Quincy with eight points.

Earlier in the week the Presidents lost to Brockton, 64-36, as their shooting, which has been poor all season, again was off as they shot less than 37 per cent from the floor.

Freshman Joe Russell had eight points, four assists and three steals for Quincy and Logan had eight points.

Executive Hockey

Adams, Beacon Rack Up Wins

Skip Magnaro and Paul Hurley scored two goals apiece to pace Adams Sports to a 6-3 victory over DiMatteo's Sailmakers in Executive Hockey League action Monday night at the Youth Arena.

Mike Flaherty and Kevin Cobban had the other goals and Flaherty had three assists. Paul O'Brien two, Tom Roberts two and Steve Lewis one. John Ryan, Mike Farina and Bob McKenna scored for DiMatteo's and McKenna had two assists and Bill Shea and Farina one each.

Beacon Sports defeated Grogan's Business Machines, 4-2, with Artie Boyle, Joe Verlicco, Mike Jago and Kevin Jago scoring the goals and Art Boyle, Charlie Watt, Fred Cushman and Kevin Jago having assists. Ed Grogan and Leo Kearney scored Grogan's goals.

Bob White's Lounge was awarded a forfeit win over South Shore Bearing.

In earlier games O'Brien had a hat trick to spark Adams to an easy 11-3 victory over Grogan's.

Tom Dyman, Cobban and

Fred Ahearn each scored two goals and Alan Gullikson and Magnaro one each. Ahearn had four assists, Cobban three and Magnaro, Bill Hughes, Flaherty, Roberts and O'Brien one each. Grogan's goals were scored by Dick McCabe, Gary DeCoste and Kearney with assists for Marty Tolson and Kearney.

South Shore Bearing edged DiMatteo's, 4-3, with Steve Dymont, Jack Hurley, Frankie Guest and Chip Linscott scoring the goals and Charlie Chambers, Ed Grogan, Dymont, Linscott and Jack Aldred having assists. Ed Lennihan, Jim Conso and McKenna scored for DiMatteo's with Conso, McCabe and Shea having assists.

Bob White's and Beacon fought to a 4-4 tie, with Jim Conney scoring twice and Joe Ellobotte and Kevin Lewis once each for White's. Steve Lewis had two assists and Jack Valle, Conney and Bill Sweeney one each. Charlie Watt, Verlicco, Artie Boyle and Art Boyle scored for Beacon and Cushman had two assists and Verlicco one.

Quincy Parents Club Presents Awards

Cardarelli MVP, Innello Granville Winner

By TOM SULLIVAN

Joe Cardarelli who, in his only year of football, just missed rushing for 1000 yards last fall (he finished with 985), was named Quincy's Most Valuable Player and received his trophy at the third annual Quincy Parents Club football awards dinner at the Sons of Italy Hall.

Joe Innello won the annual Granville Award for being named the best Quincy player in the North Quincy game.

Other award winners: Dave Savage, best offensive lineman.

Dave Austin, best offensive back.

Rob Cabezas, best defensive back.

Mike Eastwick, best defensive lineman.

Steve Picarski, best linebacker.

Steve Gardner, best pass receiver.

Rick Smith, most improved player.

Mark Farrand, special teams award.

Bill Ryan, Paul Grasso Award for unsung hero. This award has been given for 15 years, starting with the Quincy Fathers Club, predecessor of the Parents Club. The Parents Club took over when the Fathers Club disbanded four years ago. Frank Osborne, longtime president of the Fathers Club, was among the guests at the dinner.

Jeff Sprague, 12th player award.

Jim Feely, coaches' award. Suburban League first team all-star certificates were presented to Austin, Cardarelli, Innello and Picarski.

Second team certificates went to Cabezas, Gardner, Chris Mackey, Savage and Smith.

The Queens trophy was presented to Julie Coste.

Parents Club president Jerry Perletuo welcomed the guests and introduced the head table guests.

Rev. James Kimmell gave the invocation.

The featured speaker was John Doherty, coach at Curry College, who in three short years has led the Colonels to the top of the Div. 3 pack in New England.

Doherty, highly successful coach at Norwood High for many years, leading his team into the Super Bowl several times, said he is parent, coach and teacher and has had fine relationships in all three categories. He has been a coach for 30 years.

"There really is no difference between coaching in high school and college," he said. "You must be committed at both levels and depend on good people. You players deserve congratulations for never quitting. You can't achieve anything if you quit. You have to put up with us coaches, who push you around, move you around and yell at you, and you must put up with your parents."

"We sometimes lose patience, both as parents and coaches, but you know we have your best interest at heart. Your sacrifices will pay off in the future."

Doherty has had many Quincy players on his Curry teams and last fall the Colonels had their best record ever, 8-1, and finished second just behind Plymouth State in the conference.

The Quincy players on the 1986 squad were Bob Barrett, the best quarterback in the conference; Gerard Coughlin, Jerry Martin, Al DiBella, Pat Calabro, Kevin Kelly and Steve Kelly.

"The boys from Quincy come to Curry well-versed in fundamentals and it shows the fine coaching you receive in high school," said Doherty.

Doherty was accompanied by one of his assistant coaches, Peter Chella, former Quincy player and assistant coach, who spoke briefly.

Principal Lloyd Hill congratulated the players and said that Quincy High students have done well in the state assessment tests (SATs) and the college board exams and said that Quincy's attendance record is the best in years, with an average attendance of 90 per cent.

Councillor-at-Large Pat Toland, representing Mayor Frank McCauley, spoke briefly and brought the greetings of the mayor.

Bob Meenan, chairman of the Quincy Stadium Lighting Committee, spoke of the outstanding cooperation of the citizens, business and industrial leaders and the city government in raising the funds to install permanent lights at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

"Few people gave us a chance to raise the money in time for last fall's games, but thanks to the cooperation of everyone, we made it," he said.

He introduced several members of the committee who were guests at the dinner and presented each with a plaque. The plaques featured a part of the ribbon which was cut to officially turn on the lights.

The committee members honored were Bob and Toufy Derbes, Henry Bosworth, Dave Montani, Paul Tierney, Dan McPhee, Bill Myers, Tom Donovan, Bill Dolan, Ken McPhee and Raymer.

Bob Gohl of Quincy Sun Channel 8 made a presentation to Coach Jack Raymer which brought down the house. "Everytime I take pictures, Jack manages to get into them," said Gohl, who films all the Quincy games. "I think this is an appropriate gift." He then presented Raymer with a canned ham.

The Quincy co-captains, Austin, Innello, Picarski and Savage, presented gifts to the club officers and in turn received large colored portraits from the club. Raymer and his assistant coaches, John Taglieri, Bob Noble, Jim Kennedy, Sean Burke and Paul Gilbody, received gifts.

Raymer thanked his assistants and had special praise for defensive coach Taglieri, who conducts off-season weight classes. "Thanks to John's dedication, our players reported in the best condition possible last season," Raymer said. Taglieri received a special gift from the club.

All football players and cheerleaders and manager Bill Mahoney received awards.

The Parents Club officers are president Perletuo, vice president Dan Montani, treasurer Joan Conti and secretary Marjorie Perletuo. The board of directors includes Joseph Conti, Meenan, Carol Shaughnessy and Robert Cavallo.

North Swimmers Continue Hex Over Quincy

North Quincy's swim team easily defeated Quincy, 114-42, to improve its record to 6-5. North has never lost to Quincy, either boys or girls, since the sport was introduced 12 years ago.

Quincy and North competed in the Suburban League championships yesterday (Wednesday) and today at Cambridge. They will be in the south sectionals on Feb. 20 and 21.

The Raiders won nine of the 11 events with Tom Savoie Quincy's only winner, taking the 100-yard butterfly in 1:08.59 and also winning the 200 individual medley in 2:38.3.

North's winners were Bradley Waltermire in the 200 freestyle (2:13.8), Paul Nitschke, 500 freestyle (27.3); Mike Iacobacci, diving (125.5 points); Jason Moriarty, 100 freestyle (1:00.2); Derek Borek, 500 freestyle (6:20.5); David MacKay, 100 backstroke (1:20.7); John Donlan, 100 breaststroke (1:21.7); the 400 freestyle relay team of Moriarty, Fred Cawthorne, Waltermire and Borek (4:00.9), and the 200 medley relay team of Harry Towle, Cawthorne, Moriarty and Borek (2:01.9).

Placing second for North were Towle, 200 individual medley; Cawthorne, 100 butterfly; George Gavros, 100 freestyle; Nitschke, 500 freestyle, and Bill Barley, 100 backstroke.

Taking third places were MacKay, 200 freestyle; Ralph Willard, 200 individual medley; Erik Gustafson, 50 freestyle; Willard, 100 butterfly; and Chris Shionis, 100 breaststroke.

Placing second for Quincy were Karl Johnson, 200 freestyle; Al Brown, 50 freestyle, and Rick Morris, 100 breaststroke.

Taking thirds were Rob Buttimer, 100 freestyle;

Johnson, 500 freestyle and Stuart Slicis, 100 backstroke.

North Icemen Defeat Cambridge, 7-2

It was a long time coming, but the North Quincy hockey team finally got its first Suburban League victory last Saturday, defeating Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 7-2.

The Raiders (4-11) played Quincy last night (Wednesday), will be at Newton Saturday night at 7:30 and will wind up a disappointing season next Thursday at Waltham at 6 p.m.

Matt Furtado, John Pacino and freshman Sal Manganaro scored two goals each to spark the North team.

The Raiders jumped out to a 3-0 first period lead on Furtado's two goals and one by Manganaro.

Manganaro scored his second goal and Pacino scored his two, both short-handed, to extend North's lead to 6-0 after two periods.

Mark Zimmerman completed the scoring in the third period before Cambridge finally broke the ice and scored its two goals.

Brian Mahoney had a good night in goal for the Raiders and had 18 saves.

Earlier in the week North was walloped by Brockton's league leaders, 10-2.

Quincy Strong But Bows To Newton North

Quincy's hockey team turned in a strong performance last Saturday, but lost a 6-4 decision to Newton North, dropping its record to 4-10.

The Presidents played North Quincy last night (Wednesday), will host Brockton Saturday night at 7:50, will be at Cambridge Rindge and Latin at 7 p.m. Monday and will play at Brookline next Thursday at 8 in the season's finals.

Newton North skated out to a 4-0 lead in the first period, then held off the stubborn Presidents.

Rick Ames scored with Chuck Quigley and Sean O'Neil assisting. Dave Kraundis scored from Adam MacGregor. Mark Winter scored the third goal with O'Neil and MacGregor assisting and O'Neil finished off the Quincy scoring with assists for Winter and Paul Scola. Greg Chambers had 16 saves in the Quincy goal.

Earlier in the week Quincy lost to Waltham, 6-2, with MacGregor and Chris LaForest scoring the goals. Wayne Chambers, Scola and Hank Miller had assists.

Greg Chambers had another excellent game in goal, having 25 saves.

• Track

North Girls Wind Up Frustrating Season

The North Quincy girls' track team lost to Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 45-40, last week in its final dual meet of the season to finish with a 2-4 record.

It was a rather frustrating season for the Raiderettes, as all four losses were by five points or less.

The North girls will compete in the state class championships Saturday and Sunday at Harvard and next Thursday hope to have some girls in the all-state meet at MIT.

North's winners against Cambridge were Robin Guilloy in the 50 (6.6), Tricia Barrett, 1000 (2:57); Sherrin Quintiliani, mile (5:40.5); Bridget Toland, two-mile (12:38.8), and Jen Raftery, hurdles (8.7).

Placing second were Michelle Earle, 60; Holly Rendle, 300; Caryn Collings, 600; Karen Cashman, 1000; and Gloria Gougian, shot put.

Taking third places were Joanne Moriarty, mile; Ann

Toland, two-mile; Cashman, high jump, and Guilloy, shot put.

The Raiderettes placed ninth in Class B of last Saturday's state coaches relays at Boston University.

The sprint relay team placed third with Barrett (880), Rendle (220), Betsy Zadis (220) and Collings (440).

The 4x400 team of Quintiliani, Barrett, Collings and Cashman finished fourth.

Bantam B's Qualify For State Championships

Quincy's Bantam B team qualified for the state championships this weekend after defeating Randolph - Stoughton, 8-1.

Quincy played its best game of the season with goalie Fred Regan making some outstanding saves early in the game.

Sal Manganaro and Rich McDonald had two goals apiece and Scott Raptelis, Brian Taylor, Brian Zimmerman and Armando Mancini

one each. Jeff Freeman had three assists, Taylor and Jerry Hack two each and Jim McCarthy, Mancini, Manganaro and Greg Hohmann one apiece. Also playing well were Mike Baylis, Jeff Hemphill, Steve Connelly, Duane Keegan and Bob Miller.

Quincy defeated Dorchester, 7-1, in a Greater Boston League game sparked by Manganaro's four goals and three assists. Hohmann, Miller and Connelly scored the other goals and McCarthy had three assists, Hohmann two and Taylor, Miller and Baylis one each.

• Bantam House

Burgin, Doran Win

Burgin Platner maintained its two-point lead over Doran & Horrigan in the Bantam House League with a 3-0 victory over Johnson Motor Parts.

Jeff Connor had two goals and Mike Baylis one. David Mellyn and Bob Loughlin had assists. Goalie Patrick O'Donoghue earned the shutout.

VOCATIONAL EDUCATION Week was proclaimed in Quincy for Feb. 8 to 14 by Mayor Francis McCauley. Attending the ceremonies, were, from left, School Supt. John Osterman, Dr. Elaine Cadigan, director of research and development, Division of Occupational Education; Dr. David Cronin, associate commissioner of occupational education, Mass. Department of Education; and Joseph Mazzarella, director of Quincy Vocational Technical

Mayor Proclaims Vocational Education Week

Mayor Francis McCauley has issued a proclamation designating the week of Feb. 8-14 as Vocational Education Week and the theme is "Vocational Education: Building America's Future."

McCauley stated that this type of education supplies the country with a strong, well-trained workforce and allows millions of Americans to build a solid, satisfying future by preparing them for the careers that make this country work.

His proclamation added that vocational educators contribute to the growth and vitality of Quincy's businesses and industries by working in close partnership with them and by training students in the skills and attitudes that our community's employers seek.

"A strong vocational education program stimulates the health of our future economy by encouraging other businesses and industries to locate in Quincy," he said.

The mayor urged all Quincy citizens to become familiar with the services and benefits offered by the vocational education programs and to support and participate in these programs as necessary to enhance their individual work skills and productivity.

Quincy Businessman Guest At Joseph Kennedy's Swearing In

A Quincy businessman was among the honored guests to attend the recent swearing in ceremony in Washington, D.C., of Joseph P. Kennedy II, as congressman from the 1st Congressional District.

Bruce Ayers, of Ayers Brothers Handicap Driving Equipment and Service Company, 440B East Squantum St., was also among the 150 friends and supporters of Kennedy who attended a reception at Hickory Hill in McLean, Va., the home of Kennedy's mother, Ethel and his late father, U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy.

The Office of Citizens for Kennedy assisted the physically limited voters with mobility problems with courtesy transportation to the polls on primary and election days in specially equipped wheelchair vans provided by the Quincy firm.

"We believe that a person's physical mobility should never interfere with his or her fundamental right to vote," said Ayers. "While I thought that Joe Kennedy would make the most effective congressman, I felt that all citizens, regardless of their physical limitations, should have the opportunity to vote for whomever they chose to support. Ayers Bros. was pleased to have been able to offer the physically limited our assistance."

Excel Bancorp Reports Record Fiscal Year Earnings

Excel Bancorp, Inc. and its subsidiary, Quincy Savings Bank, report net income of $3,498,184 for the fourth quarter ended Dec. 31, 1986, an increase of 139 percent over the $1,466,685 net income for the same period in 1985.

For the year ended Dec. 31, 1986, net income was $9,880,517, up $4,375,816 or 79 percent over the $5,504,701 net income for fiscal 1985.

Assets of the corporation at year end 1986 totalled $564,378,096, an increase of 28 percent over the $442,034,505 posted for fiscal 1985. Some $71,981,493 of this increase resulted from the net proceeds raised from the sale of stock when the bank converted from a mutual savings bank to a stock form savings bank Sept. 24, 1986. The Corporation's equity to asset ratio at Dec. 31, 1986 was 20.41 percent as compared to 7.66 percent at Dec. 31, 1985.

Charles A. Pearce, chairman and chief executive officer, said the results reflect the continued strong demand for loans in the South Shore market area as well as favorable declines in interest rates. Comparing current year results to 1985 results, Pearce noted that income generated from fees on loans originated increased by $1,781,016 or 95 percent over the 1985 fees. Net gains from sale of mortgage loans increased due to the aggressive selling of loans in the secondary market.

Discretionary sales of investment securities resulted in a net gain for 1986 of $1,577,033 as compared to a net gain of $71,428 for fiscal 1985. Return on average assets for fiscal 1986 was 2.02 percent and return on average equity was 16.74 percent. Net interest margin for 1986 was 4.08 percent compared to 3.73 percent for 1985.

Earnings per share for the quarter ended Dec. 31, 1986 were $.38 before extraordinary item. Earnings per share including the extraordinary item, a dividend from the Central Fund, amounted to 50 cents.

Quincy Symphony Concert Friday Night

The Quincy Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Robert F. Brown, will present its second concert of the season Friday at 8 p.m. in the North Quincy High School auditorium. The program will consist of Karl Goldmark's Rustic Wedding Symphony and selections of Samuel Barber and Charles Gounod performed by soprano soloist Pamela Wolfe. Tickets will be available at the door.

Soviet Union Slides Program For Historical Society

Tom Hurlbeaus will present a program of slides made last year during his trip to the Soviet Union.

The program will take place at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 17 at the Adams Academy Building, 8 Adams St., Quincy.

A notable traveler, Hurlbeaus has presented many well-received programs throughout the local area. He will answer questions about life in the Soviet Union today.

The program is open to members of the Quincy Historical Society as well as to visitors. There's no admission fee. Refreshments will be served.

'Digging' For Dinosaurs At Children's Library

During school vacation, youngsters will be able to "dig" for dinosaurs at the Central Children's Room of the Thomas Crane Public Library, Quincy Sq.

During the week of Feb. 17-21, an Activity Center in the rear of the room will "house" many different dinosaurs. Some of them will be "hiding" in jigsaw puzzles. Add a few pieces or assemble the whole thing!

With the help of a pencil and drawing books by Ed Emberley and Lee Ames, youngsters can make dinosaurs "appear" on paper.

They can identify the shapes of various dinosaurs or discover dinosaur book titles in a Crane's Quizzer. Pictures and information about dinosaurs can always be found in books from the library.

Youngsters are invited to try these activities during the regular hours of the Central Children's Room: Tuesday, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.; and Wednesday through Saturday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. The library will be closed Monday, Feb. 16, in observance of Washington's Birthday.

The Company Theatre To Open Arts Academy

Coming soon to Quincy will be a new after school program in the performing arts.

This eight week series of workshops, designed for students ages 8-18, will be called the Academy of The Company Theatre (ACT) and will open Feb. 16 at Christ Church in Quincy Center.

Zoe Bradford and Jordie Saucerman of Quincy, who founded The Company Theatre, 100 Macy St., Quincy, said the academy curriculum will include courses in ballet, jazz, and advanced jazz, musical theater performance, voice, musicianship, basic theater technique, advanced scene work, Shakespeare, and artistic and technical stagecraft. Also offered is a once a week after school course in the basics of acting, singing, and dancing for children ages 5-7.

The faculty of ACT includes directors Bradford and Saucerman, musical director Michael Joseph of Quincy, dance instructor Kimberly Schliesmann of Weymouth and additional drama instructor Carol Laing.

FACULTY OF ACT--From left: Michael Joseph, Carol Laing, Zoe Bradford, Jordie Saucerman, and Kimberly Schliesmann (sitting on piano).

of Quincy.

Tuition is $175 per semester and a student may take up to two courses per semester.

Children ages 5-7 will pay $135 a semester. The academy will be offering two full or partial scholarships for highly motivated students who otherwise would be unable to attend.

Bradford and Saucerman founded The Company Theatre in 1978 to give children, teenagers and young adults the opportunity to become involved in all aspects of the performing arts while providing the South Shore area with quality semi-professional theater.

For further information call 472-2619 or 773-0473.

Bulfinch Buildings Tour For Historical Society

The Quincy Historical Society will host a tour of Charles Bulfinch's Boston Tuesday, Feb. 24. A bus will leave the Adams Academy Building at 9:15 a.m.

Charles Bulfinch, prominent 18th century architect, designed many distinctive buildings in Boston and contributed to the plans for the Capital in Washington, D.C.

The day's itinerary includes a guided tour of the State House. Built on land which had served as Governor John Hancock's cow pasture, Bulfinch's State House was one of the most magnificent buildings in the country when it was completed in 1798.

Also included is a tour of the Harrison Gray Otis house on Cambridge St. Restored in 1926, this is the first of three houses designed by Charles Bulfinch for Otis, a prominent lawyer, member of Congress and mayor of Boston.

The tour group will have lunch at Le Biltmore in Braintree where a choice of entrees will be offered.

Cost of the tour, including lunch, is $14 for members and $16 for non-members. For reservations and information, call the Society office at 773-1144 by Thursday, February 19.

AQUARIUS - January 21 - February 19
 Take stock of current strengths and weaknesses, strengthening the former and correcting the latter. Self-discipline is strong through this period. Friend may not be telling the whole story.

PISCES - February 20 - March 20
 Cultural involvement may lead to new friendship. Family dispute heats up; it's your turn to play the mediator. Salesmanship skills are strong - especially if you're selling ideas.

ARIES - March 21 - April 20
 Love life accents the intellectual side of relationship. Commitments made now are binding ones, so don't make lighthearted agreements. Financial review is essential at this point.

TAURUS - April 21 - May 22
 Modest financial gains are accented. Friend's interest over your personal affairs may be more than curiosity. Communications tie-ups mean that messages aren't getting through.

GEMINI - May 23 - June 21
 New creative interests are spotlighted now. Public speaking engagement wins you admirer from important arena. Expect to spend time looking after bookkeeping and related chores.

CANCER - June 22 - July 22
 You make others - especially older people - feel extraordinarily comfortable this week. Use this gift to help those you love. Unexpected arrivals appear through the weekend.

LEO - July 23 - August 22
 Carefully investigate situation before making announcements. Rival becomes friendlier - but don't reveal any secrets. Best friends are of the opposite sex. Elegance surrounds you this weekend.

VIRGO - August 23 - September 22
 New career opportunities require further investigation. Recent communications difficulties are remedied - this is an excellent time for getting your opinions heard. Health program is a priority.

LIBRA - September 23 - October 22
 You're a contender for a prestigious award, and it's particularly important that you meet obligations. Friendship and travel should blend well. Older relatives seek you out as an adviser.

SCORPIO - October 23 - November 21
 Friends seek you out for your compassion and guidance. Family members are more upbeat. Watch tendency to be vague, particularly in career matters. News from abroad may arrive now.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22 - December 22
 You're the toast of the various gatherings you attend now, thanks to your crackling wit. Week finds you excelling in the role of teacher. Career problem requires thoughtful consideration.

CAPRICORN - December 23 - January 20
 Self-indulgent streak surfaces - this is a good period for reviewing last month's resolutions. Romance accents its sentimental side. Decorating and designing are present strong suits.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
 Unpredictability and originality; these are your strengths, but sometimes they're liabilities. Kindness is your middle name. The sciences appeal to you, along with writing and humanitarian causes. You may be in the limelight this year thanks to your inventions or original creations.

BORN THIS WEEK
 February 12th, actor Lorne Green; 13th, actress Carol Lynley; 14th, actress Florence Henderson; 15th, singer Melissa Manchester; 16th, singer Sonny Bono; 17th, actor Hal Holbrook; 18th, actress Kim Novak.

Carey's Oil & Heating Merges With Williams Coal & Oil

Carey's Oil & Heating Service Company, Inc., of Whitman recently merged with the Williams Coal & Oil Company of Braintree.

Effective Jan. 16, the affiliation of the two firms will enhance customer service with the offering of an expanded array of heating equipment.

According to Edward Fafard, all of Carey's employees were retained by Williams Coal following the merger.

Carey is a long established, full service fuel oil dealer that has been in business since 1930, predominately serving customers in Whitman and surrounding communities.

Williams Coal & Oil presently has offices in Braintree and Marshfield.

Both firms are members of the South Shore Fuel Dealers Association and the Better Home Heat Council.

Plans Progress For Home For Deaf Adults

A second informational meeting regarding the establishment of a residence for deaf adults in Quincy was held recently at the South Shore Rehabilitation Center, 3 Arlington St.

Group organizer Nancy Beaman, whose sister is a client at South Shore Rehab, updated those present on the progress of "On Our Way," a non-profit organization formed to help meet the needs of deaf adults.

Based on input from the deaf, families of the deaf, and service providers at the meeting, On Our Way is currently seeking to purchase a large group home. The residence will house trained staff, as well as deaf adults, who will maintain separate bedrooms but share cooking facilities and living/recreation areas. The overall goal of the program, Beaman said, will be to enable deaf adults 22 years and older, who are not covered by the state's Chapter 766 programs, to reach their maximum potential in independent living skills.

Funds for the purchase and maintenance of such a residence are currently being sought.

While the residence will be open to deaf adults throughout Southeastern Massachusetts, the city of Quincy was targeted for the residence because of its active Deaf Club, its proximity to South Shore Rehabilitation Center, where many potential residents of such a home are now employed, and good public transportation.

FORMER ATTY. GEN. Francis X. Bellotti presented a check to Quincy Coordinator of Neighborhood Human Services Brian Buckley for the operation of the Quincy Consumer Office.

Consumer Office Receives $10,200 State Grant

Grants totalling $686,537 were distributed recently by former Atty. Gen. Francis X. Bellotti to 26 local consumer protection agencies throughout the Commonwealth.

These funds, which are made available by the legislature through the Local Consumer Aid Fund appropriation in the Attorney General's budget, will be used by local agencies to operate 36 different consumer complaint handling programs. Twenty-eight of the programs provide telephone and letter consumer complaint intervention and eight programs provide more intensive face-to-face mediation services for consumer and landlord-tenant complaints.

The City of Quincy Consumer Office which is directed by Leo Fay received a grant award of $10,200 which is used to staff the Quincy branch. The Quincy Consumer Office is open Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Leo Meady Reelected IBBA V.P.

Leo F. Meady of Quincy was recently reelected vice president of the International Business Brokers Association at its annual meeting in Orlando, Fla.

Meady is the president of proVENTURE, Inc., 79

Parkway, Quincy. With ten franchised offices in New England, New Jersey and Pennsylvania his company sells "going businesses" with price ranges from $25,000 on up to a million dollars, or more.

READING THIS,
WE'LL GIVE YOU TODAY'S CABLE FOR A MONTH, FREE.

Until now you probably thought that cable wasn't for you. That it was just an extra expense. If you'll be good enough to spare us your time, we've got some facts that may well change your mind.

There's always something good on today's cable. You'll always find programs to entertain you, inform you and keep you in touch, just when you're in the mood. Cable's even got programming especially for seniors. You don't have to watch more, you just enjoy it more.

BASIC. THE HEART OF THE CABLE DIFFERENCE.

People often think that cable must be expensive. But the fact is that the essence of cable, Basic Cable, is really a bargain. You get great reception on the channels you're getting now, plus 33 fascinating new channels. Here's just a taste of what they offer.

- Senior Spotlight with local personalities and senior issues
- Senior Nutrition and Senior Exercise
- The Discovery Channel with the world of nature and science
- Senior Smarts and the Senior Dating Game
- Classics from the golden days of TV and Hollywood
- Lifetime with tips on finance and life extension
- C-Span with coverage from Congress
- News, 24 hours a day, world, financial and local
- Country and Classical music, The Home Shopping Network
- Economics of one and two person households
- National Geographic Explorer Series every week
- Plus The Weather Channel and documentaries not seen on ordinary TV

If Basic is the heart of cable, Senior Service is the soul. Our people go out of their way to provide thoughtful, courteous and prompt service to everyone. But especially to senior citizens. Just listen to what some of our senior subscribers have to say about us:

"Senior Smarts has done a great deal to add to the enjoyment of senior citizens and helps to keep them young, active, and important!"

Sue Marx

"Let me thank you for your good service and especially for providing such good TV as Mother Angelica."

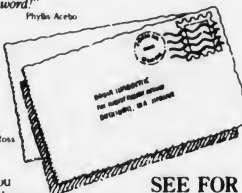

Mary A. Maloney

"I'm pleased beyond words...I find your working crew polite, efficient and you keep your word!"

Phyllis Aceto

"It is really a pleasure to deal with honorable people. Thank you very much."

Joe and Esther Rios

We could tell you about cable for hours, but there's no substitute for first hand experience. That's why we're making this special offer to senior citizens only. Why planning your funeral at age 55 makes good sense.

Age 55 is a good time in your life to plan out the rest of your life. With your children married and most of your big responsibilities behind you, it's time to give your estate to your own financial needs, and how they'll change in the next twenty years or so.

Pre planning your funeral, for example, should be just as much a part of your financial planning as life insurance. It's an expense that has to be dealt with sooner or later. And sooner is better because it could save you time and will planning to relieve your family of added financial stress should the unexpected occur.

Better Traffic To Cost $9.65M

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

In order to improve Quincy's traffic circulation it will cost $9,651,000 says a traffic engineering firm in its report to Mayor Francis McCauley.

Vanesse Hangen Associates of Boston, contracted last March to conduct a Traffic 2000 study, recommended 28 locations within three areas of the city: Quincy Center, Southern Artery and North Quincy where development has taken place, be targeted for improvements.

Also included in the firm's recommendations are the potential use of federal aid and possibly MDC funding for construction.

The city so far has received approximately $71,265 in volunteer contributions from developers in the targeted areas which is being used to offset the $107,000 cost of the study.

The study objectives were to define a traffic circulation pattern and network so as to provide a safe and efficient traffic pedestrian movement and to develop a multi-year comprehensive capital improvement program aimed at implementing recommended traffic patterns and a proposed network.

The targeted areas were studied on a four phased basis; they were inventoried as to existing conditions, analysis of future travel demand, identification evaluation of alternatives for traffic management techniques, and the preparation of a recommended transportation plan.

Vanesse Hangen will be presenting the recommendations of their report to the Downtown Economic Development Committee Feb. 23.

Mayor McCauley, after his presentation to the City Council, will be meeting with principals of the firm to prioritize recommendations and to begin seeking funding assistance for implementation.

City To Try Again For Landfill Approval

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

The city intends to re-apply to extend the life of its landfill if two areas are negotiated out of the Environmental Impact Report, according to Mayor Francis McCauley.

But the West Quincy landfill will still close, at least temporarily, in May when it runs out of space, McCauley said.

However, no interruption of residential trash pickup is expected, according to the mayor. Commercial users were prohibited from using the landfill last fall to extend the life of the dump for residential customers.

The landfill matter was scheduled to be discussed by Quincy's Department of Public Works Commr. Paul Anderson at Tuesday night's City Council meeting.

McCauley said he reached the decision after a meeting last week with representatives of the Department of Environmental Quality Engineering (DEQE) and Executive Office of Environmental Affairs.

The meeting was held to ascertain the city's chances of approval if it paid more money for tests and resubmitted an Environmental Impact Report to extend the life of the landfill.

An earlier EIR had been rejected as inadequate by James Hoyte, State Secretary for Environmental Affairs.

"The critical thing I got out of the meeting was that if we go back in and resubmit an EIR for approval of expansion of the landfill, we will be given a fair hearing," said McCauley.

There had been concern that opposition by environmental groups would color the attitude of officials in Boston, according to the mayor.

"But they convinced me we will get a fair hearing," he said.

The two areas the city would like to negotiate out of the EIR involve water tables and methane gas, McCauley said.

"There are no real ways to answer the questions," he said.

"We don't see that methane gas is a problem," McCauley said. "And we say that the water from the landfill doesn't get into our water supply because we get that from the MDC."

"If we don't get those matters negotiated out, it will be very difficult to go back in with an EIR," he said. "We're in the process of working on that now."

Over $309,000 So Far In Snow Cost

A total of $309,000 has been spent so far this winter on snow removal, according to Mayor Francis McCauley, not including the storm of Feb. 9.

That's $9,000 over the budgeted $300,000, but that doesn't mean any future snow removal will be endangered, he said.

"We can overspend that account by a special act of the Legislature," said McCauley.

"The money will be added to next year's tax rate or surplus from other accounts will be used," he said.

McCauley had said last week that only $172,434 had been spent for snow removal this winter. However, that figure was found to be incomplete and additional figures were added.

McCauley Asks North Quincy Lighting Survey

Mayor Francis McCauley has asked the city's electric light supplier to do a survey and determine if the street lighting is adequate on West Squantum St. and Holbrook Rd., in North Quincy.

McCauley's action was in response to the concerns of the Montclair Men's Club who wrote the mayor that lighting was poor on the two streets and suggested that the existing mercury vapor lamps be replaced with less costly sodium lights.

Joseph Gildea, the club's civic committee chairman, said that his organization has been fighting for street lighting improvement for three years.

In his letter to the mayor, Gildea wrote that residents have become more aware of the poor lighting because of the recent stabbings, one of which took place in Montclair.

Gildea also said the lighting situation makes the area a target for vandals.

In addition to informing the mayor of poor illumination, Gildea also said West Squantum St. is a speedway and a safety hazard and urged Police Chief Francis Finn to set speed traps in the area.

McGrath Requests Landfill Reimbursement

Council president Stephen McGrath has asked Mayor Francis McCauley to request reimbursement for money spent in connection with the Department of Quality Engineering's requirements for the landfill expansion.

In a letter to the mayor, McGrath noted that under Proposition 2½ Statute, the costs of mandates of the commonwealth to municipalities are subject to reimbursement by the commonwealth.

"I feel that in light of the fact that we have spent some $700,000 so far in consultant studies in order to satisfy D.E.Q.E.'s requirements to expand the landfill, that this should be considered a state mandate and should be subject to reimbursement," said McGrath.

"I have written to State

Auditor Joseph DeNucci pointing out that former Auditor John Finnegan took a very strong view in favor of municipalities in this regard and urged him to take a similar stand if Quincy made formal application," McGrath said.

"I feel it is unfair for the taxpayers to have to bear the brunt of the commonwealth's action and urge that we apply immediately," said McGrath.

Blood Pressure Screening At Quincy Hospital March 3

Quincy City Hospital will conduct a free blood pressure screening for the public Tuesday, March 3, in the Ambulatory Care Department from 1:30 to 3 p.m.

The screenings, performed by nursing staff, will enable individuals to keep track of their blood pressure, and be aware of dangerous elevations in the pressure. Persons in need of referral to a physician, will be advised to do so.

The screenings, which will take place on the first and third Tuesday of each month, are free of charge.

Presidents' Place On Agenda

Presidents' Place, the $55 million residential, retail and office project planned for downtown Quincy, will be among the agenda items at a meeting of the Quincy Historical Commission Monday, Feb. 23.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the second floor conference room, New City Hall.

Busy Supermarket Needs Traffic Detail, Says Lydon

Ward 3 Councillor John J. Lydon, Jr., has requested that the manager of the Stop & Shop on Newport Ave. begin to provide paid police details at the entrance to the store's parking lot.

In a letter to the manager, Lydon wrote that, "in the interest of public safety, I believe it now behooves the Stop & Shop to begin immediately to provide police details at this busy and dangerous location, particularly at peak hours of activity."

Lydon directed the Stop & Shop manager to contact the police chief immediately.

8 Forced To Flee

Wollaston Fire Believed Set, 7 Firefighters Injured

As investigators continued their probe into the suspicious Washington's Birthday three-alarm Wollaston house fire, the last of seven firemen who suffered injuries battling that blaze, was released Tuesday from Quincy City Hospital.

Acting Fire Chief Carl Valenti said the blaze that destroyed the three-family house at 280 Fayette St., was started from the outside. A witness told investigators from the state fire marshal's office and the Quincy Fire Prevention Bureau they saw a young man run from the back of the house shortly before the blaze broke out at about 3:45 a.m. and forced eight occupants to flee in their night clothes into zero-degree temperatures, said Valenti.

Firefighter William Arienti was released from the hospital Tuesday. He suffered smoke inhalation and possible throat burns. The six other firefighters who were treated there for smoke inhalation and injuries received from slipping on ice-encrusted surfaces were: Paul Burke, Robert Hermanson, John Davies, Peter Quinn, Peter Williams and Joseph Paccioiretti.

"An accelerant of some type was used to set the fire," said Valenti. "There was heavy flame and it's a miracle no one was killed in the fire," he added.

The occupants told firemen they credit smoke detectors with saving their lives.

Pamela Burke, who lived on the second floor with her husband, John, and their sons, Jason, 7, and 3-month-old Joseph, said the smoke detectors went off at approximately 3:45 a.m.

"It was very smoky in the house and there were flames coming from the back. I got the kids out and John went upstairs to get his sisters, Elizabeth, 23, and Jacqueline, 27, who occupied the third floor apartment, she said.

Burke's grandparents, John, 70, and Mary Keough, 69, also made their way to safety after being awakened by the smoke detectors. Keough called the fire department before leaving the house.

Fire officials said that the second alarm was sounded soon after they arrived and Deputy George McCray then ordered the third alarm at about 4:05.

The severe cold was responsible for the number of injuries to firefighters and made the fire extremely difficult to fight.

Valenti said the fire, which caused damage in excess of $120,000, spread quickly. "There was nothing to stop it," he said.

When the third alarm was sounded it brought mutual aid from Weymouth, Milton, Braintree and Boston to cover the Quincy stations.

The occupants are staying with friends and relatives. Contributions can be made to the Burke Family Fire Fund, c/o South Shore Bank, 62 Clay St., Quincy, MA 02170.

A GUTTED SHELL is all that remains of a three-family home at 230 Fayette St., Wollaston, destroyed during a three alarm fire early Monday morning officials said was set. A man was seen running for the property before the fire broke out in rear.

GET A 1986 IRA TAX DEDUCTION BEFORE SOX SEASON STARTS.

OR WATCH YOUR LAST GREAT CHANCE SLIP BY.

If you think the new tax laws have fouled up 1986 IRAs, think again. For tax year 1986, nothing's changed. The same eligibility and deductibility rules apply as in previous years. You can still get the same great tax benefits. But only if you make your 1986 IRA contribution by April 15. (That's about the time Sox Manager John McNamara starts getting a few more gray hairs.)

As for tax year 1987, it's a whole new ballgame. We've put together a free booklet that explains the changes, and helps give you a winning edge on your 1987 IRA.

To get the booklet, and to get a great IRA for 1986, 1987, or both, visit Quincy Savings Bank today. Or call 471-3500.

Brownell Urges Passage Of Housing Bill

State Rep. Thomas F. Brownell (D-Quincy) has urged the legislature's committee on Housing and Urban Development to approve a bill providing funds for increasing the production of affordable rental housing, broadening opportunities for home ownership, and for preserving existing public housing developments.

The housing package's main provisions would:

- Authorize a $381.6 million housing bond for new construction and the renovation of existing public housing developments;
- Provide $50 million for low-interest rate mortgages to enable 6000 families earning $20-30,000 to become homeowners.

- Provide $60 million for grants and loans to promote the private construction of affordable low and moderate income housing.

In a letter to the Housing Committee's chairman, Brownell pointed out that Quincy is "experiencing a severe housing crisis, primarily because the production of housing has not kept pace with demand."

A co-sponsor of the legislation, Brownell added:

"Given the state's real estate market, we need to increase the supply of housing. If fiscal conditions permit, major provisions of this bill will be approved."

Employee Recognition

Mayor Francis McCauley said the fifth annual Employee Recognition Awards will be presented to six city employees May 14.

"No one has been chosen yet," said McCauley, who noted that recipients are selected by department heads for outstanding service.

Recipients receive plaques and gift certificates, he said.

General chairman is Recreation Director Barry Welch, according to McCauley.

Sheila Won't Run - This Year

The McIntyre name will not be on this year's Quincy election ballot.

Sheila McIntyre, wife of the late Mayor-Senator James McIntyre, has decided not to run for mayor or any other office this year.

But she leaves the door wide open for a future bid for mayor.

She came to her decision following a recent telephone survey taken in her behalf.

"The results show," she says, "that the people appear to be satisfied with their city and their officials at this time."

The survey, she said, did not turn up serious issues although there was concern about over development and strong criticism over snow removal.

But there seemed to be a lack of the so-called "bread and butter issues" which hold the attention of voters.

Mrs. McIntyre said because of the survey results and family considerations she has decided not to seek any office this year.

Two of her children, Charles, a student at Connecticut College, and Sheila, who is at McGill College in Montreal, wanted to take a semester off to help her with her campaign if she were a candidate.

"But their father," she said, "who was a firm believer in a good education would have wanted them not to interrupt their college education."

"I definitely will not be a candidate for mayor, city councillor or school committee this year," she said.

"But I am still concerned about the city and I am not ruling out being a candidate in the future."

When she speaks of being a candidate she is thinking of the office of mayor -- not the City Council. Although she might consider running for the School Committee -- but not this year.

Mrs. McIntyre says that a professional firm took the survey for her and called 500 voters at random in all six Quincy wards.

But her survey now raises a political mystery. She said her survey was not the one reported in this column last week.

"Some of the questions asked and some of the names mentioned in that survey were not in the one taken for me," she said. "That one had nothing to do with me."

Mayor Francis McCauley's camp, and Councillor Joseph LaRaia have both denied that poll was taken for them.

SHEILA

So, it wasn't their poll, whose was it?

IF YOU'RE LOOKING for a fresh young political face you may find one in Ward 5 this year.

Charles Phelan, Jr., 29, of Kemper St. is seriously considering running for the Ward 5 seat now occupied by Council President Stephen McGrath.

But Phelan will run only if McGrath decides to make a bid for councillor at-large as expected.

Phelan worked for McGrath when he first ran for the Ward 5 seat and in 1983 was campaign manager for Steve Durkin's successful bid for School Committee.

Young Phelan has been active in the Ward 5 Democratic Committee. Last year he worked for the Michael Dukakis-Evelyn Murphy ticket.

Phelan is the son of Charles Phelan, Sr. retired Quincy police officer.

JOHN WALSH of Squantum has been named by Congressman Joseph P. Kennedy to his Task Force on Veteran's Affairs. Kennedy is the only member of Congress from New England on the House Committee on Veterans' Affairs. Walsh is Legislative Director for the State Commissioner of Veterans Services.

WALSH

Incidentally, Walsh who made a bid for the Ward 6 City Council seat two years ago, won't be a candidate for any office this year. He's busy boning up for the Massachusetts Bar exam.

LAST SATURDAY'S cold weather didn't bother School Committeemen Frank Anselmo who will be 89 in September. But his new car apparently isn't as sturdy.

The car wouldn't start in the 10-degree temperature (minus 30 with the chill factor). But Anselmo didn't want to miss the School Committee's budget hearing so he called a cab.

When the transportation part of the budget came up for discussion, Anselmo noted that it cost him $4 taxi fare to get to the meeting from his 1000 Southern Artery apartment.

"But," he said, "I won't ask for reimbursement."

THINKING OUT LOUD: Just when you think you've seen the worst television commercial they could come up with, they come up with another one. Like those talking toilet seats. They're real class.

AMERIKA: Inaccurate, Inflammatory, Irresponsible

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

It is no secret that the idea for this program (Amerika) was generated by some conservatives' response to the previous ABC film The Day After. However, beyond the initial connection, there is little to compare the two programs.

The Day After at least propounded a plausible scenario, international crisis leading to a nuclear strike. It was far less coherently ideological than Amerika, lasting three hours on a single night. It was also defused by a "Viewpoint" follow-up discussion.

The plausibility of The Day After rests on a simple fact: both superpowers have nuclear arsenals whose purpose is to threaten attack on the other. Amerika offers not a trace of a fragment of an iota of such plausibility. The script must stand virtually mute on the practical question of how the hypothetical Soviet assault actually took place, since there is no way to render it dramatically believable.

Amerika is a thoroughly political mini-series pitting heroic resistors against the Soviet U.N. oppressors and their U.S. dupes (progressives). By contrast, The Day After was a non-political movie, lacking any finger pointing, no good guys or bad guys. Its one simple message, that nuclear war is bad, was once considered non-controversial.

There are some obvious themes or messages running throughout Amerika. The program is not simply chock full of violence. Instead, it presents its messages in a subtle manner. Sadly, they prey on people's ignorance and fears. That is why they are so dangerous.

It is therefore worthwhile to outline and debunk some of these basic themes.

1. Americans do not care enough about their country to defend it:

The notion that the peoples of our country are not strongly united in a common vision of our purpose is one which may gather support from people of different political persuasions. However, encouraging phony patriotism will only serve to further divide us. Similarly, encouraging racism and irrational fear of foreigners only undermines efforts to solve world problems through international cooperation.

Instead, we should work hard to eliminate any divisive delineations which only serve to divide us. Men, women, old/young, white/black/yellow/brown, gay/straight, liberal/conservative, rich/poor when seen everyone else's interests as encompassing our own, then we can truly have a strong united country which in turn can lead an effort to similar worldwide peace and understanding.

2. Dissent is unpatriotic and undermines U.S. security:

If there is one thing which distinguishes our democratic society from undemocratic nations, it is the right we have to express criticisms of and to work for constructive change in government policies. From the framing of the Constitution and the Bill of Rights, to the present day, this freedom has been theoretically recognized as a pillar of our democratic system. Therefore real and practical efforts to put this into practice should be encouraged. Otherwise real undermining of the fabric of our country may result.

3. The Soviet Union has both the desire and the ability to conquer and occupy the United States:

It is doubtful that the Soviet leadership ever seriously considered launching a military attack on the United States. In the 1950's, Soviet leaders believed that they would "bury" the West with their superior economic system. Today, faced with serious economic problems, resistive and increasingly independent Eastern European allies, an unwinnable conflict in Afghanistan, and the reality of the threat of nuclear devastation, this belief about Soviet intentions is ridiculous. Moreover, the notion that the enormous military forces of the United States would not immediately and effectively be used against an attempted Soviet occupation is nonsense.

4. The United Nations is a tool of the Soviet government:

The United States was the principal initiator of the United Nations. As such, it originally served our purposes well. However, as more and more colonies gained their independence principally from Western countries, the United States has been subject to increasing criticism in the United Nations. At the same time, the Soviet Union has been subject to its fair share of criticism. In the meantime, U.N. peacekeeping forces have been used time and again to defuse or prevent conflicts. Most of the world's nations no longer see their interests as coinciding exactly with those of either superpower.

For those of us who have and continue to work long and hard for peace and justice, the whole notion of this upcoming mini-series is extremely unsettling. Yet, after reading all of the above, some people may want to know what the problem is. They might start with the premise that such private television networks have a right in our democracy to choose what materials to air. I could enumerate some technical violations of the law which might be included in the film such as the unauthorized use of the U.N. emblem, however, that would just be avoiding the main premise. It remains that ABC does have a general right to air programming of its choice.

Traditionally, such networks impose some self censorship. We don't usually see programs that support notions such as the Ku Klux Klan, Nazism or other such hate groups. People may still correctly point out that those are extreme examples.

However, the real dangerousness of this mini-series is the subtle way it presents its message. Playing on negative stereotypes and hollow patriotism is an easy thing to do. It will likely create large profits for ABC and there may lie the bottom line. Working for peace, justice and multi-cultural understanding among all peoples has never been a big money maker as far as the U.S. private media is concerned. ABC has apparently decided where its priorities lie. Given that fact, I felt compelled to exercise my right to inoculate as many people as possible to the film's inaccurate and inflammatory material and subsequent potential effects.

I personally feel ABC is being highly irresponsible in presenting this mini-series. Its $32 million investment will surely dictate against it taking the prudent road of cancelling the program. However, it still can and should allow for equal time for alternative viewpoints. There is plenty of precedent for this, starting of course, with ABC's own showing of The Day After.

In the meantime Amerika may contribute to reinforcing growing fears and prejudices which may in turn dampen efforts to achieve world peace through cooperation and social development. However, we will persevere in using truth and friendship to create worldwide brotherhood and sisterhood. For we only need to look as far as the Opening of the United Nations Declaration of Human Rights for guidance: "Recognition of the inherent dignity and of the equal and unalienable rights of all members of the human family is the foundation of freedom, justice and peace in the world."

WORST DEFEAT

The Quincy High School basketball team suffered one of the worst defeats in its history, a 43-5 drubbing at the hands of Brockton in its own gym.

The only Quincy scoring was a basket by Capt. Hartman Sass at the start of the third period, two free throws by Winsor and a free throw by Johnny Kroesser. Brockton led, 23-1, at halftime.

But the QHS hockey team at least partially redeemed the school's athletic reputation by beating Framingham, 2-1, in Boston Garden on goals by Larry Cahoon and Eddie Norton.

It was Bob King's goaltending that had hockey fans in Boston talking in glowing terms.

CHANGE IN NAME ONLY

The Merchant Theater on Hancock St., Quincy Center, the city's oldest playhouse once known as the Quincy Music Hall, changed its name again, this time to the State Theater.

But no change was promised in prices, which were 10 cents for all seats during matinee performances and 15 cents for orchestra seats at evening shows.

Featured films at the time were "Dangerous Affair" with Jack Holt; "Headin' For Trouble," starring Bob Custer; "Don't Divorce Him," a comedy; and Chapter 8 of the serial "Danger Island."

Chicken Veal Supreme An Easy One For Working Mothers

Here is a great recipe given to me by my daughter, Ann Marie, and an easy one for those working mothers who can't slave for hours in a kitchen. It includes chicken and veal and is served with pasta or rice.

CHICKEN VEAL SUPREME

1 whole chicken breast
8 ounces of veal cutlet
3 Tbsp olive oil
2 cloves of garlic
1 Lb fresh mushrooms (cut up)
1 Pkg frozen broccoli (cook until defrosted) - cut up
1 Lb pasta (she used rigatoni)
10 ounces shredded mozzarella cheese grated romano cheese

1/2 cup white wine

Start the macaroni water and bring to a boil.

Cut the chicken and veal in 2-inch pieces. In hot oil and garlic, saute the chicken and veal turning pieces until both sides are lightly browned. Fold in the mushrooms and broccoli, add the wine and cover and cook until mushrooms and broccoli are done.

Drain the pasta and place in a serving platter. Sprinkle the mozzarella cheese on top of the macaroni, and then place the veal and chicken mixture over the top of that. Serve hot with grated romano cheese.

Introductory Session March 2 On Leanlines Program At Quincy Hospital

A free introductory session on Quincy City Hospital's Leanlines Weight Loss Program will be held Monday, March 2, at 10 a.m. in Room 121 on Hunting-1.

As the response to the initial introductory sessions held last month has been so great, an additional session has been planned for Tuesday, March 3.

The Leanlines Program is designed to teach individuals how to conquer a weight problem and maintain a healthy weight through proper eating and activity.

As part of the program, individuals learn to identify their own problem-eating behavior.

Working with Mrs. Leslee McGovern, Registered Dietician and director of the program, participants will develop a personalized weight loss plan.

In group sessions, individuals learn how to approach restaurant dining, how to modify behavior in the face of stressful situations, how to shop and cook for a healthy diet, and how to incorporate exercise into their daily routine.

Individual fitness evaluations and counseling, as well as two-month fitness memberships are provided to candidates at a reduced rate.

"What is exceptional about the Leanlines Program," according to Mrs. McGovern, "is its incorporation of the expertise of a registered dietician for nutrition counseling, and a certified exercise physiologist for fitness evaluation.

"Thus the participants are provided with a program which controls calorie intake, burns calories, and enhances fat loss while preserving lean muscle."

For additional information on the Leanlines Program at Quincy City Hospital, contact Mrs. Leslee McGovern, Registered Dietician, at the hospital, at 773-6100 ext 6037.

Intro Session Feb. 26 On Stop Smoking Program At Hospital

A free introductory session on Quincy City Hospital's five day Smoking Cessation program will be held Thursday, Feb. 26, 1:45 to 3:15 p.m. in the hospital cafeteria.

The first class will begin Monday, March 2.

The program is being presented by Jean Hodgkins, R.N.C., health educator at the hospital. She is an instructor certified by the American Institute of Preventive Medicine.

More information on the program, or the hospital's programs for stress management, is available by contacting Mrs. Hodgkins at 773-6100, ext. 3005 or 3056.

The 1983 Surgeon General's Report on Smoking and Health, called it "a particularly successful" stop smoking program, because quitting rates are two to three times the national average.

Dr. Don R. Powell, the program's founder, has presented SMOKING CESSATION at the national meetings of various organizations including the American Medical Association, American Public Health Association, and the American Heart Association.

Organizations that have offered the program are Blue Cross, Blue Shield, Center for Disease Control, Exxon, Upjohn, J.C. Penney, General Motors, Equitable Life Assurance, CBS, Burlington Industries, and McGraw Hill.

After a free introductory meeting, participants in the SMOKING CESSATION system enter into four consecutive one and one-half hour skill development sessions, where they are taught how to prevent cigarette urges from occurring and how to immediately eliminate an urge if one should present itself.

The smoking habit is viewed from psychological, physiological, behavioral and sociological viewpoints.

In addition, a maintenance program to keep people off cigarettes permanently is included.

Quincy City Hospital offers a guarantee.

If any graduate of SMOKING CESSATION should ever go back to smoking, or want to reinforce their non-smoking behavior, they may re-attend the program at no additional charge.

Insurance Fraud

Insurance fraud refers to hard sell tactics aimed at older people to purchase duplicate policies to supplement Medicare coverage. Many insurance policies will refuse to pay benefits once they learn that other companies pay the same benefits. If you buy two policies covering the same thing, you will pay premiums on a policy that you will never use.

Common practices are:

- Fear tactics to purchase policies covering a single catastrophic illness (Cancer, for example).
- Mail and television insurance policy offers. These policies are not subject to approval by the State Division of Insurance and may not provide good coverage. Also, the price may be too high for benefits provided.

As a potential consumer, you should know that:

- Supplemental Security Income recipients who have Medicaid coverage do not need supplemental health insurance.

Before enrolling in a supplemental health insurance plan:

- Check with the State Division of Insurance (727-3333) or the Executive Office of Elder Affairs (1-800-882-2003) BEFORE SIGNING ANY POLICY. Ask for more information about policies sold in Massachusetts.

Mail Fraud:

- When considering a purchase by mail, be careful to protect your rights. Look first for a better deal at a local store. IF YOU DO ORDER BY MAIL, remember that:

- This item must be shipped within the time stated in the advertisement or, if no shipping date is specified: within 30 days of receiving the order.
- The seller must notify the purchaser if the seller cannot meet the deadline and must permit the purchaser the choice of a prompt refund or delayed shipment.
- If the purchaser chooses a refund, the refund must be made within seven days of receiving the request.

Morrissey To Head Up Public Safety Committee

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey has been named chairman of the Committee on Public Safety by House Speaker George Keverian.

Morrissey has been a member of Keverian's leadership team for the last two years serving as chairman of the Committee on Counties.

The Committee on Public Safety is a more active committee, dealing with many aspects of public safety including gun control, school bus safety, seatbelts and building codes and other safety matters.

"I am very excited about my new assignment," said Morrissey. "I am grateful that Speaker Keverian has given me the opportunity to work in the public safety field."

Morrissey has been representing the First Norfolk District for ten years and was sworn in for his sixth consecutive term on Jan. 14.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

There are few things in this world that cause more trouble than anger. And yet anger in itself is not necessarily wrong. It is part of our basic equipment. It can be a helpful endowment if it is kept under control. Without it injustices in life would be allowed to pass without either protest or understanding.

Yet anger can be tricky. It easily gets out of hand. When it becomes a burning rage, it becomes a distinct liability. It becomes troublesome and dangerous.

We cannot imagine life on this planet without fire. Yet fire, when it gets out of hand, is ravaging beyond description. Anger, like fire, can get out of hand and be ravenous too.

A person who lets anger get out of control needs to call upon all the fire departments he can to help him get the burning rage under control.

Anger properly controlled can be good, but anger, like fire, can destroy. Anger may be a necessary factor of life, but it performs its functions only under strict control. Remember, anger is often more harmful than the injury that caused it! ...

Gerald S. Shea, Received High School Diploma At 84

A funeral Mass for Gerald S. Shea of Quincy, a retired MBTA employee, was held Feb. 9, at St. Ann's Church, Dorchester.

Mr. Shea died Feb. 6. He had lived in Neponset for 80 years before he moved to Quincy.

Mr. Shea was the subject of a 1984 feature story in The Quincy Sun when at the age of 84 he received his diploma from Dorchester High School, more than 50 years after he had attended the school.

He had left in his senior year to fight in World War I, and always wished that he had received his diploma.

Mr. Shea's wish came true with the help of his daughter, Patricia Shea Ridlen, director of the Houghs Neck Community Center.

Mrs. Ridley wrote and explained the circumstances to the school, which sent a diploma in the mail. It was presented to him at a surprise party.

"He told me it was the happiest day of his life, except when he got married," Mrs. Ridlen said at the time.

Husband of the late Anna (Kerr) Shea, he is survived by a son, Gerald R. Shea of Quincy; two daughters, Mrs. Ridlen of Quincy and Nancy Tangney of Weymouth; 11 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements were by the John C. Mulry Funeral Home, Dorchester.

Burial was in St. Joseph's Cemetery, Boston.

Asian American Committee To Meet

The Quincy Asian American Committee will meet Tuesday, March 3, at 7:30 p.m. at Wollaston Lutheran Church, 550 Hancock St.

At its February meeting, the committee considered a request to sponsor another program for the benefit of Asian Americans in the community.

The need for more advanced English as a second language classes, was discussed.

The consensus was that an evening class was the greatest need in that area.

Current ESL classes emphasize basic and intermediate English skills, and large numbers of Quincy residents are awaiting placement in the crowded advanced ESL programs in Boston's China town, according to the committee.

The committee said it will research the situation before making a recommendation for the project.

Anyone interested in an evening class in advanced ESL instruction may call Sharon Evans, 843-5507; Maria Leung, 328-5454; or Chik Ching Law, 786-8792.

The committee also will apply for a study grant from the School Age Child Care Program Development Grant, a federal grant to be made available through the State Office for Children.

The feasibility of all-day or after-school programs for children which, if approved, would begin in September, is being considered by the committee.

To date, the committee has endorsed two programs. The "New Reader Project," a free program which uses trained volunteers to work with persons needing help with the English language, is under the direction of Ann McLaughlin of the Thomas Crane Public Library, Quincy.

Interested persons should call her at 471-2400.

The second program, already begun, is a daytime ESL class Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, from 9 a.m. to noon at Wollaston Lutheran Church.

The class, an intermediate level ESL, is conducted through the Urbanistic Human Services Foundation, Inc.

Anyone interested may call Sharon Evans.

"Hub's top savings rate: 6.25%"

—The Boston Herald September 5, 1986

At a time when other banks are actually reducing rates, a passbook savings account that pays more than most money market accounts is big news:

The Hibernia Savings Bank now pays 6.25% on its regular savings accounts. (That's an annual yield of 6.54%, based on continuous compounding.) It takes $100 to open one and you only need to maintain a balance of $10 to earn the rate.

If you like the convenience, safety and simplicity of regular passbook savings — and want rates that are better than most money market accounts — stop by and open an account with Hibernia.

It will be good news for both of us.

Wollaston Congregational Topic 'Time To Make Peace'

The Rev. Eldon D.J. Zuern's sermon topic this Sunday at the 11 a.m. worship in Wollaston Congregational Church will be: "The Time To Make Peace," based on the text from Matthew 5:21-26.

Greeters will be Rudy and Jessie Lofgren; ushers, Bruce and Robert Hiltmen; scripture reader, Elaine Greenough; acolyte Eric Schwendenman.

Church School will be from 10 to 11 a.m., and junior and senior high groups will meet at 7:30 p.m.

A talent auction will be held during Fellowship Hour in the social hall after the service with the Reverend Zuern as auctioneer.

A series of Bible study sessions will be held commencing March 8, at 11:15 a.m. to 12:15 p.m., after that Sunday worship. The series will be led by the Reverend Zuern.

'Peace' Theme At United First Parish UN Sunday

United First Parish Unitarian Church in Quincy Center will hold a United Nations Sunday, Feb. 22, beginning at 10:30 a.m.

The service, planned by the Social Concerns Committee, has as its theme "Peace."

Edith Howlett, the church's UN council representative, will greet people at the door. Brenda Powers will open the service with the U.U.A. consensus on the UN and Barbara Wiggins will tell the story of "Sadako and the 1,000 Paper Cranes," after which members of the congregation will come forward to read quotations on peace from historic personages such as Albert Einstein, Eleanor Roosevelt, Indira Gandhi, Jesus of Nazareth.

Original cranes, symbolic of Sadako's prayer for the gift of peace, will be hung on an evergreen tree, the oriental symbol of eternity.

Mark Sullivan will speak on the importance of the UN as a peace keeping institution in today's world.

Music will include "Parliament of Man," "My Country is the World," and "Wonders Still the World Shall Witness," under the direction of organist Norman Corey.

Rev. Sheldon Bennett will participate in the service and deliver the closing words from "Experiments in Peace."

The service will conclude with the congregation signing "peace" in American Sign Language.

A social hour, with international refreshments, will follow the service in the parish hall, which will be decorated with flags from UN member countries.

Civil Defense Seeks $15,000 For Computer

Quincy's Civil Defense Office of Emergency Preparedness has launched a drive to raise $15,000 to purchase a computer system which they contend is vital to the efficiency of that organization.

The agency, comprised of volunteers from the professional and private sector, feel this type of technology is needed especially in time of crisis.

A growing number of government bodies today have turned to computers, which the agency says they can program maps, books, emergency call lists and other vital data, community resources and specialized equipment that it can summon during emergencies. Computers can also be utilized for damage assessment after a disaster strikes.

Because of their limited operating budget the agency is urging local business people and citizens to help in this quest for funding for such a system.

Checks can be made payable to the City of Quincy, Civil Defense Agency, 55 Sea St., Quincy, MA 02169.

Please specify on check: For Civil Defense computer system.

Republican Committee To Meet Feb. 24

The Quincy Republican Committee will meet Tuesday, Feb. 24, at 7:30 p.m. at United Methodist Church, Beale St., Wollaston.

Discussion concerning building a two party political system in Quincy and in Massachusetts will be the main focus.

All interested persons are welcome to attend.

For more information, call Richard Lockhead, chairman, at 471-1774.

If you live in Quincy and your oil burner quits, we'll be over within 1 hour. Guaranteed.

The average wait for emergency burner service is four hours.

The company that turned heating oil prices upside down has turned oil burner service rightside up.

The Guaranteed One Hour Response.

Most oil companies call it their Emergency Service. As it turns out, that's a pretty descriptive name for it. Because an emergency is just what you're likely to have on your hands by the time someone shows up to start working on your oil burner—since the average response time is about four hours.

At The Oil Express, Emergency Service means something quite different. It means you'll have a repairman at your door one hour—or less—after you call us. That kind of service is practically unheard of these days. In any business. But we not only give it. We guarantee it.

Of course, the best way to deal with emergencies is to avoid having them. So our customers' oil burners are first meticulously tuned and then painstakingly maintained by a staff of skilled technicians. What's more, a computer-controlled fuel delivery system sees to it that they never run out of fuel. Ever.

Breakthrough service. Breakthrough prices.

Naturally, we haven't forgotten what made us a success in the first place: having the lowest prices around. We're part of a 3 billion dollar company that trades in petroleum futures on the international market. So when we buy heating oil, it's millions of gallons at a time—at locked-in prices that are far below what local oil companies have to pay. And you get it at prices that are far below what local oil companies have to charge. On top of everything else, it couldn't be easier to get started. Just give us a call.

Call today. 1-800-448-HEAT.

Or, if you prefer, send in the coupon; you'll have complete details by return mail.

Santoro Fails To Eliminate Board Salaries

School Committee Discusses Proposed $31.1 Million Budget

A proposed $31,150,000 school budget was discussed Saturday during a special session of the School Committee.

"The next step is a public hearing on the school budget," said Mayor Francis McCauley, school committee chairman.

"The School Committee will then formally approve the budget, and it will be sent to the City Council with other budget items," he said.

McCauley said he had included $1 million in the school budget which he suggested be used for maintenance of the buildings. But that figure was reduced to $450,000 because of an increase in special needs tuition and transportation, he said.

School Supt. John Osterman gave a preliminary presentation, McCauley said, and committee members went through the budget line by line.

School Committee member Frank Santoro proposed elimination of the $200 a month salary for committee members, totalling $14,400 a year, and out of state travel, at $12,000.

But the motions failed due to lack of seconds, McCauley said.

The mayor was scheduled to meet yesterday (Wednesday) with department heads on the Treasurer Collector, Fire Department and retirement budgets.

The police department and related budgets will be discussed Friday, according to McCauley.

A total of $1,429,000 was cut out of the budgets for the Departments of Public Works, City Clerk, Election, License Board, Data Processing and Harbor Master last week, McCauley said.

The mayor said he hopes to conclude the first review of the city's $100,792,614 budget by the end of February.

The city will then wait for the Cherry Sheets which tell how much Quincy will receive from the state in certain categories, and how much it will have to pay for such things as MDC Costs, according to McCauley.

McCauley said he would like to present the budget to the City Council at its April 6 or 21 meetings.

The council will have 45 days to act on the budget.

Cooperative Bancorp, Quincy

Co-operative Bancorp and the Quincy Co-operative Bank jointly announce they have executed a definitive agreement whereby Co-operative Bancorp will acquire all of the outstanding shares of the Quincy Co-operative Bank.

Co-operative Bancorp will pay $30 in cash for each share of common stock of the Quincy Co-operative Bank, for a transaction total of approximately $58 million. The Quincy Co-operative Bank has granted to Co-operative Bancorp an option to purchase up to 242,825 shares.

The Quincy Co-operative Bank will become a wholly-owned subsidiary along with The Co-operative Bank of Concord under the holding company, Co-operative Bancorp. The acquisition is subject to regulatory approvals and approval by Quincy Co-operative's stockholders.

A statement issued by David E. Bradbury, chairman and chief executive officer of Co-operative Bancorp, said:

"The acquisition is in the best interest of each institutions' stockholders. Combining Co-operative Bancorp's mortgage banking expertise with the strong base that Quincy Co-operative has in its fast-growing market area has excellent campus potential. Co-operative Bancorp was attracted to Quincy Co-operative for its fine management team, lucrative market area and strong balance sheet."

John J. Sullivan, chairman of the Quincy Co-operative

Kara Feeney Advances To State Free Throw Competition

Kara Feeney, a Quincy champion in the Elks National Free Throw Contest has won the Circle District Championship at Bentley College and will advance to the Massachusetts championship Feb. 21.

Kara is the city champion in the 12-13 year old age group and one of six Quincy youngsters who competed for the Circle District Championship.

The Elks National Free Throw Contest is sponsored locally by the Quincy Lodge of Elks and supervised by the Quincy Recreation Department. Each boy and girl shoots 25 free throws for score. Local winners advance and state winners are eligible for national competition. The other five city champions who competed were: Ann Marie Calabro, Amanda Corbin, Sean Donovan, Andrew Joyce, and Bo Smith.

Kara, who is a grade seven student at St. Ann's School, is the daughter of Jean and Bill Feeney of Sachem St., Wollaston. The Quincy Elks chairman is Ed Miller, head basketball coach at North Quincy High School.

Over 250 youngsters took part in the preliminary rounds of competition at area recreation supervised programs. In addition to her championship trophy, the Quincy Lodge of Elks will provide Kara with an embroidered warm-up suit for the state championship.

WEEK OF: February 19

AQUARIUS — January 21 - February 19
Staying informed of community happenings may lead to an honorary position. Friend reveals a little-known sentimental side. If seeking information, opt for a subtle approach.

PISCES — February 20 - March 20
Good week to keep abreast of events at the work place. News from highrump requires prompt clarification. Partner is pre-occupied. Your own new interest may have a profitable tie-in.

ARIES — March 21 - April 20
Goals are clearly defined and you find it easier to arrange priorities. Family member is unusually generous with time and/or gifts. Avoid committing yourself to too many obligations.

TAURUS — April 21 - May 22
Professional development is accentuated through the week. New academic interests are highlighted too, and may include studies in languages or the arts. Romantic reconciliations are favored.

GEMINI — May 23 - June 21
Taste is impeccable - this is a good period for renovating and designing. Partnership ventures prove favorable provided the division of labor is set out clearly.

CANCER — June 22 - July 22
Watch leanings toward extravagance; a conservative approach leads to accomplishments both socially and at the workplace. Shared activities - though not on a perfect 50-50 basis - are highlighted.

LEO — July 23 - August 22
Maintaining a sense of perspective is particularly important through this period. Financial dealings require attention to the smallest details. Last minute travel opportunity may materialize.

VIRGO — August 23 - September 22
Be sure not to make decisions rashly and without the consultation of an involved party. Good week for entertaining, but remain within your budget. Partnership activities prove generally favorable.

LIBRA — September 23 - October 22
Good week for travel, provided you leave ample time for detours. Pets figure in the picture - you might be picking up a stray. Financial news-brightener may arrive after weekend.

SCORPIO — October 23 - November 21
Family issues occupy a good portion of your time. Results may not be immediate, but there are sure signs of progress. Workplace offers unexpected excitement. Elegant event is highlighted.

SAGITTARIUS — November 22 - December 22
Pleasant financial news may arrive this week, but don't reveal too much. Correspondence is unusually lively. Romance remains upbeat. Sports and recreation are favorably spotlighted.

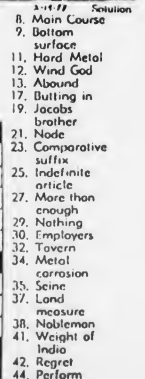

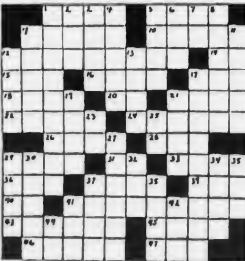

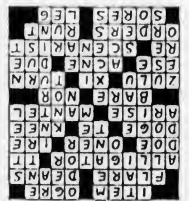

CAPRICORN — December 23 - January 20
Favorable acquaintance may be trying too hard to impress you - it may be time to bring him/her down to earth gently. Financial ventures require further research.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
You're compassionate and sympathetic. Your emotions run high. You adapt easily to changing surroundings, and changes are accentuated through the coming months. A new direction in career or education is quite possible. There are ample travel opportunities throughout '87.

North Girls Win 3 On Way To Tourney

By TOM SULLIVAN

The North Quincy girls' basketball team won three games during the past week, extending its win streak to four in a row.

The Raiderettes took a 15-4 record into Tuesday's season's finals against Waltham. North should be one of the top-seeded teams in the Eastern Mass. tournament.

On Monday North had to fight off a furious rally by Newton South to finally post a 43-39 victory. Last Friday the Raiderettes won the city championship by topping Quincy for the second time, 45-38, and earlier in the week rolled over Cathedral, 76-34.

In the Quincy game North raced out to a quick 10-4 lead as Anne McGuigan hit three long set shots and scored on an offensive rebound to score eight of her team's first 10 points. Quincy's only answers were a red hot McGuigan were a Linda Walsh offensive rebound and a Diane Parry fast break layup. Both coaches started all-senior lineups in their last game against each other.

After a Julie Coste jump shot closed the gap to 10-6, North's leading scorer, Nancy Flukes, hit two consecutive 18-footers and North took a 14-6 lead into the second quarter.

Quincy outscored North, 7-2, with Gayle Morrell hitting two inside shots and Sue Parry hitting from the outside. North regrouped as Maureen Donovan and Flukes hit long set shots. After a Patti Morrell layup for the First Ladies, McGuigan and Nancy Leonard hit free throws to give the Raiderettes a 20-17 halftime edge.

Marybeth Maloney, playing with a badly sprained ankle, made a steal early in the third quarter and went the length of the floor for a layup.

When Gayle and Patti Morrell hit layups to bring Quincy within one, Donovan hit a 15-footer and Tricia Koski hit a foul line jumper.

Two Coste jump shots and a Sue Parry layup gave the First Ladies their only lead of the game, 27-26. North responded immediately as McGuigan hit a baseline set shot, Koski stole a pass and fed Donovan for another basket. Donovan made another steal for a McGuigan basket and Koski finished the 8-0 spurt with a basket to give North a 34-27 lead. Karrie Pistorino made yet another steal for a Flukes layup and Koski hit a three-point play. Two more Flukes free throws gave North a comfortable 45-32 lead and it never looked back.

McGuigan had 15 points and nine rebounds, Flukes 12 points and four steals and Koski nine points and five steals.

Defensively North got fine efforts from Pistorino, with five steals and four assists, and Leonard, with three steals and five assists.

Quincy was paced by Gayle Morrell with 15 points and sister Patti had seven. Also playing well for the First Ladies was Terry Duggan.

Monday North jumped off to an 11-6 first quarter lead over Newton South's Dual County League team. Newton cut the lead to 11-9 before North came back to extend its lead to 22-13 at the half.

North took a 31-17 lead into the fourth quarter and had a 35-19 advantage when the scrappy Newton team, playing tenacious defense and coming up with several steals, roared back and, with a little more than a minute to play, trailed by three, 40-37. Two foul shots by Flukes and one by Koski iced the decision for the Raiderettes.

Flukes had 18 points and Koski and McGuigan seven each. Patti Feeny played a fine last quarter, scoring all of her five points and playing a fine floor game.

North had things easy against Cathedral's Catholic Leaguers as it roared to a 20-5 first quarter lead. Coach Paul Bregoli used his bench freely in the second quarter and Feeny, with six points,

Girls All-Star Game Friday At North

The Suburban League girls' all-star basketball game will be played Friday night at 7:30 at the North Quincy High gym. North coach Paul Bregoli will coach one of the teams.

The game will be preceded at 6 p.m. by the North Quincy-Brockton girls' junior varsity game for the league championship.

North's Maureen Donovan, Nancy Flukes and Anne McGuigan were named to the all-star team as was Quincy's Gayle Morrell. It is the second time Flukes was named to the all-stars.

Deirdre Murphy and Paula Tolson played well.

Flukes and McGuigan exploded for eight points each in the third quarter and the Raiderettes were way out in front, 55-25, going into the finals.

Tolson and Feeny continued their fine play in the last quarter, Lisa Milton had several steals and six points and Stacy Welch and Debbie Panaro looked good.

North shot extremely well in the second half and at one point hit 17 of 20 shots.

Flukes, playing less than two quarters, had 13 points and McGuigan and Feeny had 10 each. Tolson, who Bregoli says will figure prominently in next year's plans, scored eight points on four for five from the floor. Koski and Donovan had seven points each.

"McGuigan played a great game against Quincy," said Bregoli. "Her outside shooting was what really impressed me and basically did Quincy in. Koski also showed she is capable of providing offense. She made three big shots in the second half of the Quincy game.

"The team is playing well again and seems to be peaking at the right time. It looks like 13 teams will qualify in Division One South of the Eastern Mass. tournament and we could be seeded anywhere from four to seven. This might mean we could play our first tournament game at home where we are hard to beat."

SPONSORS & COACHES

The first meeting of the Q.W.S.L. for the 1987 season will be held on Thursday, March 5th, at 7:30 P.M., at the Dawes Memorial House, located on Quincy Shore Drive at Channing St. (Wollaston Beach, adjacent to the Getty Station).

Subsequent meetings are scheduled for Monday, April 6th and Monday, April 20th.

For City Title

Quincy Icemen Edge North, 6-5

The Quincy hockey team has had an up and down season, but the Presidents can claim the city championship following their second win over North Quincy, 6-5, last week.

North (4-14) was a far different team than the one that was wallbopped by Quincy (6-11) 9-3, earlier in the season.

"We knew coming in that North was going to be ready and the game lived up to my expectations," said Quincy coach Bob Sylvia. "North Quincy played well enough to win and we played well enough to get a good challenge."

Quincy took a 3-2 first period lead on goals by Tim Hall, Paul Scola and Rodney Davis, with assists for Mark Winter and Shawn O'Neil. Mark Simonelli scored a short-handed goal for North and Matt Furtado scored the first of his three goals with Simonelli assisting.

Quincy extended its lead to 5-2 in the second period on goals by Kevin Provenzano and Adam MacGregor. Scola had two assists and Hall one. But North bounced back with Mike Bartkus scoring with assists for Bill Dineen and Paul McGrath, and Furtado scoring his third goal with Zimmerman and McGrath assisting.

North led, 5-4, going into the final period but Furtado tied the score at 7:28 to complete a hat trick and John Pacino and Jay Rodrigues assisted. Quincy won it on Chuck Quigley's goal at 11:18 with Winter getting an assist.

"Our season has not been as successful as I'd like," said North coach Kevin Jago. "Because Quincy outplayed us last time, I encouraged the seniors to play the best game of their lives because it would be the last time they would face Quincy. And they all played very well."

North goalie Brian Mahoney had a good night with 30 saves.

Quincy followed up with a 4-1 victory over Malden in a game previously postponed due to ice problems at the Quincy Youth Arena.

Paul Scola, Rick Ames, Hank Miller and Karl

Staskiewicz scored the Quincy goals and Kevin Provenzano had an assist.

Greg Chambers had a good night in goal, stopping 17 of Malden's 18 shots.

However, last Saturday Quincy lost to Brockton's Suburban League leaders, 7-5, despite another excellent performance.

Scola scored for Quincy in the first period of the penalty-marred game (20 penalties) with Provenzano and MacGregor assisting. Provenzano scored in the second period with an assist for Scola as Brockton led, 3-2, after two.

Jon Bertoni tied it with Scola and Provenzano assisting but Brockton (14-2-2) scored three goals to take a 6-3 lead. MacGregor, with Bertoni assisting, and Rick Ames, with Dan Hurley assisting, cut the gap to 6-5, but Dana Valley scored an insurance goal to ice it for the Boxes.

North Quincy's woes continued as it lost to Newton North, 5-2, Newton qualifying for the state tournament.

Quincy Wrestlers Lose to Plymouth-Carver

Quincy's wrestling team appeared to be well on its way to its 15th victory last week with a five-point lead going into the final heavyweight bout against Plymouth-Carver.

However, Jim Feeley was pinned by the Blue Eagles' Brady Farrell to give Plymouth-Carver a 31-30 win. Quincy dropped to 14-5-1.

The Presidents will compete in the south sectional championships Friday and Saturday.

Rob Cabezas won by pin at 134 pounds against Plymouth-Carver to improve to 17-0 on the season.

Also winning for Quincy were Czarek Nalaskowski by pin at 107, Al Souza, 8-4, at 114; Todd Kimmell, 16-10, at 147; Dennis DeCoste by pin at 157 and Norm Hassan by pin at 169.

The Presidents finished second in the Suburban League meet last Saturday with 120 points. Brockton won with 146 points.

YMCA Strypers Defeat West Roxbury

The South Shore Strypers girls' swim team wrapped up its most successful dual meet season in years with an exciting 199-179 victory over the West Roxbury girls.

Facing the toughest foe of the season, the girls finished undefeated in the 11-12 years old, 13-14, 15-18 and under 10 divisions.

This is the third year in Division 2 under head coach Janet Keyes and, after marching through their schedule with such ease a possible Division 1 berth may be in the making for next year.

Pacing the 9-10 year old girls were the 200-yard freestyle relay team of Danielle Goodchild, Justine Fagerlund, Laurie Young and Michelle Pierce, which won in 2:29.64.

For the 11-12 group the 200-yard medley relay team of Joanna Dyer, Amy Galman, Karen Woessner and Jennifer Boyle also won in 2:31.45.

The 13-14 medley relay team of Jenifer Henchan, Sheila Dillon, Kim Bray and Holly Bubus won in 2:13.22, as did Cindy Galman in the 100 freestyle (1:06.60) and Kim Bray in the 100 butterfly (1:13.31).

The 15-18 400 freestyle relay team of Karen Walsh, Jennifer Sheehan, Tracy Feeny and Kathy Shaw turned in a 4:27.00 effort.

The Strypers have qualified 37 swimmers for the Eastern Mass. district championships Saturday and Sunday at Brockton High School.

Dudek Boosters Dinner Keynote Speaker

Dolan Wins North MVP, Donahue Awards

By TOM SULLIVAN

Former North Quincy football star Joe Dudek, who led North to wins over Quincy in 1980 and 1981, went on to set the NCAA scoring record at Plymouth State College and is now a member of the Denver Broncos of the NFL, was the keynote speaker at the annual North Quincy Boosters Club football awards dinner.

"I have had many thrills during my career, but coming back here to speak to you is the biggest thrill of my life," he said.

Dudek, who was scheduled to be the speaker last year but was unable to attend due to business with his agent, scored three touchdowns to lead the win over Quincy in 1980 and scored the only touchdown of the game on a 57-yard run in the 1981 game.

At Plymouth State he broke the NCAA scoring mark set by the great Walter Payton and led the Panthers to four straight N.E. Conference championships.

He wasn't drafted by an NFL team but was signed by the Broncos as a free agent and is highly thought of by Coach Dan Reeves.

He suffered a shoulder injury in practice and was placed on injured reserve. He stayed with the team all season and emulated the outstanding running backs of the Cleveland Browns and New York Giants in scrimmages preparing for the Super Bowl.

Although unable to play, he helped Reeves on the sidelines during the victory over the Browns and joined the team for the Super Bowl game against the Giants. He was Quincy's first representative in the Super Bowl.

"I have been very fortunate that the Broncos kept me on the squad and I am looking forward to trying out for a backfield spot next season," he said. "I am just about 100 per cent over my injury. I've put on weight and my speed has improved. I will stay in Quincy keeping in shape until late in March, when I will report back to the Broncos and begin preparations for next season."

Dudek will be one of about 13 players looking for live backfield spots and, despite the competition, Joe is hopeful he will be one of those selected.

Boosters Club president Bill Dolan welcomed the players and other guests and introduced those at the head table.

Rev. Robert Boyle, pastor of the Star of Sea parish, gave the invocation.

Many individual awards were presented and the big winner was Tom Dolan, who won the Jack Donahue Award for being named the outstanding North player in the Quincy game, and also won the coaches' award as the Most Valuable Player, a Suburban League first team all-star award and a Patriot Ledger all-scholastic trophy.

Rev. Cornelius Heery, pastor of Sacred Heart Church and the team's chaplain, presented the sportsmanship award named in his honor to John Pacino and pointed to Dudek as an inspiration to the North players.

"Here is a young man who has overcome several obstacles to reach the top of the mountain and hasn't forgotten where his roots are," he said. "He couldn't wait to come back here and speak to you."

Other trophy winners:

Brian Durgin and Vin Capone, William J. Schaezel for unsung hero.

Tom Casey, 12th player award from the Firefighters Union.

Tom McDonald, Robert F.X. Schaezel Award.

Brian Campbell, Peter Zoia Award for best offensive player.

Scott Chansky and Kevin Segalla, Dr. Allen Yacubian Award for best defensive player.

Most Valuable Player awards were given to freshmen, sophomore and junior varsity players. Bob Sylva and Steve Shoap received the jayvee awards, Brian Healy the sophomore award and Keith Gott the freshman award.

Suburban League first team all-star awards were presented to Dolan, Paul Hogan, Kevin Segalla, and Scott Chansky. Second team awards went to Mike Ainsley, Ryan Craig, Dave Lawless, Paul McCormack and Bill MacDougall.

Special presentations were made to assistant coaches Ted Sadowski, who has been a North assistant for 28 years, and Pete Zoia, Dudek, Dr. Yacubian, a former North player and one of the team's greatest supporters, and longtime teacher-coach LaRoy 'Curly' Rogers.

Principal Peter Chrisom and assistant principal Eileen Feeny spoke briefly and Chrisom announced that the application of North and Quincy to join the Old Colony League was turned down by a 5-4 vote.

Coach Ken McPhee thanked his 1986 tri-captains, Dolan, Chansky and Kevin Segalla, who introduced next fall's captains, Hogan, McCormack and McNamara.

McPhee also thanked his assistant coaches, Zoia, Sadowski, Peter Chrisom, Kevin Cobban, Jamie Walsh, Mike Gill, John Muldowney and Tom Carter. All of the football coaches and Dolan introduced members of the Quincy Veterans Stadium lighting committee, chairman Bob Meenan, vice president treasurer Jerry Perfetuo, Jack Raymer, Ken McPhee and Dan McPhee. Members Bill Myers and Tom Donovan were unable to attend. Each received a gift.

Meenan presented plaques to the tri-captains. The plaques include sections of the ribbon which was cut to officially turn on the permanent lighting at the stadium. Perfetuo presented a check for $500 to McPhee to use for weight room equipment.

All of the football players and cheerleaders were presented jackets and other awards.

The other Boosters Club officers are vice president Robert Callow, treasurer Arline Pacino, corresponding secretary Linda Tobin and recording secretary Mary Lou Kemp. Stephen Kemp is chairman of the concession stand committee and William Ragusa and Robert Callow are the other members.

Saluti Team

Takes St. John's Lead

Bob Saluti's team moved into first place in St. John's Holy Name Bowling League with a 22-8 record, followed by Lou Faiella's team at 18-12.

The rest of the standings: Mike Panarelli, 16-14; Dick Guerriero, 14-16; Art DiTullio, 10-20; Joe Marini, 8-22.

Saluti rolled the weekly high single of 162 and Guerriero had 148. Saluti also had the high three of 382 and also rolled a 378 and Marini had 369.

Faiella's team had the high team single of 528 and DiTullio rolled 515. DiTullio had the high three of 1492 and Faiella had 1478.

The Top Ten: Marini, 110.7; Saluti, 109.7; Dick Guerriero, 108.4; Panarelli, 105.9; John Grande, 102.9; Faiella, 99.7; Peter Caciola, 95.7; Tom Darcy, 95.0; John O'Donnell, 94.6; Frank Guerriero and Lew MacLennan, 94.4.

Joe's Cuts Kelly's Lead

Joe's Pub cut Kelly's Pub's lead to two points in the Quincy Youth Arena's Senior Hockey League when it defeated Chevy's, 7-5, while Kelly's lost to Kane's Place by the same score.

Tony Messina, Bob Falvey and John Findley had two goals each for Joe's and Tom Findley one. Bob Hayes had three assists and Hugh Gorman, Bob O'Brien, Messina, Falvey, Chuck Dooley and John Findley one each. Mike Marella and Dave Previte scored twice each for Chevy's and Dave Previte once. Bob Gervasi had two assists and Gerry DeLuca, Joe Casserly, Previte and Okon one each.

Tom Cahill had two goals for Kane's and John Andrews, Paul Kasianawicz, Scot Mikuneskin, Dave Perdios and Paul Messina one each. Andrews had four assists, Peters three and Perdios, Glen Ferguson and Jim Fitzpatrick one each. For Kelly's Glenn Hanson had two goals and Mike Stoere, Dennis Doherty and Paul Cooney one each. Storer had three assists and Dave LePore, Fred Palmer, Tom Gerry, Jim Moore and Doherty one each.

Fowler House defeated Bob White's, 4-2, as Steve Blazer scored twice and Brian Norton and John Morris once each. Morris and Matt

Gorman had two assists apiece and Moses Mullaney and Paul Connolly one each. Jeff Draper and Brian McAlley scored for White's and Dennis Murray, Luke Lydon and Steve Sylva had assists.

Manet Lunch topped Nostalgia, 5-2, with Lou Mathews scoring two goals and Jack Martinez, Tom Brennan and Pat Clifford one each. Martinez and Brennan had two assists apiece and Mathews and Mike Van Tassel one each. Bill Benoit and Jay Morris had Nostalgia's goals and Jim Bowen and Dave Sullivan had assists.

The standings: Kelly's, 15-4-1; Joe's, 14-5-1; Kane's, 10-7-3; Nostalgia, 9-8-2; Fowler House, 9-8-2; Chevy's, 6-12-2; Manet Lunch, 6-13-0; White's, 3-15-1.

Raiders Continue To Dominate Quincy

The North Quincy boys' basketball team continued its hex over Quincy last week as it defeated the Presidents for the third time this season, 68-52.

The Raiders are now 7-12, while luckless Quincy, yet to pick up a victory, fell to 0-17.

North first topped Quincy early in the year in the consolation game of the Weymouth North Christmas tournament, then won again in the first Suburban League meeting.

North relied on balanced scoring as Ted Stevenson and Bob Sylva had 10 points apiece, Dennis Cronin had nine and Dave Lawless, Mike Ainsley and Joe DeGrandis eight each.

All of these players are underclassmen with Capt. Jim Phelan the only senior starter. "Our whole starting squad will be back and all of our frontcourt people will be coming back, which doesn't happen often," said North coach Ed Miller.

For the embattled Presidents, Tom Logan had a game-high 22 points, seven of those in the first quarter when Quincy was still very much in the game, and Steve Austin added 13.

Although the Presidents are winless, one would never know it the way they dove after loose balls.

"I give them a lot of credit," said coach John Franceschini. "They always give me 150 per cent in games and in practice. You'd never know by watching them play that they haven't won a game."

"It has been very frustrating. Our problem all year long has been poor shooting and that hurt us again tonight. In many games this season we have been in the thick of things until late in the game when we have run out of steam."

North led, 14-9, after one quarter and extended its lead to 35-19 with a big second quarter (21-10). The Raiders still held on to a 48-34 lead going into the final session.

North Quincy turned in one of its better performances Monday night when it defeated Marshfield of the Old Colony League, 76-67, knocking the Rams out of the Eastern Mass. tournament.

The Raiders had four players in double figures, Sylva having 24 points and 12 rebounds, Lawless 19 points and 10 rebounds, DeGrandis 13 points and nine assists and Stevenson 12 points and 11 assists. Phelan, playing his next to last high school game, played an outstanding defensive game.

Marshfield led, 48-44, at the half but North, taking advantage of Ram fouls, scored 29 points in the final quarter, including 13 for 15 from the foul line.

Victory Elusive To Point

Janice Sullivan's Quincy Point team in the Quincy Recreation Senior Hoop League continues to play more quarters than any league team, however, it still can't break into the win column.

For the second time in two outings, Point fell by two points in overtime. This week it was Squantum's turn to disappoint the hustling Point club as John Rency's team won, 44-42. Squantum's attack was well-balanced with David Hutchins having 12, Chris Myer 10, and Mike Dougherty eight.

Point was led in scoring by Steve Sullivan with 14, followed closely by Bill Ryan, 10, and David Adams chipped in with four. Derrick Goodson for Squantum and Anthony Battistone for Point were credited by their coaches with outstanding defensive work. Squantum is 1-1 while Point drops to 0-2.

Montclair's Mark DiMattio poured in 24 points as Montclair started out its league play with a 56-29 win over Sterling. Jerry Pratt went to his Montclair bench early and got great defense from Steve Rabs and credited the playmaking of Steve Haggas for the balanced scoring.

On the Sterling side, Paul DellaBarba had 13, Andy Faylor seven, and Dan Santry six. Sterling coach Steve Perfetto was hoping to make it two in a row for his young club, but was not disappointed in the defensive effort of Rich O'Brien and Bill Santry.

Kevin Segalla with eight and Bill McDougall, six, rounded out the Montclair scoring. Both clubs are 1-1.

The standings: Central, 2-0; Beechwood, 1-0; Montclair, 1-0; Squantum, 1-1; Sterling, 1-1; Atlantic, 0-2, and Point, 0-2.

The Senior Hoop League is part of the winter recreation program of the Quincy Recreation Department. Games are played at 10 a.m. and 11:15 a.m. at Atlantic Middle School on Saturday mornings.

North Girls 6th In Class B Championships

The North Quincy girls' track team finished in sixth place in class B of the state class championships Sunday at Harvard.

Karen Cashman finished second in the 1000 in 2:50.2, Sherrin Quintiliani placed third in the mile in 5:24 and Tricia Barrett finished fifth in the two mile in 11:40.

Each of the girls qualified for the all-state meet tonight (Thursday) at MIT.

Three other Raiderettes competed in the class championships, but failed to qualify for tonight's meet. They were Robin Guilfooy and Betsy Zadig in the 50 and Gloria Gougian in the shot put.

Forbes House Topic For Quincy Historical Society

Dr. Dana Ricciardi, director of the Captain Robert Bennet Forbes House in Milton, will discuss the past, present and future of the house and other buildings on the estate at a Feb. 26, 7:30 p.m. meeting of the Quincy Historical Society.

The Forbes House, a national historic landmark, is a Greek revival mansion built in 1833 from plans designed by Boston architect Issiah Rogers. Construction was planned and financed by Captain Forbes, a prominent China trade merchant whose family lived in the house almost continuously until 1964. The building subsequently housed the China Trade Museum, which merged with the Peabody Museum in 1984.

The Forbes House is currently undergoing renovation to restore it to its approximate appearance one hundred years ago. A public opening is planned in May.

The meeting is open to the public, and there is no admission fee. Refreshments will be served.

Activities On Dinosaurs At Children's Library

Children on school vacation are invited to "dig" for dinosaurs through Saturday at the Central Children's Room of the Thomas Crane Public Library, Quincy Sq.

A collection of self-guided activities will "house" many different dinosaurs.

An activity center will be set up in the rear of the room with instructions and materials needed to help find the extinct creatures.

Youngsters can dig through a pile of jigsaw puzzle pieces, find the interlocking pieces and assemble the dinosaur.

They can also draw dinosaurs, identify their shapes, and find book titles.

Books about dinosaurs will be on display and available for borrowing.

Hours at the Central Children's Room are Tuesday, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., Wednesday to Saturday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Michael Ricca In Musical

Michael Ricca of Quincy has been cast as one of the Liebslieder Singers in Emerson College's 34th annual spring musical, "A Little Night Music," April 10, 12, 14 and 18.

Ricca, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ricca of Madison Ave., is majoring in musical theatre.

Patrice Gorman Winner In Poster Contest

Patrice Gorman, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gorman of West Quincy, was recently declared a winner in the Hammermill Paper Company Safety Poster Contest.

The contest was open to all offspring of the 13,000 Hammermill employees nationwide.

Patrice, a sixth grader at St. Mary's School, West Quincy, had one of the 13 winning posters selected.

The winning posters became part of a safety calendar for 1987 that was distributed to every employee in the corporation.

Patrice's poster was used for January.

She was presented a $50 savings bond and a certificate at an assembly held at St. Mary's by Bill Kelly, president of Carter, Rice, New England, and by Gary Langsdale, corporate risk manager of Hammermill Paper Co.

St. Joseph's Sets Rehearsals For 10th Anniversary Show

St. Joseph's Parish, Quincy Point, will begin rehearsals for its 10th anniversary musical Monday, Feb. 23, at 7 p.m.

A "great big super-duper-razzle-dazzle spectacular-mirth-quaking extravaganza" is planned, according to the organizers.

All former participants are invited to return as director Ed Rooney helps raise vocal chords with alleluia of the past 10 years.

Choreographer Beverly Brown will lead the cast in dancing.

Anne Marie McBride and Frank Brillo are serving as co-producers.

Quincy Tourism Assn. To Publish Events Calendar

Quincy Tourism Association plans to publish a brochure type calendar of upcoming events for 1987 in the city.

According to Ernest Arstide, association vice president, this will help coordinate activities and disseminate more easily information of happenings and events to residents and tourists.

For those wishing to be included in that calendar send your information to Ernest Arstide, Quincy Tourism Association, 711 Southern Ave., Suite 16, Quincy, MA 02169.

ORDER NO. 18
ORDERED: January 5, 1987
Be it Ordained by the City Council of the City of Quincy as follows:
That the Revised Ordinances of the City of Quincy, 1976 as amended, are further amended in Chapter 24, The Zoning Ordinance, Article I Administration, Section 14, Board of Appeals to read as follows:
Section 14 Board of Appeals

1. There shall be a Board of Appeals as provided by the General Laws, Chapter 40A, Section 12, as amended, which shall act on all matters within its jurisdiction under this chapter in the manner prescribed in such section and shall have all powers granted by such section, subject always to the rule that it shall give due consideration to the promotion of public health, safety, convenience and welfare, encouraging the most proper use of land, and conserving property values, that it shall permit no building or use injurious, noxious, offensive or detrimental to a neighborhood and that it shall prescribe proper conditions and safeguards in each case.

The Board shall consist of five (5) members to be appointed by the Mayor. All members of the Board shall be residents of the City; one member shall be an attorney at law, and one shall be either an architect, engineer or master builder. The terms shall be arranged, so that one member is appointed on the first Monday of each February for a term of five years. Any vacancy in the Board shall be filled for the remainder of the unexpired term.

There shall also be three (3) associate members of the Board of Appeals who shall be appointed in like manner and have the same qualifications as the regular members of the Board, but for a term of three years. In case of an unfilled vacancy, inability to act, or interest on the part of a member of such Board, the chairman shall designate one (1) of the associate members to take the place of such member.

The Board of Appeals shall exercise the powers and perform the duties prescribed for a Board of Appeals under the provisions of the General Laws, Chapter 40A, or any amendments thereto. Any action of such Board under such sections shall be in accordance with and subject to the terms thereof.

2. The Board of Appeals may request the written comments and recommendations of the Planning Department and any other municipal office it deems proper during its review of any petition. Any such request, however, shall not toll the periods established by Chapter 40A of the General Laws within which the Board must act.

City To Try For Landfill Approval

"If we can reach an agreement, it will be a critical first step," McCauley said.

In all probability, the city will use Boston Survey Consultants, its present consulting firm regarding the landfill, to work on the EIR, said McCauley. An operations manager will oversee BSC's work, he said.

"We don't feel it's wise to start with a brand new firm because of the timeline and expense," McCauley said.

The mayor said he hopes to get an answer on the expansion request by November or early December.

In the meantime, BSX Co. has proposed trucking out the city's rubbish at $73 a ton, but the city may try to negotiate that figure, according to McCauley.

It will also talk to Browning Ferris Industries, which currently picks up the city's residential trash and takes it to Quincy's landfill, to see what alternatives it may offer, McCauley said.

The mayor has included $2.6 million in next year's fiscal budget to truck the residential trash away. Until then, there is enough money in the landfill account to cover the cost, McCauley said.

Council president Stephen McGrath has asked McCauley to request reimbursement for money spent in connection with the DEQE requirements so far.

Some $700,000 has been spent in consultant studies, according to McGrath.

"We'll explore any options under the local mandates law regarding money expended on the landfill, including the costs to truck the rubbish out," McCauley said.

"But our priority right now is approval of the expansion.

Gateway Cities Committee To Meet Thursday

The newly appointed Advisory Committee for the Gateway Cities Program will meet today (Thursday) to review funding guidelines, assess needs and discuss program priorities.

The meeting will begin at 10 a.m. in the second floor conference room at City Hall.

A public hearing on the proposed spending plan will be held Wednesday, Feb. 25, at 7 p.m. in the Council Chambers at City Hall.

The public is invited.

Mayor Francis McCauley recently appointed the committee to assist in planning and developing services for newcomer groups including immigrants, linguistic minorities and refugees.

Quincy has been designated a Gateway City due to the influx of Southeast Asian people and is eligible to receive an allocation of $43,630. The program is intended to support municipal efforts to provide services and economic development opportunities for these newcomers.

The committee will be chaired by Claire McGill, from the Department of Planning and Community Development, and Carol Lee Griffin, from the Quincy Public Schools.

Other members are Janet Ellis, Alicia Coletti, Normand Grenier, Rosemary Wahlberg, Ann McLaughlin, Thomas J. Nutley, Chik Ching Law, Anne Kane, Angelito Santos, The Rev. A.H. Wismar, Winny Chin, Maria Leung, and Kam Yun Lee.

Will Announce For Mayor

LaRaia To Campaign On 'Pockets Of Concern'

By HENRY BOSWORTH

Joseph LaRaia says he believes he can successfully return to the mayor's office by putting together a political coalition built on "many pockets of concern in the city."

The political poll that helped Sheila McIntyre decide not to run for mayor will have no effect on his own decision and plans, he says.

He will make two official announcements tonight (Thursday) 7:30 p.m. at a $10 per head fundraiser at the George Bryan VFW Post.

At about 9 p.m. he will announce he is not a candidate for re-election to the City Council followed by the announcement he is a candidate for mayor.

Mrs. McIntyre who had given serious thought to running for mayor, an office held by her late husband, James McIntyre, bowed out of this year's mayoralty race after a poll commissioned by her.

Some 500 voters were called at random in Quincy's six wards.

"The results show," Mrs. McIntyre said, "that the people appear to be satisfied with their city and their officials at this time."

Asked if that gave him any second thoughts or doubts about running himself, LaRaia said:

"I like to believe it is an overview of the whole picture and not necessarily just that of the mayor or maybe one councillor."

"I have respect for polling but this was

No Time To Study

Valenti Not Optimistic About Chief's Exam

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Acting Fire Chief Carl Valenti said he plans to take the Civil Service exam for chief March 21, but he's not too optimistic about the outcome.

"I don't expect to pass because I have not been studying," said Valenti, 58, who has been acting chief since the retirement of Chief Edward Barry in August, 1985.

He earns $48,854 a year as acting chief, the same salary as permanent chief.

"This job is so time consuming that I just don't have the time either here or at home."

"You really have to study four or five hours a day for five to six months for the exam," said Valenti. "Some people even study for a year."

"Your mind has to be absolutely clear and there is too much pressure from the job to allow studying."

"The responsibilities of the position are such that you are on duty all the time, even at home, subject to call 24-hours a day, seven nights a week.

"There is too much to think about running a Fire Department."

Valenti, almost a 30-year veteran of the Quincy Fire Department, passed the written part of the last civil service test for chief, but did not pass the second part on fire problems.

His score was 65.7. Passing grade is 70.

There was speculation at the time that Valenti, who had already been named acting chief, would ask to be returned to his former position of deputy chief. However, he decided to stay on as acting chief at his men's urging.

Valenti said that he has put in his second appeal to Civil Service on the fire problem grade. The first appeal raised his grade two points, he said, but he still needs one and a half points to pass.

"I should hear very soon on the second appeal," said Valenti.

He said he will take the three to four hour Civil Service exam next month at Quincy High School with Deputy Chiefs Joseph Jackson, Thomas Gorman, and Francis O'Hare.

It will be just a written exam as the fire problem portion has been eliminated, according to Valenti.

Registry MV Decision Soon On Downtown

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Mayor Francis McCauley said he expects an announcement by the Registry of Motor Vehicles within the next week on whether it will move from its Broad St. location to the Quincy Fair building in Quincy Sq.

That would mean that the Broad St. site, which the city leases to the registry, would be available as a permanent shelter for the homeless in Quincy.

"The registry is pretty close to a decision on Quincy Fair," said McCauley. "They seem to feel that this location has the most potential."

The registry, which is seeking more office and parking space, had failed to find a new location after advertising for bids twice recently.

Jack Bradshaw, associate commissioner for the state's division of Capital Planning and Operations, said last week that the agency took a second and third look at Quincy Fair because of the homeless issue.

The former site of the Sears Building, it is due to receive additional parking when a 260-space parking deck is built by the city with state money.

McCauley said that the nine-member Committee for Permanent Location for the Homeless, which he appointed, has done preliminary work on possible establishment of the homeless shelter at the registry.

"We'll have to wait now to see what the registry does," the mayor said.

"Once the registry makes a decision, if they go we would like a timeline when they will be moving out."

"I'll be happy once the registry makes a decision so that we can go forward," he said.

The Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition is currently operating a temporary shelter for women at Quincy Point Congregational Church and for men at Wollaston Lutheran Church.

The coalition has said it would like to establish a permanent shelter at the Broad St. site.

Presidents' Place Design Gets Approval

Redesign plans for the first two buildings of the $55 million Presidents' Place project in Quincy Center won the approval of the Historic District Commission at a meeting Monday night.

Chairman Joyce Bakers said the commission voted to approve the new architectural plans of the eight and five storied commercial part of the project, office and stores. It now integrates those buildings and blends them in with other historic structures in the square, she said.

Mrs. Baker said the commission were always aware of the developers' sensitivity to the commission's concern and that is why we have been working with them in many discussions and they have come up with a new design that is quite different than the original proposal. That earlier proposed design would have overpowered the historic buildings in the district, she said.

More, Baker said what the developers have done in this final design is to overhang the first two floors and set the rest of the two buildings back. Columns were then added with modified peaks which now blend in with the structural facade of old City Hall.

Still to come, says Baker, is the garage design and approval of the 209-residential unit building. Holding up that approval is a redesign of the Coddington St. entrance which is needed to be made more of a focal point because of its visibility from the street.

Two Zoning Changes Get Strong Support

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Quincy residents concerned about the threat of high-rise buildings in their neighborhoods packed the Council Chambers at City Hall Monday night to overwhelmingly support two proposed zoning changes.

One change would regulate the future use of land at a busy intersection in North Quincy; the other would change a zoning ordinance which allows the automatic "cross over" from one zoning use to another.

"I'm thrilled that it appears there is a growing sentiment in the city for rezoning," said Ward 4 Councillor James Sheets.

"The people of the city are on the march, and this could be a terribly significant year in the city's history," said Sheets.

The first hearing was on the proposed rezoning of property at the intersection of Sea and East Squantum Sts. from Business B to Residence A to prevent future high rise development, according to the Councillor Thomas Nutley.

The rezoning, proposed by Nutley, would involve Best Buy Distributors, Dunkin Donuts, Sunoco gas station and a liquor store, he said.

The second hearing was on a recommendation by the council's Zoning Task Force that a special permit be required from the Zoning Board of Appeals to "cross over" from one zoning use to another on a parcel of land.

That would prevent the automatic "cross over" that allows a building of up to eight stories to replace a "mom and pop store" in a residential neighborhood, explained Councillor Michael Cheney.

Both Nutley and Cheney are Zoning Task Force members, Nutley is chairman.

Nearly 20 people spoke in favor of the Sea and East Squantum St. parcels rezoning, and about 100 people recorded themselves in favor.

The rezoning would not affect the current businesses, said Nutley, who noted that there has been talk of high rise construction in the area.

"We don't need any more traffic or high rises," said Richard Martin of East Squantum St. "Leave things well enough alone."

Stanley Appel of Bay State Road said, "We have to put a stop to condominiums and development before we end up like Revere and Nantasket Beaches."

Speaking in opposition was Atty. Neil Kerstein who said he represented the owners of the Best Buy, Dunkin Donuts and Sunoco Station.

"Now I know how General Custer felt at Little Big Horn," said Kerstein as he began his presentation before about 150 proponents.

Kerstein said his clients were in opposition to the proposal, but supported the efforts of the council.

He also said the proposal appears to be illegal because it could be considered "spot zoning."

Kerstein offered to sit down and discuss the issue with Nutley or any interested citizens.

About the same number of residents spoke in favor of the "cross over" proposal which Councillor Patricia Toland called one of the most important recommendations of the task force.

She is also a member of the task force.

"There is a tremendous desire to take every piece of land and convert it to a high rise," said Nutley. "I'm opposed to unrestrained development without input from the community."

"If this change is passed, there will be an opportunity for input."

Ronald Jacobucci of Andrews Road led off the proponents.

"This proposal affords the greatest protection for the neighborhoods in the city," Jacobucci said.

"Ninety-nine per cent of the people of Houghs Neck are in support," said Patricia Riden, director of the Houghs Neck Community Center.

Planning Director Richard Meade read a letter from Mayor Francis McCauley favoring the proposal.

About 100 people recorded themselves in favor.

Speaking in opposition was real estate developer Russel Kelcourse who said he was "seeing creeping socialism tonight" and was opposed to any zoning which would infringe on rights.

Among others who spoke in support at the two hearings were Rep. Michael Morrissey, Robert McCauley, president of the Atlantic Neighborhood Association; Rona Goodman, president of the Squantum Community Association; Maureen Mazzimas of Save Our Shores; Mary Ann Lenski of the Merry Mount Association; Jack Walsh of the Citizens Advisory Council on Nut Island; Joanne Bythrow, president of the Houghs Neck Community Council; Lillian Austin, Jim McDonough, and Ed Sullivan and Kevin Forti.

License Board Briefs

The city's License Board took the following action at Tuesday's meeting at City Hall.

- Granted a request from the Ladies Auxiliary of the Bryan VFW post for a permit to hold a flea market Sunday, March 1 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Kay O'Brien told the board proceeds from the event will benefit the muscular dystrophy fund drive.
- Granted the Quincy Cavanagh Chapter of Disabled American Veterans a permit to hold forget-me-not canning days on April 30, May 1 and 2. This is an annual event said Kenneth Taft. Rain dates are May 7, 8, 9.

• Granted a request from Joseph Sullivan of the Bryan VFW post for a permit to conduct a poppy drive May 14-15-16. Rain dates are May 21-22-23.

• Continued to March 10 a request from Pizzeria Paradise at 294 Water St., for a common victualer license take out only. The postponement will enable the board to conduct a fire, building and health departments inspection of the premise. Antonio Guccione requested the license.

• Continued to March 3 a request from Tino Kapaniris for a common victualer license for Tino's Place (a proposed coffee shop) at 301 Newport Ave. The address formerly housed Lori Ann's Bakery).

• Granted a request from the Marine Corps Caddy Detachment of Quincy for a one day alcoholic license for March 1, 12 noon to 6 p.m., at the Fore River Club House for the detachment's annual reception.

• Granted Anthony Nader and Sid Hajjar a Motor II license for National Car Sales of Quincy, 136 East Howard St. Quincy Point. The license will enable them to sell late model used cars in an open lot which can accommodate 100 cars.

Acting Fire Chief Carl Valenti insisted that in granting the license a guarantee be included that a fire lane will be created on the lot.

Study Recommends Less Parking In Quincy Sq.

"We'll examine all of the recommendations when a traffic engineer comes on board," said Mayor Francis McCauley after the authors of Quincy Traffic 2000 gave their second presentation to the City Council Monday night.

Representatives of Vanasse Hangen, who compiled the study, spoke to the council's Downtown Economic Development Committee, chaired by Councillor Patricia Ioland.

Among the recommendations in the report, which will take about $12 million to implement, are to convert Hancock St. in front of City Hall to two-way traffic, eliminate parking around First Parish Church, and make parking in front of City Hall parallel.

A total of 30 spaces would be lost in Quincy Sq., seven in front of City Hall, according to Vanasse Hangen.

"We need more parking and we have to keep that up front in our mind," said councillor Ioland after the meeting.

She said committee members would study the report, and meet again in a few weeks to a month to discuss it further.

"Eliminating parking in Quincy Center is not wise," said Council President Stephen McGrath. "We want people to park and stop in the center."

McCauley said, "We have to look at all the proposals with an open mind. Some will be implemented, depending on the recommendations of the traffic engineer."

"We'll deal closely with the council."

He said he hopes to have a traffic engineer on board July 1, if the position is approved by the council in the budget.

"In general, I think the study is a good one," said McCauley, who noted that state and federal grants will be sought to implement recommendations.

Board Orders Bar Closed 2 Days

By DAN CONNELLY

A Brewer's Corner bar was ordered closed for two days and its cabaret license revoked by the License Board Tuesday.

Chairman John Gillis told Robert Hatfield, proprietor of The Hat Rack, at 7-8 Copeland St., he is shut down for business today (Thursday) and tomorrow. Also his cabaret license is revoked forthwith.

The board's action came in response to testimony from Ward Four Councillor James Sheets, a Quincy Police report, reports from two neighborhood social service agencies and residents.

Sheets said people in that neighborhood are afraid to appear before the board for fear of reprisal "not from the management but from the clientele."

Sheets then listed four priority complaints:

Noise.

Patrons leaving the bar and using residential yards and alleyways as urinals.

People inside The Hat Rack after closing hours.

Mayhem some patrons create where upon leaving they kick in doors and pound on the outside walls of homes.

Sheets said one resident observed a patron leave the bar and for no reason at all proceed to break apart a $150 tree that the city had planted along the sidewalk.

Sheets added that incidents of this type, inside and outside the bar, are threatening progress being made by the city, Quincy Neighborhood Housing, Southwest Community Center, and residents to create a change for the better in Brewer's Corner. "In other words a new look," he said.

When Hatfield refuted some of the complaints, Sheets said the bar needs maximum management and conditions there cannot be allowed to continue.

Capt. Paul Nestor, who replaced vacationing Police Chief Francis Finn on the board, made a motion to close the bar down for two days. Chairman Gillis then followed with the revoking of the cabaret license.

This was the third hearing addressing complaints about The Hat Rack. At the initial hearing on Jan. 27, Police Sgt.

Angus McEachern turned over to the board a copy of a report that persons were allegedly drinking there after hours when police responded to a telephone complaint.

Third Harbor Tunnel Topic At Chamber Meeting

Secretary Frederick Salvucci of the state's Executive Office of Transportation and Construction, will discuss the third Boston Harbor Tunnel and depressed Central Artery, at a meeting of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce Transportation Committee Friday at 8 a.m.

Salvucci will be joined by Mel Mirsky, project manager for Bechtel-Parsons, and outline upcoming plans by the state and contractor for these two major projects.

According to Chamber general manager, Terry Fancher, the Chamber's Commerce Board of Directors previously went on record as supporting the two projects.

Fancher said their final environmental impact statement pointed out:

"The benefits of the proposal as we see it are two-fold: first, congestion on the artery going to and from the airport will be relieved, and this will favor the impact upon the three major accesses from the South Shore: the Southeast Expressway, the MBTA's Red Line, and the water transportation system."

"Second, improved traffic flow will directly help the future economic development of the South Shore."

Reservations for the meeting can be made by calling Fancher at the Chamber, 479-1111.

LaRaia To Campaign On 'Pockets Of Concern'

an early one. People's opinions can change as you get into an election campaign. A later poll would have more impact.

"And," he adds, "when that poll was taken I was not an announced candidate. I had made up my mind I was going to run but I was not officially a candidate. There is nothing in that poll to intimidate me or to make me change my mind."

LaRaia sees Mrs. McIntyre's decision not to run as a plus for him although some observers think incumbent Francis McCauley will benefit more.

The way LaRaia sizes it up, there are people who would have supported Mrs. McIntyre now available for him to win over.

If they were going to support her they were not going to support McCauley he reasons.

Some observers feel that the McIntyre "old guard" will vote for McCauley as "the lesser of the two evils" if for no other reason.

With no other major candidate waiting in the wings, LaRaia thinks there are the makings for a coalition involving people who would have supported Mrs. McIntyre, people who have been holding off support for a possible other candidate and those who are not happy with McCauley.

Does LaRaia really think he can pick up a good chunk of the vote that would have gone to Mrs. McIntyre?

"I hope I can capture a good percentage of it. I've already had some indications from certain individuals," he says. Not large numbers right now, but some.

"I feel good after talking to some individuals who would have been with her. I feel good overall. I get good response in my ambulation around the city. That's a good healthy sign."

"The mayor presently has a good rapport but once it becomes a contest, you can get into the issues. And with two candidates -- instead of three -- voters can make an easier distinction."

LaRaia said there are "many pockets of concern in the city" that can be made issues.

"His (McCauley's) personal interests have taken over his administration," LaRaia says.

He means, he says, matters like McCauley initiating two pay raises which have doubled his salary from $25,000 to $50,000 and McCauley's unsuccessful attempt to make the mayor's term of office four years instead of two.

"These are pockets of concern," LaRaia says.

So are, he says, McCauley's reluctance to open the Wollaston School and his desire to close the Sterling Middle School. Public safety, is another, he says. The Franklin Jay dismissal another.

"It's not just the issues," LaRaia says. "It is how he handles the issues and the people involved. His approach to the people. He is heavy handed as chairman of the School Committee, for example. He should listen to the people and not decide before he has heard how they feel.

"There are other matters I plan to bring up during the campaign."

LaRaia, who is hardly an unknown, feels he did not have to rush into an early announcement.

"I thought of putting it off a little longer," he says. "But in fairness to those who are thinking of running for City Council at-large, I've decided to make it official Thursday night so they can get their own campaigns going."

With two open at-large seats (his and that of Richard Koch, Jr. who will not seek re-election) there should be a fairly large field in that race this year.

Political observers figure it will take between $100,000 and $125,000 -- or maybe $150,000 -- to mount an effective campaign against incumbent McCauley.

LaRaia thinks $75,000 -- maybe $100,000 -- will be enough.

The $10 per head fundraiser Thursday night won't be a big step toward that $100,000 but LaRaia says he considers it a "little people's" event and that is just as important.

LaRaia was elected mayor on a recount in 1975 after a bitter campaign with incumbent Walter Hannon. His margin of victory was 483 votes.

LaRaia's administration was one of the stormiest in the city's history and he was ousted by Arthur Tobin in 1977. Tobin's margin was 5050 votes.

Observers were soon writing LaRaia off as a political has-been but he came back to win a City Council at-large seat in 1979, barely edging newcomer Richard Koch, Jr. by 197 votes.

But from that point on, LaRaia got stronger and in his last run for city council at-large two years ago, he topped the field.

TOBIN

KOCH

"I have had some good response to my candidacy for mayor this year," LaRaia says. "I know that you hear a lot of candidates saying they are running for something because a lot of people have urged them to do so."

"But I can tell you that I have had a lot of people tell me they hope I would run and that they would support me."

Many observers think McCauley is unbeatable this year and that the McIntyre poll indicates that.

Does LaRaia really think he can wrest the mayor's office away from him?

"Well," he says, "I wouldn't run for mayor if I didn't think I could win."

Readers Forum Proposes JFK Honor On Election Day

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

When will Massachusetts create a legal holiday honoring President Kennedy? Will it be in November, or how about in May? However, in both these cases, the business community would be opposed because these months already have existing holidays.

Twenty-five states, however, have declared Election Day (the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November) to be legal state holidays honoring the right to vote and various American presidents. Missouri has Harry S. Truman Day, Alabama honors Thomas Jefferson and Texas does likewise for Lyndon B. Johnson. Economic liberty and political freedom go hand in hand and the business community should be supportive of this move.

Massachusetts is long overdue in honoring President John F. Kennedy and what better tribute to a slain U.S. President than honoring his memory on Election Day here in the Bay State.

Here's one Republican who supports the creation of a JFK Election Day holiday.

Koch Club 40th Anniversary Committee To Meet

The Koch Club 40th anniversary committee will meet Wednesday, March 4, at 7 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Koch to tentatively discuss plans for recognizing the organization's four decades of community service to be completed May 29, 1988.

The Koch Club, primarily concerned with recreational, social and charitable activities, has touched the lives of approximately 100,000 people of all ages in its extensive programs of community service.

Established in 1948 with an intramural men's softball program conducted at Cavanagh Stadium in North Quincy, the activities expanded to include youth baseball, bowling basketball and softball programs in various sections of the city.

With the decrease of school age children in the 1980's and a variety of recreation programs in Quincy available, the Koch Club redirected its emphasis toward the charitable aspects where a great need of assistance was realized with the increase of the poor and homeless.

The committee will also finalize plans for the 10th annual Memorial Mass for deceased members and friends Thursday, May 28, the 36th Annual Flag Day Parade scheduled for Monday, June 15, and the 40th annual Family Picnic of the Koch Club scheduled for Sunday, June 28.

Durkin Defends Colleagues

Courage Needed On School Committee, Says McCauley

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Mayor Francis McCauley criticized the School Committee at its meeting last week for failing to "make those tough decisions."

He also called veteran member Frank Anselmo, "the John Barrymore of the School Committee."

However, School Committee vice chairman Stephen Durkin said after the meeting that each year the committee makes agonizing choices about which programs to implement or not, and sometimes which programs to eliminate.

"These hard choices are made necessary by the fact that the School Department's budget is so tight," said Durkin.

McCauley's remarks came during a discussion of a proposed $4 million bond issue for school building repairs.

The committee voted 6 to 1 in favor of the bond issue, with McCauley opposed.

However, McCauley said that he would not submit the request to the City Council. According to the city's charter, only the mayor has the power to submit a request for a bond issue to the council, he noted.

"What I'd like to see on the School Committee is profiles in courage," said McCauley, School Committee Chairman, during the discussion.

He criticized the School Committee for such things as voting to reopen the Wollaston School, rather than moving school boundary lines which he said would have saved money.

McCauley also said the School Committee has the chance to close the Sterling Middle School in South Quincy which has a low enrollment and needs repair, "but you don't want to close it."

"You don't want to make those tough decisions."

"You want to play the crowd here."

"Mr. Anselmo, you're the John Barrymore of the School Committee."

"I never saw a guy who could rise to an audience as well as you could," said McCauley.

FRANCIS McCAULEY

STEVE DURKIN

"But sometimes you have to make it (the tough decisions), and, damn it, I'm going to make it as long as I'm the mayor."

McCauley said the city was "a financial basket case" when he came into office five years ago. He said he has been able to erase a deficit of $11 million and to accumulate a surplus of some $4 million.

But the city cannot afford another bond issue in addition to that of the Police Station, he said.

"Every time we get money, and money has been tight since I've been mayor, any time there's been additional money, the School Department has gotten a portion of it," said McCauley.

"I've done the best I could, and I would hope we'll be getting a little more cooperation from the School Committee."

"Maybe they can make a tough vote once in a while. I haven't seen too much of it lately."

"We don't have the Charlie Sweeneys around here anymore, the Jim McCormicks, Charlie Dierks or a few others, but until I see that, I'm not going to be too sympathetic."

"... As Mr. Osterman (School Superintendent) pointed out, the schools need work, but they're not unsafe." Durkin replied after the meeting. "Obviously, the mayor has many more issues and many city departments beyond the School Department to worry about."

"But he must understand that it is not the role of School Committee to worry about issues beyond the school system."

"My chief concern has to be whether the city is providing sufficient funding for the school system to run effectively and to provide top quality programs," said Durkin.

"As far as his comparisons of present School Committee members with past school Committee members, his statements that present school committee lacked courage was completely without foundation."

"It demonstrated a lack of understanding of the distinction between the role of the School Committee before the loss of fiscal autonomy and the role of the present School Committee."

"Prior to Prop. 2½, the School Committee had the authority to set the school budget and one of their concerns was at least arguably to try to keep the tax rate down," Durkin said.

"That job was taken out of the School Committee's hands after Prop. 2½ by the loss of fiscal autonomy."

"In my view, the role of the present School Committee is to serve as advocates for the school system and for quality educational programs, as well as to keep a watchful eye on how School Department funds are spent."

Durkin went on to discuss this year's budget.

"The School Committee needs to make a decision on whether to spend a large sum of money on building repairs at the expense of failing to implement needed programs."

"With $3.8 million in building repair needs, this situation is likely to continue year after year with programs in health, computer literacy, middle school foreign language and athletics, music programs and physical education programs likely to suffer," he said.

Durkin also responded to the mayor's remark about the School Committee's lack of courage.

"This statement was made in apparent reference to the committee's failure to close Sterling Middle School due to low enrollment," said Durkin. "A few points in response are:

- Closing any school is an important decision and should not be done casually.

- The committee is not persuaded that a middle school had to close.

- If closing is necessary, the committee is not convinced that the superintendent's recommendation was the right one. The administration task team recommended closing Point Middle School. Thus, I feel the committee's decision to create its own task force to study the issue was a responsible move.

- Closing a school doesn't save a great deal of money and such a decision should be based on educational considerations primarily.

- If the mayor is interested in selling a school building, he should be reminded that the committee recently voted to turn over the Myles Standish School to the city."

Durkin continued, "the future of this city depends on a strong school system, and the city needs to make a greater financial commitment to that school system."

"The mayor deserves credit for restoring fiscal health to the city since becoming mayor. The city is in a strong financial position now."

"When are the schools going to get the benefit of that in the form of greater financial support from the city?"

"The mayor should seriously consider a bond issue to take care of some of the school system's needs that have been crying for attention for a long time," Durkin said.

New Xray Building For Quincy Hospital

The City Council's Finance Committee approved a $500,000 loan order for a proposed new X-ray building at Quincy City Hospital.

It was the third of four major projects contained in Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa's $2.9 million outlay program.

Already approved by the Council were plans for a $1,486,000 city incinerator and a $300,000 gym for North Quincy High School.

The fourth project, a $150,000 branch library in North Quincy, was still before the Finance Committee.

Meanwhile, the Quincy Taxpayers Association attacked the Mayor's entire capital outlay program in its Newsletter but Della Chiesa brushed off the criticism.

Said the Mayor of QTA Executive Director George Yarrington: "During the seven years I have been Mayor he has been absolutely no help to me in keeping the tax rate down."

RINK FOR ST. MORITZ

MDC Commissioner Robert Murphy toured the St. Moritz area of West Quincy and said he thought it would be a great place for an artificial ice rink.

"Such a facility is utterly justified" he said. "There are tremendous possibilities here. It certainly has magnificent natural accoutrements."

Showing him around were Mayor Della Chiesa, State Reps. James R. McIntyre, Charles L. Shea and Joseph E. Brett, and City Councillor George B. McDonald.

Chicken-Beef Combo Soup Hits The Spot On A Cold Day

After the zero type weather we've had and even with a warmer trend, the thoughts and aroma of good hot homemade soup still sounds inviting.

My children could always smell the soup cooking as they walked home from school.

And once a big batch is cooked, it can easily be frozen in separate various sized containers. Here is an easy combination soup recipe and one that has been in the family for years.

CHICKEN-BEEF COMBO SOUP
1 to 1½ lb. piece of chuck, London broil, or soup bone with meat around it, or any beef on sale.

About 4 chicken legs and thighs
2 stalks of celery (cut up)
3 carrots (cut up)

1 onion (cut in quarters)
About ½ cup tomatoes (optional)
salt and pepper to taste
1 cup of small pasta, rice or very thin noodles.

In about 6 quarts of water, put all the ingredients and after it reaches the boiling point, simmer covered for about 1 to 2 hours or until the meat is tender. Of course the chicken will be done much quicker than the beef, so you can remove that and set it aside. We usually eat the chicken with a salad or I've made chicken salad with it. With the beef, you can cut it up in small pieces and add it to a salad, or if you're ambitious you can make hash.

Cook the pasta in a separate pan, drain and set aside until ready to use.

Koch Club Scholarship Applications Available

Scholarship applications are available at the Guidance Offices of North Quincy High School, Quincy High School and the Quincy Vocational Technical School for the annual Koch Club Scholarship Awards announces Anthony J. Delmonico, chairman.

Deadline for submitting application forms necessary for consideration is Wednesday, April 15 at the Guidance Office.

The boy and girl graduates of each of the three high schools will be selected to be the recipient of a $100 award to be announced at the Scholarship Awards Program and graduation with the presentations at the annual Flag Day Parade and ceremonies scheduled for Monday, June 15, at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

The Active Scholarship Committee was formed in 1959 with two North Quincy High School graduates adding Quincy High in 1964 and completing the program in 1968 with the Vocational Technical School included.

This year's awards will bring to $13,000 the total in awards for the 29 years with 138 boys and girls recognized for their scholastic achievement.

The Koch Club also founded a permanent scholarship fund of the organization during the 25th anniversary activities in 1973 with a $5,000 grant established in the City of Quincy that now totals $19,000 from interest and gifts that will assume the tradition of the scholarship endeavors of the Koch Club on the 50th Anniversary of the group in 1990.

Delmonico is assisted on the Scholarship Committee by Thomas F. Nestor, vice chairman, Mrs. Gerry Delmonico, Thomas P. Koch, David J. Donaghy, Mrs. Simone N. Koch and Howard F. Crowley.

James Sheets Named To Don Bosco Trustee Board

Ward 4 councillor James Sheets has been appointed a member of the board of trustees at Don Bosco Technical High School in Boston.

Sheets joins Ron Logan, Ronald Conway and Michael Savage, all of Quincy, who are also board members at the school which has a large enrollment of Quincy students.

Sheets, chairman of the social and public services division at Quincy Junior College and chairman of the ordinance committee of the Quincy City Council, is a former council president and served in the state legislature as chairman of the board of the National Asbestosis Foundation.

The school has long enjoyed a reputation for excellence and innovation in education, and has just completed construction on a new electronics and computer center to be dedicated April 11.

Well-Child Clinic Scheduled Mar. 4

The Quincy Health Department has scheduled a well-child clinic for city residents only on March 4 and April 1.

Staffed by Dr. Janet Levatin, it will be conducted during the hours of 11 a.m. and 12 noon for those ages one month to six years.

The clinic will be held in the JFK Health Center, 1120 Hancock St. For more information call 772-1380, ext. 238.

Quincy Hospital Wins Award For Sibling Program

Quincy City Hospital was presented a certificate of excellence for its sibling orientation program at the 65th annual meeting of the New England Hospital Assembly, Inc., at the Prudential Center, Copley Place, Boston.

The certificate recognized a videotape submitted by the hospital, "Our Family is Having a Baby," as one of the best hospital innovations of the year.

More than 400 New England hospitals are invited to submit entries to the annual competition.

QCH was one of the first hospitals in New England to offer the sibling orientation program which was featured on WCVB-TV's "Good Day" show.

The sibling program, celebrating its fifth anniversary this year, has graduated over 700 brothers and sisters-to-be.

According to Patricia McEachern, P.N., one of the coordinators of the program, "Many families have told us that allowing big brothers and sisters to share in the experience makes the transition smoother, introduces them to the hospital atmosphere, and creates a strong family bond."

"QCH's Sibling Orientation Program teaches children what Mommy and Daddy will be doing when the new baby arrives," she said.

"Through 'play' techniques, children come to understand their own special roles as big brothers and sisters."

Sibling programs are held Saturdays 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. in the hospital's childbirth education classroom.

Beth MacLeod, R.N., another coordinator of the program, stated that the agenda consists of: Our Family is Having a Baby; How to Help Mommy and Daddy When the Baby Arrives; Learning How to Hold, Feed and Diaper a Baby; Doll, and How to Love Your New Baby; Know Your Care.

The presentations are followed by a tour of the maternity suite which includes a birthing room, maternity room and newborn nursery.

After refreshments, there is a graduation and award ceremony where participants are presented with diplomas and coloring books.

There is no registration for the program, but pre-registration is required to reserve space for children. Class size is limited.

Children be enrolled one month before the expected birth.

Grandparents are welcome. For more information and registration, call QCH at 773-6100, ext. 3112.

Crime Watch

Safety At Your Door

When someone knocks at your door:

- Don't open it unless you know your visitor.
- If a business person, service representative, or government official appears at your door, ask that identification and credentials be slipped under the door or through your mail slot. While they are waiting outside, call the employer to verify name and business. (Refuse to deal with anyone who won't comply with this request.)

• Someone may knock at your door and ask to use your telephone to make an emergency call. Never open the door. Take the message and make the call for them.

• In any event, if someone comes to your door who, for any reason, you do not trust or who you believe might be dangerous call the police immediately.

Returning home:

• If you find your door ajar or if you hear sounds inside, don't go in. Go to the nearest telephone and call the police. If your home has been burglarized, don't touch anything until the police arrive.

• If you do walk into your home and find a burglar there, leave if you can. If the intruder is armed, sit down quietly and obey instructions. DO NOT resist or fight. Observe the intruder closely to get a description for the police. When the intruder leaves, CALL THE POLICE immediately.

Safety on the telephone:

• If you receive frequent "wrong number" calls, hangup calls, late night calls from strangers, or other nuisance calls, call your representative at the telephone company. They will know the best course of action. Hang up if the call is obscene.

• If the call is a threatening one, call the police. • Never allow yourself to be drawn into a conversation with an unknown caller, survey taker, or census taker in which you reveal your name, address, marital status, or anything to indicate that you are alone. Legitimate survey takers and census takers come to your door with their credentials.

If your community organization is based in the City of Quincy and you would like a speaker for meetings, put request for same, in writing, and forward to:

Chief Francis X. Finn
Quincy Police Department
442 Southern Artery, Quincy, MA 02169

Someone will contact you from the Quincy Police Department and make arrangements.

$280,000 Grant For Nut Island

State Rep. Thomas F. Brownell (D-Quincy) announces that the state Coastal Zone Management (CZM) office has conditionally awarded $280,000 for the design and construction of a park on Nut Island.

The grant, from CZM's Coastal Facilities Improvement Program, will match $560,000 in funds to be contributed by the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority for mitigating the impacts of the Nut Island sewage treatment plant.

The project, with a total cost of $840,000, would improve public access and provide such amenities as bikepaths, parking, benches, picnic tables and lighting.

Final plans will be settled on by a group consisting of City Councillor Michael Cheney, Nut Island Citizens Advisory Committee Chairman Jack Walsh, the City Planning Department, and the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority.

Commenting on the grant, Brownell said, "The state's Coastal Facilities Improvement Program is tailor-made for Quincy. These funds will finally enable us to make some real improvements at Nut Island. For too long, the residents of Houghs Neck have taken the sewage treatment plant, getting nothing in return."

Brownell also said, "Councillor Cheney, Jack

Walsh, and the mayor's office should all be highly commended for their hard work. Also, the fact that the Water Resources Authority is acting in such good faith is definitely a step in the right direction."

QJC Graduate Has Perfect Score On Exam

A graduate of the Practical Nursing Program at Quincy Junior College recently scored a perfect score of 800 on the state licensure examination.

Mary Mercier, of Braintree completed the Practical Nursing program in 1986.

To pass the examination a score of at least 500 points out of 800 is necessary. Rarely does anyone score a perfect 800. Mrs. Mercier is the first student from the QJC program, which has been running for 20 years, to achieve this.

Mrs. Mercier is the mother of a teenage daughter who she has sole custody of. According to Miss Pat Ryan, coordinator of the Registered Nursing Program at QJC, "Mary typifies the nontraditional, single parent student who made the commitment to a career. Through perseverance she excelled." "Mary has tremendous outside commitments but despite all of that she managed to excel in the classroom. She also was very supportive and helpful to the other students in the program."

Next year Mercier has been granted a full tuition scholarship to attend the Advanced Placement Nursing program at Quincy Junior College. In this program practical nurses train to become Registered Nurses and are eligible to take the registered nursing licensure exam upon its completion.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

It seems that life today is so fast paced that sometimes it's difficult to find enough time to plan everything out in advance. Yet most people feel better if they know they have tried to put things in order.

We know that the thought of one's own death is hard enough in itself. We also know that there is an uneasiness of not knowing how to go about pre-planning one's own funeral as so many are doing today ...

"Why are they doing this?", one might ask. Our answer to this is ... Prearranging your funeral is good planning as well as considerate to your family. By recording your wishes regarding the service now, you provide a guide for those you love to follow later at a very difficult time in their lives. It provides your family with a peace of mind in knowing that everything is being done as you wanted it ... We at the Deware Funeral Home feel you should first discuss your funeral preferences with your family and find out their thoughts. Then come and discuss it with us. We will answer all questions, have all necessary literature available and we will be glad to take you through the selection process and we will provide you with the necessary forms. This, of course, is at no cost or obligation.

And, if you wish, we are available to answer all questions concerning pre-payment plans. Yes, pre-arranged funeral planning is good planning ... Why not call us or stop by today ... We welcome such visits or calls ...

Charles Pitts Jr. Receives Eagle Scout Award

Charles Pitts Jr., formerly of Quincy, was presented with the Boy Scout of America highest award, Eagle Scout, presented at St. Boniface Church Hall by co-pastor Rev. Richard DeVeer and scouting coordinator Frank Sullivan.

Pitts, who now resides with his mother and two sisters in Granville, Vt., was a charter member of St. Boniface's Scout Troop No. 5 and for the past seven years served in virtually every boy leadership position in the troop from patrol leader to junior assistant scoutmaster.

He is the second scout in that troop to have earned that award and the first scout living in public housing in Germantown to achieve that high honor in the last 30 years.

His Eagle Scout service project entailed the refurbishing of the Christmas nativity display in Germantown which had fallen into disrepair and had not been on display for several years. He restored all of the figures, constructed a new manger, and supervised the setting up of the nativity scene in a prominent location much to the satisfaction of the residents.

He was assisted in this project by the contributions of a number of organizations and individuals to purchase the needed materials and by the scouts of Troop 5 in the actual work itself.

Pitts remains active in scouting as an assistant scoutmaster in the troop serving the town in which he now resides in Vermont.

$85,864 In Grants To Library

A total of $85,864.69 in grants has been awarded to the Thomas Crane Public Library, announces Mayor Francis McCauley.

McCauley said he was notified by the program coordinator for the Board of Library Commissioners that the grant was awarded by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

The monies are broken down into two separate grants, he said.

The first portion of the grant is the Fiscal Year 1987, Library Incentive Grant, and the second portion, the Fiscal Year 1987, Municipal Equalization Grant, according to the mayor.

McCauley said he was pleased that the assistance was given to the libraries, and hoped that the grants would help continue the services of the Thomas Crane Public Library.

Drug Awareness Night At Morrisette Post

A Drug Awareness Night open to all Quincy residents will take place Thursday, March 5, 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the Morrisette Legion Post, West Quincy.

"We will be discussing all aspects of substance abuse," said John "Butch" Mahoney, social health coordinator for the Quincy Public Schools, who will be the speaker.

"That includes prevention, detection and treatment," said Mahoney.

"We'll be talking about the new type of drugs which are being sold and their effects on users and the entire criminal justice system," he said.

The Drug Awareness Night is sponsored by the Morrisette Post, he said.

Forty-one Quincy families will probably lose their heat today.

And they'll wait an average of 4 hours for emergency oil burner service.

First the bad news.

It's something most people never think about. Until it happens to them. But the fact is, for all their reliability, oil burners do break down—on the average, 1 out of 8 will conk out some time this winter.

While you're thinking about that fact, here's another one to consider. It takes an average of four hours for a repairman to show up in response to an emergency call. That can seem like forever when you're without heat.

Now the good news.

You don't have to put up with average service anymore. You can have a whole different level of service—from The Oil Express.

- You can have a repairman at your door in 1 hour—or less—from the time you call us. Guaranteed.
- You can have computer-controlled, radio-dispatched delivery trucks seeing to it that you never run out of fuel. Ever.
- You can have your burner carefully tuned and painstakingly maintained by a trained technician to put you safely beyond the law of averages.
- In short, you can be covered by a company that has committed itself to providing the highest level of service this town has ever seen.

More good news.

Despite our commitment to service, we still remember that it was our low prices that first put us on the map. And we're not about to change that. We're part of a 3 billion dollar company that buys oil on the international market—millions of gallons at a time. And because we get it for less than other oil companies have to pay, we sell it for less than other oil companies have to charge.

We're set up to start covering you immediately, and we're waiting for your call. So why wait?

Call today. 1-800-448-HEAT.

Or if you prefer, send in the coupon; we'll send you full details by return mail.

23 Haitian Street Boys To Receive First Communion At St. John's

Twenty-three Haitian street boys, who will tour the U.S. to focus attention on the plight of children in poverty-stricken Haiti, will make their first communion on Mother's Day in St. John's Church, during their two week stay in Quincy.

The youths, ranging in age from 8 to 18, and rescued off the streets by Michael Geilenfeld, a former missionary of charity, will receive the sacrament at 11 a.m. in a most unique liturgy presided over by the Most Rev. Daniel Hart, Auxiliary Bishop of Boston and Regional Bishop for the Quincy-South Shore area.

The executive board of St. John's Parish Council recently gave unanimous approval to its role as host to these youths during their 14-day stay in Quincy because parishioners have been actively involved in the Haitian poverty problems. Some have spent weeks there ministering and feeding the homeless and hungry. Others have provided contributions to aid their cause.

Sharing too in this role are parishioners of St. Boniface Parish in Quincy who have been very much involved in aiding the homeless and hungry by their visitations and contributions.

On May 12 the boys will put on a special presentation at 8 p.m. in Archbishop Williams High School auditorium, Braintree. The show will consist of Creole songs and dances and a special segment focusing attention on the life of a street child in Haiti.

Geilenfeld has gathered these boys, abandoned by their families and left to starve on the streets, and the youth detention center in Port-au-Prince, under one roof, St. Joseph's Boys' Home, where he cares for them and teaches them not only the three R's but some art, music, English, and religion as well. His goal is for these young people, equipped with an education and an altered look on life, to go out in the world as self-respecting, self-supporting, solid citizens.

Geilenfeld said his three goals in bringing "his company" on tour in the states "is to give glory to God and to share with the materially cluttered western world, the authentic values and joys that proceed from God-centered simplicity of life."

Also to give the boys hope, to show them something of the world other than the starving conditions they have known in Haiti. And last, but not least, the hope to raise enough money to pay off debts on St. Joseph's Home and to make additional homes possible, so that more boys can be saved from a life doomed to suffering and sorrow, he added.

Christian Life Behind Iron Topic At Faith Lutheran

Everyday life of Christians under communist rule will be detailed by missionary Katarina Ham Sunday, March 1 at 9 a.m. at a meeting of the Adult Education Class at Faith Lutheran Church, 201 Granite St., Quincy.

Ham, currently on furlough in the United States, from the Slave Gospel Association, spent five years behind the Iron Curtain as a missionary and she will be talking about her work and experiences there.

For more information call the church office at 472-1247.

'It's Good To Be Here' Sermon At Wollaston Congregational

Rev. Elden D.J. Zuern's sermon topic this Sunday at the 10 a.m. worship in Wollaston Congregational Church will be "It's Good To Be Here," based on the text from the Gospel of Matthew 17:1-9.

Lay scripture reader will be

Gus Oster; ushers, Ellis Laycock and Joe Sandahl; greeters, Alice and Joe Pinel; acolyte, Harry Towle.

Church school will be from 10 to 11 a.m., for grades one through 12. Nursery for preschoolers is provided.

Confirmation class will meet with the Reverend Zuern at 6:30 p.m. and the youth groups will meet at 7:30 p.m.

Reverend Zuern reminds church members that this Saturday (Feb. 28) Pack 14 will hold a blue and gold dinner in the social hall.

'That Still Small Voice' Squantum Church Topic

"Hearing That Still Small Voice" was the title of the sermon preached Sunday morning at the second service of the First Church of Squantum by Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, pastor.

Andy Ogilvie and Mindi Hurd gave the call to worship. Robert Dixey led the opening prayer. Pianist Janet Williamson and organist Mary Ruth Scott accompanied the congregational singing of each of the hymns which included "Morning Has Broken," "Dear Lord and Father of Mankind" and "Lord, Speak to Me That I May Speak."

The offertory anthem by the Chancel Choir was "Sanctus" by Franz Schubert. Mary Ruth Scott directed. Ruth and Luther Swenson were the greeters, Lore Wallin and Stewart Scott were the ushers, Sally Wainwright and Janet Sumner, photo of the Fellowship Hour after the second service.

During the early service, Dr. Langevin preached on the subject, "What Difference Does Your Commitment Make?" Guest artists Mary Ruth Scott and Andy Ogilvie accompanied the congregational singing. Kim Olson and Mariet Hurd were the ushers.

Orange Crush, the junior high youth group, meets at 4 p.m. on Sunday afternoons. Seven-Up, the senior high group, also meets on Sunday at 6 p.m. The Way Up, a youth group for other teenagers in the community, meets Tuesday night from 7 to 9 p.m. for worship and recreation, and each week day afternoon from 3:30 to 6 p.m. for a teen work program.

This Sunday there will be two services at the church: the guitar service at 8:30 a.m. and the traditional service at 10:30 a.m. Sunday School is held during the second service. Visitors are welcome.

City Club Memorial Mass, Breakfast Meeting Sunday

The Quincy City Club will conduct its mid-winter breakfast meeting Sunday, March 1, at 10:15 a.m. at the Fore River Clubhouse, 16 Nevada Rd., Quincy Point.

Preceding the breakfast, members and friends will attend the 9:15 a.m. Mass at Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy in memory of the deceased members of the City Club including the late Philip J. Gaciera, Edward F. Gentile, Edward Dorsey, Rev. Romeo Levasseur and Richard M.

(Dee Dee) Morrissey. Rev. Cornelius J. Heery, pastor of Sacred Heart Church and Chaplain of the City Club, will be celebrant of the third annual Memorial Mass.

Among the guests attending will be Sister Debby Chausse, C.S.J., Volunteer Services Chairman of the Long Island Shelter who will express the thanks of the shelter for the Christmas involvement of the Quincy City Club membership.

A brief synopsis of the organization's Christmas Charitable Endeavors will be presented.

Members are requested to notify the club officers if unable to attend or if planning to participate with guests.

Take care of your own funeral arrangements now. So your family won't have to later.

By not taking care of your own funeral in advance, you force someone close to you to do it for you.

For the person who accepts the responsibility making arrangements at the time of need is likely to be filled with uncertainties. The uncertainty of not knowing what you really wanted. Your personal preferences. Perhaps a favorite dress or suit. A special prayer. A legman with whom you are especially close. The uncertainties are endless.

The kindest thing you can do for your family is make your own funeral arrangements for in advance of need. That way, everybody will know the kind of funeral you would like to have. You can make a pre-arrangement or pre-funeral write for on free booklet. "Anticipate Kindness: To draw a suit. A special prayer. A legman with whom you are especially close. The uncertainties are endless. The kindest thing you can do for your family is make your own funeral arrangements for in advance of need. 'To Your Health' At Bethany

Holy communion will be celebrated Sunday, in Bethany Congregational Church, Coddington and Spear Sts., Quincy Center, at both the 9 a.m. chapel and the 10 a.m. sanctuary service.

The Rev. J. William Arnold, senior minister, will preach the Communion meditation at both services entitled "To Your Health," based on the text from the Gospel of Mark 5:24-34.

Reading the scriptures at the chapel service will be William F. Greene, and at the sanctuary service, Vivian R. Miller. The Rev. Joel F. Huntington, associate minister, will be the liturgist at both hours.

Deacons and deaconesses serving communion will be Robert Lockwood in the chapel, and Ronald Rivera, Nancy Cosgrove, James Ross, Jean Ross, and Nicholas Spear in the sanctuary.

At 10 a.m. the Chancel Choir under the direction of Peter E. Kravinsky, organist, will sing as the offertory, anthem the spiritual, "There Is A Balm in Gilead," with Paul David Johnson as soloist. The Children's Choir will also sing "Allelu" by Ray Repp.

The worship service will be broadcast live at 10 a.m. direct from the sanctuary over radio station WJDA, 1300 kc. The communion commentary will be given by Edith Arslan during the broadcast.

Sunday School will be in session from 10 to 11 a.m. with classes from pre-school through eighth grade. Nursery care will be provided for babies and toddlers, under the supervision of Denise Fleming. Bethany's early childhood coordinator, The youth fellowship will meet Sunday at 7 p.m. in the parish house.

At 11 a.m. Sunday, there will be a fellowship hour in the Allen Parlor following the worship service. Persons from the community are invited to attend the worship and fellowship, and to enroll children in the Sunday School.

There will be a Lenten devotional service on Ash Wednesday, March 4, at 7 a.m. in the Bethany Chapel. Rev. Elden D.J. Zuern will give the meditation on, "The Jewish Priests: The Religious Authorities Viewpoint." The lay leader reading the scriptures and offering the prayers will be Gerard Capobianchi. Following the service a light breakfast will be served. Both the brief worship and the breakfast are open to the public and people can leave for school or work by 7:45.

Also on Wednesday evening, March 4 from 7:30 to 9 p.m., Rev. Arnold is teaching a course of Bible study, "Covenant III," covering the New Testament. The course is free and open to the public and meets in room 3 of the Parish House.

For additional information concerning Bethany's ministries and programs, please contact the church office at 479-7300.

8 Masses At St. John's On Ash Wednesday

Eight Masses at St. John the Baptist Church, 44 School St., Quincy Center, will be held Ash Wednesday, March 4.

They will be at 7 a.m., 8 a.m., 9 a.m., 12:10 p.m. (both upstairs and downstairs church) 4 p.m., 5:30 p.m., and 7 p.m. Ashes will be distributed during the celebration of Mass.

It is a common practice for Catholics to attend daily Mass throughout the Lenten season. Daily Masses at St. John's will be held at 8 a.m., 12:10 p.m. and 5:30 p.m. Lent begins with the observance of Ash Wednesday, when Christians received blessed ashes on their foreheads as a sign of their willingness to begin the solemn observance of Lenten renewal.

Capt. Walter Frazer To Head March Of Dimes Campaign

Captain Walter Frazer of the Quincy Police Department has been appointed chairman of the Quincy March of Dimes Coin Canister Drive for 1987.

The appeal, which is conducted annually during the month of January, is one of the March of Dimes' oldest fundraising efforts.

"The March of Dimes is an important part of every community," said Frazer. "Their efforts to prevent birth defects is a cause that affects all of us."

Over 30 cities and towns in eastern Massachusetts are participating in the coin canister campaign. The Massachusetts Bay Chapter hopes to surpass last year's total of almost $7,000.

"Hub's top savings rate: 6.25%"

—The Boston Herald September 5, 1986

At a time when other banks are actually reducing rates, a passbook savings account that pays more than most money market accounts is big news:

The Hibernia Savings Bank now pays 6.25% on its regular savings accounts. (That's an annual yield of 6.54%, based on continuous compounding.) It takes $100 to open one and you only need to maintain a balance of $10 to earn the rate.

If you like the convenience, safety and simplicity of regular passbook savings — and want rates that are better than most money market accounts — stop by and open an account with Hibernia.

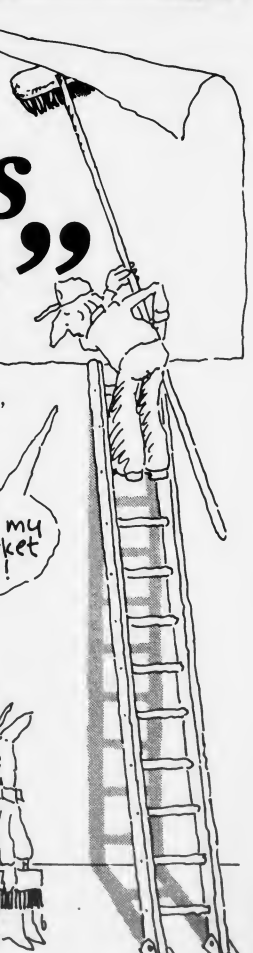

It will be good news for both of us.

WEEK OF: February 26

AQUARIUS - January 21 - February 19
Romance accents its whimsical side, but in business-related matters a serious approach brings results. Creative writing is highlighted. Take pen in hand and express your special philosophy.

PISCES - February 20 - March 20
You may have to be firmer than usual in dealing with a highly assertive individual. Arranging parties is a present strength, you lend a magic touch. Business plans require research.

ARIES - March 21 - April 20
Work project may be temporarily stalled, but in personal relationships you progress with renewed determination. New Year's resolution may be put to an early test.

TAURUS - April 21 - May 22
Week is favorable for new areas of study or recreation. Up-in-the-air relationship seems headed down to earth. Financial growth is favored, being realistic is all-important.

GEMINI - May 23 - June 21
Variety is the theme of the week as you mingle with people from diverse backgrounds and enjoy opportunities for travel. Financial favors are returned after the weekend.

CANCER - June 22 - July 22
In professional circles, it's important to maintain a higher profile. Platonic relationships are highlighted. Flighty friend is more practical. Relative is willing to lend an ear.

LEO - July 23 - August 22
Month ends on a romantically encouraging note. Friends become closer and more trustworthy. In financial dealings, examine details but don't ignore the larger picture either.

VIRGO - August 23 - September 22
Building on current relationships is the focus this week. Be more realistic in business dealings. Volunteer assignment is highlighted and offers a fringe benefit.

LIBRA - September 23 - October 22
Partnership ventures are favored - provided you know your partners very well. Good week for filling in applications and attending interviews. Family member is unexpectedly supportive.

SCORPIO - October 23 - November 21
Best to tackle one important job than to experiment with sundry tasks. Visitors may arrive ahead of schedule. Romance favors a traditional approach right now.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22 - December 22
A fine week for quiet reflection. You gain new insights into present relationships. Friend's good fortune makes you feel like a winner too. Career decisions are long-lasting.

CAPRICORN - December 23 - January 20
Partner is more open; this is a good week to discuss shared goals. Be wary of slick salespeople. Don't postpone health-related activities. Month ends on a generally upbeat note.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
Creative and compassionate, you tend to get carried away when you take on a project or a cause. Intuition is uncommonly sharp. A more realistic approach to career and finance can lead to steady gains through the following months. Emphasis this year is on becoming more decisive.

BORN THIS WEEK
February 26th, actor Jackie Gleason; 27th, actress Joanne Woodward; 28th, actress Bernadette Peters; March 1st, singer Harry Belafonte; 2nd, producer Warren Hays.

Quincy Bantams Win Championship

Quincy's Bantam A team won the Kiwanis Tournament championship for the second straight year, defeating Melrose, 3-1, in the championship game last Sunday.

Bob Kane, Joe Fasano and Jon Brosnan scored the Quincy goals and Brosnan, Sean Capplis, Paul McLellan, Kane and Mike Toland had assists. Goalies Mark Dwyer and Jeff McClory were outstanding.

Quincy started out by tying Suffolk, N.Y., 2-2, with Fasano and Brosnan scoring the goals and Capplis and McLellan assisting.

Next came an 8-1 victory over Schenectady, N.Y., as Fasano had a hat trick, Brosnan two goals and Brian Kelly, Kane and Toland one each. McLellan had three assists, Joe Keegan and Ralph Richardson two apiece and Kevin Daly, Rob Carroll, Kane, and Martin Feeney one each.

The Bantams then blanked Adirondack, N.Y., 6-0, with McClory and Dwyer again shining in goal. Daly had two goals and Brosnan, Kane, Feeney, and Toland one each. Kelly had three assists and McLellan, Toland, Capplis, Daly, Kane, Feeney, Carroll and Richardson one apiece.

In the semifinals Quincy edged Troy, N.Y., 3-2, as Fasano scored twice and Daly once. Matt Buccella and Capplis had two assists each and Kelly one.

Head coach Bob Carroll was in Quebec where another son was playing for the Mini-Bruins in a tournament. The team was handled well by assistant coach Jim Daly.

Also playing for the Bantams were Matt Collins, Mike Leonard, Jeff Freeman, Duane Keegan and Terry Hack.

Mite B's Win, Tie

Quincy's Mite B team overwhelmed Dedham, 9-0, at the St. Sebastian's rink in Needham as goalie Brian Walsh recorded his third shutout of the season.

The Mite B's extended their unbeaten streak to eight games as they remain in first place in the Greater Boston League with a 6-0-2 record.

Robbie Callow and Jimmy Gallagher paced the offense with two unassisted goals each. Other goals were scored by Shawn Johnson, Tim Hunter, A.J. Carthas, Scott Cooper and Jeff Coleman.

Assists went to Mike

O'Brien, John Ryan, Carthas, Eric Griffin, Cooper and Jim Kelly.

Brian Beaton, Mike Ryan and Chris DiMattia also played well.

The Mite B's tied second place Allston-Brighton, 4-4, with Callow scoring twice and Carthas and Gallagher once each. Hunter and Jarnis had assists.

Walsh came up with some outstanding saves, his best coming late in the game when he rushed halfway from the net to the blue line to smother a A-B breakaway.

Lawless, Stevenson All Stars

North Quincy's Dave Lawless, a 6-3 junior forward, and Ted Stevenson, six-foot junior guard, were named to the Suburban League basketball all-star team and each played well in the all-star game last Saturday at Newton North.

Lawless, who averaged 14.4 points and 10 rebounds a game, had eight rebounds in the game, and Stevenson, who averaged 11.1 points and 10 assists a game, had six points and six assists.

Steve Austin of Quincy, 6-3 senior forward, who averaged 14.5 points a game, third in the league, was also named to the all-star team but was unable to play in the game due to other commitments.

Squirt B's Tie

Quincy's Squirt B team, sponsored by Quincy Cablesystems, tied Parkway, 2-2, in a Greater Boston League game.

Quincy trailed, 2-0, but tied it up on two goals by Lee Hughes. Billy Coughlin assisted on both goals and Lou Bertucci and Dave Pacino also had assists.

Schenectady Wins Crown Quincy Mites Eliminated

Quincy's Mite team was knocked out of the Kiwanis Tournament after bombing Randolph, 15-0, and losing to Pembroke, 6-5, and tourney champion Schenectady, N.Y., 4-1.

In the romp over Randolph, Brendan O'Brien scored four goals, Ronnie McGann and Chris Grant three apiece, Matt Logan and Jason Lennelly two each and Paul Princiotto one. John Healy had three assists, Danny Stone, Jamie Murphy and Steve Barrett two each and Danny Hughes, Mark Regan, Princiotto, Jenna Nolan, Dan Donahue and Logan one apiece.

McGann had a hat trick against Pembroke and Murphy and Regan a goal each. Murphy and Stone had two assists apiece and O'Brien and Donahue one each.

Murphy had the lone goal against Schenectady and Regan assisted.

Schenectady won the title with a 5-0 victory over Adirondack in the all-New York finale.

Parents of the Schenectady players were excited, as the team usually loses to Adirondack at home.

Also playing for the Mites, coached by Don Donahue and Jack Smith, were Mark Smith, Tom Moriarty, Brian Beaton, Arthur Carthas and David Rowell.

Quincy, North Disappointing Seasons

The Quincy and North Quincy hockey teams finished disappointing seasons last week as the Presidents wound up with a 6-14 record and North finished at 4-14-1.

It was an especially disappointing season for North Quincy, which had qualified for the state tournament three years in a row. The Raiders finished second in the Suburban League by a single point last season after finishing second by only one and two points the previous two seasons.

North did manage to finish up with a 4-4 tie with Waltham last week, scoring three goals in the third period as Waltham qualified for the tournament.

Mark Simonelli's goal with 4:21 left gave the Raiders their tie. Matt Furtado scored two goals and Mark Zimmerman had the other for North.

Goalies Jeff McClory and Brian Mahoney combined for 25 saves in the North net.

Quincy lost its last two games to Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 7-3, and Brookline, 6-2.

The Presidents did double the number of victories of last year's team (3-15) and did defeat North Quincy twice to claim the mythical city championship.

Cabazas Outstanding In Championships

Quincy High's Rob Cabazas continued undefeated (24-0) and was named the outstanding wrestler in the Division I South Sectional championships last weekend at Plymouth when he won the 134-pound championship.

Cabazas, who was named the Presidents' outstanding defensive back in football, won the sectional crown when he scored an impressive 17-0 technical-fall victory over Hingham's Dave Shane.

In the semifinals he had defeated Bob Regan of Xaverian, 15-2.

In the quarterfinals he had scored a 15-0 victory to move into the semifinals with two of his Quincy teammates, Peter DePaulo and Dennis DeCoste.

DePaulo won by pin in the 140-pound class and DeCoste advanced with a pin at 157.

However, in the semifinals DePaulo lost to Larry Grant of Randolph, 9-1, and DeCoste was defeated by Tim Green of Braintree, 10-7.

Cabazas will seek the state championship Friday and Saturday at Braintree.

Earlier last week Cabazas and DeCoste were winners in the Suburban League tournament at Brookline, while Norm Hassan and DePaulo placed second.

Cabazas defeated Brian Muise of Brookline, 14-2, in the 134-pound finals and DeCoste pinned Matt Fortune of Newton North in the 157-pound finals.

DePaulo was pinned by Carl Sincotta of Waltham in the 140-pound finals and Hassan lost to Anthony Filippini of Newton North, 5-3, in the 169-pound finals.

• Senior Basketball

Point Stuns Montclair, Squantum Tops Atlantic

Atlantic Center could not put the home court advantage together and fell to Squantum by two in action in the Quincy Recreation Department Senior Hoop League.

Coach John Roney's Squantum team was led by Dave Hutchins with 16 points and Doug Newton followed closely with 12. Roney praised the strong work of Derek Nickerson, who came off the bench to pace a strong fourth quarter defensive effort.

Atlantic coach George Dunn has watched his team improve each week, but not break into the win column.

Mike Stanton had 19, Dan Hobin nine, while John Mooney chipped in with 10 assists. Squantum moves to 2-1 while Atlantic drops to 0-3.

Point, a loser in two overtime games, found regulation time to its liking as it stunned Montclair, 37-31. Balance was the key to the Janice Sullivan-coached Point. Jim Rice had 10, Bill Ryan nine, and Mike Scolaro eight. Montclair coach Jerry Pratt was pleased with a lot of the play of his young team and praised the scoring of Mark DiMaggio with 11, who is only a junior. Steve Happs also chipped in 10. Montclair moves to 1-1 while Point is 1-2.

The standings: Central, 2-0; Beechwood, 1-0; Squantum, 2-1; Sterling, 1-1; Montclair 1-1; Point 1-2, and Atlantic 0-3.

The Senior Hoop League is made up of participants from programs sponsored by the Quincy Recreation Department. Players cannot be a member of a high school varsity team and must be in grades 9, 10, 11, or 12. Games are played Saturday mornings at the Atlantic Middle School gym at 10 a.m. and 11:15 a.m. Spectators are welcome.

Bantam B's Win Cranberry Tournament

Quincy's Bantam B team won the 15th annual Cranberry Tournament in Pembroke last week, defeating the Seahawks, 3-1, in the title game.

Quincy earlier had defeated Pembroke, 8-0; the Seahawks, 5-3, and Hempstead, Long Island, 10-2.

The scoring was spread up and down the lineup with Bob Miller, Rich McDonald and Greg Hohmann leading the way with hat tricks. Mike Baylis, Steve Connolly, Jeff Hemphill, Duane Keegan, Armando Mancini, Sal Manganaro, Jim McCarthy, Scott Raptelis, Brian Taylor and Brian Zimmerman were other scorers. Goalies Fred Regan and Scott Cunningham were standouts throughout the tournament.

In Greater Boston League play the Bantam B's tied South Boston, 2-2.

Quincy, coached by Bill Connolly Sr. and Bill Connolly Jr., has a 30-5-4 record. It will meet Barnstable, Haverhill and Tri-Valley in state tournament preliminary round games.

3-Way Tie In Koch Women's League

The Koch Club Women's Bowling League, three weeks into the second half, finds a three-way tie for first place.

Carol Carchedi, Rose McDonald and Debra Eaton have 16 wins and eight losses while Linda McLaren, Dolores Connors and Pat Lawlor are deadlocked with 14-10 marks, followed by Edie Maher, 12-12; Barbara Matthes and Linda Carpenter, 8-16, each and Linda Barba, 2-22.

Debra Eaton leads the league and the Class A standings with an average of 99.5. Jeanne Burns holds the high individual three string total of 349 and top solo single string of 154. Pat Lawlor has the most spares with 90 and Dolores Connors has the total strikes with 18.

In the Class B standings, Claire Fitch is top with an average of 93.4 while Barbara Matthes leads in the other scoring with high three string total of 330, high single string of 140, most spares with 75 while Donna Glynn has the total strikes with 11.

North Girls In E-Mass. Tournament

By TOM SULLIVAN

The North Quincy girls' basketball team, in the Eastern Mass. Tournament for the fourth time in seven years, opened tournament play Tuesday night against Dennis-Yarmouth, which ousted the Raiderettes in the quarterfinals last year.

If they won Tuesday, the North girls, seeded sixth, will face Plymouth-Carver's Old Colony League co-champions, the third seed. Saturday afternoon at 1 p.m. at the Plymouth-Carver gym.

Paul Bregoli's Raiderettes lost their season's finale to Waltham, 45-37, giving them a final 15-5 record.

Shooting an ice cold two-for-11 in the first quarter, North trailed, 13-5, after the quarter. The Raiderettes heated up in the second quarter, outscoring the Hawks, 17-15, behind the scoring of junior Patty Feeney, Nancy Flukes and Anne McGuggan. Waltham led, 26-22, at the half.

North's defense rose up in the third quarter as Waltham could manage only four points. Karrie Pistorino's steal and layup and Deirdre Murphy's basket tied the score at 30 before Flukes hit from the lane at the buzzer to give North a 32-30 edge going into the fourth quarter.

The Raiderettes suffered through their worst shooting period of the season in the last session, hitting on only one of 22 field goal attempts. It still managed to trail by only three with less than two minutes to play, as the defense continued to play tough with Nancy Leonard, Pistorino and Marybeth Maloney leading the way.

North scored its only basket of the quarter with 50 seconds left by McGuggan. Prior to that North had only free throws by Murphy and McGuggan. Collectively, the Raiderettes shot a dismal 13-for-70 from the floor and missed 13 free throws.

Flukes and McGuggan had eight points each. Murphy had six points and 11 rebounds and Maureen Donovan had six points.

Flukes became the second all-time leading scorer with 610 points, passing Eileen Warren, who had 596. She is 26 points behind JoAnn Runge.

Flukes will also break her single-season assist mark of 85 set last year, as she now has 84. She has increased her career assist record to 204 over three years.

"What can you say about a performance like we gave at Waltham?" said Bregoli. "The name of the game is to put the ball in the basket and we just couldn't buy a hoop. I did think our defense, particularly that of Pistorino and Leonard, was great. I also liked what Deirdre Murphy did, especially her rebounding."

"We took a couple of days off after that game and this should help the kids both physically and mentally preparing for the tournament. This group has responded well all year to all sorts of challenges. I have a good feeling going into the tournament because there is no one really outstanding team in our division (Div. 1 South). Whatever the outcome these kids have worked hard to accomplish what they have. I'm really proud of them and the way they have approached the season."

Track Club

Registration March 21

The Quincy Track Club will hold registration for its spring and summer youth programs on Saturday, March 21, and Saturday, March 28, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Atlantic Neighborhood Center, Hunt St., North Quincy, behind North Quincy High School.

An additional registration night will be held Thursday night, April 2, from 6 to 8 p.m., also at the center.

Registration fee is $35 per child. Boys and girls ages 7 to 14 from Quincy and surrounding communities are encouraged to participate. For more information call 328-1417.

Youth Basketball

Tourney Opens March 8

Quincy High basketball coach John Franceschini, director of the Presidents Youth Basketball Program, will hold a youth tournament March 8 to 15 at the Vo Tech gym.

Boys from grades 6, 7 and 8 from Quincy and surrounding communities will play every day Sunday through Sunday with the championship games on Sunday, March 15, at 1, 2 and 3 p.m.

Teams from Quincy, Milton, Braintree, Sharon, Weymouth, Hanover, Marshfield and Norwell have entered the tournament.

NORTH QUINCY'S girls' basketball team is in the Eastern Mass. Tournament for the fourth time in seven years and opened tournament play Tuesday night against Dennis-Yarmouth. Front row, left to right, Maureen Donovan, Tricia Koski, Co-Capt. Anne McGuggan, Co-Capt. Marybeth

Quincy Ends Winless, North Disappointed

The North Quincy boys' basketball team, after two wins in a row, ended its season last week by losing a 44-41 squeaker to Waltham, finishing the year at 7-13.

Joe DeGrandis paced the Raiders with 15 points and Ted Stevenson scored 10.

"I am a little disappointed, as I hoped to qualify for the Eastern Mass. Tournament," said coach Ed Miller. "But I was very pleased with the performance of our underclassmen. Our captain, Jim Phelan, was the only senior starter and he completed a fine career."

"With four starters and all our front court people coming back I am eagerly looking forward to next season."

Meanwhile, luckless Quincy wound up a winless season (0-20) when it lost both games in the Milton Fighting Irish Invitational Tournament.

After being walloped by Newton North, 78-42, the Presidents lost to tourney-bound Milton (17-3), 83-42, in the opening round of the Milton tournament.

Quincy, which had yet another poor shooting night, a major factor all year in its frustration, fell behind, 25-8, after a quarter and was trailing by a huge 51-13 score at the half.

Tom Logan led the Presidents with 15 points and Dan Biagini added 11.

Quincy displayed its best offensive in some time in the consolation game, but lost to Medfield, 70-60.

The Presidents led, 12-11, after the first quarter but Medfield went on an 11-0 run in the second and pulled ahead, 38-26, at halftime. Medfield increased its lead to 62-40 before Quincy came back behind Scott Logan and Nick Dragone to cut the gap to nine. However, time ran out before it could get any closer.

Tom Logan again paced the attack with 17 points. Biagini had 16 and Dragone and Scott Logan had 10 each.

• Executive League

Coleman's 4 Goals Spark Grogan, 7-4

Rick Coleman scored four goals to spark Grogan's Business Machines to a 7-4 victory over Bob White's Place in Executive Hockey League action Monday night at the Youth Arena.

Leo Kearney, Joe Vanazio and Rick Patten scored the other goals and Marty Tolson and Ed Dwyer had three assists apiece and Patten, Kearney and Vanazio one each. White's goals were scored by Doug McLean, Steve Lewis, Joe Flibotte and Jack Duffy. Jack Valle had two assists and Dave Mullen, Duffy and Don Fawcett one each.

Adams Sports defeated South Shore Bearing, 7-3, with Kevin Cobban and Paul Hurley scoring twice each.

Bob Magnaro, Bibby Lewis and Bob O'Connell had the other goals and Paul O'Brien and Bill Hanson had three assists each. Magnaro two and O'Connell and Al Gullickson one apiece. Lee Staskiewicz, Jack Aldred and Chip Linscott scored for South Shore with assists for Kevin Flynn and Aldred.

Beacon Sports topped DiMattia's Sailmakers, 4-1, as John Farren scored twice and Artie Boyle and Kevin Jago once each. Boyle had two assists and Farren and Joe Verlecco one each. Rich Gibbs scored for the Sailmakers.

Broad Meadows To Host Cultural Auditions Project

During the week of March 9 - 13, Broad Meadows Middle School will be one of 10 schools in Massachusetts chosen to be a host school for the Auditions Project of the Cultural Education Collaborative.

The Collaborative is a statewide agency that administers Artists-In-The-Schools Programs throughout Massachusetts. Its mission is to enrich the lives of Massachusetts school children by making the arts an integral part of their education and a catalyst in the learning process.

During the audition weeks at Broad Meadows, an extraordinary range and diversity of artistic events will take place. Artists from different disciplines will audition there will be a music day, a visual arts day, a theater day, a sculpture and crafts day and a dance theater day. Each artist will have thirty minutes to demonstrate the type of work he or she wishes to do in the schools before a panel of artists, educators, community leaders, and students. Broad Meadows' students and teachers will have the rare opportunity to gain an inside understanding of this process by participating in it and seeing artists in action doing what they do best.

In selecting Broad Meadows Middle School as a host school, the Cultural Education Collaborative has recognized the excellence of the Broad Meadows Youth Theater, its Artists-In-Education Program and its commitment as a school to make the arts a critical part of basic education where artists and educators work in partnership to develop programs that lay the groundwork for institutional change and personal transformation.

Travelers Insurance
Headquarters To Move
To West Quincy

West Quincy will have a new neighbor next September when The Travelers Insurance Company moves the bulk of its Boston headquarters, including 450 employees, to Battery March Office Park.

The Travelers Cos. in Hartford, Ct., the parent company of the insurance firm, confirmed that the company has leased one of the new office buildings in the Battery March Office Park on Willard St., near the Braintree line.

The new building houses 107,000 square feet of space. Travelers will be leaving about 113,000 square feet in the 16-story, 125 High St. building in Boston, long known as the Travelers Building.

The insurance firm, a fixture in Boston since 1909, is, in effect, being evicted from its downtown headquarters by the parent company's real estate arm, the Prospect Co., which plans to demolish the 125 High St. building to make way for a $420 million office and retail complex and on land nearby along Purchase and Oliver Sts. Prospect hopes to start demolishing the building this fall.

Real estate sources say the insurance company got a better deal in Quincy including parking accommodations, something that is difficult to come by in many downtown Boston buildings.

Elizabeth Schaezel Appointed
Senior Analyst At Ocean Spray

Elizabeth A Schaezel of Quincy has been appointed senior quality assurance analyst at Ocean Spray Cranberries, in Plymouth.

Schaezel will be responsible for a variety of quality assurance activities, including support for new product introductions, industrial products, external co-packers, and quality procedures.

Prior to joining Ocean Spray, she held a number of supervisory positions in quality control, production, and production planning at Kraft Dairy Group of Framingham.

She has a bachelor of science degree in food and nutrition from Framingham State College.

Marianne Anzuoni
In Realtor Chapter

Boston Chapter of the Institute of Real Estate Management (IREM) installed Marianne Anzuoni of Quincy as a Certified Property Manager (CPM) at its recent chapter meeting.

She is employed by Meredith & Grew, Inc. in Boston.

ORDER NO. 63
ORDERED: January 20, 1987

Be it Ordained by the City Council of the City of Quincy that the Revised Ordinances of the City of Quincy, 1976, as amended are further amended in Chapter 3 Building, Plumbing and Gas Fee Schedule by adding the following Article III Sewerage Rehabilitation Fund.

In accordance with the provisions of Chapter 598 of the Acts and Resolves of 1986 the City of Quincy Sewerage Rehabilitation Fund is hereby established. Contributions to said account shall be made by applicants for building permits for the construction, erection, improvement, reuse or rehabilitation of land or the buildings thereon for industrial, commercial, multi-family and residential uses. Excluded however, shall be single family residences if the owner will occupy said residence as his primary residence for at least one year from the date of completion. Any applicant seeking a waiver based on this provision shall certify that fact by affidavit.

The amount of said contribution shall be one percent of the estimated construction cost. The estimated construction cost shall be computed by multiplying the gross floor area (square feet) by the average square feet as published in the latest edition of "Mean Cost Data" by R.S. Means Co., Inc., Duxbury, MA or other similar recognized national surveys.

Payments made under this ordinance shall be made at the time of application for a building permit to the Building Department.

This ordinance shall apply to all building permits issued after the effective date of this ordinance. For any pending building applications, payment shall be made as a condition precedent to the issuance of a building permit.

Valenti Not Optimistic About Passing Exam

(Cont'd from Page 1)

If no one in the department passes the exam, Valenti said he could stay in the position of acting chief until the next test is given in March, 1988.

"If somebody else passes, there will be a new chief," said Valenti.

"I'm in a quandary as to what I intend to do if that happens.

"I don't have to retire. I can stay on until I'm 65 as, say deputy chief, or retire as acting chief."

The marks should be out in mid-May, said Valenti.

"Then we'll have some idea who passed, and who the next chief will be," he said.

License Request For Catering Firm Continued To March 3

By DAN CONNELLY

Efforts by a catering firm to open a restaurant-catering business in West Quincy ran into a temporary road block Tuesday at the License Board.

Councillor James Sheets told the board that the issuance of a common victualer license to William Calapa to open the Original Joseph's Restaurant-Catering, at 273 Willard St., would aggravate an already existing traffic problem.

Calapa and his family, who for several years have operated the Original Joseph's Catering, Inc., on Gallivan Blvd. in Dorchester, plans to open his new business in a building which formerly housed the Quincy Shade and Screen Company and sited in a mini mall there.

Calapa's attorney, Carl Johnson told the board that packaged meals would be prepared at the Dorchester location and transported to West Quincy in heated containers for take-out or sit-in purchases. Johnson said the business would draw a more mature clientele.

Sheets said his only objection to the enterprise was that it would be creating more headaches in an area already saturated with traffic and parking problems.

Sheets urged the board to do an on-site survey of the projected business venture before ruling on the common victualer permit request.

Board Chairman John Gillis continued the hearing to March 3.

Pfc. Christopher Cook Law Enforcement Graduate

Marine Corps Pfc. Christopher Cook, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alden Strecker of 110 Belmont St., North Quincy, has graduated from the U.S. Air Force law enforcement specialist course at Lackland Air Force Base, TX.

Graduates of the course studied general law enforcement duties, tactics, weapons training, physical apprehension and restraint and earned credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

Good News For Everyone Born Before 1921.

IF YOU'RE A SENIOR CITIZEN, AND YOU'RE WILLING TO SPEND FIVE MINUTES READING THIS, WE'LL GIVE YOU TODAY'S CABLE FOR A MONTH, FREE.

Until now you probably thought that cable wasn't for you. That it was just an extra expense. If you'll be good enough to spare us your time, we've got some facts that may well change your mind.

CABLE ISN'T JUST MORE TV.

You'll always find programs to entertain you, inform you and keep you in touch, just when you're in the mood. Cable's even got programming especially for seniors. You don't have to watch more, you just enjoy it more.

BASIC. THE HEART OF THE CABLE DIFFERENCE.

People often think that cable must be expensive. But the fact is that the essence of cable, Basic Cable, is really a bargain. You get great reception on the channels you're getting now, plus 33 fascinating new channels. Here's just a taste of what they offer.

Senior Spotlight with local personalities and senior issues.
Senior Nutrition and Senior Exercise
The Discovery Channel with the world of nature and science.
Senior Smarts and the Senior Dating Game
Classics from the golden days of TV and Hollywood
Lifetime with tips on finance and life extension.
C-span with coverage from Congress
News 24 hours a day, world, financial and local
Country and classical music, The Home Shopping Network
Economies of one and two person households.
National Geographic Explorer Series every week
Plus The Weather Channel and documentaries not seen on ordinary TV

PEOPLE ARE A PART OF THE PICTURE.

If Basic is the heart of cable, Senior Service is the soul. Our people go out of their way to provide thoughtful, courteous and prompt service to everyone. But especially to senior citizens. Just listen to what some of our senior subscribers have to say about us:

"Senior Smarts has done a great deal to add to the enjoyment of senior citizens and helps to keep them young, active, and important."
Steve Marx

"Let me thank you for your good service and especially for providing such good TV as Mother Angelica."
Mary A. Maloney

"I'm pleased beyond words... I find your working crew polite, efficient and you keep your word!"
Phyllis Aceto

"It is really a pleasure to deal with honorable people. Thank you very much."
Joe and Esther Koss

We could tell you about cable for hours, but there's no substitute for first hand experience. That's why we're making this special offer to senior citizens only. We'll install cable and give you a month's Basic Cable service, all for free. You can sit back and see what Basic Cable's got for you, without spending a cent.

A GUARANTEE, NOT A GIMMICK.

We don't want you to rush into anything. We're giving you a month's free service to help you make up your mind. If, at the end of it, you're not completely satisfied, we guarantee we'll remove your cable and that will be that. So, what have you got to lose?

If you'd like to give cable a try, please give us a call at One month after installation, you'll see why some of our happiest subscribers are seniors. Because you'll be happy too.

Ruth Wainwright As Sun's 'Citizen Of Year'

Ruth Wainwright of Houghs Neck, a long-time community service volunteer "who gives with her heart" was honored Sunday as The Quincy Sun's "Citizen Of The Year."

The award presentation was made at a reception at the Quincy Sons of Italy attended by more than 100 persons, including city officials, representatives of the various organizations she serves, family members and friends.

Speakers were Mayor Francis McCauley, Ward

Bosworth presented Mrs. Wainwright with a plaque that cited her as "Citizen Of The Year" "for caring and giving generously to the community with her heart."

He noted that the plaque has a clock on it and said: "The clock is symbolic. Ruth. It symbolizes you always have time to help others."

Bosworth also presented her with a framed copy of a special Page One of The Quincy Sun containing a photo and articles of her selection as the second person and first woman to receive the award. Extra copies were presented to those attending.

Last year's winner was Tony Siciliano, Quincy Deputy Civil Defense Director.

In nominating Mrs. Wainwright for the honor, Patricia Shea Ridlen said: "If Ruth was paid for all the volunteering she does, she would be a millionaire."

"Well," said Bosworth, "Ruth might not be a (Cont'd on Page 8)

MAX, a bird who loves gourmet food but hates worms, was introduced to the "U.S. Acres" comic strip this week thanks to the creativity of Robert Tobin, right, of St. Mary's School, West Quincy. Tobin's entry was selected by cartoonist Jim Davis, left, from among 15,000 entries in a Create a Character Contest.

Selected By 'Garfield's' Jim Davis

St. Mary's Student Creates Nationwide Cartoon Character

"So this is St. Mary's, big, fat, hairy deal," said Garfield, the well-known cartoon cat, from the easel of cartoonist Jim Davis Monday to the delight of students at the West Quincy School.

But the comment was only tongue-in-cheek and the occasion was really a big deal—the presentation of $1,000 U.S. Savings Bonds each to St. Mary's School and to student Robert Tobin, 11, grand prize winner in the Create A Character Contest.

Robert's character of Max, a bird who loves gourmet food but hates worms, was selected from among more than 15,000 entries and joined the "U.S. Acres" comic strip Tuesday, the first year anniversary of the strip.

A fifth grader, he was selected as the winner by cartoonist Jim Davis, creator of "U.S. Acres" as well as "Garfield."

"The judging wasn't easy," said Davis. "We couldn't get over how original and creative the kids were. There were many terrific entries to choose from."

In his entry, Robert wrote, "Max is friendly. He can't fly, so he rides his skateboard."

During the ceremony

Monday, Robert was congratulated by Davis who entertained the students by also drawing Odie from the "Garfield" comic strip, as well as Max and Orson from "U.S. Acres."

He was commended by Fr. John McMahon, St. Mary's pastor, and by Mayor Francis McCauley as well.

"It's important to realize what he (Tobin) has done," said McCauley.

"He has created something, that's most important. Many of us will go through life without

4th Graders New Concern

Drug Incidents Down In Schools But Still Problem

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

The number of drug or alcohol incidents in the Quincy Public Schools this year is the lowest in a long time, but the social health coordinator says he isn't letting his guard down for a minute.

According to John "Butch" Mahoney, whose job it has been for the past 16 years to keep those substances out of the schools, such incidents have involved youngsters as young as fifth graders.

And fourth graders know where they can get it, said Mahoney.

"We've seen children in the fifth grade who smoke marijuana or drink vodka or rum before school," he said.

"We've had instances where they come to school drunk, and then get sick.

"We may have lost a good part of one generation to drugs and alcohol.

"That's a group of people ages 14 to 30 who are mixed up, confused, 25-going-on-16," he said.

"We'll have to do more to prevent that from happening to the next generation," said Mahoney.

According to Mahoney, there have only been seven or eight drug or alcohol incidents since September in the Quincy Schools.

"It was a zoo when I first came here," remembered Mahoney. "There was selling and dealing of drugs in the schools."

"We have more people attacking the problem now," he said. "Security people are concerned, the administration is better."

"It's easier to do things on a day to day basis, than to react to a crisis."

"We have to assume that (Cont'd on Page 12)

Registry Site For Homeless Shelter

When the Mayor's Committee to Find a Permanent Location for the Homeless holds its next meeting Thursday, March 12, it will finally be able to make plans with a concrete location in mind.

The location is the Broad St. site of the Registry of Motor Vehicles which has announced it will move to the Quincy Fair Building in Quincy Sq. no later than September, according to Mayor Francis McCauley.

That frees the Broad St. building, which is owned by the city, for use as a shelter for the homeless, a development the committee and Interfaith Sheltering Coalition hoped would occur.

"That gives us time to take care of the details," said McCauley, "such as renovations, terms of usage, and liability."

McCauley said he has also directed the committee to study the feasibility of housing the Detoxification Center in the same building with the homeless, and to report back to him.

The center currently has a three-year commitment from Quincy City Hospital for use of the Gordon House, noted McCauley.

"Space is the critical question," said McCauley. "Is there enough space to house both groups?"

"I have an open mind on the situation, but I don't want to see the two groups jammed in," he said.

The committee will meet at 9 a.m. in the second floor conference room at New City Hall.

The city's personnel director, David Smith, is chairman.

Snow Removal Cost Reaches $353,958

Quincy has spent a total of $353,958 for snow removal this winter, well above the Department of Public Works' budget of $300,000 for that service, but Mayor Francis McCauley said that he is not concerned.

"We'll just use the surplus from the fiscal 1986 budget," he said.

Tax Bill Reminder Notices In Mail

The Tax Collector's office has mailed reminder notices to taxpayers who have not paid their first half 1987 real estate taxes, according to

Mayor Francis McCauley. Persons receiving the notice are reminded that even though the bills were estimated, they were payable in 30 days, and interest will be added to the unpaid balances. McCauley said.

Proposed Wollaston Coffee Shop Fails License Board Inspection

By DAN CONNELLY
Adverse reports from the Fire, Building and Health Departments ended plans of a Roslindale man seeking a common victualer license to operate a coffee shop across from the Wollaston MBTA station.

Tino Kapaniris of 288 Beech St., was making his second appearance before the board for the license so he could open Tino's Place at 301 Newport Ave.
Fire Lt. Paul Cuddy, in a report to Fire Chief Carl Valenti, said he performed an inspection of the old Colonial Bakery and noted a number of discrepancies:

- Electrical and plumbing systems needed considerable work.
- Two apartments above the proposed business. One has three non-related tenants, each with their own bedroom which are kept locked. The second means of egress is through one of the locked bedrooms. Also in this apartment there is an insufficient number of smoke detectors.
- The open attic above the apartments is stuffed with combustibles (scrap lumber, plastics, paints, varnishes, etc.) The owner was ordered to have all of this material removed immediately.

Building Inspector Kenneth Johnson and Health Commissioner M. Jane Giallahue, concurred that Kapaniris has far to go before he can ever think of a license because of the number of violations that have to be corrected.

Kapaniris told the board he had planned to spend $100,000 on the property but did not go into details. He walked out of the hearing before they ruled on his request.

Dialogue during the hearing pointed out that this type of business would create additional headaches in an area already saturated with traffic and parking problems. This location was one of the hardest sections hit in the Traffic 2000 study report to city officials, said the board.

STANLEY R. DENNIS

DAVID B. MacINTOSH

TRUDY BUCKLEY

David MacIntosh Elected Quincy Hospital Managers Board Chairman

David B. MacIntosh was unanimously elected chairman of the Quincy City Hospital Board of Managers for 1987 at a recent reorganizational meeting.

Stanley R. Dennis was elected vice chairman. Trudy Buckley was reelected secretary.

MacIntosh was originally appointed to the board in 1976 and was reappointed in 1982 by Mayor Francis N. McCauley to a five-year term, making him the senior member of the board. He was elected chairman from 1977 to 1979. This past year, he served as vice chairman of the board and chairman of the quality coordinating council committee, which he still heads.

A graduate of Harvard University, MacIntosh is retired as purchasing manager of Armstrong World Industries, Braintree. In the community, he is chairman of the board of directors of the South Shore Cooperative Bank, a member of the Harvard Varsity Club, president of the Harvard Club of Quincy, and a member of the Rural Lodge of Masons of Quincy.

Dennis was appointed to the board by Mayor McCauley in 1984. He is a graduate of Bentley College and received his master's degree in business administration from Suffolk University.

A certified public accountant (CPA), Dennis has his own CPA firm in Quincy. He is also a tenured professor on the faculty at Suffolk University. In addition to being vice chairman to the board, he is also chairman of the finance committee.

Mrs. Buckley was appointed to the board by Mayor McCauley in May, 1985 to fill the unexpired term of Rosemary Wahlberg. She was reappointed to a five-year term this year. She is a retired equity trader with Weedell and Co. on the Boston Stock Exchange.

Mrs. Buckley is a former member and chairperson of the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women, as well as a member of the planning committee that established St. Boniface Parish and church. Besides being secretary to the board of managers, she is also chairman of the personnel committee.

Buccheri Family Requests Condo Plan Withdrawal From PUD

The Richard Buccheri family trust has requested that the development plan which called for the construction of 416 condominium units off Center St. be withdrawn from the formal PUD process, according to Ward 4 Councillor James Sheets.

A public hearing held by the Planning Board in February was attended by 85 residents who spoke in opposition to the project, Sheets said.

Neighbors were concerned about drainage, sewerage, traffic and air pollution, he said. They suggested that the scale of the project was much too great, according to Sheets.

Robert Fleming, attorney for the Buccheri Family Trust, asked that the Planning Department and Planning Board treat the development plan submitted Dec. 31, as a preliminary development plan and not the final plan.

According to Councillor Sheets, this means that the formal PUD process must begin all over again.

A public hearing must be held by the Planning Board. The Planning Board must make a recommendation to the City Council, the City Council must hold a public hearing, and then approve or disapprove the project, he said.

The Greyrock Estates area is located on a 17.2 acre site off Centre St. at Bartlett St.

Licensing Board Briefs

The city's License Board took the following action at Tuesday's meeting at City Hall.

- Granted a request from St. Boniface Church, Germantown, for a one-day all alcoholic license for Friday, March 13, during a dinner dance in the church hall. Hours are 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.

- Granted a request from Roger Kineavy, director of the Sacred Heart Parish Two and One Club, Couples and Singles, for a one-day all alcoholic license for tomorrow (Friday) during a St. Patrick-Shamrock dinner dance in that North Quincy parish school auditorium. Hours are 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. This is an annual event.

- Granted the Quincy Visiting Nurse Association,

1120 Hancock St., a license to sell second hand articles and bric-a-brac in a store at 72A Billings Rd., Wollaston. Thomas Maher of Quincy, representing the association, explained the store will also serve as a location in disseminating information about the Quincy Visiting Nurses' hospice program. Maher added a small profit will be realized from store sales which will help fund that group's programs.

- Granted a request from the American Heart Association, 1105 West Chestnut St., Brockton, for a one day beer and wine license on Sunday, April 26, for a fund-raising event at the National Fire Protection Association-Battery March Park, West Quincy. The event will be held from 3 to 6 p.m.

Announces Candidacy LaRaia Optimistic He Can Win Back Mayor's Office

Joseph LaRaia has launched what may be the political campaign of his life—a quest to return to the mayor's office.

LaRaia, who is vacating his City Council at-large seat to challenge incumbent Mayor Francis McCauley, says there "are needed changes that must be made in our city."

LaRaia made his official announcement last week at a $10 per head fundraiser at the George F. Bryan VFW Post. An estimated 250 attended.

LaRaia expressed optimism that he can win back the mayor's office which he lost to Arthur Tobin in 1977 after a two-year stormy administration. His loss was by 5,050 votes.

Two years before, LaRaia had wrested the mayor's office away from Walter Hannon on a recount that gave him the win by 483 votes.

Both the campaigns with Hannon and Tobin were bitter.

LaRaia said he would not run for mayor unless he thought he could win.

He said he could expect "that certain people will try to discredit me because I had some problems with appointees during my administration as mayor."

LaRaia said his own public service "has been untarnished" and that he could point to "the successes of many individuals associated with me during my term as mayor."

The text of his announcement follows:

"One thing I will not do tonight is disappoint those youthful aspiring candidates for the City Council who want the opportunity to break in to local politics—they deserve that opportunity. And I will not disappoint the supporters of my candidacy for mayor both here and throughout the city, as I indicate this evening to you that I will be a candidate for mayor in this year's election.

"This year completes over 23 years of public service to the citizens of Quincy, 20 of those years in elective office. Having carefully assessed my future political plans with my family, friends and well wishers, I have made my decision to run for mayor.

"I am a candidate not because of the apparent glamour of the office, because I know the obligations of that office having been there for two years. I am a candidate because there are needed changes that must be made in our city if we are going to raise the quality of life to our expectations.

"I know I can win that office but only with your support and the support of friends and neighbors. I am prepared to initiate those ideas and plans that will bring pride and enthusiasm to our citizens and to encourage their participation and their impact into the direction they expect their city will go.

"Ten years ago I served as your mayor for a two-year term. During that period of time we fulfilled several needs that were critical to the citizens of our community. It was an active two years. We obtained the federal funds to build a new city hall addition. We began the reconstruction of the North Quincy High School and the addition to the Merrymount Elementary School.

"We built the outdoor amphitheatre at Merrymount Park that has provided summer enjoyment for many people including senior citizens. We implemented a central maintenance facility for city vehicles and completed an ambitious revitalization plan for the central downtown shopping district. Our public safety

Beautification Program For Downtown Quincy

Mayor Francis X. McCauley announces that there will be a beautification and flower planting program for downtown Quincy.

Councillor Patricia Toland, chairperson of the Downtown and Beautification Committee, has asked Mayor

McCauley to formulate a small task force to survey and make recommendations.

The task force consists of Peter M. Kenney, Executive Secretary to the Mayor, Elizabeth McElaney of the Planning Department and Frank McLaughlin of the Park Department.

Some of the sites that will be refurbished are Christmas Island, Liberty Tree Park, the Ross Memorial and Robert Burns Park.

The work will include flower planting and extensive trimming and mulching.

McGrath To Run At-Large

Stephen McGrath, who some see as the best looking mayoral timber in the present City Council, has opportunity knocking.

And he plans to be there to answer the door.

McGrath will definitely vacate his Ward 5 seat to run for one of the two to be vacated Council at-large seats.

He will soon be announcing his candidacy. Maybe by next week.

McGrath will make it clear that he is running for council at-large.

Period.

Political observers, however, will see it as the right move for a ward councillor who someday would like to be mayor.

"I like the City Council," McGrath says. "My perspective has been broadened the past couple of years as City Council president. I would like to remain in the City Council for at least two more years."

McGrath, who is in his 10th year as Ward 5 councillor, will be 34 in August. He is young enough to wait and pick the right time to make a move for mayor.

It could be two years from now. Or four. Or longer. Observers see him as a main beneficiary of Joseph LaRaia's decision to give up his at-large seat to run for mayor this year.

That creates two open at-large seats. Richard Koch, Jr., who has moved to the Cape will not seek re-election. It will be the first time in recent years anyway that there has been two vacant seats in the council at-large field.

McGrath had been thinking of running at-large this year even if there was only one open seat. Now LaRaia's decision to go for mayor makes it a very attractive picture and golden opportunity for McGrath.

Too good an opportunity to pass up, observers feel. He'd be foolish not to run, they add.

The way they see it, he is virtually certain of taking one of the two seats.

In addition to the two seats to shoot at, McGrath has another plus going for him. In the final election (he is sure to win a nomination if there is a preliminary election) his name will be first on the ballot. With the "Candidate for Re-election" designation under it -- a vote getter in itself.

In the preliminary elections, ballot position is determined by a lottery drawing. In the final, candidates are listed alphabetically with incumbents first.

This means McGrath would be listed first and incumbent Patricia Toland second.

The argument over whether a ward councillor can have a "Candidate for Re-election" designation was settled in a court decision in the 1977 city election when Ward 6 Councillor Dennis Harrington ran at-large. He went to court for the right to use the "Candidate for Re-election" tag and Superior Court Judge Henry Chmielinski ruled in his favor.

Harrington, however, did not win. Although he was nominated in an eight-candidate field, he lost in the final election. He finished fourth behind Francis McCauley by less than 300 votes. Paul Harold was the big winner, polling 21,243 votes. John Quinn was second with 13,827 and McCauley third with 13,626. Harrington had 13,363.

As it turned out, that was a crucial election for McCauley who was making a run for an at-large council seat after serving as a School Committee member.

That, observers feel, was the turning point in McCauley's political career. Two years later he topped the at-large field and in 1981 was elected mayor.

This year, McGrath could be in the same boat with the same paddle. A win will put him in a strong position for a future bid for mayor.

After nearly 10 years as Ward 5 councillor, McGrath enjoys the image of a bright, articulate political figure who is usually sure of what he says before he says it, doesn't get embroiled in controversy but speaks his mind.

He likes municipal office. He has liked being Ward 5 councillor and now would like to broaden that service as an at-large councillor.

And then, someday, as mayor.

Eleanor Reidy To Chair McCauley Reelection Campaign

Mayor Francis X. McCauley announces that Eleanor M. Reidy, his former personal secretary, will be his chairman for the upcoming reelection campaign.

She will replace Jack Powers who has accepted a position out of state.

Mrs. Reidy has been a member of the McCauley Campaign Committee since his first run for mayor in 1981.

She supervised the campaign headquarters and assisted in coordinating the workers for his three previous successful campaigns.

Mrs. Reidy has been a strong ties to the community. She is an active member of St.

strong supporter of Mayor McCauley for many years.

Her association with the mayor began when she became his secretary at the Presidential Cooperative Bank (now the Granite Cooperative Bank).

After his first successful bid for the mayor, Reidy served as his personal secretary for McCauley's first term in office. After a brief retirement, Reidy returned to complete the mayor's second term.

Born in Quincy, she has John's Church where she serves as a lector.

Mrs. Reidy is vice president of Quincy City of Presidents

Chapter AARP, recording secretary of The Mayor's Commission on Handicapped Affairs as well as the recently named 100th Anniversary of Quincy Committee.

She is a former member of the Council on Aging and served as the mayor's liaison to the South Shore Cultural Commission and organized the mayor's office private welcome to the late Ruth Gordon prior to the day's festivities.

Mrs. Reidy is married to Timothy J. Reidy, Sr., an ex-prisoner of war and a member of the American Ex-Prisoners of War, Massachusetts Chapter No. 1.

To Drop 'Acting' Title

Valenti To Be Named Permanent Fire Chief After Exam Appeal

Carl Valenti will soon be able to drop the word "acting" from his title of Acting Fire Chief of Quincy.

Valenti said he learned Friday that the Civil Service has raised his mark to a passing grade for the last test given for chief. He had entered his second appeal.

That means that Valenti, 58, will soon be named permanent chief and can serve in the $56,582 position until he is 65. His salary will remain the same.

"I feel terrific," said Valenti. "I feel as though I have been vindicated of the stigma of not passing."

"It was the first exam in my whole life that I didn't pass."

"I feel now that I belong in

CHIEF CARL VALENTI

the job. I'll feel a lot better being permanent chief.

Mayor Francis McCauley said that as soon as he receives the Civil Service list, he will act to make Valenti permanent chief.

"I'm pleased for him. He's been a good chief."

"We've established a very good working relationship," said McCauley.

Valenti, almost a 30-year veteran of the Quincy Fire Department, has been acting chief since the retirement of Chief Edward Barry in August, 1985.

He passed the written part of the last civil service test for chief, but did not pass the second part on fire problems. His score was 65.7. Passing grade is 70.

Valenti's grade was raised two points after his first appeal.

He had planned to take the next test for chief March 21, but did not expect to pass because the job has kept him too busy to study.

"You really have to study four or five hours a day for five to six months for the exam," Valenti had said. "Some people even study for a year."

"Your mind has to be absolutely clear, and there is too much pressure from the job to allow studying," he said.

But Valenti doesn't have to worry about taking any more tests.

"I'm going to be around for a while," he said.

Quincy's Yesterdays

Cyril Morrisette First Quincy WWI Casualty

The city was still in mourning for Cyril P. Morrisette, the first Quincy boy to lose his life in action in France.

Rev. Thomas R. McCoy spoke feelingly about him during Masses at St. Mary's Church, West Quincy.

The War Department in Washington told Mayor Joseph L. Whiton that it would not be possible to bring his body back to Quincy for burial right now since policy prohibited return of bodies while the war was still on.

WAR WORKERS IN NEW DEMANDS

Several hundred machinists and their helpers from the Fore River Shipyard and the Victory Plant in Squantum met in Alpha Hall to organize and present their demands to the U.S. Shipping Board.

Organizer Daniel R. Donovan of Springfield told them:

"If the workers are to stand back of the President in this crisis they must organize."

"Any employer or other person who at this time interferes with our efforts to give our country that full and undivided support essential to the success of the war ... will in our judgement be equivalent to giving aid and comfort to the enemy."

Journeyman machinists were seeking a wage of $6 a day, helpers $4.50 a day, with eight hours of work in a day for five days a week and four hours on Saturday.

CITY BUDGET DOWN

The City Council was wrestling with Mayor Whiton's $846,046.28 budget, down $69,821.59 from the previous year.

One item that was drawing fire from councillors was a 10 percent war bonus for city officials and clerks at City Hall.

PRESBYTERIAN HOOPSTERS WIN

The First Presbyterian Church basketball team, billed as "the fastest team in the city," took the measure of Company M, 302nd infantry of Camp Devens, 36-23, at the Quincy YMCA.

Kemp had 13 points and Copeland 10 for the winners but the soldiers complained it was difficult to adjust to the YMCA rules after playing under those current in the armed forces.

Nutley Urges Storm Hotline

Ward 6 Councillor Thomas J. Nutley recently submitted a resolve to the City Council urging that a 24-hour hotline be established at City Hall during and for 48-hours after a major storm or other crisis period.

Nutley suggested that such a hotline be manned by informed community or civil defense volunteers, or, if necessary, by city personnel.

to respond to, and to advise and refer, callers regarding the emergencies.

"A significant number of Quincy residents may be concerned and/or adversely affected during, and following, snowstorms, other major storms or by flooding and/or other causes of potential crisis," stated Nutley's resolve.

"The potential exists that the health and well-being of children, senior citizens and others may be adversely affected during and following these emergency periods by the lack of heat, or insufficient heat, or by other emergency conditions at their place of residence."

Nutley also said, "Over 35,000 people die each year due to hypothermia (loss of body heat). Particularly susceptible are seniors over 65 and children under one year of age."

"If we can save just one life... or provide comfort and support during these winter storms to our citizens, particularly our senior citizens, then this program will be well worth the effort."

City Club Honors Martha Donaghue

The Quincy City Club held its quarterly breakfast meeting recently at the Fore River Clubhouse, Quincy Point.

Preceding the breakfast, a Memorial Mass for deceased members was held at Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy with Rev. Cornelius J. Heery, pastor, celebrant.

Following the breakfast, the City Club honored Miss Martha Donaghue, summa cum laude graduate of Boston University with a B.A. in mathematics who was presented a gift from the organization.

Miss Donaghue was left a quadriplegic following a gymnastic accident in high school and continued to complete her high school career and enrolled at B.U. where she recently was recognized for honors and distinction following her four years of college.

Congressman Brian Donnelly attended and praised the City Club for its work on behalf of the homeless, hospitalized and mentally ill.

Guest speaker was Sister

Seafood Surprise Something Different For Lent

For those of you out there always searching for a different way to cook seafood, and with the coming of the Lenten season, try this delicate sauce on the family. If they are anything like we are, they will love it!

SEAFOOD SURPRISE

- 1 Lb of crab flakes
- about 4 or 5 fresh shrimp (cut in halves)
- 4 fresh tomatoes (skin and cut in pieces)
- 1 Tbsp fresh basil (in this weather, you'll have to settle for dry)
- 3 Tbsps olive oil
- 2 cloves of garlic
- ½ pint of heavy cream
- 3 ounces of cream cheese
- small container of cottage cheese
- 1 Lb of Rotini (a spring-like type of pasta)

In hot oil, saute the garlic and tomatoes. Add the basil, shrimp and crab flakes and cook for a couple of minutes. Then stirring frequently, add the heavy cream, the cottage cheese and the cream cheese. As it thickens, salt and pepper to taste.

Boil the pasta, drain and pour this delicious sauce over the pasta, topping it with some parmesan cheese if you like!

Ruth Wainwright Sun's 'Citizen Of The Year'

millionaire in mere money. But she certainly is in friends who respect and love her and know what she has done in the community—even though she doesn't go around saying what she does.

"There are givers and takers in this world," said Bosworth. "Ruth, we all know, is a giver. She goes quietly about helping others without fanfare. She does it without expecting anything in return. She gives because she wants to give. She gives from the heart."

"She is an unsung hero—a generous giver who certainly makes up for an awful lot of takers in this world."

Bosworth concluded: "Thank you, Ruth, for being 'Our Citizen Of The Year.' And thank you for just being you."

"It's my great privilege to be here," said Mayor Francis McCauley, "to extend the greetings of the citizens of Quincy, first to Henry Bosworth, the publisher of The Quincy Sun, who established the Citizen of the Year award last year."

"We're delighted to see the first recipient, Tony Siciliano, back this year, certainly an excellent choice."

"We were away on vacation and got back about the middle of January. Sandra and I, and I had to catch up on the newspapers."

"We were delighted to read in The Quincy Sun of the selection of Ruth Wainwright as the second recipient of this award."

"Of course we know Ruth because we live in Houghs Neck and we're neighbors. In fact, when somebody asks me, 'What street do you live on?' I say that I live on the same street as Ruth Wainwright—Manet Ave. She's 97 and I'm 210."

"Both Sandra and I had the privilege of working with Ruth over the years."

"I'm sure someone is going to recount all the good works she's done."

"She's been a hospital volunteer, she's been a correspondent for The Sun, the Ledger and, of course, we know her as a community person in Houghs Neck, a long-time worker for the Houghs Neck Community Council, along with Dot Laine, they're the historians."

"They tell you what's gone on, what's going on and what should be going on in the Houghs Neck community."

"I was also delighted to see that Ruth got this award because Ruth is a quiet person, she's a very unassuming person, and people like that do an awful lot of good."

"But sometimes, they get a bit lost in the shuffle."

"They don't blow their own horns, but they do their work quietly, but they do it very efficiently."

"But sometimes, they get passed over and that was, again, one of the reasons I was so happy that the judges selected Ruth Wainwright, certainly a good and excellent second recipient."

"I also think, and I've told this to Henry, the judges have done an excellent job."

"This award is meaningful because they do have a broad area of judges who get a broad selection of nominees from the judges and the judges. I think, in the first two instances, have done an excellent job."

"So, Ruth, I just want to congratulate you."

"I'm pleased to be living down the street from you on Manet Ave."

"Hopefully, we'll be there for many years as neighbors."

"I really, really want to thank you for all the good works you've done, not only in the Houghs Neck Community, but in the city of Quincy as well."

Councillor Cheney presented Mrs. Wainwright with a commendation from the City Council congratulating her for being selected as The Sun's "Citizen Of The Year."

"This is a very special occasion for me as well," said Cheney, whose district includes Houghs Neck.

"As Mayor McCauley alluded to, Ruth is a very, very quiet person."

"She does her job in the community on a daily basis."

"Without her, I think the community would suffer tremendously."

"Ruth calls me on a monthly basis to remind me that my article for the Houghs Neck Bulletin is late, and to please get it in right away, we'll hold the presses, Mike, so if you could just run down here."

"She's very, very kind. At 11 o'clock at night, when I drop it off on my way back from City Hall, you see the arm come out from the door and pull it in, she's already editing it."

AMONG THE NOMINEES attending The Quincy Sun "Citizen Of The Year Award" ceremony at the Quincy Sons Of Italy were, from left, School Committee Vice Chairman Steve Durkin, Police Chief Francis Finn, Rev. Alicia Corea, co-pastor Houghs Neck Congregational Church; Doris Oberg, past president Quincy Historical Society, Mary Collins of Houghs Neck, Sheila McIntyre, Fr. William McCarthy, pastor St. John's Church and former Ward 1 Councillor Leo Kelly.

LONG TIME FRIENDS of the Atherton Hough School were among those attending the Quincy Sun "Citizen Of The Year Award" ceremonies honoring Ruth Wainwright. From left are Miss Ruth Greeley, former teacher; Mrs. Wainwright, Miss Mary Sweeney, former teacher Miss Ruth Abbiatti, former principal and Richard Wainwright.

"So, we certainly do appreciate her."

"The mayor did allude to her vast knowledge of the history of Houghs Neck, as well as the history of Quincy."

"We rely very heavily on that, as well."

"It's an excellent educational tool for our children, as well as a very interesting aspect for people who are looking to purchase homes and settle in the community, as known and respected as Houghs Neck is."

"I'd like to take this opportunity to congratulate The Quincy Sun for providing such a platform."

"This is truly a community award, as Henry alluded to."

"The people who are on this committee, I'd like to congratulate them for selecting Ruth Wainwright who has served the city of Quincy very well as well as the people of Houghs Neck."

"This is certainly an opportunity for us to thank her, recognize her and tell her it's not over."

"Although you're being recognized, we expect you back on the Bulletin right away, and we'll hopefully still get those phone calls to remind us."

Mrs. Wainwright was selected by a panel of judges from among 43 nominees submitted by readers of The Sun.

The award ceremony was videotaped by The Sun's cable news Channel 8. Excerpts were shown on Ch 8 Monday and Tuesday. A videotape copy of the entire proceedings will be presented to Mrs. Wainwright as another memento of the occasion.

Mrs. Wainwright, a wife, mother of seven and grandmother of 10, has been active in many community causes over a long period of time. She has clocked more than 3,500 hours as a

Robert Littlewood, 80 Past Grotto Monarch

A funeral service for Robert Littlewood, 80, of Quincy, was held Monday in Christ Church, 12 Quincy Ave., Quincy.

He died Feb. 27 at Quincy City Hospital.

Mr. Littlewood was born in Ireland and lived in Vermont before moving to Quincy in 1924.

He was a member of Christ Church in Quincy, where he had served as an usher. He was past president of the Lawrence Men's Club and past monarch of the Taleb Grotto, Quincy. He was also an outside tyler of the Rural Lodge A.F. and A.M. for more than 31 years.

He is survived by his wife, (Filkhill) Littlewood; a daughter, Marsha Burke of Easton; two brothers, Joseph Littlewood and George Littlewood, both of Quincy; and six grandchildren. He was the brother of the late David Littlewood, William Littlewood and Albert Littlewood.

A Masonic service was held March 1 by the Rural Lodge A.F.

Burial was in Blue Hills Cemetery, Braintree.

Funeral arrangements were by the Wickens and Troupe Funeral Home, 26 Adams St., Quincy.

Memorial donations in his memory may be made to the Christ Church Memorial Fund, 12 Quincy Ave., Quincy, 02169.

George Douglas, 74

A funeral service for George Douglas, 74, of Quincy, was held Monday by the Rev. Richard Malmquist of the First Baptist Church of Wollaston, at the Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave., Quincy.

Mr. Douglas died Feb. 27 at the Robbin House Convalescent Home after a long illness.

He attended the Canton School for the Crippled.

Mr. Douglas is survived by three cousins, Douglas Barry and Virginia Barry, both of Quincy, and Barbara Barry-Hogan of Weymouth.

Burial was in Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Did you know that you can accomplish about anything you want to do just by spending 15 minutes a day working at it? This is a fact that is astonishingly true! For example, in just one year or less you could: 1. Read the entire Bible, 2. Become physically fit, 3. Paint a house, 4. Learn a foreign language, 5. Write a book ...

The beauty of taking these 15 minutes each day is that it helps one stop postponing things one really wants to do or needs to do. It gets things started. It halts procrastination. It banishes discouragement and there is something discouraging about seeing and knowing something has to be done and never "getting around to it." By taking these 15 minutes a day and working at one particular goal or task one is showing purpose. Habits of industry are being established.

Interesting idea? We think so ... Why not try it for a week. You might be surprised at what you accomplish in just those few minutes!

$1.4 Million More In State Aid Than Last Year

Quincy will receive at least $1,443,346 more than last year in local aid, Sen. Paul Harold said Tuesday after the Massachusetts Senate adopted a record $3.9 billion local aid resolution.

That brings to $31,503,291 the amount of aid Quincy will receive, according to Harold. The figure does not include the state's lottery reimbursement to Quincy which was not available as the Quincy Sun went to press.

The Cherry Sheets, containing such information, were due Wednesday afternoon.

Mayor Francis McCauley declined to comment until the lottery money had been figured into the total.

Harold said that the new aid to Quincy represents a reduction of 40 percent over last year's increase. The total amount of new local aid money statewide is 20 percent less than last year's increase, he said.

"We knew there would be a reduction in state monies because we reduced the surtax," said Harold.

"We're not getting less local aid, it's just not growing as rapidly as in the past," he said.

Harold said he anticipated that additional monies would be coming from the state to make up at least 70 percent of the losses of the reduction in federal revenue sharing.

Additional monies will also be sought through other programs, he said.

"This is the fourth year in a row that we have had an early resolution of local aid so that cities and towns can include the figures in their budget," Harold said.

He said that the rate of reduction is not equally shared among all cities and towns, and the South Shore communities are taking greater reductions.

"We'll continue to fight for additional aid through other grant programs and awards to equalize the disproportionate amount of monies to such cities as Boston and Brockton," Harold said.

"Overall, its good news for the city and taxpayers," he said.

Sheets Wants Blasting Ordinance

Ward 4 Councillor James A. Sheets, will introduce a blasting ordinance designed to control pre-blast surveys.

For all permits issued (rock excavation), a pre-blast survey will have to be made by the contractor or by an approved firm, satisfactory to the contractor's insurance company, according to the ordinance.

The pre-blast survey will include a survey of the interior and exterior of existing and stone walls adjacent to the project before any blasting is done, Sheets said.

The survey will record all visible structural defects such as cracks, settlement, and lines out of plumb, according to Sheets.

Survey data will be recorded in a permanent manner in approved hard-bound notebooks, Sheets said, and will include Polaroid photographs showing the building constructions surveyed referenced to the notebook pages.

A tape recording of all data pertinent to the survey will be made, said Sheets.

The scope and format of the record survey data will be satisfactory to the building inspector and or engineer, he said. Before commencing any blasting or ledge excavation, copies of the survey must be on file at the offices of the Quincy City Clerk, Building Inspector and Engineer, according to Sheets.

The councillor said he is also considering a zoning change that would require a special permit before any blasting can be done within 150 feet of any residential zone, including zone A, Band C.

Councillor Sheets said the recent experiences of his constituents on Hall Place, Smith and Quarry Sts., as well as the dead-end section of Liberty St., clearly indicate they need additional protection while blasting is occurring in their neighborhoods.

McGrath Supports Regulation On Zoning Crossover

City Council president Stephen J. McGrath announces his support to regulate the so-called crossover provisions of the zoning code.

McGrath noted that "currently, zoning permits a dense residential use in a business area automatically without any type of permit process."

"This zoning change is the first to emanate from the Zoning Task Force I appointed last spring which reported back to me in December," said McGrath.

"Currently a business zoned parcel, or small business area, which frequently abuts residential areas can automatically be used for a dense residential use.

"For example," said McGrath, "a Business B area in parts of the city such as along the Hancock St. area can automatically be used if 'crossed-over' to a residential use, to Residence C, the most dense residential use, which can permit up to a building of eight stories.

"Such a structure has no business being in a residential area. This proposal would require that public input be allowed in a permitting process," said McGrath.

$236,000 State Grant For Pedestrian, Traffic Improvements

Mayor Francis McCauley announced Tuesday that the $236,000 Public Works Economic Development Grant agreement had been finalized between Quincy and State Department of Public Works Commissioner Robert Tierney.

The grant, with a $59,000 commitment of local matching funds, enables Quincy to begin engineering and design work for pedestrian and traffic improvements through Quincy Center to the Burgin Parkway extension.

Mayor McCauley highlighted the fact that these funds would be used to design a pedestrian walkway over the Burgin Parkway and MBTA tracks which would link the commercial area to the west of the parkway with the downtown area. He stated that the pedestrian walkway has been a high priority project of his administration and now, with the availability of this state grant, will be a reality.

The engineering and design work is scheduled to begin this April and will be completed in March of 1988. While they are being designed, the city will apply for construction grants through the next round of state funding, McCauley said.

Remove Cemetery Decorations

The Quincy Cemetery Board of Managers requests the removal of all Christmas decorations and baskets from the city cemeteries on or before March 15.

MEET THE NEW DOCTOR IN TOWN!

Hi, I'm Dr. Jack M. Arpano, D.C.

PROFESSIONAL QUALIFICATIONS

Did you know that becoming certified as a chiropractor requires a minimum of six years of highly specialized college training?

Today's Doctor of Chiropractic must complete 4,485 hours of classroom instruction and pass a rigid chiropractic board examination before earning a license. In most states, continuing educational seminars must be completed for annual license renewal.

PERSONAL BACKGROUND

My undergraduate degree is in zoology/biochemistry from the University of Massachusetts at Amherst. I graduated with honors from the Los Angeles College of Chiropractic in Whittier, California and have taken post graduate courses in orthopedics and radiology. I have done a years internship at both the Whittier Health Center and the Salvation Army's intake clinic in downtown Los Angeles, California. For the past year I have been in semi-private practice in Westminister, Massachusetts. Each month I spend five days attending seminars in Atlanta, Georgia and Natick, Massachusetts to keep abreast of the latest advances in chiropractic.

This is the kind of training and professionalism I offer you. If you have hesitated visiting a chiropractor, perhaps you didn't know that chiropractors go to such great lengths to continue their education and provide you with the latest techniques and the most qualified service. So, you see, what you don't know, can't help you. Call me today and let me help you.

Did you know that the symptoms most commonly treated by chiropractors are:

Back Pain
Neck Pain
Stiffness
Numbness

Headaches
Arthritis
Bursitis
Hip Pain

Painful Joints
Shoulder Pain
Arm/Leg Pain
Cold Hands/Feet

To introduce you to the healing world of chiropractic, please accept my special offer:

departments were operating at safe and adequate levels. Those are some of the more visible programs that we were associated with. There were others, some were not completed due to my early departure from city hall. Many of the people who were associated with me excelled in careers they pursued. Some are presently working for the present administration. Therefore, you know what I can create and accomplish as your former mayor.

"As I look around the city today, I see an urgent need to change the face of our city. What needs to be changed depends on the kind of window that you are looking out of.

"Who is to blame for the condition of the city is not as important as the desire to correct the problems facing us.

"I see the need to revitalize the central retail district in Quincy Center just as other communities to the north and south of us have accomplished. The sale of the Remick building recently is a dramatic turn of events in our retail district. A bustling and exciting retail area will create the activity that is absent in our community.

"The condition of our parking facilities operated by a private firm has destroyed the once aesthetic appearance of downtown Quincy. I do not believe we can continue to operate this facility under private contract.

"I believe that additional parking facilities must be made available to provide adequate parking for shoppers and businesses throughout the Quincy.

Wollaston and North Quincy areas. The present major development at the former Bargain Center site is an example of creating a big development with a mere minimum of required parking.

"The antagonism created on an unsuspecting public with $5 parking tickets has become an additional tax on rent payers and homeowners. The public should not have to be paying while the development boom is taking away our precious parking areas. While $5 tickets are being pushed at a record pace, the MBTA parkers are grabbing the best parking spaces in our public garage which was paid for by local taxpayers.

"In the area of education, we must be sensitive to the needs of our once devastated school system. A cooperative spirit must be offered by the mayor to parents, administrators and School Committee.

The mayor that you elect for another two years must use his authority over school money issues, not with a dictatorial approach but with a rational explanation for the decisions. Case in point is the issue over the opening of the Wollaston school and the need to upgrade our aging school buildings.

"In the area of traffic flow, we have a major complex problem. East Squantum St. and Burgin Parkway are some of the most critical. Those problems will be addressed in the weeks ahead.

"I see government becoming impersonal and detached from the needs of the local citizens, many people in Quincy share those views. For example, almost everything we do in government is being put out on contract and we are not supervising the work of the private contractor. The Quincy hospital is operated by private contract. Parking areas - public contract, waste removal and street sweeping - private contract, snow removal - largely operated by independent contractors, the ongoing traffic study - private contract.

"We are losing that personalized attention by city employees and administrators with the attitude, 'Let George do it.' And when you complain, the answer you get is, 'It's under private contract.'

"These are just some of the main critical problems facing us in the next two years, by far not the only ones facing us. But I can assure you that as your next mayor I will respond quickly just as I have approached similar problems in the past. I have given you some valid reasons to accept my candidacy for the office of mayor and with your support I can make it happen.

"Last but not least, there has been some rumblings out of city hall that if I become a candidate for mayor, I can expect that certain people will try to discredit me because I had some problems with appointees during my administration as mayor. I can assure you that my record of 23 years in public service has been untarnished and in that period of time I can point to the successes of many individuals associated with me during my term as mayor. Some of these people were selected to serve in the present administration. Others have excelled in private industry.

"If any public official serves in public life without having to endure the disappointments of discredited appointments, he should consider himself lucky not endowed with some divine right."

drugs are there. "It's so important to arm teachers with information they can pass on to kids so they can say no and live their lives drug free.

"We're not letting up. We're staying on top of things, and the kids know we mean business," said Mahoney.

"If I saw the need for an undercover operation, I'd do it.

"We're keeping tight security and continuing to follow up on investigations and to let kids know I'm here," Mahoney said.

Every September, Mahoney lays down the law at the city's three high schools.

"If you're caught with drugs, you'll be arrested, arraigned and you'll have a record," says Mahoney, who as a constable is empowered to make the arrests.

"You'll be limiting your chances of going into the armed services or the civil service.

"You'll be limiting your career opportunities. You'll also be suspended from school.

"If you want that, go ahead. But don't say that you didn't know."

Some of the students do go ahead.

Sixteen-year-old Theresa (not her real name) was apprehended at North Quincy High School with 45 pills of speed.

In her locker was a plastic bag with 45 blue capsules containing a white powder also believed to be speed.

Some students bring their problems with alcohol to school as well.

Joe arrived at Quincy Vocational Technical School with his speech somewhat slurred, slightly unsteady on his feet, surrounded by the odor of alcohol.

His mother was contacted at work and she came to take him home.

"This isn't the first time this has happened," she said.

Drug and alcohol problems aren't confined to the upper grades according to Mahoney.

At an assembly of fourth and fifth graders recently, Mahoney asked all those who knew someone who smoked marijuana to raise their hand. Ninety-five percent of them did.

"One child said his mother smoked it," Mahoney said.

Then he asked them if they knew where they could buy marijuana.

Ninety-five percent of them raised their hand again.

JOHN "BUTCH" MAHONEY, social health coordinator for the Quincy Public Schools, displays drug paraphernalia and weapons he and other school officials have confiscated from students over the years. In his hands are an air pistol and black jack.

Mahoney does not downplay the effects of smoking marijuana.

"Marijuana is not the harmless drug some people still think it is," said Mahoney.

"It breaks down the immune system, and stays in the system for six weeks," said Mahoney.

He also said it contains 61 known carcinogens (cancer causes) and is lethal to the lungs.

Mahoney emphasizes the dangers of cocaine as well. "It's instantly addicting," he said.

Students who are caught with drugs are sent to a five-month juvenile diversion program if they are caught with a small amount for their own use, or to the courts if they are suspected of selling, according to Mahoney.

Those who have problems with alcohol are referred to a psychologist, places like Spofford Hall in New Hampshire or the South Shore Council on Alcoholism program in Medford, Mahoney said.

In both drug and alcohol situations, students are also suspended from school, he said.

"There is punishment, but they also need help," he said. Mahoney feels that one of the reasons youths turn to drugs is that they no longer can develop a positive self image through such activities as music, the arts and physical education which have been cut from the curriculum since Proposition 2½.

"There are no sports at all in elementary and middle school, and very little physical education classes," he said.

"In Plato's 'The Republic,' he said the two most important things are physical education and music," Mahoney said.

"There is more to life than the three Rs," said Mahoney.

"We have to help children to develop and stand on their own two feet, to be considerate, honest and hard working.

"We have to recognize that it's not just an educational problem, but a community problem. There has to be total community involvement.

"Quincy has done more than many communities. There is Community Action Against Substance Abuse, the Girls Home, Boys Home, Survival, South Shore Council on Alcoholism, the Youth Commission.

He also praised Broad Meadows Middle School's "Just Say No" to drugs program.

A Drug Awareness Night, open to all Quincy residents, will take place tonight (Thursday) 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the Morrisette Legion Post, West Quincy.

"The Governor's Alliance Against Drugs is on the state level, and Chemical People is on the national level," Mahoney said.

"Everybody is in agreement that there is a problem.

"But the solution has yet to be determined."

Special Lenten Retreat At St. John's Church

A special Lenten Retreat for all youths and adults will be conducted on four Wednesdays during Lent at St. John's Church, Quincy Center, by Brother Joseph W. LaGressa, O.F.M.

Masses will be celebrated at 7:30 p.m. in the upper church on March 11, 18, 25 and April 1, followed by his reflections.

The cleric, who is popular with youth groups and is noted for the types of retreats he conducts, is presently director of youth ministry and religious education at St. Ann's Parish in Neponset.

Brother Joe, as he is affectionately known, who has been involved in a variety of ministries, but mostly with you, said that what motivates me is: "I love God and people very much."

Brother JOSEPH LaGRESSA

He is conversant with many of the problems confronting today's youth based on his experiences on the streets of New York City, the Covenant

House, high school teaching, religious education, CYO, and youth ministry.

He was born and raised in Brooklyn, N.Y. He graduated from Bishop Ford High School in 1964 and began his studies for the Franciscan life by entering St. Francis Seminary in August of that year.

He entered the novitiate in 1967 and took his first vows Aug. 16, 1968. He went on to continue his studies and received a bachelor of arts in philosophy degree from Immaculate Conception Seminary, Troy, N.Y. He also received a B.A. in religious education degree from Siena College, Loudville, N.Y.

In 1971 he made his solemn profession of vows as a Franciscan brother.

Parish Mission Starts March 29 At Sacred Heart

Rev. Cornelius Heery, pastor of Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy, announces a parish-wide mission will begin March 29 and continue through April 2.

Theme of the mission will be "Come and See." The theme is taken from the gospel of John, when John the Baptist and two of his disciples were standing by the river Jordan and saw Jesus. They asked Him "Where do you live" and he answered "Come and see."

This same invitation that was given by Jesus to his disciples is given to all members of the Sacred Heart parish and beyond.

Two of the speakers for the mission will be Rev. Thomas C. Foley and Rev. Philip Conroy.

Fr. Foley will be guest speaker Sunday, March 29, at 7:30 p.m. As a youngster, he attended St. Ann's Grammar School, Dorchester and graduated from Matignon High School, Cambridge. Shortly after, he entered St. John's seminary where upon completion of his studies in theology and psychology, he was ordained to the holy priesthood Feb. 2, 1957. His first assignment after his ordination was to St. Joseph's parish, Woburn. He was then assigned to St. Patrick's, Lynn; St. Theresa's parish in Everett and our Lady of Assumption in Lynnfield.

Fr. THOMAS FOLEY

In March of 1981, the late Cardinal Humberto Medeiros appointed Fr. Foley director of the permanent diaconate program, where men study theology for four years and upon completion of these studies are ordained as deacons of the church and assigned to various parishes within the diocese.

In June of 1986, Cardinal Bernard Law appointed Fr. Foley as pastor of Sacred Heart Church, Lexington. He has also been very active, since its inception in 1977, with the archdiocesan office of spiritual development

Fr. PHILIP CONROY

Fr. Conroy will be guest speaker Monday, March 30 Chaplain at Cedar Junction Prison in Walpole, he was ordained in 1964 after completion of his studies at St. John's Seminary. He was assigned as parochial vicar at St. Augustine's church, South Boston. One of his prime missions was working with the young people. He was also very active in their prayer group.

The late Cardinal Medeiros appointed Fr. Conroy as chaplain to Cedar Junction and as chaplain he tries to stress to the inmates how special they are to God

'Did Jesus Do Evil?'

Sermon At Bethany Church

There will be two worship services Sunday, March 8, at Bethany Congregational Church, Coddington and Spear Sts., Quincy Center, at 9 a.m. in the chapel and 10 a.m. in the sanctuary.

On this first Sunday in Lent, the senior minister, Rev. J. William Arnold, will preach the sermon titled "Did Jesus Do Evil?" Scripture readers will be Beatrice Siddons in the chapel and Sylvia A. Byorkman in the sanctuary.

During the sanctuary service the Chancel Choir under the direction of Peter E. Krasinski, organist, will present two anthems, "Sunset to Sunrise Changes Now" and a composition adapted from Orlanda Gibbons, "When My Love to God Grows Weak."

The Sacrament of Christian Baptism will be administered to Michael Sten Brundige, son of Michael R. Brundige and Jane Roberts Brundige. The godparents will be Thomas and Nancy Roberts.

The worship service will be broadcast live direct from Bethany's sanctuary over radio station WJDA, 1300 kc, at 10 a.m.

Sunday School will be in session from 10 to 11 a.m. with classes for pre-school through eighth grade. Nursery care for babies and toddlers is provided under the supervision of Denise Fleming, Bethany's professional early childhood coordinator.

At 11 a.m. there will be a fellowship hour in the Allen Parlor. Individuals and families from the community are welcome to share in the worship and fellowship, and to enroll children in the Sunday School.

The Youth Fellowship, seventh through 12th grades, will meet Sunday evening at 7 p.m. at the church.

On Wednesday, March 11, there will be a Lenten devotional service in Bethany Chapel. The theme is: "The Cross Event: Viewpoint" and lay leader Alfred Joy will read the scriptures and offer prayer. The meditation on "Pontius Pilate: The Official Roman Viewpoint" will be given by Rev. Linda H. Roberts, minister of the First Congregational Church, Billerica, MA.

Following the 30-minute service, a light breakfast will be served in the parish house. Both the Lenten service and breakfast are open to the public, and people can leave for work or school by 7:45 a.m.

Also on Wednesday evening, 7:30 to 9, the last of the Bible Study sessions on "Covenant III" will be taught by Pastor Arnold.

For information on any of Bethany's ministries and programs, please contact the church office at 479-7300.

Cartoon Strip Visual For Sermon At Squantum Congregational

The pastor used a cartoon strip Sunday morning to preach a sermon at the early service of the First Church of Squantum. The sermon was entitled "What It Takes to Be Good Soil."

The cartoon strip was created by the pastor, Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, and teenagers in the Brockton Diagnostic Assessment Center, where he serves as a chaplain in connection with his ministry for The Way Up. Guitarists Andy Ogilvie, Mary Ruth Scott and Robert Dixey accompanied the congregation in the singing of hymns. Karen Reister and Sarah Midlarm were the ushers and Patti Hurd was in charge of the refreshments which took the form of a birthday celebration for Hazel Mayne, Doris Sinckler, Karen Reister and Marc Hurd.

Janet and Lew Townson later sang "Panis Angelicus" by Cesar Franck as special music for the later service. The offertory anthem by the Chancel Choir was "The Lord

Is a Mighty God" by Felix Mendelssohn. Mary Ruth Scott directed.

Dr. Langevin preached on the subject, "What Difference Does It Make Anyway?"

Pat and Henry Sorensen were the greeters, Lore Wallin and Stewart Scott the ushers. Sandra Stohberg and Fred MacMillan hosted the Fellowship Hour after the second service.

Orange Crush, the junior high youth group, met in the afternoon to go ice skating. Seven-Up, the senior high group, met that night to watch a Bible videotape. The Way Up, a youth group for other teenagers in the community, met Monday night this week for worship and recreation, and continues to meet each weekday afternoon from 3:30 to 6 p.m. for a teen work program. The Cub Scouts meet every Tuesday at the church at 1 p.m.

Rev. Dr. Langevin was the guest speaker at the two women's groups in the church at Evening Friendship and Ladies Aid at luncheon. The women's craft group is meeting every Thursday morning at 10 a.m.

Since Wednesday was Ash Wednesday, the beginning of Lent, the church gathered that night for a special Fellowship dinner sponsored by the young people of the church at 6 p.m. and then for a Lenten program which consisted of a time of worship and the viewing of a Lenten videotape. The menu next week will be spaghetti and salad.

This Sunday there will be an all-church breakfast at 9:15 a.m. The money earned from this event will go toward camperships for a trip that the senior high group will be making to California during the summer.

A single worship service for all will be held Sunday at 10:30 a.m. during which the Lord's Supper will be celebrated. Every member of the Board of Deacons will participate. Sunday School is held during the second service.

Covenant Cup Underway

Sunday School Supt. Robert Dano, capitalizes on the media attention to the America's Cup races. The contest motif is a yacht race with three boats representing three teams, blue, green and yellow.

Members of the Sunday School accumulate points by being present for the 9:30 a.m. opening exercise, bringing a Bible, and bringing friends, especially ones who come more than once and become members of the team.

The progress of the teams is demonstrated by three boat models on a course set up on a table. After the points from the previous week are tabulated, a member of each team positions the boat in the proper place on the course. At present, the blue team is leading with 24 points.

The prize for the winning team will be tickets to an ice show, the second place team will win passes to the Museum of Science, the third team will win ice cream sundaes. The child on each team with the most points will keep the boat representing his or her team.

Parish Wide Mission Starts Sunday At Good Counsel

Our Lady of Good Counsel Church will hold a parish-wide mission beginning Sunday and continuing through Thursday, March 12.

Theme of the mission is "Seek The Lord-He Is Near." Rev. Robert Boyle, pastor of Star of the Sea Church, Squantum will open the mission Sunday at 7:30 p.m. speaking on "Faith."

Monday evening Rev. Richard Malone, St. John Seminary, Brighton, will address the topic, "Prayer."

Tuesday evening Rev. John Dooher, Director of the Office of Spiritual Development, Brighton, will speak on "Reconciliation."

Rev. Joseph Byrne, Parochial Vicar, St. Albert the Great, Weymouth will address the topic "Church."

Thursday evening, the final night of the mission, Most Rev. Daniel A. Hart, Bishop of the Brockton Region, will celebrate a Eucharistic Liturgy. Bishop Hart will be the principal celebrant with Rev. James F. Curtin, Pastor, of Our Lady of Good Counsel Parish.

Morning sessions will be held following the 9 a.m. Mass and will be conducted by Rev. Ernest Serino, formerly with the Spanish Apostolate now with the Office of Spiritual Development in Brighton.

During the mission the Parish Choir under the direction of John Flavin with Edward McDonagh, organist, will provide music for reflection as well as congregational music.

The young people are included with special sessions for grades one, two, three (2:45-3:45) Wednesday, March 11, and grades four, five (4-5) Wednesday, March 11. A clown will talk about God. These sessions will take place in the Parish Hall.

No classes this Mission Week for grades six, seven, eight but they will have their special session Monday, March 23 from 6:30 to 8:30 in the Parish Hall. Peace and Social Justice will be the topic presented by Rev. Richard DeVeer from St. Boniface Parish.

RENDERING OF PROPOSED $1.3 million parish center at St. John's Church.

Need $900,000

St. John's Surveys Support For New $1.3 Million Parish Center

St. John's Church is currently conducting a survey among its 3200 parishioners to determine if there is sufficient support to raise $900,000 for the construction of a $1,300,000 multi-purpose parish center.

Rev. William McCarthy, pastor, said tentative plans were prepared by an architect for a one floor (with usable basement) building, to serve as an auditorium stage gymnasium dance floor, which will accommodate up to 750 people.

It would be constructed on Phipps St., adjacent to the convent, with a completion date in the fall of 1988, which is the 125th anniversary of the parish, said Fr. McCarthy.

With $400,000 currently available for the project, Fr. McCarthy spoke at all Masses last weekend and had distributed a pledge memorandum explaining the need for the project. Also distributed was an evaluation sheet to be filled out by parishioners, seeking pledges from $100 to over $500 for a period of three years. He urged the pledge sheets be returned this Sunday, March 8.

He said he would need the support of at least 1,000 parishioners.

Fr. McCarthy said because St. John's is an expanding and very active parish, existing facilities have often proven inadequate to meet the demands placed upon it.

In 1985 a committee of interested parishioners was formed to address the idea and concurred a need for such a facility existed and listed six reasons why:

- To accommodate expanded attendance at Mass on major church holy days, such as Christmas and Easter, as well as for special religious services, because of overcrowding.

- To better accommodate the many social, charitable and fund-raising activities for people of all ages.

- A parish center is essential in carrying out and expanding St. John's youth programs, religious, social and athletic. These programs are particularly important in these times, to insure that our young people are not lost to the church.

- A new center would better serve the needs of the many parish organizations.

- It would provide a convenient facility for the presentation of parish shows, concerts, etc.

- It would provide enlarged facilities to accommodate expansion of CCD and other religious education programs.

Fr. McCarthy said a project of this magnitude necessitates a clear determination of whether there is sufficient parish support before going any further. The collective evaluation will determine the feasibility of this undertaking.

Successful Season But:

North Girls Drop Heartbreaker In Tourney

By TOM SULLIVAN
The North Quincy girls' basketball team finished a highly successful season in disappointing fashion last week as it dropped a heartbreaking 51-50 decision to Dennis-Yarmouth in the first round of the Eastern Mass. Tournament.

Paul Bregoli's Raiderettes finished at 15-6, the third best winning percentage in the school's history. The game was played before a crowd of more than 800 at the North gym.

Despite playing at home, where they had an 11-1 record for the season, it was the Raiderettes who came out cold, missing their first eight shots and turning the ball over seven times in the first five minutes. During that time the tall Dolphins built up a 7-0 lead.

Junior Nancy Flukes finally broke the ice with 2:30 left in the quarter with a layup. Senior Nancy Leonard made a steal and fed junior Karrie Pistorino for a breaking layup. Anne McGuiggan then made one of two from the line to bring North within two. After a D-Y basket, Leonard made a beautiful baseline move as North trailed, 9-7. With eight seconds left in the quarter senior Maureen Donovan picked up her third foul trying to make a charge. Donovan, who had taken two charges earlier, had to leave the game and this hurt the Raiderettes.

D-Y increased its lead from 11-7 early in the second quarter to a big 23-7 with North unable to keep the huge Dolphin front line off the offensive boards.

The Raiderettes clawed and scratched their way back into the game with a tough pressure defense.

North made a remarkable comeback and trailed by only 27-22 at halftime with Flukes, Marybeth Maloney, Rita Rooney, Lisa Mitton, McGuiggan and Tricia Koski making the key plays.

North picked up right where it left off, pressuring D-Y into two quick turnovers. The Cape team went to its press, but Flukes hit Maloney for a layup and then followed her own miss for a layup as North trailed, 27-26. Donovan then hit a long jumper at 5:05 to give North its first lead of the game at 28-27. This capped a run which saw NQ outscore the visitors, 21-4.

After D-Y regained the lead, Flukes hit two consecutive 15-footers to give North the lead again. D-Y led, 35-32, late in the quarter but Koski scored off a fine pass from Flukes and Pistorino converted a short jumper off an offensive rebound to put the Raiderettes ahead, 36-35, going into the final quarter.

North scored the first basket of the fourth quarter but D-Y came back to regain the lead, 41-39. Donovan hit a foul line jumper to tie it at 41 but she fouled out with 4:16 left, the first time she had fouled out all season.

Dennis-Yarmouth went up by four points with three minutes left. McGuiggan made both ends of a one-and-one but a questionable loose ball foul called on Flukes gave D-Y two free throws.

The Raiderettes took a 48-47 lead with 1:08 to play as McGuiggan hit a layup and added two free throws. Another questionable call put D-Y back on the line and it sank both for a 49-48 lead with 50 seconds remaining.

Maloney drove the lane and got bumped but no foul was called. North then had a chance to take the lead but turned the ball over and then was forced to foul. D-Y again sank two free throws.

With 15 seconds left North came down and Koski converted a Flukes miss to cut the lead to 51-50 with eight seconds left. After a timeout North could not catch the D-Y ball handler as she dribbled the last eight seconds away.

Flukes led the way with 13 points, six assists and six rebounds. Her six assists gave her 90 for the season, breaking her own record of 85 set last year.

McGuiggan added eight points, 10 rebounds and three steals. Koski had eight points and three offensive rebounds. Maloney had six points, four assists and two steals and

North Girls Drop 51-50 Heartbreaker

Pistorino had five points. "These girls gave all they had," said a disappointed Bregoli.

"Dennis-Yarmouth had a huge front line, starting three players 5-10 or better. That hurt us as they scored seven baskets on offensive rebounds. We also turned the ball over 28 times, 17 in the first half. I think we were trying too hard, trying to make things happen too quickly.

"Our comeback ranks with the best I've ever seen in all my years of playing and coaching.

Our defense was super. I hate to single out a few, as it was a total defensive effort. I do feel that Rooney and Mitton, along with Patty Feecey, gave us a big lift when our starters weren't going well.

"I feel a couple of phantom fouls called on our kids late in the game by the same official played a big role in the outcome. They did shoot their free throws well and we didn't (D-Y hit on 13 of 16 and North was eight for 18).

"Although the final outcome was a disappointment, this team had a truly remarkable year. They made themselves into an excellent team by blending hard work, togetherness, and an inner confidence among themselves that was hard to beat. They played tough all year and this game epitomized that.

"Special praise has to go to the seniors, who led by example all year. The starters, McGuigan, Maloney, Donovan and Koski were solid all year while Leonard and Mitton consistently did their job off the bench. They have maintained a tradition of excellence which began during the 1980-81 season and has been passed along each year. This enabled this team to reach its full potential and have a great season. Nothing can diminish that."

Flukes Scores 12 Points In All Star Game

Players from Quincy and North Quincy played in the Suburban League all-star basketball game last Friday at North Quincy.

The East squad walloped the West, 93-59, with seven players scoring in double figures. North Quincy's Nancy Flukes had 12 points and five assists. Quincy's Gayle Morrell had 10 points and North's Anne McGuigan had four.

A bright spot for the West was North's Maureen Donovan scoring nine points, including three of four free throws.

North Quincy's Paul Bregoli coached the East squad.

Runge Scores 1000th Point, Bridgewater Wins Conference Title

North Quincy's JoAnn Runge and her Bridgewater State College women's basketball teammates will remember it for a long time to come.

First, Runge, a former North Quincy record-breaker and a four-year standout at Bridgewater, scored her 1000th point to join Cathy Baker and Carolyn Parsley in the team's 1000-point club.

Then, the Lady Bears defeated defending Div. 3 National champion Salem State, 59-54, to clinch the Mass. State Conference championship and a fifth straight Div. 3 NCAA appearance.

The Bridgewater players were motivated by Runge's 1000th point and the misfortune of coach Bo Ruggerio, himself a former North Quincy player whose mother had died two nights previously.

"It was a traumatic week here and the team has really hung together wonderfully," Ruggerio said. "They deserve this. There was an aura of electricity and enthusiasm tonight. JoAnn hit her milestone, we defended our championship for the third time in four years and that assures us of an automatic NCAA bid. All kinds of great things happened.

Runge, whose sister Karen is a freshman member of the squad, received a bouquet of roses upon hitting her 1000th and 1001st points early in the first half.

"I only needed three points, so I knew it would happen tonight," said Runge, who is one of the top scorers and holds the school record for assists. "I think when the game was stopped, we were so excited that we had a hard time getting back into it."

The team appeared to lose its poise after the game was stopped. The Bears committed only 11 turnovers, but made five without four minutes of the first half.

Runge felt that after four straight NCAA appearances this is the Bears' year.

"We knew we had this game," she said. "We wanted it and it's our turn now. We are going all the way. We just beat last year's national champion and we are going to be the champs this year. I think our time has come."

"I don't know about going all the way," said Chris Choukas, another former North Quincy star. "We'll take it one step at a time, hopefully winning the regionals and going on. It would be nice this year because we've made it every year, then faced some tough teams when the ball wouldn't fall our way."

Bridgewater followed up last week with an easy 68-31 victory over Fitchburg State, improving its record to 21-3 with one game remaining. Runge scored 14 points and had her usual share of assists.

Senior Hockey Kelly's, Joe's Win

Kelly's Pub held on to its two-point lead in the Quincy Youth Arena's Senior Hockey League with a 6-2 victory over the Fowler House.

John Pelican had two goals and Glenn Hanson, Jim Moore, Paul Cooney and Tom Gerry one each. Frank McGinnis and Gerry had two assists each and Pelican, Hanson, Dennis Doherty, Cooney and Moore one apiece. Jim Mullane and John Yaxter scored for Fowler House and John Morris, Brian Norton and Peter Janis had assists.

Joe's Pub annihilated Nostalgia, 19-1, as Tony Messina had four goals, Tom Findley, Mark Boussy, Bob Falvey and Bob Hayes three each, Bob Taylor two and Bob Wilkerson one. Falvey had six assists, Wilkerson, John Findley and Taylor three each, Messina and Carlos Mentz two apiece and Boussy, Bob O'Brien and Hayes one each. The score was a league record. Goaltie Chuck Dooley lost his shutout with 47 seconds left to play. Ed Barrett had the Nostalgia goal and Jim Bowen and Bill Soundez assisted.

Kane's Place defeated Manet Lunch, 5-2, as Tom Cahill scored two goals and John Andrews, Dave Peters and Paul Messina one each. Scott Mikuneskin, Dave Perdios and Peters had two assists each and Cahill one. Mike VanLassell and Pat Clifford scored for Manet and John Jackson, Clifford and George Levey had assists.

Chey's and Bob White's tied, 3-3, with Bill Elwood scoring twice and Mike Marella once for Chey's. Steve Baylis and Tom Spillane had assists.

The standings: Kelly's, 16-4-1; Joe's, 15-5-1; Kane's, 11-7-3; Nostalgia, 9-9-2; Fowler House, 9-9-2; Chey's, 6-12-3; Manet Lunch, 6-14-0; White's, 3-15-2.

Squantum Yacht Club To Sponsor Lipton Trophy Regatta

The officers and members of the Squantum Yacht Club will hold the first Sir Thomas J. Lipton Trophy Regatta, sanctioned by the Massachusetts Bay Yacht Clubs Association, July 18 and 19.

The MBYCA, in conjunction with the Squantum club, unveiled the trophy recently at the South Boston Yacht Club.

The ornate silver cup, 32 inches high, donated by Sir Thomas Lipton, noted yachtsman and merchant, of London, was awarded by former Boston Mayor John 'Honey Fitz' Fitzgerald, grandfather of President John F. Kennedy, to Herbert Albright in 1930 and will symbolize the event.

Past Commodore Don McGilvray of the Squantum Yacht Club, Fred Hersey and Ed Gallagher Sr. met many times over the past few years with Albright and finally prevailed upon him to put the beautiful cup back into active competition. Although he was entitled to possess the trophy for life under the terms of the Deed of Gift, Albright opted to offer it back to the Mass. Bay Yacht Clubs Association, whose officers accepted it last December.

Because the trophy had been held for 56 years by a Squantum Yacht Club member, because Squantum club members, led by McGilvray, pushed so hard for so long to recirculate the cup, and because the Squantum club has the resources, ability and know-how to run a major regatta, the MBYCA has designated the Squantum club as its custodian of the cup under terms which require that the club run a Sir Thomas J. Lipton Trophy regatta this summer.

THE SIR Thomas J. Lipton Trophy.

It will be an annual event, hopefully one of the major regattas in the Northeast in future years

Mite B's Run Win Streak To 11

Quincy's Mite B team extended its unbeaten streak to 11 games during the past week as it rolled over Wellesley, 12-2, and defeated Hyde Park, 6-1, to remain in first place in the Greater Boston League with an 8-0-3 record with three games left.

In the romp over Wellesley A.J. Carthas had four goals, Robbie Callow, Jeff Coleman and Shawn Johnson two apiece and Jimmy Gallagher and Eric Griffin one each. Matt Jarnis, Scott Cooper, Gallagher and John Ryan had two assists each and Callow, Brian Beaton, Mike Ryan, Carthas and Tim Hunter one apiece.

Against Hyde Park Carthas had a hat trick and Callow, Cooper and Gallagher a goal each. Carthas, Mike Ryan and Callow had assists. Quincy goalie Brian Walsh was outstanding.

The Mite B's advanced to the semifinals of the Cranberry Tournament at the Hobbomock Arena in Pembroke before losing for the second time to the tourney champion, Billerica.

Quincy lost to Billerica, 9-4, in its opener. Billerica rolled to a 4-0 lead before Gallagher and Carthas scored, with Hunter assisting on Carthas' goal. Following the fifth Billerica score, Quincy cut the gap to 5-4 on Gallagher's second goal and one by Cooper with Callow assisting. Billerica then exploded for four more goals in the third period. Walsh made a brilliant save on a Billerica penalty shot.

Walsh was again outstanding as Quincy blanked Pembroke, 4-0, with Carthas, Hunter, Gallagher and Johnson scoring the goals and Carthas and Jarnis having assists.

Quincy came back from a 4-2 deficit to top Weymouth, 5-4, in overtime. Gallagher and Carthas scored to give Quincy an early 2-0 lead with Jim Kelley and Griffin assisting, but Weymouth scored the next four goals. Carthas cut the gap to 4-3 with Hunter and Gallagher assisting. With 21 seconds left in regulation and the Quincy goalie pulled, Gallagher tied it up with Carthas assisting. Hunter scored the game-winner a minute into overtime with Carthas getting the assist.

Billerica then eliminated Quincy, 6-1, in the semifinals with Gallagher scoring the lone Quincy goal.

MacGregor, Furtado On Hockey All-Star Team

Adam MacGregor of Quincy and Matt Furtado of North Quincy were named to the Suburban League all-star hockey team.

They, together with Jay Rodriguez of North and Paul Scola and Greg Chambers of Quincy, played on the South all-star squad which faced the North stars last Saturday at Watertown.

Kevin Jago and Rick Avery of North Quincy coached the South squad.

The South squad won the game, 5-3, and all the Quincy and North players performed well.

After the North had cut the South's lead to 4-3, it lifted its goalie and North's Rodriguez scored the insurance goal into the open net.

"MacGregor played an out-standing game and all the other Quincy and North Quincy players did very well," said Avery, North Quincy's assistant coach. "Chambers, who had an outstanding year for Quincy, played a period in goal and did well. Kevin and I were pleased with the performances of all our Quincy and North players."

Scuba Course At Hancock Pool

The Quincy Recreation Department and the Quincy Underwater Recovery Dive Team will co-sponsor an introductory scuba course as part of its swimming programs at the Lincoln Hancock Community school pool.

Recreation Director Barry J. Welch said, "This course has been designed to give the average family access to the sport of scuba with no cost to the participant. The dive team provides the necessary equipment and instructors for the six lesson course, and it enables residents of Quincy an opportunity to become knowledgeable about the sport, equipment, and safety in a controlled and orderly fashion. Although the course does not lead to certification, at its conclusion, participants may elect to enroll in a certification program. It is our hope that a program of this type will prevent persons from "borrowing gear to give it a try" - a dangerous practice which often ends up with injury or death."

There are three weeks of classroom programs and three weeks of pool experience. The classroom lessons will be held Tuesdays at 6:30 p.m. and the in-pool experience on Mondays at 7 p.m. The course will begin Tuesday, March 10. Classes will be held on March 10, 16, 17, 23, 24, and 30. The program is open to all ages from children to adults and family groups are especially encouraged to enroll.

Registration is limited and will take place during recreation swimming programs at the Lincoln Hancock Community school beginning today (Thursday). Additional information can be obtained by calling the Quincy Recreation Department at 773-1380, ext. 204.

Francis Gale Completes Training

Pvt. Francis F. Gale, son of Lillian K. Durante of 294 Furnace Brook Parkway, Quincy, has completed one station unit training (OSUT) at the U.S. Army Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga.

OSUT is a 12-week period which combines basic combat training and advanced individual training.

He is a 1986 graduate of North Quincy High School.

Cabezas Completes Outstanding Season

Rob Cabezas, captain of Quincy's wrestling team, completed an outstanding season last weekend when he placed third in the state championships at Braintree.

Cabezas, Suburban League and South Sectional champion, took a 28-0 record into the state semifinals but was edged, 5-4, by Lexington's David Kim. He came back to finish third in the 135-pound division.

"Robbie, a senior, was a role model for us and was great with the younger kids," said Coach Rich Shiarizzi. "Winding down the season, he gave them the confidence they needed. He listens and is never afraid to ask questions about himself or the other guys. He shows them you don't have to be big to be good." (He is only 5-5).

Over his four-year career at Quincy, Cabezas' records grew, but his weight stayed the same.

As a freshman he reached the sectional finals and in his sophomore year he placed sixth, just missing a chance to go to the states. Last season he suffered a knee injury and was sidelined for eight weeks. But, he won the sectionals without any conditioning or practice.

Cabezas, named Quincy's outstanding defensive back last fall in football, followed in the footsteps of his brother, Kevin, as a member of Quincy's 'Men at Work' squad.

Pee Wee B's Defeat Milton To Clinch State Tourney Spot

Quincy's Pee Wee B team, sponsored by A&T Movers, defeated Milton, 8-4, in its second state playoff game to clinch a spot in the state championship tournament.

Quincy clinched the win with five second period goals. Mike Christopherson and Bob Fitzpatrick scored two goals apiece and Steve O'Brien, Sean McArdle, Mark Gilmore and Joe Zona one each. Christopherson had three assists and Sean Vermette, Mike O'Brien, McArdle, Sean McCarthy and Matt O'Toole one each.

In the Greater Boston League Quincy defeated Triboro, 6-2, to take over the lead in the open division pending the result of the Somerville A-South Boston game.

Fitzpatrick had four goals, including a first period hat trick, and Christopherson and Zona one each. Mike O'Brien, John Gladu, Zona and Vermette had assists. The Pee Wee B's swept two games from Troy, N.Y., 5-2 and 6-2.

In the first game Mike O'Brien, Christopherson, Steve O'Brien, Zona and O'Toole had the goals and Mike O'Brien, Vermette and McCarthy had assists.

In the second game Christopherson had two goals and Jim Smith, O'Toole, McArdle and Steve O'Brien one each. McArdle had two assists and Smith, O'Toole, Steve O'Brien, McCarthy, Christopherson and Karen McCabe one each.

Goalsies Steve Connelly and Eddie Gafanhao were outstanding in both games.

The Pee Wee B's will play in the Watuppa Invitational tournament in Fall River Feb. 26, 27 and 28 and March 1. The state championships will be held March 13, 14 and 15 at the Rockland and Brockton rinks.

Marini's 110 Leads St. John's

Joe Marini continues to lead St. John's Holy Name Bowling League with a 110.7 average, followed by Bob Saluti at 109.9.

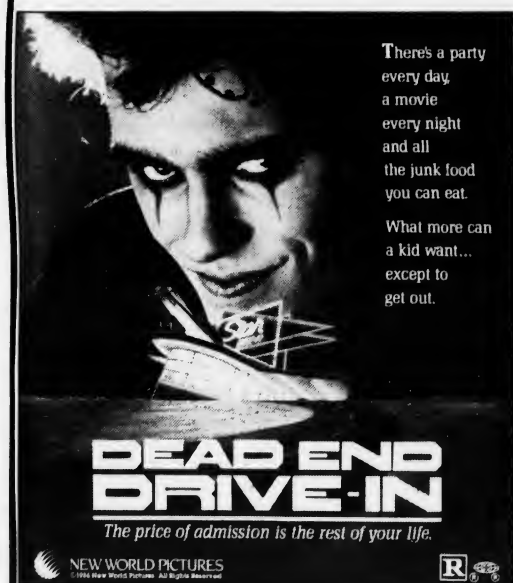

The rest of the Top Ten: Dick Guerriero, 108.5; Mike Panarelli, 105.9; John Grande, 102.9; Lou Faiella, 99.6; Lew MacLennan, 94.9; Tom Darcy, 94.7; John O'Donnell, 94.5; Frank Guerriero, 94.2.

Dick Guerriero rolled the weekly high single of 125 and Saluti had 115. Saluti had the high three of 337 and Guerriero had 334.

Faiella's team had the high team single of 489 and Panarelli had 471. Faiella also had the high team three of 1413 and Saluti had 1387.

The team standings: Saluti, 20-10; Faiella, 24-12; Panarelli, 18-18; Dick Guerriero, 16-20; DiTullio, 12-24; Marini, 12-24.

Atlantic Wins In Overtime, Beechwood Rolls

Atlantic's John Mooney completed a Mike Stanton pass play for two points with only one second left in regulation to force a tie with Montclair in Quincy Recreation Department Senior Hoop League action.

Atlantic then used that emotion to capture a 40-35 overtime victory for its first win in four starts. It was a disappointing loss for Montclair's Mark DiMatteo, who led all scorers with 18 points with excellent rebounding by Kevin Segalla. Dan Hobin was top gun for Atlantic with 15 mostly second half points. He was followed by Mike Stanton with 11, and Brian Orwig with seven. Steve Haggas had nine mostly clutch points while Billy McDougall chipped in two for the Jerry Pratt-coached Montclair team. Steve Rabs was credited with several outstanding defensive plays. Veteran coach George Dunn has had his Atlantic team coming steadily and credited the rebounding of Mark Gillooly as critical to the first win. Montclair is 1-2 and Atlantic is 1-3.

In the second game, Rick Radzik's Beechwood team continues to roll along undefeated, this time posting a 65-50 victory over a previously undefeated Brian Buckley-coached Central.

Joe Mulvey had a league top 24 points game for Beechwood while Jamie Fennessey was high scorer for Central with 12. Kevin Duffy with 10 and Steve Moran with nine rounded out the top three for Beechwood, while Coach Radzik was eager to point out the fine defense and rebounding of Danny Steele and Robbie Herman. Coach Buckley had a balanced attack with Anthony Rugnetta having nine, and Dan McLaughlin seven. Buckley was also pleased with the defense of Craig Goode and Kevin O'Brien. Beechwood goes to 2-0 and Central to 2-1.

The Senior Hoop League is made up of participants from the supervised recreation programs sponsored by the Quincy Recreation Department. Participants cannot have played on a high school varsity team to be eligible. Games are Saturday at Atlantic Middle School at 10 a.m. and 11 a.m. Spectators are welcome.

YMCA Outswims Middleboro

The South Shore YMCA boys' swim team completed its dual meet season with a victory over the Middleboro Y.

The F team (8 and under), led by Cory Madera, Jay Magno, Terrence Roche and James Keyes, wound up undefeated.

The B team (13-14) gained a 39-39 tie and also finished unbeaten.

The A team (15-18) won, 44-39, to tie Middleboro for the Division 2 title.

The Eastern Mass. district championships are coming up at Brockton High and the South Shore Y boys have qualified all 24 of its swimmers.

DiSilvio 5th In Swim Meet

Laila DiSilvio of Quincy placed fifth in the Class B girls' 100-yard breaststroke in the recent Eastern Mass. YMCA Swim League championships at Brockton High.

Teams from 27 communities took part in the championship meet.

Marshfield Fair Premium Books Available At Crane Library

The main branch of the Thomas Crane Public Library, 400 Washington St., Quincy Sq. has a supply of the Marshfield Fair Early Edition Premium Books for distribution.

The unique winter guide was prepared special for past fair exhibitors and those interested in entering the art and craft exhibits, a perennial favorite in this oldtime country fair which is scheduled to run from Aug. 19 through 30. Ribbons and cash prizes are awarded to the best works in all categories in this exhibit.

The book contains hundreds of listings for all ages in art, crafts, needlework, decorative arts, woodworking, canning and both flower and vegetable gardening.

This year's contests and special events are also explained in detail. The specialties on the 1987 Quilt Block Contest are listed along with the all day celebration on "Teddy Bear Day." Information on the Marshfield Fair Cookbook is also included.

Works Of 2 Quincy Artists On Exhibit In Milton

The works of two Quincy artists are currently being exhibited at the Gallery Cafe in The Marketplace, 338 Granite Ave., Milton.

Pearl Finn will feature some of her most recent pen and ink drawings and Joseph McGurl works in oils.

Finn has been involved with the arts for most of her life. In addition to her drawing, she is interested in antiques. She will often combine her interests through subject matter in her art.

McGurl is a full-time artist whose paintings are conceived by working directly from nature and from imagination. His most recent work consists of out-of-door scenes with emphasis on light and color.

The Gallery Cafe is open

ON EXHIBIT -- "The Riverbank," an oil by Joseph McGurl. Monday through Saturday, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Parker PTO To Discuss School Fair

The F.W. Parker's PTO will meet Thursday, March 12, at 7:30 p.m. in the school's media center.

Major focus will be on the May 30 school fair. Volunteers are needed and those unable to attend the meeting and want to be involved in the fair are asked to call Joanne Bragg at 471-3822 or Michelle Pateras at 471-4147.

Wollaston Congregational Plans Flea Market

Wollaston Congregational Church will hold its fourth annual spring flea market, March 28 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The church invites any dealers and craft artists to participate in the flea market. Each dealer will have an eight foot table and two chairs. Those planning to participate are asked to send a letter describing articles to be sold and a non-refundable $20 donation to The Wollaston Congregational Church, 48 Winthrop Ave., Wollaston, Ma 02170.

Letters must be received by March 3. Space is limited. For more information call 773-7432.

Beechwood Corporate Meeting March 11

Sixth annual meeting of the corporation for the Beechwood Community Life Center will be held on Wednesday, March 11, at 7:30 p.m. at the center, 225 Lenox St.

A financial report will be presented to the board of directors. The executive director will report on city and community developments and nominations will be presented for new board members.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

In accordance with the provisions of M.G.L. Chapter 40A, Section 5, the Quincy Planning Board will hold a public hearing on Wednesday, March 25, 1987, at 7:00 P.M., in the City Council Chamber, Quincy City Hall, 1305 Hancock Street, for the purpose of considering proposed amendments to Chapter 24, City of Quincy Zoning Ordinance as follows:

The City of Quincy Zoning Ordinance, Chapter 24, Article V, Section 52 as amended, is further amended by deleting from the Table of Dimensional Requirements the requirements set forth in the column entitled: "Minimum Lot Area Per D.U. (Sq. Ft.) and inserting therein the following minimum lot area per dwelling unit (sq. ft.) requirements:

*Res. A - 7,650	Bus. A - See Footnote 5
Res. B - 2,500	Bus. B - See Footnote 5
4-16 Units - 3,500	Bus. C - See Footnote 5
17 Units and up - 3,500	Ind. A - None
Res. C - 2,500	Ind. B - None
Res. D - 2,500

and by adding to Article V, Section 52, the following:

"Footnote 5. Notwithstanding any provisions in the Zoning By-Law to the contrary, the minimum lot area per dwelling unit is 2,500 sq. ft. for residential uses as may be permitted in other districts, including Bus. A, B, and C."

The City of Quincy Zoning Ordinance, Chapter 24, Article III, The Zoning Districts, Section 31, Subsection 2, as most recently amended, is amended by Deleting:

*MINIMUM PUD PUD-I AREA PER DU (SQ. FT.)	MAX. NO. OF STORIES
1,000	10*

*In a PUD I District, the maximum number of stories shall be limited to eight (8)."

and inserting therein:

*MINIMUM PUD PUD-I AREA PER DU (SQ. FT.)	MAX. NO. OF STORIES
2,500	6*

The City of Quincy Zoning Ordinance, Chapter 24, Article V, "Dimensional Requirements," Section 52, Table of Dimensional Requirements, is amended by deleting the maximum number of stories in Res. C, Res. D, Bus. B, Bus. C, Ind. A and Ind. B zones and adding thereto and inserting therein the following maximum number of stories:

*DISTRICT	DIMENSIONAL REQUIREMENTS
Res. C	6
Res. D	6
Bus. B	6
Bus. C	6

and further, by amending Article V, "Dimensional Requirements," Section 52, "Table of Dimensional Requirements, Maximum number of Stories, Footnote 4," as most recently amended, to read as follows:

"Notwithstanding the number of allowable stories, no commercial or residential building shall be more than sixty (60) feet above the existing average grade exclusive of those necessary features appurtenant thereto as enumerated in Section 36. In no case should any building exceed six (6) stories. Any commercial building with residential housing will be subject to the six-story above-grade limitation."

Residents Input Sought On Planned Catering Firm

By DAN CONNELLY

Input from residents in a section of West Quincy will probably be the deciding factor March 24 on whether the city's License Board grants a common victualer license to a catering firm.

William Calapa is seeking the permit to open the Original Joseph's Restaurant-Catering at 273 Willard St. This would be a branch of his main catering company on Gallivan Blvd., Dorchester.

Councillor James Sheets again maintained to the board he has not changed his position on granting this license. He said this type of business would only aggravate an already existing traffic problem in the neighborhood.

Police Chief Francis Finn, sitting in as board chairman for vacationing City Clerk John Gillis, and other board members, suggested to Sheets he send out a letter to residents for more input.

During Tuesday's hearing, Police Capt. Walter Frazer reported that last week he conducted an on-site traffic survey and emphasized the headache hasn't gone away. His report did state there was only one traffic accident reported to police at that location over a long period of time. Frazer also cited the lack of parking zones in the mini mall where the business would be located.

Developer Richard Buccheri of Quincy, told the board he would do some site work and could increase parking to four more spaces. This would bring customer parking there to 18.

Sheets said he had no argument with the concept of Calapa's business. It's a good one and there is no question he'll do well. But, once he opens it will create more headaches in an area that has more than its share.

Buccheri said it's too bad Calapa is being handicapped even before he has a chance to open.

"Traffic has been a problem there for years and it will never go away, especially when commuters use West Quincy streets as an alternative to avoid backups on the Southeast Expressway," Buccheri said.

Calapa's attorney, Carl Johnson continued to stress that his client's firm will not create more traffic headaches.

The catering firm plans to package a variety of fresh heated meals for take-out or sit-in purchases. Johnson said the business would only draw a more mature clientele and would only be open from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Carolann Speranzo On Contact Lens Society Board

Carolann Speranzo, owner of Second Sight, The Eyewear Gallery, 1147 Hancock St., Quincy, was recently elected to the Board of Directors of the New England Contact Lens Society.

Miss Speranzo is a graduate of Emmanuel College and will shortly receive her Master's Degree in Management from Lesley College. Some of the awards of which she is the recipient include: Fellow Award, Contact Lens Society of America, Fellow, National Academy of Opticianry; Charter Optician, American Board of Opticianry; and has been selected for Who's Who of American Women and Who's Who of Emerging Leaders in America.

She is chairwoman of the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women and the Quincy Chapter of the American Heart Association, a member of the American Association of University Women, American Association of Opticians, National Association of Female Executives and the South Shore Chamber of Commerce.

Stop & Shop Leaving Quincy, To Cut 450 Jobs To Save $14M

In an effort to save $14 million, the Stop & Shop Companies announced they will move the bulk of its Quincy corporate headquarters to Braintree, in a restructuring program that includes cutting 450 jobs.

According to spokesperson Aileen Gorman, the firm will move out of its facility in the State Street South complex on Heritage Drive, North Quincy, sometime later this year and relocate into a new office building in Campanelli Plaza in Braintree.

The diversified grocer and retailer, in statements accompanying its 1986 year-end results, said the reduction in its non-store staff will affect more than 14 percent of its non-store management staff and result in more than $1.3 million prospective severance costs.

The company estimates that 280 of the 450 jobs will result from normal attrition and internal transfers, and the balance from terminations.

Stop & Shop will keep the headquarters for the grocery division at Quincy Center Plaza on Hancock St., Gorman said.

Gorman said the new Braintree building was originally to be part of the headquarters for the Bradlees division. She did not have figures for the size of the new headquarters or the number of employees who will be making the move to Braintree.

The layoff positions vary from non-exempt secretarial positions right up to senior management, with the preponderance being somewhere in the middle, said Gorman.

The information on the reduction in non-store management positions and the move to Braintree are the first specifics Stop & Shop has released on the restructuring plan it originally announced on Jan. 5 as a means of saving between $10 and $20 million.

The firm, subject of numerous takeover rumors in the past year, said the cost-cutting was necessary to make it more profitable and to protect the company's long-term interests.

On Jan. 12, Stop & Shop said it would sell its unprofitable Almys mid-price department store chain, which it purchased in 1985 for $21.8 million.

Unable to find a buyer for 17 stores in the 19-store chain, Stop & Shop announced on Feb. 17 that it would close the remaining stores in May. The closing of Almys, which cost $8 million last year, will put 1,700 employees out of work.

Gorman said the anticipated savings from shutting down Almys were not included in the $14 million savings sought by the restructuring plan.

Good News For Everyone Born Before 1921.

IF YOU'RE A SENIOR CITIZEN, AND YOU'RE WILLING TO SPEND FIVE MINUTES READING THIS, WE'LL GIVE YOU TODAY'S CABLE FOR A MONTH, FREE.

Until now you probably thought that cable wasn't for you. That it was just an extra expense. If you'll be good enough to spare us your time, we've got some facts that may well change your mind.

There's always something good on today's cable. You'll always find programs to entertain you, inform you and keep you in touch, just when you're in the mood. Cable's even got programming especially for seniors. You don't have to watch more, you just enjoy it more.

BASIC. THE HEART OF THE CABLE DIFFERENCE.

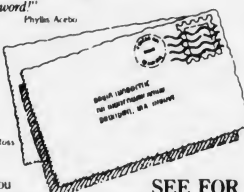

People often think that cable must be expensive. But the fact is that the essence of cable, Basic Cable, is really a bargain. You get great reception on the channels you're getting now, plus 33 fascinating new channels. Here's just a taste of what they offer:

- Senior Spotlight with local personalities and senior issues
- Senior Nutrition and Senior Exercise
- The Discovery Channel with the world of nature and science
- Senior Smarts and the Senior Dating Game
- Classics from the golden days of TV and Hollywood
- Lifetime with tips on finance and life extension
- C-Span with coverage from Congress
- News, 24 hours a day, world, financial and local
- Country and Classical music, The Home Shopping Network
- Economics of one and two person households
- National Geographic Explorer Series every week
- Plus The Weather Channel and documentaries not seen on ordinary TV

PEOPLE ARE A PART OF THE PICTURE.

If Basic is the heart of cable, Senior Service is the soul. Our people go out of their way to provide thoughtful, courteous and prompt service to everyone. But especially to senior citizens. Just listen to what some of our senior subscribers have to say about us:

- "Senior Smarts has done a great deal to add to the enjoyment of senior citizens and helps to keep them young, active, and important."
Steve Marx
- "Let me thank you for your good service and especially for providing such good TV as Mother Angelica."
Mary A. Maloney
- "I'm pleased beyond words... I find your working crew polite, efficient and you keep your word!"
Phyllis Aronson
- "It is really a pleasure to deal with honorable people. Thank you very much!"
Joe and Esther Weiss

SEE FOR YOURSELF, FREE.

We could tell you about cable for hours, but there's no substitute for first hand experience. That's why we're making this special offer to senior citizens only. We'll install cable and give you a month's Basic Cable service, all for free. You can sit back and see what Basic Cable's got for you, without spending a cent.

A GUARANTEE, NOT A GIMMICK.

We don't want you to rush into anything. We're giving you a month's free service to help you make up your mind. If, at the end of it, you're not completely satisfied, we guarantee we'll remove your cable and that will be that. So, what have you got to lose?

If you'd like to give cable a try, please give us a call at One month after installation, you'll see why some of our happiest subscribers are seniors. Because you'll be happy too.

Public Hearing March 21 On State Budget

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey announces that the House Committee on Ways and Means has scheduled a public hearing for the fiscal year 1988 budget Saturday, March 21.

It will be held in Gardner Auditorium at the State House at 10 a.m.

This is one of many public hearings that will be held across the state.

Members of groups who have an interest in the FY '88 may want to attend the hearing to testify, according to Morrissey.

"Due to the number of people who may be in attendance, it would be wise to submit written testimony instead of testifying," Morrissey said.

DeCristofaro Will Fight To Keep Point Middle Open

The 31-member Middle School Task Force was scheduled to vote Tuesday night on whether or not to recommend that the School Committee close one of the city's five middle schools in 1988.

And if that vote was affirmative, the task force was scheduled to discuss, and possibly vote on, which school it thinks should be closed.

The recommendations are non-binding.

Sources have said that Point Middle School in Quincy Point is the most likely choice, with grades K-5 remaining open.

But City Councillor Theodore DeCristofaro said he will "work diligently to keep our school open."

"This is our final public school in Ward 2, and it is going to be my job to work with the neighborhood and the parents of the school children to see that this school stays open," said DeCristofaro.

"I think that every section of the city should have at least one public school and this is ours. It's been here for a long time.

"I was graduated from this school in 1938 myself, so I have a lot of strong feelings."

DeCristofaro said he was not concerned about the numbers of students attending Point.

"I'm concerned that this is the only public school left in Ward 2, and that's my concern," he said.

"They have no business even thinking about closing this school, and that's the theory I'm going to work on, not numbers.

"They can play all the games they want with numbers and make it come out the way they like, and I'm not going to get into a numbers game with them," he said.

According to School Supt. John Osterman, the dates that the middle schools were built and their student enrollment as of Oct. 1, are: Point, 1928, 184 students; Sterling, 1927, 201 students; Atlantic, 1959, 455 students; Central, 1894 (with an addition in 1907), 536 students; and Broad Meadows, 1957, 309 students.

Middle school principals two years ago had suggested that Point be closed, but Osterman had recommended that Sterling, which needs $750,000 in repairs, be chosen instead, according to Mayor Francis McCauley.

Both School Committee vice chairman Stephen Durkin and McCauley said they would reserve comment until the task force makes a recommendation.

"Certainly, anything the task force comes up with will have great weight," said Durkin.

"I don't want to be presumptuous. I'll wait to see what they come up with before I make a comment."

McCauley also said he thought it would be premature to comment on the task force's recommendation.

He also said he voted against formation of the task force.

"I didn't think it was necessary," he said.

The task force is comprised of parents, teachers, principals, central office administrators, representatives of parents organizations and the Quincy Education Association.

It is to formally report to the School Committee April 1.

Cheney Calls For Meeting

Prevention Sought On Incidents

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Ward 1 Councillor Michael Cheney says he will call a meeting this week of city officials and community groups to discuss steps to prevent possible racial and other civil rights violation incidents in the city.

Cheney took the action after an incident in Germantown last weekend involving 15 to 16 white and black youths, an arrest, and two minor injuries, one a superficial stab wound.

"We want to discuss how we can prevent incidents like this one from taking place in Germantown or any neighborhood," said Cheney, in whose ward the incident took place.

According to Cheney at press time Tuesday, Dist. Atty. William Delahunt told him that "at this time, there are not supporting facts to classify this as a racial incident."

"Practically speaking, it was an argument which evolved into an incident in which someone's civil rights were violated," Cheney said of the occurrence outside public housing at Palmer St. and Taffrail Rd.

An 18-year-old Germantown man, Richard Daniels of 30 Taffrail Rd., was arrested and charged with assault and battery on a police officer (John Horick), indecent exposure, possession of a dangerous weapon (a shank), and civil rights violation, according to Police Chief Francis Finn.

Daniels pleaded innocent at Quincy District Court Monday and his case was continued to March 18, at 9 a.m. for a probable cause hearing. He did not post the $2,000 bail and is being held at the Norfolk County House of Correction in Dedham.

Two unidentified white male youths were injured, not seriously, when one received a superficial stab wound from a knife, and the other was injured in the buttocks, Finn said.

Both were treated at Quincy City Hospital and released, the chief said.

According to Finn, the incident began when a white boy and a white girl had an altercation in front of the house of a black family.

From the door of the house.

Council Approves Police Station

The City Council unanimously approved final design plans for the renovation and addition to the Quincy Police Station at its meeting Monday night.

The next step will be consideration of an $8,900,000 bond request for the work at a meeting of the council's finance committee Monday, March 16, at 6:30 p.m.

According to Mayor Francis McCauley, low bidder was R.W. Granger, with $7,094,000. Second low bidder was Moscone with $7,428,000, he said.

The additional money in the bond is for such things as furnishings, McCauley said.

A contract for the work must be signed by April 8, according to McCauley.

"This is a long overdue and very, very necessary project," said the mayor.

At the Monday night meeting, consultant Martin

Cretch showed the council's Public Safety Committee a scale model of the project and said work would take about 27 months.

Police Chief Francis Finn said that every police department head was involved in the plans.

"This will be a thoroughly modern police department," said Finn, who noted that the new station would meet the satisfaction of the accreditation board.

After the meeting, Finn said he was particularly pleased with such aspects as a cell block which meets new state standards, improved work stations for men and women, and a limited gym area.

Paul Anderson, Department of Public Works Commissioner, said he expected site work to begin in late spring at the station.

10 'Street Smart Tips' To Prevent Child Abuse

For children and parents who miss the television special "How to Raise A Street Smart Child," aired on Home Box Office and Quincy Sun Ch. 8, stressed 10 simple but crucial tips on safeguarding children from child abuse. They are:

- Make sure your child knows how to dial "911" or "0" and ask for help.

- Make sure your child knows his or her name, address and phone number.

- Make sure your child knows exactly what a "stranger" is.

- Make sure your child knows a secret code word only you share.

- Make sure you play "What If?" games with your child.

- Make sure your child does not wear personalized clothing, which would make him or her an easy target.

- Make sure your child knows the differences between "good touch" and "bad touch."

- Make sure your child knows how to say "no" to adults.

- Make sure your child knows, if lost, to look for a person in uniform, such as a police officer or bus driver.

- Make sure your child knows to trust his or her instincts, and knows that if something suspicious happens, he or she should act on it, run to a crowded place and shout for help.

- These 10 direct ways to prevent children from becoming an unfortunate statistic was compiled by the Adam Walsh Center, founded by John Walsh, whose son Adam was abducted at age 6 in 1981 and later found murdered.

Permits For $10,062,294 In Construction

The Building Inspection Department issued 76 permits for construction estimated to cost $10,062,294 during the month of February.

Building Inspector Kenneth

Johnson said $33,632 was received in permit fees and $557 for public safety inspection. A total of 162 dwelling units was added through new construction and five through alterations.

Permits were issued for four one-family homes estimated to cost $275,000.

There was four permits for four multi-family dwellings

(14, 8, 18, 122 unit condominiums) at $8,331,800; one mercantile at $170,000; 39 residential alterations at $521,509; 23 other alterations at $751,385; one removal at $1,000; four signs at $11,600.

a black girl asked them to stop, Finn said, and the white girl replied, "Why don't you come out and fight with me?"

When the black girl stepped outside the door, an altercation began between the two girls, he said.

About 15 to 16 white and black boys and girls lined up on either side of the street to confront each other, according to Finn, and the two injuries took place.

"Police acted very judiciously and sensibly to break up the situation," said Finn. "They had had good civil rights training."

"If not, we might have had a very different situation."

Five officers were at the scene, Finn said.

At about 5 a.m., a man, later identified as Daniels, started to throw stones at the black family's home, Finn said. Police attempted to arrest him, he got away, but was finally apprehended, said the chief.

Finn credited the black woman who lives in the house involved in the incident with helping to calm the situation by bringing many of the black youths off the street and into her home.

The District Attorney's Office is investigating the possibility of civil rights violation, according to the chief.

The police will be represented at the meeting this week along with the mayor's office, Harborview Residents Committee, Germantown Community Council and other community leaders, Cheney said.

"I understand that people from outside the community were involved in the fight," said Cheney. "We just won't accept people coming into any Quincy neighborhoods and creating a disturbance."

Cheney praised the Police Department's handling of the situation.

Mayor Francis McCauley said he is being kept informed of the situation.

"We hope that people will show restraint," said McCauley. "But we will not hesitate to take action if there are any occurrences."

QCA To Present Reduced Density Petition To Council

The Quincy Citizens Association plan to present details of its QCA CAPP six-story height limit reduced-density petition at the March 25 meeting of the City Council.

This action by the QCA follows residential zoning changes being proposed by the council's zone task force committee which will be aired at a public hearing on March 23, at 7 p.m., in City Hall.

At the QCA's recent meeting, held in the Montclair Men's Club, North Quincy, Councilor Patricia Iofand, discussed with the association details of the recently announced Traffic 2000 report that targets some 28 locations in Quincy for traffic changes.

According to association spokeswoman Dorothy Kelly, the QCA is currently conducting a membership drive and is planning a May 15 spring dinner-dance at the Neighborhood Club. Tickets can be obtained from Rita O'Toole.

$501,961 In Wiring

Wire Inspector Thomas E. Purpura reports the Department of Wire Inspection issued 74 permits, for an estimated cost of $501,961 in wiring for the month of February.

The department collected

$2,797.75 in fees.

The department also reported there were 34 certificates of approval to Massachusetts Electric Company; 185 inspections; eight reinspections; 17 defects noted and one fire call.

140 Quincy Area Names On Unclaimed Money List

A list, comprising 140 residents, businesses and organizations in the Quincy area are among the 24,000 from across Massachusetts entitled to $17 million under the state's Unclaimed Money Law.

State Treasurer Robert Q. Crane said that under this law, bank accounts, insurance proceeds, uncashed gift certificates, payroll checks, customer overpayments and the like that have gone untouched for at least five years are deemed to be abandoned and must be reported to the treasurer.

Crane said that since 1980 his office has collected more than $100 million in unclaimed accounts and has returned nearly one half of that amount to the rightful owners or legal heirs.

On the list as owed unclaimed money are:

Brownell And Morrissey Push Long Island Bill

State Reps. Thomas Brownell and Michael Morrissey have urged the Committee on Natural Resources to approve legislation ordering the Department of Environmental Management (DEM) to study the idea of acquiring Long Island for recreational purposes.

In its master plan for the harbor, DEM stated that Long Island should be the focal point for an improved Harbor Island State Park. Last year the two legislators filed a bill directing the state to acquire the island. However, due to a number of uncertainties, such as the costs of purchasing the island from the City of Boston and of operating the park, a feasibility study is a prerequisite.

In his testimony to the committee, Rep. Brownell said, "Long Island is perhaps the most outstanding piece of open space remaining in the Boston area. There is clearly an unmet need for more and better recreational opportunities, particularly for those taking place in a natural environment."

Morrissey said, "This bill is not intended to benefit citizens of Quincy and Boston alone. Any citizen of the commonwealth would be able to enjoy the island as part of the Boston Harbor Islands State Park."

Brownell later said, "We know that there is overwhelming public support for this idea. My office did a poll in December of 1985 that showed 62 per cent of the voters were in favor of purchasing the island for recreational purposes, 22 per cent were opposed, and the rest were undecided."

Morrissey also said, "Long Island has been isolated long enough, it is time to allow the people of the Boston area to enjoy its natural beauty."

City's State Aid Down, McCauley May Make More Budget Cuts

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN
Mayor Francis McCauley said he may have to make additional cuts in the proposed municipal budget of $97,803,953 for fiscal 1988 after learning Quincy will receive the smallest annual increase in state aid since fiscal 1982.

That was when the state initiated a program of steadily increased state aid for the cities and towns to offset the financial effects of Proposition 2½.

"We'll be reviewing the budgets of all the departments," said McCauley, "but I'm not prepared to say more than that."

"The budget will meet the requirements of the city."

Quincy will receive a net increase of $1,091,475 or 3.3 per cent over fiscal 1987. Last year, it received a net increase of $4,416,379, or 15.3 per cent over the previous year.

"This presents a tight financial situation for us," said McCauley. "All of our (employee) contracts are up this year."

"The budget is up; retirements are up."

McCauley said that city departments requested budgets totalling just over $100 million, and that figure was already trimmed to $97 million.

"There's not much more you can cut," said McCauley.

"Salaries are locked in by contract, we're holding the line on new jobs."

"We've had an increase in the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority Assessments," he noted.

"We'll have to see if there are other areas we can trim back on," said McCauley.

The mayor said that the main reason for diminished receipts and increased charges for fiscal 1988 is the increased wealth of the city.

That is measured by the total valuation of real and personal property, as well as the continued improvement in city finances, he said.

According to McCauley, preliminary figures indicate that the full fair cash valuation of the city for fiscal 1987 will be about $3.6 billion, an increase of $1.5 billion (71.4 per cent) over the fiscal 1986 full fair cash value of $2.1 billion.

Total estimated receipts for fiscal 1988 amount to $38,158,095, while total assessments levied on the city amount to $3,830,220, he said.

McCauley said that major increases in the receipts section of the Cherry Sheet include increases of $3,631,676 (21 per cent) in the additional assistance, and $250,657 (8.7 per cent) in the lottery categories.

He noted the major decrease in the receipts section occurred in the category of Chapter 70 Aid to Education line.

Receipts for fiscal 1988 were down $2,188,330 (17 per cent) from the fiscal 1987 totals, according to McCauley.

The two major increases in the charges on the Cherry Sheet are in the MBTA and Norfolk County Assessments, he said. MBTA charges were up $133,758 (5 per cent) while the county tax was up $78,506, (11.4 per cent) over fiscal 1987, said the mayor.

Increased boarding counts at the MBTA Red Line stations accounted for the major portion of the five per cent increase, McCauley explained.

After finalizing the budget, McCauley has until May 4 to submit it to the City Council which has 45 days to review it.

He has said that his target dates for submission of the budget to the council are April 6 or 21.

The council may cut funds from the budget, but not add to it.

DRUG/ALCOHOL AWARENESS Week is being observed with displays of information 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. this week at New City Hall. Quincy Police Dept. Safety Officer Robert Hanna, left, explains the display to Peter Kenney, the mayor's executive secretary. The program is the result of efforts by Community Action Against Substance Abuse (CAASA).

Nut Island Flats Rezoned Open Space

Mayor Francis McCauley has signed a city ordinance change rezoning the land known as Nut Island Flats from Industrial B to Open Space.

The land is the site of a sewage treatment plant which will close when the new sewage plant is constructed in the next few years, McCauley said.

Ward One Councillor Michael Cheney introduced the council order which was signed by the mayor.

McCauley said that the Nut Island site will be developed as a park-recreation area in the future.

Catering Firm As Take-Out Only

By DAN CONNELLY
Joseph's Restaurant-Catering in West Quincy will go ahead with a planned opening sometime in April but only as a take-out food facility.

William Calapa of Braintree, owner of Joseph's Catering Inc. in Dorchester, sought a common victualer license from the License Board to sell prepared meals at 273 Willard St. and Bates Ave. It would have seating for 14 and a takeout section.

Atty. Carl Johnson, representing Calapa, told the board Tuesday his client was withdrawing his original request and instead requested a take out only permit.

Police Chief Francis Finn, sitting as board chairman for vacationing City Clerk John Gillis, allowed the original request for a common victualer license to be withdrawn without prejudice.

The board then voted to grant the take out only license.

At previous hearings Calapa has been confronted with whether parking at the new food facility will have an adverse effect on the neighborhood. Ward Four Councillor James Sheets had said last week he had reservations about traffic and was sending out a letter to area residents, asking for opinions. This move by Sheets forced a continuance of the matter to March 24.

Johnson, who in previous hearings has maintained the area is properly zoned and there is adequate parking for customers, said his client wanted to go ahead with a targeted opening next month. He further said that the firm will monitor traffic and parking during a period of time and report back to the board as to whether any adverse effect has resulted in that neighborhood.

Readers Forum A Tribute To Margaret Lewis

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Margaret Lewis, a dear neighbor and friend to the Adams Shore community and also one of its original settlers, died recently.

Margaret spoke once to the Adams Shore Seniors recounting the way it used to be when her family brought her down here in the summer as a youngster in the early 1900's when Adams Shore and Post Island were still considered a frontier with a few scattered summer residences.

Her remembrances of the clubhouse on Poplar Road in the marsh brought nostalgic memories of plays, dances and parties, when the automobile was still considered a luxury and having fun with neighbors was the thing to do to pass away long hot summer hours. Access to Sea St. could only be made with a row boat or the wait of the high tide to recede back to Quincy Bay. A regatta of boats lined the section along what is now the shore of Post Island Road.

It was here that Margaret said hunters and fishermen would use the unlocked cottages for refuge and help themselves to the stored containers of flour and sugar left the summer before by her family and other families.

Margaret had a love for Adams Shore, its land, wildlife and people. An expert on mushrooms and an author of a mushroom cookbook made her a well sought after authority on the subject.

She left us with a love for this area and a legacy to help us appreciate and preserve what was, what is and what is yet to be.

Thank you, Margaret,

A Council At-Large Primary?

Chances seem pretty good that Quincy will have a preliminary election runoff for City Council at-large for the first time in six years.

Seven candidates are needed and right now there are seven or eight possible. Maybe more.

The two seats being vacated by Joseph LaRaia and Richard Koch, Jr. is expected to bring out a large enough field to require a preliminary election.

Ron Iacobucci, who has been the political bridesmaid the past two elections, is already officially in the race and feeling that the third time never fails.

City Council President Stephen McGrath is twirling his hat for a toss into the at-large ring. He will vacate his Ward 5 seat to do so, creating in turn, what could be a stampede down there.

Patricia Toland is sure to seek reelection.

Tim Cahill, downtown Quincy businessman and former Quincy High School wrestling coach has said he will run.

Michael Condon, son of Joanne Condon, former Ward 6 councillor and mayoral candidate in 1985, has indicated he will make a bid.

Tom Koch, brother of incumbent Richard Koch who is giving up one of the seats to live and work on the

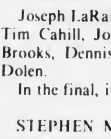

KOCH

Cape, is pondering a run.

The former ran for the Ward 6 seat in 1985 but lost to Thomas Nutley in the final.

Civil Defense Deputy Director Tony Siciliano is checking to see if there would be a conflict of interest if he ran.

SICILIANO

Iacobucci was the only candidate other than the three incumbents. He picked up strength the second time out and will be considered a serious contender this year.

The last preliminary election in 1981 drew a field of 10 candidates. Can you remember them all? Well, they finished like this:

Joseph LaRaia, Richard Koch, Jr., Patricia Toland, Tim Cahill, John Quinn, William O'Hare, Gregory Brooks, Dennis Buckley, Robert Niven, and Louis Dolen.

In the final, it was LaRaia, Koch and Toland

STEPHEN McGRATH's decision to run at-large creates a vacancy in Ward 5 -- the first in 10 years.

Charles Phelan, Jr., 29, who worked for McGrath when the latter first ran 10 years ago and who served as School Committeeman Steve Durkin's campaign manager in 1983, has already said he would run if McGrath goes at-large.

State GOP Committeewoman Kathy Roberts and Joyce Baker, long-time active in Republican circles, have been mentioned as potential candidates.

Kathleen Cryan, teacher - teen mothers program, $10,401.60 ($26,004), Elizabeth Hawes resigned.

SICILIANO

Paul Bregoli, North Quincy High School girls basketball coach, is also reportedly thinking of making a bid. A Quincy teacher, Bregoli was at the Massachusetts Fields School before it was closed. He is also a youth soccer coach. His wife, Lynne, is a former teacher at St. Ann's School.

Atty. Kevin Burke is also looking the situation over. He is the nephew of George Burke, former city councillor and district attorney, who still carries political clout.

Just about ready to announce is John Keenan, 23, of Lincoln Ave. A cum laude graduate of Harvard University with a major in government, he is now attending Suffolk University Law School. He was a delegate to the Massachusetts Democratic Convention the last three years.

Could be an interesting year there.

SATURDAY MARKED THE third anniversary of the death of former Mayor-Senator James McIntyre who succumbed to a heart attack following major surgery.

The 4 o'clock Mass at St. John's Church this Saturday will be a memorial Mass for him and his son Bill, who died a few weeks before him in a Boston elevator accident.

McIntyre is buried in the family lot at Mount Wollaston Cemetery. Those who walk by may not realize it, but there is now an inscription on the back of the headstone.

On one side is the Quincy City Seal and on the other the State Seal. Between them is the U.S. Marine motto "Semper Paratus" (Always Faithful).

The inscription below reads:

Jimmy, A Giant of A Gentle Man, a Scholar, Marine Hero, Attorney and Statesman. Devoted Husband and Father of Five.

Served His City And State With Distinction And Honor As Councillor, State Representative, State Senator, Mayor Of Quincy And Counsel To The Massachusetts Senate.

"The Greatest Use Of Life Is To Spend It For Something That Outlasts It."

That final quote appeared on the McIntyre family's daily calendar the day he died March 7, 1984.

McIntyre was one of the most powerful political figures in Quincy's history. Though he has been gone three years, his influence is still here and will be for many, many years.

SENATOR Paul Harold will be one of the smartest dressed in the St. Patrick's Day Parade this month.

The Galway Chamber of Commerce recently presented him with a set of cufflinks made of Connemara green marble. He will sport them at the parade.

WARD 2 Councillor Ted DeCristofaro and his wife, Betty, recently returned from Lakeland, Fla., where they visited with John McWilliams and his wife, Audrey.

McWilliams was a long-time popular figure in Quincy Point where he coached the Point Congregational basketball team in the YMCA Church League.

McWilliams, whose son Jack was a basketball standout at Quincy High School, was pretty good in the coaching department.

In fact, he still holds the best coaching record in the Jonathan Division: 138 wins and only 31 losses over a 15-year stretch.

One thing Ted and Betty enjoyed was picking oranges off the trees in the McWilliams yard.

The McWilliams, incidentally, keep tabs on their home town as faithful mail subscribers to The Quincy Sun.

Kitty Dukakis Impressed With Quincy's Literacy Program

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Gov. Michael Dukakis has yet to announce whether he will enter the 1988 presidential race, but his wife, Kitty, already scored a victory during a visit with middle school students at the Thomas Crane Public Library.

Mrs. Dukakis was interviewed by Atlantic Middle School seventh graders Mark Walsh, Laura Hayden, William Willhauck and Mai Mai Ng concerning her views on the importance of literacy in the lives of young people.

She not only stressed the importance of reading and literacy programs, but also made a hit with the students by putting them at ease and sharing family memories.

Mrs. Dukakis was invited by the Quincy Public Schools middle school students involved in the Mass. Chapter 188 Essential Skills Grant Holistic Language Project. Dr. Janet DiTullio, language arts coordinator for the Quincy Public Schools, wrote the grant.

The interview was taped at the Thomas Crane Public Library by students for inclusion in their film on literacy.

"Quincy has a very good program," said Mrs. Dukakis. "I think it must be a very special experience to be a tutor in such a program," she said. "In a sense, it is like giving a gift to someone."

"It's important to let people know that help is around," continued Mrs. Dukakis.

"A library is a really good place to learn to read and write."

She suggested that students tell residents of housing for the elderly about the programs available.

"Word of mouth by people who have used the program is the best way to spread the word," she said.

Mrs. Dukakis said that she loves to read.

"I've discovered that when I feel unhappy, reading for me is a very special escape."

"Charlotte's Web" is one of her favorites, she said.

"We used to read to our three children," continued Mrs. Dukakis. "Sometimes, we'd read as a family. All three of my children love to read."

She also entertained the students by telling them her son, John, 28, appeared in the movie, "Jaws," and television programs "Family Ties" and "Little House on the Prairie" when he was an actor.

"The only thing was, it was very upsetting for me to see him killed on the shows," she told the students.

One of the students asked her if she thought one person could make a difference in the literacy program.

"Always," she replied, "particularly in the literacy program, and particularly with young people."

Mrs. Dukakis also took the opportunity to meet with directors of the Thomas Crane Library's New Reader Project, Ann McLaughlin and Fairlie Kinnecom, to learn about the adult literacy project.

She then met privately with a student and tutor who have been working with other literacy volunteers project members in other communities.

Mayor Francis McCauley, Library Director Warren Watson, Eastern Regional Libraries Director Mary Heneghan, School Supt. John Osterman, and Language Arts Coordinator Dr. Janet DiTullio met with Mrs. Dukakis at the close of her visit to extend greetings from the city of Quincy.

Mayor Francis McCauley recently proclaimed March as Special Needs Awareness Month in Quincy.

He presented the proclamation to Thomas Barrett, chairperson for the Mayor's Commission on Handicapped Affairs, during a ceremony at Quincy Cable Ch. 3.

During the presentation it was announced that the commission's sponsored two-part quiz show, "Play the Maze," will be aired March 12, 19 and 26, at 7 p.m. on Ch. 3.

The show, said Barrett, is patterned after "Jeopardy," and was written and produced by the Quincy Parent Advisory Council and the South Shore Association of Retarded Citizens.

Summer Job Applications At Recreation Dept.

Recreation Director Barry J. Welch, announces the Quincy Park-Recreation Board has set Wednesday, April 15, as the deadline for applications for summer employment with the Recreation Department.

Employment applications are available in the recreation office, 100 Southern Artery, weekdays from 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m. Applications must be picked up in person. The department expects it will be conducting interviews for a limited number of summer positions which include recreation leaders on city playgrounds, activity specialists, and water safety instructors.

All applicants must be Quincy residents and at least 16 years of age. College age applicants are preferred.

Additional information can be obtained by calling the Recreation Department at 773-1380, ext. 204.

Quincy's Yesterdays

Worst Blizzard In 16 Years

The worst blizzard in 16 years struck Quincy and the South Shore area, stranding hundreds of motorists in snow drifts up to four feet deep and driving the Italian freighter Etrusco hard aground on a Scituate beach.

March 11-17
1956

31 Years Ago

Dr. Charles Brooks at the Blue Hills Observatory measured winds up to 79 miles an hour, low temperatures of 13 degrees and snow averaging 11.2 inches at the foot of Big Blue.

Some 200 men, women and children took refuge for the night in the Waldorf Cafeteria in Quincy Center and, for the first time since the Hurricane of 1938, gigh tide swept over Winthrop St., Houghs Neck.

At the height of the blizzard, a man with a gun held up the North Quincy Cooperative Bank at 440 Hancock St. and fled with $1,767. He was captured a few hours later in a South End cafe with all the money on him.

RAPID TRANSIT FORECAST

George Yarrington, executive director of the Quincy Taxpayers Association, predicted that trains operated by a South Shore Transit Authority would be running from Boston to Greenbush, Plymouth and Middleboro in two years.

A bill to create such an authority was in the State Legislature.

"From an operating standpoint it would be more desirable to expand the MTA," said Yarrington, "but from a political viewpoint this would be virtually impossible so long as the trustees permit the MTA to keep rolling up huge losses of $6-8 million every year."

QUINCY-ISMS

Mrs. Minnie Johnson of 301 Granite St., South Quincy, was honored on her 86th birthday by the Ladies Aid of the Covenant Congregational Church ... Alrick A. Weidman, Quincy building inspector, was elected president of the Eastern States Building Officials Federation at its meeting in New York ... Parishioners of Most Blessed Sacrament Church, Houghs Neck, gave a farewell party for the Rev. Dermot Fitzgerald, their curate for the past four years, who was leaving for St. Denis Church, Norwood ... Specialists at Salorio's Meatland, 371 Granite St., Hamburger and veal chops at 15 cents a pound ... Korean vet John E. Murray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Murray, 160 East Elm Ave., Wollaston, was first in his freshman class at Boston College's College of Business Administration with a 93 percent average for the first semester ... A $175,000 fire damaged Magee's Inc., and Websters at 2 Parkingway destroyed Webster's stock of Easter merchandise ... William R. Carmichael was elected treasurer of the Tubular Rivet and Stud Co., Wollaston ... Quincy High Football Coach Bill Sullivan complained that cars, money and girls were ruining football players at the school ... Said Bill: "They have given up football to go to work, not to help the family out, but because they (1) want a car, (2) they need money for a car and (3) with a car they can meet girls who cost more money" ... A five room bungalow in Adams Shore, with tile bath, sun room and steam oil heat, was on the market for $8,900 ... Herb Fontaine of WJDA was conducting a record hop at the Fore River Clubhouse for Quincy Memorial Post 7 of the Amvets ... Members of the Covenant Congregational Church on Garfield St., West Quincy, voted to build a new church on Whitwell St. near the junction of Granite ... Robert Zildjian, vice president of the Avedis Zildjian Co., North Quincy, makers of fine cymbals since 1623 in Turkey, spoke on the history of cymbals at the Quincy Neighborhood Club ... Those in attendance reported that he did not give away the secret ingredient ... Kennedy's Butter and Egg Store at 1318 Hancock St., had tub butter for 65 cents a pound and bacon for 45 cents a pound ... Carl D. Scrivener of 430 Beale St., Wollaston, a Quincy High School senior, talked his way into the state finals of the American Legion oratorical contest with a dissertation on "The Constitution Guardian of the People's Rights" ... Quincy Point Junior High School's basketball team, coached by Dan Leavitt and starring Ned Berman and John Rhodophele, won the junior high title with a perfect 9-0 record ... Patrick Rosatone of the Building and Construction Trades Council was proposed as a successor to the late George Hurley as a member of the Quincy Housing Authority ... Permit was issued for construction of a new $70,000 home for the George F. Bryan VFW Post on Broad St.

Broccoli Quiche A Hit In Cupcake Pans

After a mixup recently, I ended up with having dinner guests twice in three days. Although I basically prepared the same dinner, I cooked different vegetables. Here is a recipe I used for quiche which I put in cupcake pans instead of a quiche dish for a change. After they were baked, I lined a large platter with fresh steamed asparagus, placed the cupcake like quiches around the center and then scattered a few black olives and pieces of red pimento through it all. I got raves! This recipe filled eight small cup cake tins and six large ones.

BROCCOLI CUPCAKE QUICHE

4 eggs
1 pkg of frozen chopped broccoli
(if you use fresh, it takes a cup)

1/2 cup grated Romano cheese
1/4 cup flour
1/4 cup milk
salt and pepper to taste

Preheat oven to 325 degrees. Grease cupcake tins. In a bowl, beat the eggs, add the milk and flour and grated cheese. Blend in the broccoli, salt and pepper.

Fill the tins to the brim and put little strips of sliced cheese for decoration on each one. This is optional, but it looks nice. Bake for 30-35 minutes depending on the size of the tins. They will rise resembling a large muffin, but will fall a bit. They still look and taste great. Let cool for about 10 minutes and then take each one out carefully. They can be reheated after they are out of their tins either in a microwave or a warming oven.

If you want to know what my menu was, it consisted of homemade gnoechi, (which my husband made, antipasto, meatloaf roll stuffed with sausage, chicken cutlets, the vegetables, and various desserts. Back on the diet Monday!

(Marie D'Olimpio is the author of "Simply Italian - And Then Some," a collection of her own recipes. Copies of the book are available at That's Italian, Franklin St., South Quincy, Previte's Market, Sumner St., Quincy Point and Samoset Pharmacy, Samoset Ave., Merrymount.)

Two More Join Newly Formed Asian American Committee

An official in the city's public school system, and a new resident to North Quincy, will be providing their input when the Asian American Committee of Quincy meets April 7, at 7:30 p.m., in Wollaston Lutheran Church, 550 Hancock St.

They are:

Miss Chik Ching Law of the Department of Public Personnel, and John Chen, who recently moved here from Springfield, Ill., where he worked as a translator for that city's public schools and is fluent in Vietnamese, Cantonese and Mandarin.

At last week's meeting, a report was submitted on the formation and progress of the advisory committee for the Gateway Cities program recently named by Mayor Francis McCauley.

Those appointed were: Winny Chin, Ann McLaughlin, Maria Leung, the Rev. Dr. A.H. Wismar, pastor of Wollaston Lutheran Church, and Kam Yun Lee.

The committee recommended a plan for the allocation of a $43,000 grant, for which the city is eligible, toward a program to benefit newcomer groups to Quincy. These include immigrants, linguistic minorities, refugees and others.

Also announced by committee member Dean Tegeler was an application for a grant from the state Office for Children, to secure funds to explore planning and development for after-school child day care.

MEET THE NEW DOCTOR IN TOWN!

Hi, I'm
Dr. Jack M. Arpano, D.C.

PROFESSIONAL QUALIFICATIONS

Did you know that becoming certified as a chiropractor requires a minimum of six years of highly specialized college training?

Today's Doctor of Chiropractic must complete 4,485 hours of classroom instruction and pass a rigid chiropractic board examination before earning a license. In most states, continuing educational seminars must be completed for annual license renewal.

PERSONAL BACKGROUND

My undergraduate degree is in zoology/biochemistry from the University of Massachusetts at Amherst. I graduated with honors from the Los Angeles College of Chiropractic in Whittier, California and have taken post graduate courses in orthopedics and radiology. I have done a year's internship at both the Whittier Health Center and the Salvation Army's intake clinic in downtown Los Angeles, California. For the past year I have been in semi-private practice in Westminister, Massachusetts. Each month I spend five days attending seminars in Atlanta, Georgia and Natick, Massachusetts to keep abreast of the latest advances in chiropractic.

This is the kind of training and professionalism I offer you. If you have hesitated visiting a chiropractor, perhaps you didn't know that chiropractors go to such great lengths to continue their education and provide you with the latest techniques and the most qualified service. So, you see, what you don't know, can't help you. Call me today and let me help you.

Did you know that the symptoms most commonly treated by chiropractors are:

Back Pain	Headaches	Painful Joints
Neck Pain	Arthritis	Shoulder Pain
Stiffness	Bursitis	Arm/Leg Pain
Numbness	Hip Pain	Cold Hands/Feet

To introduce you to the healing world of chiropractic, please accept my special offer.

COMPLIMENTARY EXAMINATION

This examination normally costs $45.00 but, for this month, it is yours Free of Charge. The examination will include an orthopedic test, a neurological test, a blood pressure test, a spinal alignment check, an examination for restricted or excess motion in the spine, a muscle strength test, and a private consultation to discuss the results.

Auto And Bus Security Tips

Whether you drive or use public transportation, it is always safer to travel with at least one other person.

If you use a bus regularly, get and use a schedule to minimize the lengths of time you have to wait -- perhaps alone -- at the stop.

If you own a car, keep it locked at all times. That means when it is parked and when you are driving it. Keep the windows rolled up high enough so that an intruder can't reach inside.

If you are harassed by someone on foot, honk your horn in short blasts and drive off. If you are being followed by another car, honk your horn in the same way and pull into a police or fire station, drive-in restaurant, gas station or some other well-lighted place where others can help you. Never go home while still being followed. If you do, you will be indicating your address to the person following you.

When returning to your parked car, have your key ready to unlock the door without a lengthy pause. Look inside the car first to make sure someone isn't waiting in hiding.

If you have car trouble, raise the hood and turn on your emergency flasher, but wait inside the car with the doors locked. If someone stops to assist you ask them to call the police for you.

Keep your valuables out of sight. Remove the temptation of the sight of your bags and packages by locking such things in the trunk.

Don't pick up hitchhikers.

If your Quincy based organization or group would like a talk on personal safety, put your request in writing and send it to Chief Francis X. Finn, Quincy Police Dept., Quincy, MA 02169. There is no fee for this service.

'Disciplines That Heal' Lenten Message At Bethany

There will be two worship services Sunday at Bethany Congregational Church, Coddington and Spear Sts., Quincy Center.

The chapel service is held at 9 a.m. and the sanctuary service at 10 a.m.

The Rev. Joel E. Huntington, assistant minister, will preach at both hours on the topic, "Disciplines That Heal," based on Paul's letter to the Philippians. The Rev. J. William Arnold, senior minister, will lead the liturgy at both hours.

Lay Scripture readers will be Edmund A. Alusy in the chapel service and Darryl K. Mikami in the Sanctuary.

service.

At the 10 a.m. service, the Chancel Choir, under the direction of Peter F. Krasinski, organist and choir director, will present "Come, My Way, My Truth, My Life" by Harold W. Friedell as an anthem. They will also sing, "Thou, Knowest, Lord, The Secrets of Our Hearts" by Henry Purcell.

The worship service is broadcast live over WJDA, at 10 a.m. In addition a cassette tape of the service can be obtained for $2 by contacting the church office.

Sunday School will be in session from 10 to 11 a.m. with classes for children of pre-school through eighth grade. Nursery care for babies is also provided as well as a toddler class for young children. Our Early Childhood Coordinator, Denise Fleming, will be present to supervise the care of infants through first graders.

At 11 a.m. there will be a fellowship hour in the Allen Parlor. Individuals and families from the community are welcome to share in the worship and the fellowship. You are also invited to enroll children in the Sunday School program.

For additional information about Bethany's ministries, contact the church office at 479-7300.

7 Communion Tables At Squantum Church Service

Seven communion tables were used in the celebration of the Lord's Supper Sunday at First Church of Squantum, the first Sunday in Lent.

Assisting the pastor, Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, were members of the Board of Deacons, including Gretchen Bumpus, Tom Williamson, Barbara Anderson, Lewis Townson, Kate MacRitchie, Stewart Scott, Grace Holmes, Steve Williams, Renee Johnson, Dana Olson, Mary Ruth Scott and Carl Anderson, a former deacon standing in for Ed Reister who was away with the National Guard.

Rev. Dr. Langevin preached on the subject, "Discerning the Body." A large communion banner made by young people of The Way Up provided the background for the central communion table for the service which was held in Fellowship Hall. Earlier in the morning, the congregation had gathered for a fellowship breakfast held to raise money to fund camperships to Christian camps for young people this summer.

Dana Olson gave the call to worship, Kate MacRitchie led the opening prayer. The ushers were Lore Wallin.

Deborah Stohberg, Karen Reister, Amy Hayhow, and Chris Dixey, Lewis Townson gave the prayer of dedication and Tom Williamson read the scripture. Gretchen Bumpus offered the prayer before the bread and Stewart Scott, the prayer before the cup.

Pianist Janet Williamson and organist Mary Ruth Scott accompanied some of the hymns, others were accompanied by guitarists Steve Williams, Andy Ogilvie, Robert Dixey, David Williams, and Mary Ruth Scott. Robert Dixey was in charge of the recorded music.

Greeters for the service were Eva Martin and Helen Miller. The Fellowship Hour after the service was hosted by Mary Scott and Joan Hansen.

Orange Crush, the junior high youth group, met Sunday afternoon to go roller-skating. Seven-Up, the senior high group, met at 6 p.m. that same day for a videotaped program. The Way Up, a youth group for other teen-agers in the community, met Tuesday afternoon for worship and recreation, and continues to meet each weekday afternoon from 3:30 to 6 p.m. for a teen work program. The Cub Scouts meet every Tuesday at the church at 1 p.m. The women's craft group is meeting every Thursday morning at 10 a.m.

On Wednesday night, the church gathered for a spaghetti dinner sponsored by the young people of the church at 6 p.m. and then attended a Lenten program at 7 p.m. which included the viewing of a Lenten videotape on the subject of Jesus and his times. The topics this week were the New Testament kingship and a description of the different types of people who heard Jesus speak.

There will be two services again this week: the guitar service at 8:30 a.m. and the traditional service at 10:30 a.m.

The Board of Trustees will meet March 16 at 7:30 p.m. The Senior Citizens are sponsoring a special dinner at the church on March 17. The entire for the Lenten dinner on March 18 will be Pot Roast. Other events coming up are the Ministry Fair Sunday, March 22, Covenant Sunday Sunday, April 5. A Squantum musical is planned for May 1-2. The Musical Committee will meet at the church on March 16 at 7:30 p.m.

'Trusting God' Sermon At Wollaston Congregational

The Rev. Eldon D.J. Zuern will preach a sermon on "Trusting God Into the Unknown," the second Sunday in Lent, March 15, at 10 a.m. at Wollaston Congregational Church.

Scripture reader will be Marge Schwendenman. Greeters will be Carolyn Bean and Herb Davis.

Ushers are Christian Holler and Joseph Sandahl. Acolyte will be Robert Olson.

The sacrament of Christian Baptism will be administered to Sean Patrick Ryan, son of Glenn and Teresa Ryan.

Sunday School will be in session from 10 to 11 a.m.

with classes for preschool through 12th grade. Rev. Zuern will meet with the confirmation class at 6:30 p.m. in his study.

He will lead a Bible study on the theme, "Covenant," as part of the special emphasis for Lent. The sessions will be held from 11:15 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. Child care will be provided.

The study March 15 will be about God's covenant with Moses and the role of the prophets.

A union Lenten Service will be held at 5 p.m. at First Baptist Church of Wollaston, followed by a supper.

Participating with the Baptist Church will be Wollaston Congregational Church, East Milton Congregational Church and the First Baptist Church of Milton.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

One of the fine organizations for youngsters in America is scouting - The Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts. It was in March, on the 12th in 1912, that Daisy Gordon, and ten other young girls, met in an unused stable of Daisy's aunt, Mrs. Juliette Low, in Savannah, Georgia, and founded the first patrol of Girl Scouts in the United States.

Mrs. Low had married an Englishman and they lived in London and Savannah. She knew Sir Robert Baden-Powell, the founder of the Boy Scouts, and when she became acquainted with and helped the Girl Guides - which had been founded in Savannah by her sister - she brought the two concepts together.

The headquarters of the Girl Scouts was moved to Washington in 1915, after other groups began forming in other cities. Later it was moved to New York and in the span of only a few decades, there had grown up in this country a national Girl Scout organization with members numbered in the millions.

Generally speaking, scouting is one of our noblest youth organizations - teaching and stressing doing good deeds - helping others - courtesy, learning and cleanness in word and deed. After a short period of declining interest in scouting, the movement is again vigorous and expanding, which is good and welcome news....

Transit Expert Guest At Chamber Breakfast

Ralph Stanley, a urban mass transit administrator, will be the guest at the South Shore Chamber of Commerce breakfast today (Thursday) at the Sheraton Tara in Braintree.

Stanley will be shown the current status of the three Old Colony rail lines, Middleboro, Plymouth and Greenbush. The chamber has gone on record as supporting this resumption of rail service to the South Shore which would require federal funding support.

Why play games with your retirement nest egg?

Your IRA is too important to juggle from "hot" investment to "hot" investment.

Opening an IRA at The Hibernia Savings Bank gives you plenty of choices—12 different Term Certificates that guarantee your return for anywhere from 31 days to 60 months. And because we're members of both FDIC and DIFM, your entire IRA is protected from loss—whether it contains $500 or $5 million.

So bring your nest egg to The Hibernia Savings Bank. And the next time the market swoons (or bonds bomb) you'll be sitting pretty—while everyone else is scrambling.

John Noonan Re-elected Council On Aging Chairman

Business Survival Seminar March 18 At Chamber

John Noonan of Quincy has been re-elected for the fifth consecutive term as chairman of the City of Quincy Council on Aging.

Other officers elected at the council's recent meeting were: Rev. Alicia Corea, vice-chairwoman, and Mary Kay Bamford as secretary.

Guest speaker at the meeting was Planning Director Richard Meade who told members that additional monies for council activities are difficult to obtain because of budget cutbacks on state and federal levels. He did agree that the city should be receiving more grants and funding because of the ever increasing senior population.

The council voted to pursue additional or new sources of revenue to meet the need for increased services and fulltime personnel.

Other council members include:

John Comer, executive

JOHN NOONAN

director of Quincy Housing Authority; M. Jane Gallahue, commissioner of the Quincy Health Department; Barry Welch, director of the Recreation Department; Trudy Buckley, Sabina Kavanaugh, Frank Kearns, William Spencer, Dr. James McDermott, Maida Moakley, Dr. James O'Hare, Mac Purpura, Mildred Trout and Theresa Whitaker.

The council meets the fourth Thursday of each month in the second floor conference room of City Hall Annex. All meetings are open to the public.

South Shore Chamber of Commerce will hold a business survival seminar Wednesday, March 18, from 9 a.m. to 12 noon, at the chamber, 36 Miller Stile Rd., Quincy.

The program is designed to assist large and small businesses to deal more effectively with two issues which can cause difficulties for any business.

- How to avoid and handle sexual harassment problems.
- How to make employee benefits more beneficial to your business.

The program will also feature a question-and-answer session so that participants will have an opportunity to gain specific information.

Seminar cost is $40. Call 479-1111 for reservations.

License Board Briefs

The License Board took the following action at Tuesday's meeting at City Hall.

- Denied a request from Wollaston Pizza and Subs, 15 Beale St., for a common victualer license. Applicant Hacı Cezir of Broadway St., Newtonville, failed to appear before the board to respond to his request.

- Continued to March 24

Lady Bears Lose Title

Ineligibility Ruling Brings Runge, Choukas Careers To Abrupt End

By TOM SULLIVAN

Former North Quincy High teammates JoAnn Runge and Chris Choukas, who helped lead the Bridgewater State College women's basketball teams to four outstanding seasons, had hoped to end their college careers by going for the Division 3 national championship.

The Lady Bears had defeated defending national champion Salem State to win the Mass. State College Athletic Conference title and move into the NCAA championships for the fifth year in a row. They finished with a 22-3 record.

However, Runge and Choukas had their careers suddenly come to an abrupt end when it was ruled Bridgewater had used an ineligible player in all but its last two games, the Lady Bears were stripped of their conference title and ruled out of the NCAA playoffs. So, instead of having a 22-3 record, it finished at 2-23.

The decision followed an Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC) ruling that Frances Leeman, a utility player, was playing for the fifth year and should have been ruled ineligible.

ECAC associate commissioner Clayton Chapman said that Leeman had been ruled eligible last August for the 1986-87 season but Bridgewater State had neglected to submit all the facts. He said Bridgewater was guilty of not informing the ECAC eligibility committee that Leeman had played two years of varsity ball at Northern Essex Community College prior to transferring to Bridgewater. NCAA rules limit athletes to four years of varsity competition.

However, Bridgewater

State coach Bo Ruggerio, himself a former North Quincy High player and also Bridgewater's athletic director, released a statement concerning the banning.

"Bridgewater State College self-reported to the appropriate bodies governing intercollegiate athletics a potential infraction of the 'transfer eligibility rule' of a member of the 1986-87 women's varsity basketball team.

"Information from the community college which the student had attended and where she played basketball for two seasons on a team she believed not to have varsity status, now indicates she is in her fifth year of eligibility, since the ECAC has ruled that the community college did have varsity status. The student had subsequently played two seasons for Bridgewater State.

"Initially, when Bridgewater State sought a ruling from the ECAC in August of 1986, regarding the eligibility, the ECAC Eligibility Committee declared her eligible, based on what has now proven to be insufficient information.

"Verification of the varsity status of the community college team was supplied to the ECAC on Feb. 28, 1987. This new information which conflicted with information originally received by Bridgewater State a year ago when it sought to confirm the status of the community college team, caused Bridgewater State to declare the player ineligible in accordance with ECAC guidelines."

To back up Bridgewater's claims, the school has written statements in late February from the women's assistant coach A. Northeastern Community at the time

Leeman played (1982-83), Jane Welch, and former NECC players Martha Woodruff and Sandra King, along with statements from Leeman and her father, that say the NECC team during that time was not a varsity team.

However, Jack Hess, former women's coach and current athletic director at NECC, said, "There's no doubt in my mind that, during the year in question, we were a varsity team."

Also in the middle of the mess is another former North Quincy High player, ECAC Commissioner Bob "Scotty" Whitelaw.

"I pointed out to Mr. Whitelaw that if this documentation was valid why was it not made available to us at Bridgewater State upon request almost twelve months ago," said Ruggerio.

"On Feb. 25 there was a memo to Mary Lou Thimas, our associate athletic director who handles eligibility, from Scotty Whitelaw stating he had supportive evidence from Hess stating that it was a varsity sport."

"There is no in-house investigation ongoing at Bridgewater State at this time," said BSC president Gerard Indelicato. "I have met with every individual involved, down to the player, and I'm totally confident that no one acted improperly."

BSC lost its appeal to the ECAC, but the NCAA has called the case so complex it can find no other in its history that applied to Leeman's case.

"It seems strange that the ECAC was able to make a decision in 20 minutes on this case when the NCAA has found it so complex it has not been able to make a decision," said Indelicato.

An NCAA decision on

BSC's appeal is expected within a week, too late to get Bridgewater into the playoffs, but if the appeal wins, it would restore all its victories.

The decision is a bitter disappointment to Runge and Choukas, who were looking forward to a possible national championship.

Runge, the Bears' leading scorer and the all-time leader in assists, felt that, after four straight NCAA appearances, this was to be the team's year.

"It's our turn now," she said. "We are going all the way. We beat last year's national champions and we are going to be the champs this year. I think our time has come."

"I don't know about going all the way," said Choukas. "We'll take it one step at a time, hopefully winning the regionals and going on."

Runge, who became Bridgewater's third player to go over the 1000-point career mark, was named to the conference all-star team for the third season in a row.

MIDSHIPMAN Michael Hussey of Quincy, a senior at the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy at Kings Point, N.Y., was presented the coaches award at the annual football banquet. The award is presented to the player who best exemplifies the Kings Point spirit of leadership. A graduate of B.C. High, he also was selected as a Liberty Conference all-star, Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC) Div. 3 first team all-star and is a Div. 3 Little All-American honorable mention. Michael is the son of Paul and Regina Hussey.

Mite A's Win Pair

Quincy's Mite A team, sponsored by DAV #79, improved its Greater Boston League record to 23-3-1 after defeating Dorchester, 3-2, and Westwood, 5-2.

Chris Grant and Paul Princiotto gave Quincy a 2-0 lead with Princiotto, Grant and Jamie Murphy.

Dorchester tied it up but Quincy's strong defense gave goalie Mark Smith excellent support and Dorchester's attack was bottled up. With 1:30 left in the game Tom Moriarty fed Brendan O'Brien who scored the clincher.

Westwood had beaten

Quincy twice before but Quincy coach Don Donahue credited his defencemen, Dan Stone, Dan Hughes, Dan Donahue, Jenna Nolan, Jason Fennelly and Moriarty, along with goalie Smith for sparking the win.

Grant, Mark Regan, Murphy, O'Brien and Ron McGinn scored the Quincy goals.

The Mite A's then enjoyed a weekend on Cape Cod where they won two games over outstanding opponents.

They first edged Barnstable, which had a 20-1 record, 2-0, with McGinn and Fennelly scoring the goals.

Matt Logan, David Rowell, John Healy, Princiotto, Murphy, Steve Barrett and Grant played outstanding games.

The next day Quincy defeated the previously unbeaten Lower Cape Mites, 6-2. Barrett set up play after play and Logan, Healy, Grant and Princiotto were strong on wing.

Regan and O'Brien had two goals apiece and Murphy and Stone one each. Donahue had three assists, O'Brien two and Nolan and Murphy one each.

Senior Hockey

Manet Moving Up

Manet Lunch, playing excellent hockey since the first of the year, has moved out of the cellar and is making a move toward sixth place in the Quincy Youth Arena's Senior Hockey League.

Meanwhile, Kelly's Pub held on to its two-point lead over Joe's Pub as both lost last week.

Manet Lunch and Chevy's played to a 7-7 tie with Jack Martinez, Rich Igoo and Mike Cullen scoring two goals each and Dan Kelly one for Manet. Tom Brennan had four assists, Mike Van Tassel three, George Levo and Kelly two each and Igoo one. For Chevy's Steve Baylis, Bill Elwood and Joe Casserly had two goals each and Gerry DeLuca one. Bob Gervasi and Baylis had two assists apiece and Elwood, DeLuca and Mike Marella one each.

Nostalgia upset Kelly's, 5-4, as Jim Bowen and Bill Benoit scored twice each and Tom Vicory and Paul McIntyre once apiece. Bowen had four assists and Mike Riley, Bob Dulling, Bob Curran and Vicory one each. For Kelly's Mike Storer had two goals and John Pelican and Frank McGinnis one each. Tom Gerry, Paul Cooney, Mike Marks, Storer, Pelican and Leo Doyle had assists.

Blazer, Bob Boyle, John Morris and Loud had two assists apiece and Paul Connolly and Bob McLean one each. Bob Falvey and Bob Beniers had two goals each and Jim Findley one for Joe's. Findley had three assists and Karlos Mentz and Falvey one each.

Kane's Place walloped Bob White's, 7-1, as Glenn Ferguson and Ed Kane had two goals each and John Andrews, Paul Kasianowicz and Paul Messina one apiece. Kane had four assists, Messina three, Mark Andrews two and John Andrews and Dave Peters one each. Bill Joyce scored for White's and Jeff Draper and Tom Spillane had assists.

The standings: Kelly's, 16-5-1; Joe's, 15-6-1; Kane's, 12-7-3; Nostalgia, 10-9-2; Fowler House, 10-9-2; Chevy's, 6-12-4; Manet Lunch, 6-14-1; White's, 3-16-2.

Mite-Squirt House

Balducci's Holds Lead With Win Over Harold

Balducci's held on to its two-point lead in the Mite Squirt House League with a 1-0 victory over the Paul Harold Club.

Brad Watkins scored the game's only goal in one of the best games of the season.

Newcomb Farms defeated Rogan Hennessy, 5-3, on goals by Jenna Nolan, Mike Ryan, Joe McPhee, Robbie Winter and Shawn McLomney. Mike Grant, McLomney, Chris Grant, Danny Stone, Ryan and Winter had assists. Steve Barrett scored twice and Scott Cooper once for Rogan. Matt Logan, Cooper, Tom Moriarty and Barrett had assists.

Quincy Surgical blanked Bo Car Printing, 3-0, with goalie Chris DiMattia getting the shutout. Jamie Murphy had two goals and Kevin Boyle one. R.J. DiMattia had two assists and Eric Kreuz and Matt Suchan one each.

Quincy Girls Compete In N.Y. Volleyball Tourney

The two Mass Patriots 15-year-old and under volleyball teams, featuring a number of Quincy girls, competed in the recent Downstate Volleyball Club Invitational Tournament at Corcordia College in Bronxville, N.Y.

The Patriots' Royal team defeated Nassau-Big Apple and Pepsi-9, 3-0, then topped Downstate, 2-1, to give it first place in its pool and allowed it to advance into the championship round.

The Patriots' White team lost its first match to the Jersey girls, 9-15, 8-15, 14-16, but started playing better in the second match but lost to Pepsi-15, 12-15, 12-15, 15-10. In its final match it swept Clarkson, 3-0, giving it third place in its pool and fifth place overall.

In the championship round, in semifinal action, the Royal team defeated Jersey, 15-12, 11-15, 15-13, and in the championship match defeated Pepsi-15, 15-13, 12-15, 15-10, to bring the title back to Massachusetts.

The Royal team was led by two Quincy High sophomores, Amy Guidice and Corinne Fitchner, and Erin Murray, an Abp. Williams sophomore.

The White team was led by Deirdre Murphy and Debbie Panaro, sophomores at North Quincy High, and Quincy sophomore Nancy Laitinen.

The Patriots' 17-and-under team, playing in its first tournament of the year, gave a good account of itself in this early-season action.

The Red team tied Pepsi Blue, 1-1, and defeated Jersey,

2-0; Big Apple, 2-0, and Suffolk, 2-0, to finish first in its pool and move into the championship round.

The Blue team tied Pepsi-Free, 1-1, and defeated Downstate, 2-0; Clarkstown, 2-0, and Mass. Navy, 2-0, to finish first in its pool and advance to the championship round.

The Navy team lost to Pepsi, 2-0, and Downstate, 2-0, and defeated Clarkstown, 2-0, to finish third in its pool.

In the championship round the Red team lost to Pepsi and the Blue team bowed to Suffolk in the semifinals.

Lauren Standing, a Quincy High senior played outstanding ball. Lauren played excellent defense and scored well from the outside.

LAUREN STANDRING, left, and Ginny Duggan of Quincy were named to the Boston Globe all-scholastic volleyball team. They receive their awards from Globe high school sports editor Larry Ames.

Beechwood Rolls Along

The sixth week of the Quincy Recreation Department Senior Hoop League saw Beechwood Knoll continue unbeaten as it defeated Squantum, 57-37.

Beechwood was backed by the balanced scoring attack of Joe Mulvey, 13, Steve Morad, 11, and Kevin Duffy, 10. For Squantum, Mike Doherty's ball handling and Derek Nickerson's defense were high points in an excellent effort by a cold shooting team. Dave Hutchins had 12, followed by Chris Myer, six, and Doug Newton, five. Beechwood coach Rick Radzik was also pleased with the ball handling of Jackie Green, and rebounding of top "board pounder" Mike Denick.

In the second game the surprise club of this year's seven-team league, Sterling, moved to its second win in three starts by besting Point, 59-43.

For Sterling it was all John Barnes as he tossed in a season league high 30 points, Dan Santry had 10 and Paul Dellabarba eight. Steve Perfeuo, coach of Sterling, also credited Andy Taylor with some outstanding boards and Rich O'Brien with some key defensive plays.

On the Point side, Coach Janice Sullivan was pleased with the play of Jay McLarnon at the defensive end, while Mark Gunther's offensive rebounding was outstanding. Bill Ryan led the point squad with 18, Steve Sullivan had 11, and Mike Gunther chipped in with eight.

The standings: Beechwood, 3-0; Central, 2-1; Sterling, 2-1; Squantum, 2-2; Montclair, 1-2; Atlantic, 1-3; Point, 1-3.

All seven teams will be eligible for post season tournament play.

Stanton Wins Brigade Title

Roger Stanton of Milton, a Navy midshipman and a former member of the South Shore YMCA boxing team, recently won the Naval Academy brigade championship in the 147-pound class.

Stanton won a decision at the Downtown A.C. in New York City and at Annapolis was named the best boxer in two of his three wins, two by TKO.

He will box March 20 for the Eastern NCAA title which will qualify him for the nationals in Reno, Nev.

Stanton graduates in June and will be in special operational training in under water demolition work.

Docket No. 87P0373A-1
Estate of MARGARET E. HANRAHAN late of QUINCY in the County of NORFOLK

NOTICE
A petition has been presented in the above-captioned matter praying that V. KILLEN FLANAGAN of NEEDHAM in the County of NORFOLK be appointed administratrix of said estate with surety on the bond.

If you desire to object to the allowance of said petition, you or your attorney should file a written appearance in said Court at Dedham on or before ten o'clock in the forenoon on April 1, 1987.

In addition you should file a written statement of objections to the petition, giving the specific grounds therefore, within thirty (30) days after the return day for such other time as the Court, on motion with notice to the petitioner, may allow in accordance with Probate Rule 16.

WITNESS, Robert M. Ford, Esquire, First Justice of said Court at Dedham, the seventeenth day of February, one thousand nine hundred and eighty seven.

INVITATION TO BID

Scaled Proposals for Reconstruction of a Portion of the Town Brook will be received at the Office of the Commissioner of Public Works, 55 Sea Street, Quincy, MA until 10:00 A.M. prevailing time on Tuesday, April 7, 1987 at which time they will be publicly opened and read.

The Contractor to whom the Contract may be awarded will be required to appear at this office with the surety offered by him and execute the Contract within ten days from the date of the mailing of notice from the Commissioner to the bidder, according to the address given by him that the Contract is ready for signature and in case of his failure or neglect to do so, the Commissioner may, at his option, determine that the bidder had abandoned the Contract and thereupon the certified check or bid bond shall become the property of the City of Quincy.

The Contractor will be required to provide both a performance bond and payment labor and materials bond each for the full Contract price. A certified check or bid bond in the amount of 5% of the base bid shall accompany each bid.

Specifications may be obtained at the Department of Public Works upon deposit of $25.00 for each set which will be refunded provided they are returned in good condition, within 30 days of the bid opening. Bidders requesting specifications mailed to them shall add a separate check for ten Dollars ($10.00) payable to the City of Quincy to cover the mailing and handling.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids or to accept the bid deemed best for the City.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

In accordance with the provisions of M.G.L. Chapter 40A, Section 5, the Quincy Planning Board will hold a public hearing on Wednesday, March 25, 1987, at 7:00 P.M., in the City Council Chamber, Quincy City Hall, 1305 Hancock Street, for the purpose of considering proposed amendments to Chapter 24, City of Quincy Zoning Ordinance as follows:

The City of Quincy Zoning Ordinance, Chapter 24, Article V, Section 52 as amended, is further amended by deleting from the Table of Dimensional Requirements the requirements set forth in the column entitled, "Minimum Lot or Area Per D.U." (sq. ft.) and inserting therein the following minimum lot area per dwelling unit (sq. ft.) requirements:

*Res. A - 2,650	Bus. A - See Footnote 5
*Res. B - 2,500	Bus. B - See Footnote 5
4-in-c. mts. - 3,500	Bus. C - See Footnote 5
17 Units and up - 3,500	Ind. A - None
*Res. C - 2,500	Ind. B - None
*Res. D - 2,500

and by adding to Article V, Section 52, the following:

"Footnote 5. Notwithstanding any provisions in the Zoning By-Law to the contrary, the minimum lot area per dwelling unit is 2,500 sq. ft. for residential uses as may be permitted in other districts, including Bus. A, B, and C."

The City of Quincy Zoning Ordinance, Chapter 24, Article III, The Zoning Districts, Section 31, Subsection 2, as most recently amended, is amended by Deleting:

MINIMUM PUD PUD-1	MAX. NO. OF STORIES
ARIA PER DU (SQ. FT.)
1,000	10*

*In a PUD District, the maximum number of stories shall be limited to eight (8)."

and inserting therein:

MINIMUM PUD PUD-1	MAX. NO. OF STORIES
ARIA PER DU (SQ. FT.)
2,500	6*

The City of Quincy Zoning Ordinance, Chapter 24, Article V, "Dimensional Requirements," Section 52, Table of Dimensional Requirements, is amended by deleting the maximum number of stories in Res. C, Res. D, Bus. B, Bus. C, Ind. A and Ind. B zones and adding thereto and inserting therein the following maximum number of stories:

DISTRICT	DIMENSIONAL REQUIREMENTS
Res. C	6
Res. D	6
Bus. B	6
Bus. C	6
Ind. A	6
Ind. B	6*

and further, by amending Article V, "Dimensional Requirements," Section 52, "Table of Dimensional Requirements, Maximum number of Stories, Footnote 4," as most recently amended, to read as follows:

"Notwithstanding the number of allowable stories, no commercial or residential building shall be more than sixty (60) feet above the existing average grade exclusive of those necessary features appurtenant thereto as enumerated in Section 56. In no case should any building exceed six (6) stories. Any commercial building with residential housing will be subject to the six-story above-grade limitation."

Arts And Crafts Movements Topic For Historical Society

Margaret Taylor will be the speaker as the Quincy Historical Society continues its "Quincy Remembers" series. Thursday, March 19 at 1:30 p.m.

She will speak on the "Arts and Crafts Movement in America (1876-1916)."

This is the subject of a major exhibit at the Museum of Fine Arts from March until May. The Arts and Crafts Movement bridged between the Victorian and Modern periods and includes art, pottery, and Mission furniture.

Some of the names associated with the movement are Tiffany, Stickley, and Frank Lloyd Wright.

It was a "reform movement in the arts that started in England with the Pre-Raphaelites and Ruskin, carried further with William Morris and Burne-Jones, among others. In Philadelphia the Centennial Exposition of 1876 exposed the general public for the first time to Shaker and early Colonial furniture, to Japanese goods, to Morris textiles and papers. These were seen as the perfect antidote to Victorian machine-made extravagances. In came "honest" furniture and hand-crafted pottery.

In 1897 in Boston the first Arts and Crafts Society was founded in June followed by one in Chicago in October.

In 1900 the Guild of Arts and Crafts was established in New York, followed in 1901 by Hingham's own Society of Arts and Crafts, one of the forerunners in America.

The meeting is open to the public. There is no admission charge. Refreshments will be served.

KAREN LANTER, far right, and the Keren Ohr dancers perform at the recent Israel Folkdance Festival.

Karen Lanter In Israel Folkdance Festival

The Israel Folkdance Festival of Boston's performance in Cambridge last Sunday had a Quincy connection.

Karen Lanter, granddaughter of Mrs. Sadie Openheim and niece of Mr.

and Mrs. Leo Baker of Quincy, performed with the Keren Ohr Dancers of Washington, D.C. at the 11th annual Israel Folkdance Festival, staged in MIT's Kresge Auditorium in Cambridge on March 8. Miss Lanter is director of the group. Stephanie Becker-Salem, also of Quincy, and the Migdal Or dance group of Boston, also performed a suite of hora style dances reminiscent of the early years of the State of Israel.

'Not For Children Only' Series At Crane Library

Quincy's Thomas Crane Library is inviting residents to rediscover books from their youth during a new reading and discussion series.

The series, "Not for Children Only," begins March 24, 10 to 12 noon, at the library and continues every other Tuesday morning for five sessions, through May 19.

This program is part of a national project, sponsored by the American Library Association and funded by the National Endowment for the Humanities, that is helping libraries across the country put on reading and discussion series.

Purpose is to give adults the opportunity to read again the books they loved as children, to read some classics they may have missed, and to learn about good contemporary children's books so they can encourage today's children to read.

Participants will read eight children's books over the course of the series. For each session, a visiting scholar will make a 30 minute presentation about the readings, relating them to the overall theme. Small-group discussion will follow. At the end, everyone comes together for a brief wrap-up.

Materials will be provided. Participants must pre-register by calling Ann McLaughlin at the library, 471-2400 by March 20. Enrollment will be limited to 20 who call early.

Liz & Joan Broadway Bound?

New York — Last week I told you how Mary Tyler Moore and Lynn Redgrave are the talk of the town in Broadway's smash, "Sweet Sue." Now comes word that both of these lovely ladies' contracts will be up this May and producers of the show are starting to think about replacements — possibly for the road as well. Well, the gossip around the Big Apple is that the perfect combination would be Joan Collins and Elizabeth Taylor taking over. Now, that's some cast, don'tcha agree? Speaking of Joan, it was no secret that her sister, Jackie, never liked Joan's hubby, Peter Holm. However, now that this part of Joan's life is behind her, Jackie was toying with the idea of using Peter's personality in one of her future books. The idea didn't go over too well with Joan and she asked that Jackie forget the whole idea. The result — Jackie did and everyone seems better for it.

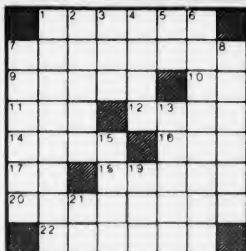

Darryl Strawberry of the New York Mets and his wife, Lisa, have failed in their attempt to reconcile. Both are now going back to the courts and Lisa is asking for $31,000 a month for support of herself and the couple's young son, Darryl, Jr. While Grace Jones never seems unnerved when you bring $50, you could bowl along with any of the 30 or so stars of the daytime dial. The proceeds went to the Manhattan Class Company, a New York theater group headed up by Robert Lupone, formerly that dastardly Zach on "AMC." Michelle Phillips, formerly of "Hotel" and now starring in "Knots Landing," admits that her favorite television show is "Dynasty." Mark Hamill, of "Star Wars" fame, is currently preparing to star in a Broadway play directed by Charles Nelson Reilly. The show, titled "The Nerd," has not set an opening date as of this writing. March 19 is the opening date for "Blithe Spirit" on Broadway starring Richard Chamberlain and the great Geraldine Page. If you're in the New York area, don't miss this one.

Back In Time

What movie is this picture taken from and who are the famous stars?

The movie was "Old Acquaintance" (1943). The stars were Bette Davis and Miriam Hopkins.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) Set aside time this week to devote yourself to those necessary chores at home. You will need to isolate yourself, somewhat, in order to accomplish this. However, by the weekend, you can feel free to socialize with friends and family. Small home gatherings are favored.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Your stars this week are twinkling in a social direction. Follow this and enjoy group activities. Before signing any contracts, take some time to really think things over. There's a small cloud on the horizon in that someone will dig up something petty which will annoy you. Show you're above this and ignore it.

Gemini (May 21 to June 20) You're experiencing a definite upward trend, both in income and status. Enjoy this. However, by the weekend, you can feel free to socialize with friends and family. Small home gatherings are favored.

Moon Children (June 21 to July 22) While pressure at work is definitely getting you down, you will find some relief this week in the pursuit of creative outlets. Curling up with a good book in front of a roaring fireplace is the perfect prescription for you right now. Plan enjoyable weekend activities.

Leo (July 23 to August 22) While you are trying desperately to get your financial and tax picture in order, don't lose touch with loved ones. Your mental strain is beginning to take its toll on them, but they can provide some help and relief. You may not feel very sociable, but getting into is good for you.

Virgo (August 23 to September 22) You will be able to apply yourself diligently to your work this week, even if you have to sacrifice some leisure time. However, your diligence will pay off in terms of both income and some bonus vacation time.

Libra (September 23 to October 22) You are not the type who can make a decision without a lot of effort and concentration. While you realize you'll have to come to a decision soon about that career opportunity, don't allow others to bully you into something. Take as much time as you need.

Scorpio (October 23 to November 21) You have an unexpected opportunity to visit an exotic locale, but are worried about finances. If you look carefully, you will be able to find the room in your budget to allow you to take this trip. Don't get caught up in any trivial matters this week.

Sagittarius (November 22 to December 21) As you look around your home, you will realize you're going to have to spend some money in order to get it in shape. However, don't go hog wild with your credit cards. Look for ways to spend cash in lieu of credit to avoid future problems.

Capricorn (December 22 to January 19) You are bottling up a lot of emotions concerning a very special person. Rather than do this and create bigger problems, be open and honest. You and your mate will feel a lot better once the air is cleared.

Aquarius (January 20 to February 18) Friends are in a particularly feisty mood this week, causing you to lose some concentration at work. However, if you can put this aside, opportunities will present themselves in which you can further your income.

Pisces (February 19 to March 20) That unexpected social invitation from a higher up holds some strings attached. It's best to avoid this and keep applying yourself at the office, rather than outside it. This weekend is good for pursuing some much needed leisure time.

Will be received at the Office of the Commissioner of Public Works, 55 Sea Street, Quincy, MA until 10:00 A.M. prevailing time on Thursday, April 16, 1987 at which time they will be publicly opened and read

The Contractor to whom the Contract may be awarded will be required to appear at this office with the surety offered by him and execute the Contract within ten days from the date of the mailing of notice from the Commissioner to the bidder, according to the address given by him that the Contract is ready for signature and in case of his failure or neglect to do so, the Commissioner may, at his option, determine that the bidder had abandoned the Contract and thereupon the certified check or bid bond shall become the property of the City of Quincy.

The Contractor will be required to provide both a performance bond and payment labor and materials bond each for the full Contract price. A certified check or bid bond in the amount of 5% of the base bid shall accompany each bid.

Specifications may be obtained at the Department of Public Works upon deposit of $50 for each set which will be refunded provided they are returned in good condition, within 30 days of the bid opening. Bidders requesting specifications mailed to them shall add a separate check for Fifteen Dollars ($15.00) payable to the City of Quincy to cover the mailing and handling.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids or to accept the bid deemed best for the City.

Nesting Invitation To Osprey To Come Home

By DAN CONNELLY
Two 20-foot nesting sites are now standing tall in Quincy marsh land to extend a homecoming invitation to the osprey, a fish-eating hawk once native to the South Shore.

The Metropolitan District Commission, in cooperation with the state Division of Fisheries and Wildlife and the Quincy Conservation Commission, erected the poles, donated by Massachusetts Electric, on the city-owned Black's Creek salt marsh, one adjacent to Caddy Park in Wollaston and the other at Moswetuset Hummock, North Quincy.

According to Leanne DelVecchio, MDC spokeswoman, officials hope that platforms placed at the top of these poles will encourage the osprey, which has been sighted in the area, to nest.

The osprey is a hawk which chiefly inhabits coastal waters. The bird's population has been decreasing over the years due, in part, to the loss of suitable nesting sites; the hawks choose to live in high dead trees which are usually removed when in an urban setting.

DelVecchio said the Quincy marsh was cited as an appropriate location because of its accessibility to fish in the marsh and in nearby Black's Creek, and to its high open situation which the osprey prefer.

Similar osprey-attracting programs have been successful in Martha's Vineyard and Nantucket. The hawk has a wing span of four to six feet and is brown in color with a white head.

MDC Commissioner

STATE DIVISION OF Fisheries and Wildlife tag Osprey that had nested atop this pole in a similar Osprey-attracting program.

William Geary said, "Moswetuset and Caddy possess abundant amounts of both American and natural history. Our plan to attract historical site in the nation, is located at the northern end of Wollaston Beach and acts as a gateway to the Boston Harbor Islands. The one and one half acre peninsula is on the National Register of Historical Places for its role in the early settlement of the area. The Hummock was the main campsite of Chickatawbut, chief of the Massachusetts Indians, during the time of the settlement of the Massachusetts Bay Colony, today known as Quincy Bay. The name Massachusetts is derived from Moswetuset.

Caddy Park is a 15-20 acre parcel on the southern end of Wollaston Beach rich in natural habitat such as salt marshes, estuaries, beaches and uplands. The area hosts a hike path, trails, picnic tables and a lookout tower.

Good News For Everyone Born Before 1921.

IF YOU'RE A SENIOR CITIZEN, AND YOU'RE WILLING TO SPEND FIVE MINUTES READING THIS, WE'LL GIVE YOU TODAY'S CABLE FOR A MONTH, FREE.

Until now you probably thought that cable wasn't for you. That it was just an extra expense. If you'll be good enough to spare us your time, we've got some facts that may well change your mind.

CABLE ISN'T JUST MORE TV.

There's always something good on today's cable. You'll always find programs to entertain you, inform you and keep you in touch, just when you're in the mood. Cable's even got programming especially for seniors. You don't have to watch more, you just enjoy it more.

BASIC. THE HEART OF THE CABLE DIFFERENCE.

People often think that cable must be expensive. But the fact is that the essence of cable, Basic Cable, is really a bargain. You get great reception on the channels you're getting now, plus 33 fascinating new channels. Here's just a taste of what they offer:

- Senior Spotlight with local personalities and senior issues
- Senior Nutrition and Senior Exercise
- The Discovery Channel with the world of nature and science
- Senior Smarts and the Senior Dating Game
- Classics from the golden days of TV and Hollywood
- Lifetime with tips on finance and life extension
- C-Span with coverage from Congress
- News, 24 hours a day, world, financial and local
- Country and Classical music, The Home Shopping Network
- Economics of one and two person households
- National Geographic Explorer Series every week
- Plus The Weather Channel and documentaries not seen on ordinary TV

PEOPLE ARE A PART OF THE PICTURE.

If Basic is the heart of cable, Senior Service is the soul. Our people go out of their way to provide thoughtful, courteous and prompt service to everyone. But especially to senior citizens. Just listen to what some of our senior subscribers have to say about us:

"Senior Smarts has done a great deal to add to the enjoyment of senior citizens and helps to keep them young, active, and important."

Steve Marx

"Let me thank you for your good service and especially for providing such good TV as Mother Angelica."

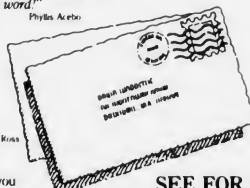

Mary A. Maloney

"I'm pleased beyond words. I find your working crew polite, efficient and you keep your word!"

Phyllis Aceto

"It is really a pleasure to deal with honorable people. Thank you very much."

Joe and Esther Krav

We could tell you about cable for hours, but there's no substitute for first hand experience. That's why we're making this special offer to senior citizens only. We'll install cable and give you a month's Basic Cable service, all for free. You can sit back and see what Basic Cable's got for you, without spending a cent.

A GUARANTEE, NOT A GIMMICK.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY celebration had Mayor Francis McCauley, left, and City Councillor Joseph LaRaia, his challenger, sharing a laugh. At right, is Councillor John J. Lydon, Jr., who hosted the annual event at Kelly's in North Quincy.

Not So, Says Mayor

LaRaia Calls Zoning Criticism 'Political'

City Councillor Joseph LaRaia, a mayoral candidate, called it political when a member of Mayor Francis McCauley's administration found fault with his proposed zoning ordinance change at a Monday night meeting.

But McCauley said there was nothing political about an assistant city solicitor pointing out a vagueness in the proposed change.

In any event, it was the first hint of politics since the two men announced for mayor earlier this year.

The occasion was a public hearing held by the City Council and Planning Board on LaRaia's proposal to increase the parking requirements in Business C districts to 1.5 spaces per single bedroom and 2 spaces for two bedroom units.

During the hearing, LaRaia used the $55 million Presidents' Place project planned for downtown Quincy as an example of the need for such a change.

"Presidents' Place plans to build 209 condominiums and the requirement is for only one space per condo," said LaRaia.

He pointed out that the Quincy Center area needs more parking not only for that development but also for such places as City Hall, Quincy Junior College and the Thomas Crane Public Library.

"It's important that we concern ourselves with the adequacy of parking," said LaRaia.

Assistant City Solicitor Robert Quinn said that there was no definition of a bedroom, and no parking proposals for studios or three bedroom units.

Quinn, who said that he was representing himself, noted, "it would be difficult to enforce the ordinance change without a definition of a bedroom."

"If there was a problem with the zoning change, you could have called and not used the evening as a confrontation," said LaRaia.

"The mayor's office is backing Presidents' Place, and I question that you are representing yourself. I think you are representing the mayor and others."

LaRaia also brought up the matter later in the meeting.

"If you were in the business of trying to solve problems, any questions you had could have been resolved before the meeting," said LaRaia.

"I'm appalled at the approach you are taking to raise the question."

"I feel this is a lot more political than on the merits of the resolution," he said.

"You're on the city payroll, how can you say you are representing yourself?"

"Essentially, he's making fools of us," LaRaia told the council, "if he thinks we believe him."

McCauley said later "there

McCauley Cuts $1.6 Million From Budget

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Mayor Francis McCauley hopes to submit a $96,143,060 municipal budget to the City Council Monday, April 6, after he trimmed an additional $1,660,893 from an earlier figure in light of reduced state aid.

McCauley said the additional reduction will not result in cutbacks of city services or layoffs of personnel.

"We'll maintain the same city services," said McCauley who declined to specify the cuts until the budget is presented to the council.

The mayor had proposed a municipal budget of $97,803,953 for fiscal 1988.

But after learning the city would receive the smallest annual increase in state aid since fiscal 1982, he reviewed some areas of the budget and did additional trimming, he said.

The $1,660,893 decrease represents addition of $123,351 to the budget and subtraction of $1,784,244 to the earlier figure, he noted.

McCauley said the budget will now be typed by Auditor Robert Foy's office, and printed by the School Department.

He said he will give a brief presentation on the budget to the council April 6, and noted that date is a month earlier than required by law.

McCauley said the council will refer the budget to the Finance Committee chaired by Councillor Richard Koch, Jr., who will schedule meetings with department heads.

The council has 45 days to act on the budget, and can make reductions but not additions, he said.

"The budget, which goes into effect July 1, should be all wrapped up by Memorial Day," said McCauley.

City To Hire Landfill Consultant

Mayor Francis McCauley said Tuesday that the city will hire a consultant to expedite preparation of an Environmental Impact Report to continue the landfill in West Quincy which may run out of space in May.

McCauley said the city will hire David Stanley, who was associated in the past with the Department of Environmental Quality Engineering.

Stanley's job will be to negotiate with the DEQE and work with Boston Survey Consultants. The firm used by the city regarding the landfill, the mayor said.

McCauley said that Stanley will arrange meetings with the DEQE while the mayor is away on a trip to Taiwan until March 31.

"Hopefully, this EIR will satisfy the DEQE and James Hoyte, state secretary for Environmental Affairs," said McCauley.

An earlier EIR submitted by Quincy was rejected by Hoyte as inadequate.

That left the city with options of resubmitting an

EIR to extend the life of the landfill, or to "write off" the landfill and spend $2.6 million a year to have the city's residential trash taken away.

Quincy had banned commercial rubbish from the landfill last fall to extend the life of the dump.

McCauley said that funds are available in the landfill account to pay Stanley.

He said he expects to meet again with Stanley between April 10 and 20 for an update on the situation.

Celebrate St. Patrick's Day With An Icy Dip At Wollaston Beach

To the tune of "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling" and "Toora Looa," seven members of the St. Patrick's Day Revellers observed the Irish holiday by taking a bone-chilling dip into Wollaston Beach.

For the 12th straight year, the Revellers, led by Jack Tuite, 79, of Waltham, plunged into the 39-degree water Saturday for a minute of a bit of swimming.

Tuite, who swims year-round at Wollaston said his automobile doubled as a coffee and donut canteen.

As the stout seven preceded into the choppy water banjo-picker Frank DiMare led them through some popular Irish tunes with Jim Dowty on trombone.

The swimmers were reminded the water is actually warmer than the air. It's when you get out of the water that you express your shock as to really how cold the day was.

A Quincy resident who participated in the swim said the only reason he did it was because he was Irish.

Some of the swimmers said it's tougher than the L Street (Brownies) swim because you can't warm up beforehand in a South Boston bathhouse and take a hot shower.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY revellers venture into the choppy waters for a chilling dip at Wollaston Beach.

Sandra Buckley Named Squantum Center Director

Mayor Francis McCauley announces the selection of Sandra Buckley as director of the newly-opened Squantum Community Center.

A long-time resident of Squantum, Miss Buckley has worked with the Squantum School and the Squantum Community Association in organizing a variety of civic and school activities.

The Squantum Community Center offers exercise and dance classes for all ages. Plans are underway to initiate a mothers group, a blood pressure clinic and other activities.

Mayor McCauley invites Squantum residents to visit the community center located at 50 Huckins Ave., Squantum, for further information regarding the center's programs and services.

DISASTER

QUINCY PROPERTY OWNERS

There is presently a proposal before the Quincy City Council for drastic zoning changes. If these changes pass as proposed the majority of all single family homes, two family homes, apartments and condos will become non conforming uses. IF your house, condo, or apartment building is partially or wholly destroyed by fire, tornado etc., rendering it unsafe you may NOT HAVE THE RIGHT TO REBUILD!!! Many will suffer financial disaster and may be forced to move out of their neighborhoods.

While there may be some need for zoning modification, and although the proposals were made in good faith, they were done unprofessionally and unrealistically.

Help postpone the council's action until professional input is obtained to make these zoning changes realistic. Call the Mayor, your councillor, and attend the public hearing Monday, March 23, at 7 P.M., Quincy City Hall.

$250,000 EPA Study On Bay Pollution

A $250,000 study of the amount of sludge and pollutants in Quincy Bay from the wastewater treatment plant at Nut Island will begin in May, announced federal and city officials Monday.

The nine-month study will be done by the Environmental Protection Agency.

"It is critically important for people who use the bay, such as fishermen, boaters and swimmers, to know what is there," said Cong. Brian Donnelly during the press conference in Mayor Francis McCauley's office.

Also attending were the EPA's Paul Keough, deputy regional administrator, and Ron Manfredonia, chief of water quality branch, as well as Leo Kelly, chairman of Quincy's Environmental Control Commission.

According to Keough, the study will be done in four phases. It will include use of existing data, samplings of sludge and fish, and risk assessment.

"We hope to have a summary report out by the end of the year," said Keough, "and a final report by early next year."

Manfredonia said that nine stations from Long Island to Peddocks Island will be established for sediment and fish samplings.

"We'll use the data to see if there is any potential public health risk to consuming the fish," he said.

"We'd also like to continue to meet with residents to keep them updated," said Manfredonia, who recommended establishment of a citizen's advisory committee.

"This is the most comprehensive study ever done of pollution in Quincy Bay," said Donnelly. "And it is because of local initiative by people like Leo Kelly and Mayor Francis McCauley."

Kelly and representatives of the mayor went to Washington, D.C., last July to enlist the aid of Donnelly in seeking federal funds to clean up Boston Harbor and Quincy Bay.

"I'm amazed that they have been able to put this type of study together this fast," said

Kelly, a member of the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority Board.

Kelly asked that the salt content of the bay be included in the study. He noted that the last study of the bay was done by the state in 1956.

Preliminary work on some fish has indicated that they have not been seriously affected, according to Keough.

"We'll do a lot more sampling to really see if there is a problem with bottom-crawling fish," said Keough.

Donnelly noted that public health is the overriding issue.

"It's extremely important to know the condition of Quincy Bay so that we can go forward," said McCauley.

Donnelly said it was impossible to assess the chances of obtaining federal funds, if necessary, to clean up the bay once the report is completed.

"But we shouldn't be afraid to find out what is there," he said.

Mayor Signs Two Proclamations

Mayor Francis McCauley recently signed proclamations urging Quincy residents to observe March as "Registration Awareness" and "Red Cross" month.

In the first proclamation, McCauley said the continuation of the program for peacetime registration for the selective service system contributes to national readiness by reducing the time required for a full defense mobilization. It is vital for all to understand the importance of the selective service awareness program, he said.

Mayor McCauley also urged all citizens to support the Red Cross by giving generously to their local chapter in his second proclamation. He added that the American Red Cross has exemplified our growing awareness of responsibility toward one another.

Smoke Alarms Warn At Germantown Fire

Smoke detectors once again proved their worth when four adults and several children escaped unhurt as fire swept a four-family complex in Germantown Monday, owned by the Quincy Housing Authority.

Fire Chief Carl Valenti said because the smoke alarms were working, and the time of day of the fire (2:30 p.m.), this contributed to there being no serious injury to tenants.

Valenti said the two-alarm fire could have been caused by careless disposal of smoking material. It broke out in the basement of one of the apartments, located at 20 Sextant Circle, and made its way to the upper floor. All of the occupants had evacuated before the arrival of firemen.

Two cats died in the blaze but several other pets were rescued. One cat was fed oxygen from an air tank by Capt. George McCray.

There were 14 people living in the four apartments said fire officials who added the department's fire prevention bureau and the state fire marshal's office will investigate.

The building is part of the housing authority's Riverview complex built in the early 1950s.

Mayor Leaves Friday For Taiwan Visit

"I expect to learn a lot during the trip," said Mayor Francis McCauley who with his wife, Sandra, leaves Friday for a trip to Taiwan with a delegation from the U.S. Conference of Mayors.

Eight other U.S. mayors and their spouses have also been invited.

The McCauleys will return to Quincy late March 31 from the trip which is being paid for by the Chinese National Association of Commerce and Industry.

"I'm pleased that they thought of me and of Quincy," said McCauley of the invitation.

"It's a good opportunity to go and visit Taiwan which is recognized as a very flourishing economy with a free market.

"I'm looking forward to meeting mayors of cities," McCauley said. "I'm sure we share mutual problems."

McCauley said he is particularly interested in water pollution, solid waste disposal and education.

He said he is also looking forward to discussions of nuclear energy.

"It ought to be an interesting trip," said McCauley. "It's always interesting to sit down with mayors of other cities, whether in this country or outside of the country, and see how their government works."

McCauley said he and his wife will fly to Los Angeles Friday morning and stay there overnight before departing on Saturday for a 13-hour flight.

"It's going to be a long flight so I'm bringing an 800-page book," said McCauley, who is also packing booklets on Quincy to give to his Taiwan hosts.

In case of an emergency, Quincy City Council president Stephen McGrath would be acting mayor, said McCauley.

"I expect to be in touch while I'm away," he said.

Lack Of Business Cancels License Board Hearing

The city's License Board cancelled Tuesday's hearing because only one item was scheduled to be acted upon on its agenda.

City Clerk John Gillis, who is board chairman, instead gave oral approval to a request from the North Quincy High cheerleaders for the following canning dates, March 20 and 21.

Gillis also noted the board received a letter from Joseph Marks Jr. of Broadwalk Cafe, 315 Victory Rd., who was withdrawing his request for a common victualer-take out only license, previously held by Sea Salads.

DeCristofaro Urges Beat Patrolman For Quincy Point

Ward 2 Councillor Theodore P. DeCristofaro has received more than 600 signatures from residents requesting a beat patrolman in the lower Quincy Point area.

In letters to both Mayor Francis McCauley and Police Chief Francis Finn, DeCristofaro said there is no area of the city at this time more in need of a beat patrolman than the lower Quincy Point area.

He strongly urged the mayor and chief make this coverage available.

Clean Up Neighborhoods, Mayor Urges

Spring arrives Friday and Mayor Francis X. McCauley is asking citizens to pitch in to clean up their neighborhoods.

The winter snow melting has revealed much debris around yards, sidewalks and streets, he said.

City workers have been out trying to clean city areas but, said Mayor McCauley, private property and vacant lots are still in need of cleaning.

The mayor asks all citizens to pick-up the debris around their homes and in the vacant lots. He also urges neighborhoods to initiate neighborhood clean-up programs.

Because of the amount of snow and icy conditions that the winter season brought, much sand was used on the streets and sidewalks, he noted.

McCauley requests that citizens sweep the sand into the gutters for the street sweeping machines to clean up between March 15 and April 1.

McCauley also noted that with the assistance of the citizens of Quincy, the city will be clean for the upcoming good weather months.

LaRaia Bucking History

Joseph LaRaia, it would seem, is bucking history in his quest to re-capture the mayor's office.

LaRaia is the sixth former mayor to attempt to oust an incumbent mayor since the Plan A form of government was established here in 1917.

Only one has succeeded so far.

That was Gustave Bates who defeated William Bradford in 1922 by a scant 429 votes. (Two years later, Bates was ousted by Perley Barbour).

Other former mayors who tried to unseat incumbent mayors:

Bates who was successful against Bradford had tried earlier in 1918 as a former mayor to oust incumbent Joseph Whiton but was unsuccessful.

In 1934 former Mayor Thomas McGrath failed against incumbent Charles Ross.

In 1936 McGrath failed again, this time against Thomas Burgin. The latter had succeeded Ross in a special election in May, 1935.

In 1938 Ross, as a former mayor, could not win back the office against Burgin. But, in 1942 Ross returned to City Hall, defeating Myron Lane in a special election for mayor after Burgin resigned to enter the Navy during World War II.

It would seem the odds are against LaRaia becoming the second former mayor to defeat a sitting mayor.

But then, long-shots sometimes do come in.

LaRaia

McCauley

BY THE END of this year, incumbent Francis McCauley and LaRaia will become the 10th and 11th to serve 20 years in municipal elective office in Quincy.

McCauley, incidentally, is the first person in Quincy's history to be elected to all four elective offices: ward councillor, councillor at-large, school committeeman and mayor.

He served as Ward 1 councillor four years, school committeeman six years, councillor at-large four years and so far, six years as mayor.

LaRaia has served six years as Ward 2 councillor, 12 years as councillor at-large and two as mayor.

SPEAKING OF McCAULEY, he has been in the company of three presidential hopefuls the past couple of weeks: at a breakfast with Michael Dukakis at Massasoit Community College; at a luncheon for George Bush in Bedford and Saturday at a reception in Newton for Senator Robert Dole.

McCauley seems to be getting around. Friday he and his wife, Sandra, will leave for an eight to 10-day visit to Taiwan. He is one of nine mayors from around the country making the trip.

TIM CAHILL, mentioned quite frequently as a potential City Council at-large candidate, will make it official April 2. He will kick off his campaign at a 7 p.m. fundraiser that night at the Torre Dei Passeri Social Club, Washington St., Quincy. Tickets are $10 each and may be obtained from Fred "Rick" Smith 471-9580 or at the door.

KITTY DUKAKIS, on her recent visit to Quincy, commented briefly on the role of the nation's First Lady -- a position she would hold, of course, if her husband ran for President and was elected.

"Every spouse," she said, "has their own way of handling things with their own personality and individual style. All of us have to decide our own role. Now we have a choice."

She noted that women often have a harder time developing that role.

"Anytime that a woman asserts herself," she said, "she'll have criticism. It's unfair. The adjectives used by some male reporters to describe a female's role are different than ones used to describe a male's role."

WJDA's Herb Fontaine and his wife, Barbara, found a strong Quincy connection during a recent two week vacation to Del Ray, Fla.

They drove to Hallandale, a few miles from Miami, and visited with Burt and Helen Cook, former owners of Tags in Quincy.

While there, Helen made a phone call and asked Herb to pick up the phone. On the other end was Joe Pappas who with his wife also lives in Hallandale. Pappas used to own the Minit Car Wash and Econo Car Leasing firm in Quincy. The Cooks live in a town house on the water. Across the water lives Burt Parks.

In Boca Raton at a popular flea market, Herb spotted another Quincy friend, Dr. Al Davis who was on vacation. And got a chance to talk on the telephone with Dr. Joseph Wassersug and Dan Leavitt, former Quincy residents now living in that Florida area.

Readers Forum Concerned Over Point Middle Possible Closing

Editor, The Quincy Sun
I'm writing this letter to aware the Quincy Point community about the possible closing of the Quincy Point Middle School.

As a concerned parent, I feel since Prop. 2½ has been in existence we the Quincy Point residents have been stepped on long enough.

First the Pollard School sold to make Pollard Place (apartment complex) and now this.

Mayor McCauley should be told that Quincy Point is not a doormat for school closings. And as far as I'm concerned we will not stop fighting this matter till we win!

Question Waiting An Answer: Shelter, Detoxification Center Both At Registry?

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

"We've been holding our breath so long that our lungs have expanded," said Nancy Powers, executive director of the Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition which could have a permanent shelter for the homeless by late 1987.

The city is moving forward with plans to establish such a shelter at the Broad St. site of the Registry of Motor Vehicles which intends to move from the city-owned building to Quincy Fair, Quincy Sq., in September or October.

Mrs. Powers could not estimate how long it might take to renovate the registry building for use as a shelter, but did say that a shelter at the Faxon House at Quincy City Hospital was ready after a month's remodeling.

"And that needed extensive work," she noted.

Mrs. Powers' comments came after a meeting of the Mayor's Committee to Find a Permanent Location for the Homeless, to which she was invited.

The committee will meet again later this month, according to chairman David Smith, also the city's personnel director. It will decide whether the registry site should house both a homeless shelter and the detoxification center.

"Representatives of state agencies will determine what the requirements are for both the detoxification center and the shelter," said Smith.

"Nobody is going to force the detoxification center and shelter together if there isn't enough room," said Smith, who noted that the detoxification center has a lease for Gordon House at Quincy City Hospital until May, 1988.

"But it seems reasonable if there is room at the facility for both groups," he said.

Mrs. Powers said she does not think there would be enough space for both groups.

But if there was sufficient space, and the two centers were kept totally separate, she would not have a problem with the arrangement, she said.

"We've gotten along well with the detoxification center in the past," she said. "We've even shared donations."

Mrs. Powers gave committee members a proposal for use of the registry building's 6200 square feet as a shelter.

It includes sleeping space for 40 men and women, bathroom facilities with eight showers, kitchen area, food storage area with two to four refrigerators, dining room with seating for 50 people, utility room with two to four washers and dryers, offices, staff station, and entry area for clients to prevent lines outside the building.

She also stated that the coalition would assume renovation, maintenance and operational costs, and that it carries liability insurance of $500,000.

The facility will be occupied by staff on a 24-hour a day basis, and clients will not be allowed to loiter in the area on their way to or from the shelter, she said.

The coalition, which presently does not have funds available for rent, would like a 99-year lease, according to Mrs. Powers.

"We've never had one incident or problem with neighbors," she said. "Our track record is clean."

Since the coalition began three years ago, shelters have been located at the Salvation Army, St. John's School, and Faxon House at Quincy City Hospital, she said.

A temporary shelter for women is currently being housed at Quincy Point Congregational Church, and for men at Wollaston

Lutheran Church.

Police Chief Francis Finn has told Fr. William McCarthy, who is a coalition committee member, that he will have officers make frequent checks of the Broad St. area if the shelter is located there, she noted.

"Quincy's homeless are very different than Boston's homeless," said Mrs. Powers. "Many of the people grew up here, they have family here, and they have a certain amount of pride in Quincy. They feel very based here."

"At no time do we allow guests to hang around in the area or loiter in the streets," she said.

According to Mrs. Powers, most of the shelter guests are men who are employed but don't make enough money to afford a room and food.

"Of the 20 men we have now, 17 are working, two are looking for jobs and one is over 65," she said.

"Some of them are recovering alcoholics, and we do have our share of mentally ill and retarded," she said.

"She theorizes that more men than women use the shelter because families are more willing to take in a female relative than a male."

About half of the guests are under age 25, said Mrs. Powers.

"A lot of them are young kids with no job skills," she said.

A permanent shelter will allow the coalition to provide counseling and educational programs during the day, in addition to a meal, bed and shower at night, she said.

Mrs. Powers said clients are taught such things as how to write a resume, go to a housing interview, and what to ask a landlord.

There is also an alumni club where former clients come back for dinner and support, she said.

The average stay of a shelter guest is two to three months, according to Mrs. Powers. The clients agree to look for a job, if they don't have one, and save money while they are there.

Mrs. Powers estimates that 69 per cent of the 800 individuals who have been served by the Interfaith Sheltering Coalition have gone on to permanent housing.

"That's extremely high for a shelter," said Mrs. Powers, who is married and the mother of a two month old daughter, Catherine Lacy.

Originally from Pennsylvania, she came to this area to attend Eastern Nazarene College where she received a BA degree in sociology.

"I fell in love with the area, and forgot to go home," she smiled.

She became the paid, full time executive director of the coalition in September, 1985.

Her husband, Merrill, has been very supportive of her work with the homeless, she said.

Her favorite success story involves a man in his late 50s who has abused alcohol since the age of 12 when he used to drink with his alcoholic father.

The man married and had children, but continued to drink and he and his wife eventually divorced, according to Mrs. Powers.

Twenty to 30 years of life on and off the streets followed, she said.

Finally, he came to the shelter then located at St. John's and began a path of recovery.

He was eventually hired as a janitor with the coalition, she said, and is living independently.

The man is also getting back with some of his family members, and seeing his grandchildren, she added.

"Watching lives change makes it all worthwhile," she said.

Quincy's Yesterdays

Downtown Merchants Offer Free Bus Service

Downtown Quincy merchants began a free bus service on Saturdays to lure shoppers to the Square from such outlying precincts as South Braintree, Lincoln Square in Weymouth, West Quincy and East Milton.

The move was protested by merchants in Quincy Point and North Quincy, who saw hundreds of potential customers riding by, leaving not a nickel behind.

SQUANTUM-HULL BRIDGE?
Application was pending in the State House for incorporation of the Boston South Shore Bridge Co. which planned to build a bridge either from Boston to Hull or from Squantum to Hull to facilitate travel to Nantasket Beach.

One of the incorporators was Chester I. Campbell of Quincy.

GLASS FACTORY DELAYED
The Quincy Point Board of Trade complained that delay by the City Council in authorizing a railroad grade crossing between the Fore River yard and the old Thomas estate on Washington St. was holding up plans for a glass factory.

The factory, it was said, would employ 2,000 workers.

BUDGET OKAYED
The City Council approved a $3,183,746 budget for 1929, up $168,000 from the previous year.

The only revisions made by the Council in Mayor Thomas McGrath's original proposal was a cut in the auditor's salary from $3,705 to $3,000.

"WHAT'S THE USE?"
Frank Gacia, an amateur bantam weight boxer from Quincy, lost a pair of close fights during an invasion of New York City—but it didn't get him down.

His bout with Mose Butch of Pittsburgh at the Crescent AC in Brooklyn was so close at the end of three rounds that officials ordered a fourth round. Butch took the decision.

The fight with Ray Meyers of New York in Madison Square Garden was such a hometown decision that the crowd rose en masse to roar its disapproval when Meyers was announced as the winner.

"It's all in the game," shrugged Gacia. "What's the use of crabbing?"

QUINCY-ISMS

Walter Ferguson, son of former Quincy policeman Tom Ferguson, was mentioned prominently as the next superintendent of police in Washington, D.C. . . .
